The Keeley Motor.

There is now on exhibition in a shop window on Chestnut street, Philadelphia, the giant gauge constructed for the purpose of registering Mr. Keeley's "power." It stands about four feet and a half high, and registers 54,000 pounds to the square inch, being the largest gauge in existence. It is beautifully ornamented and plated with silver. It cost $1,000, $500 of which was required to be paid before work was commenced on it. It is stated that the Government has just ordered a similar one to be constructed for its use. The largest Government gauge now is 20,000 pounds to the square inch. Mr. Keeley is more elevated in spirits than ever. He goes to his shop almost every night, besides his work during the day, and there runs and watches his machine; that is, the old apparatus. Sometimes he has one or two of the company with him. The machine is kept running until 10 or 11 o'clock at night, when it is stopped and all retire. All this time it has been kept running with the same water, the vapor being constantly dissipated and reproduced. All connected with the motor have been more or less disappointed by the delay; but their hopes have been brightened greatly in the last week or two, as they believe the time is not far distant when the wonder of the nineteenth century will be put into successful operation.

POISONOUS COOKERY.—A paper, in adverting to a recent case of poisoning at a public dinner, says; "Professed cooks and confectioners are not the only persons who should feel themselves warned by the melancholy event. The kitchen operations of private families are, we fear, not in every case free from the use of 'penny pieces' in the attempt to produce a vivid green in spinach, pickles, and a variety of other articles. We commend this matter to the special notice of the Italian warehousemen, and all persons concerned in the preparation of pickles. We are the more compelled to do so, as it is not very long since a very eminent lecturer on chemistry presented a bottle of pickles which had been purchased for the use of his family, and which he proved to contain a considerable proportion of copper. The test used in this case was a steel knife, which was immersed in the bottle for an hour, and on its removal was found to be completely coated with copper. Here is a test which any one may readily apply for himself, and the use of which it may be well occasionally to employ."

AN English officer lately put up at the Dak bungalow, near the sacred lake of Posh, Rajpootana, India, which swarms with alligators who are fed and worshipped by the natives. About midnight the sentry raised the alarm because one of the dangerous reptiles had crept up to the bungalow. Puzzled by the noise the alligator crept into a bedroom, and the officer killed it with his pistols. Next morning the population was furious, and the Englishman narrowly escaped with his life. When, many years ago, the officers shot sacred peacocks in sport, and got killed in return, Sir Charles Napier issued the laconic order: "If officers will shoot peacocks, Beloochees will shoot officers."

NURSING BOTTLES.—An exchange says: "All over the land women are feeding their babies from nursing bottles with white rubber tops. The preparation used in bleaching rubber is a horrible and deadly poison—white oxide of mercury and kindred drugs—and the constant mumbling and chewing rubber so prepared places a child's life in danger. Paralysis has been caused by it, and many a baby dies in consequence of its use. A French mother or nurse convicted of putting one to a baby's lips is fined twenty francs, or imprisonment for ten days; and to sell one in France is a grave misdemeanor."

The Major and His Dogs.

The first case is one which occurred at a fashionable watering place on the east coast of Ireland, some twenty years ago, and exhibits the remarkable sagacity displayed by a dog in carrying out the dictates of the animal passion for revenge. The jetty which stretched along the small harbor was at that time used as a promenade by the elite among the sojourners on the coast, where, after the heat of the long Summer days, they regaled themselves with the fresh evening breezes wafted in from the sea. Among the frequenters of this fashionable resort was a gentleman of some position, who was the owner of a fine Newfoundland dog, which inherited the time-honored possessions of that noble breed—very great power and facility in swimming; and, at the period of the evening when the jetty was most crowded with promenaders, his master delighted to put this animal through a series of aquatic performances for the entertainment of the assembled spectators. Amusement being at a premium on the coast, these nightly performances grew into something like an "institution," and the brave Captain—for such was his name—speedily became a universal favorite on the jetty. It happened, however, that among the new arrivals on the coast there came a certain Major in Her Majesty's army, accompanied by two bull-dogs of unusual size and strength, and of great value; but, value in a bull-dog being inversely proportioned to its beauty, the appearance of the Major and his dogs excited no very enthusiastic pleasure among the æsthetic strollers on the jetty. On the first night on which the Major presented himself, nothing unusual occurred; and Captain dived and swam as before. But on the second evening the brave old favorite was walking quietly behind his master down the jetty, when, as they were passing by the Major and his dogs, one of these ugly brutes flew at Captain, and caught him by the neck in such a way as to render his great size utterly useless for his defense. A violent struggle ensued, but the bull-dog came off victor, for he stuck to his foe like a leech, and could only be forced to release his hold by the insertion of a bar of iron between his teeth. The indignation of the bystanders against the Major was, of course, very great; and its fervor was not a little increased when the saw the poor Captain wending his way homeward, bleeding, and bearing all the marks of defeat. Some two or three evening after this occurrence, when Captain made his appearance on the jetty, he looked quite crestfallen, bore his tail between his legs, and stuck closely to the heels of his master. That evening passed away quietly, and the next, and so on for about a week—Captain still bearing the aspect of mourning. But one evening, about eight or ten days after the above encounter, as the Major was marching in his usual pompous manner along the jetty, accompanied by his dogs, something attracted his attention in the water, and, walking to the very edge of the jetty, he stood for a moment looking down into the sea. Scarcely had the two bull-dogs taken up their stand beside their master when Captain, seizing the opportunity for which he had so long looked, rushed at his former conqueror, and, catching him by the back of the neck, jumped off the jetty, with his foe in his mouth, down some twenty feet or more into the sea. Once in the water the power of his enemy was crippled, while Captain was altogether in his own element; and, easily overcoming all efforts at resistance, he succeeded in resolutely keeping the bull-dog's head under water. The excitement on the shore was, of course, intense. The Major shouted and called out: "My dog! my beautiful dog! Will no one save him?" But no one seemed at all inclined to interfere, or to risk his life for the ugly dog. At length the Major called out: "I will give fifty pounds to any one who will save my dog;" and soon afterward a boat which lay at some little distance pulled up to the rescue. Even then, however, it was only by striking Captain on the head with the oars that he could be forced to release his victim, which was taken into the boat quite senseless from exhaustion and suffocation, and was with difficulty brought to itself again. Captain, on the other hand, swam in triumph to the shore, amid the plaudits of the spectators, who shared, in sympathy at least, his well-earned honors of revenge.—Popular Science Monthly.

BELMONT.—From the numerous private telegrams received by us to-day, from Belmont, the inference is that the recent strike in the Belmont mine is a valuable one, and of more importance than is attached to it at a distance. One dispatch, from a very reliable gentleman at Belmont, says that the strike was made in the south drift, on the 530 foot level, west vein. That being the case, the development will prove the most valuable ever before made in the mine. Another dispatch says the stock is selling at $8 in Belmont to-day. —Austin Reveille, Dec. 27.

MRS. GEO. F. SCHMID eloped on the 25th instant with a man, supposed to be David Logan. No cause is known for the rash act, having always been treated kindly by her husband. However, there is a calm, kindly feeling for that man Logan about the farmer's home that time cannot obliterate.—Tulare Times.

AN Irishman named O'Keefe has just died in India, leaving a fortune of $25,000,000, with no immediate heirs. Seems to us we have some recollection of an O'Keefe in our family tree. Must hunt him up.—Picayune Record.

THE GREAT PYRAMID.—Prof. Smyth devoted many months of work with the best instruments in order to fix the dimensions and angles of all accessible parts of the Great Pyramid of Egypt, and he has carefully determined these by a comparison of his own and all previous measures, the best of which agree pretty closely with each other. The results arrived at are:

1. That the pyramid is truly square, the sides being equal and the angles right angles.

2. That the four sockets on which the first four stones of the corners rested are truly on the same level.

3. That the directions of the sides are accurately to the four cardinal points.

4. That the vertical hight of the pyramid bears the same proportion to its circumference at the base as the radius of a circle does to its circumference.

Now all these measurements, angles and levels are accurate, not as an ordinary surveyor or builder could make them, but to such a degree as requires the very best modern instruments and all the refinements of geodetical science to to discover any error at all. In addition to this we have the wonderful perfection of the workmanship in the interior of the pyramid, the passages and chambers being lined with huge blocks of stones fitted with the utmost accuracy, while every part of the building exhibits the highest structural science.

In all these respects this largest pyramid surpasses every other in Egypt. Yet it is universally admitted to be the oldest, and also the oldest historical building in the world.

THE EXCESSIVE USE OF MEDICINE.—It would be utterly impossible to tell how many constitutions have been impaired, how many digestions ruined, how many complexions spoiled, and how many purses emptied, through medicine. What is that you say—that a stitch in time saves nine, and that the right medicine quickly taken averts danger? Very likely; I believe all that. But in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, where is the danger, and what is the emergency of the case? Medicine is often the precurser of after misery, and the poor constitution has to pay dearly for its medical filip. The wiser philosophy of the present day is gradually delivering us from these potent perils. Nature has a self-righting power within her; there is a kind of a vis-medicatrix in the physical frame. Treat the body kindly; let as much pure air as possible get to the lungs, and as much fresh water as possible be applied to the flesh, and as much healthy exercise as duty permits to be given to the muscle, and as early rising as circumstances allow be afforded for the recruitment of the brain, and then medicine will be a very avoidable affair.—The Quiver.

IMPORTANT.

The Los Angeles Express, of December 30, says that there is a project on foot to build a narrow gauge railroad from Mojave to this county, a distance of 100 miles, costing a total of $1,000,000, or $10,000 a mile. A gentleman of means and influence is at the head of the enterprise at Los Angeles, while it is certain of substantial backing by Inyo mining men and others, who are now paying the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company $90,000 a month for freights. Besides this comes the very important fact that the Southern Pacific will guarantee this road special advantages in rates of transportation from the point of connection at Mojave both to Los Angeles and San Francisco, and will favor it in every practicable way. It surpasses belief that capital has been so gingerly about running a railroad into this county. It is almost a self-evident fact that it offers greater inducements for such an enterprise than any other portion of the entire coast. There is an empire in here awaiting the iron horse (i. e., cheap freights) to awake it into bounding life. It would be but a short time till its freight list would be nearer $900,000 than $90,000 a month. There is nothing chimerical about that. Now, with a proper guarantee from the Southern Pacific, it will be the strangest thing in the world if Inyo men do not forward this project in every way in their power.

ORGANIZED.—The Nevada Legislature met on the 1st instant, and effected a complete organization. Politically, the Senate was a tie, but through the absence of a Republican (Comins of White Pine) the Democrats captured the organization and elected Geo. W. Cassidy of Eureka President pro tem, and J. G. McClinton (Republican) of Esmeralda Secretary. In the House, which has a working Republican majority, Harry R. Mighels of Ormsby was chosen Speaker—thus giving the principal presiding positions to two well-known newspaper men. The laws which the distinguished sage-brush Legislature shall grind out will not be few and far between. We purpose giving them a hint or two, by and by, concerning a railroad franchise pointing in this direction.

THE Washington Star observes that not only are the two Houses of Congress divided upon the Presidential complication, but there are divisions in the party ranks in each House. Each party has its radical and conservative wings. Curiously enough the Southern Democrats are the most conservative members of the party in the Democratic House, while in the Republican Senate the most conservative members are the Northern Republicans.

CHANGED AROUND.—The newspaper firm of John Booth & Co., consisting of Uncle John and Andrew Maute, running the Reese River Reveille and the Belmont Courier, has divided up and changed around. Booth takes the former and converts it into a morning paper, while Maute spreads himself on the last named. Both papers are valued exchanges.

PUBLIC LAND SALES.—Following are the figures of the total number of acres of public lands disposed of by the United States for the past seven years: In the year 1870—8,095,412 acres; 1871—10,765,704 acres; 1872—11,864,975 acres; 1873—13,030,675 acres; 1874—9,530,873 acres; 1875—7,070,271 acres; 1877—6,524,326 acres.

THE prospects of Southern industries are improving. The rolling mills of Tennessee and Georgia are running on double time, with orders ahead of their production; five new cotton mills are being built in Georgia, one at Atlanta with 20,000 spindles, and every cotton mill in the State paid ten per cent or more last year.

A RECENT census of India shows that 636 of the natives are authors and poets, 130 astronomers, 23,000 fortune-tellers and pedigree-makers, 30,000 religious mendicants, 8,000 painters and sculptors, 38,600 actors and jugglers, and 1,000 snake-charmers. An interesting country.

ONLY TWO.—A New York World's editorial says that good lawyers all agree that in the Oregon case Cronin is next to Watts, and he was either elected or neither Cronin nor Watts was chosen, in which case Oregon has appointed but two electors.

AN editor, who speaks from sad experience, remarks that one of the trying things in a man's life is to write a glowing description of a revival of business when he hasn't money enough at command to buy the bung hole of a barrel.

OWENS RIVER VALLEY.

We are requested to give place to the following letter, dated New York, December 16, 1876, and addressed to this Land Office, and at the same time give such answer to the several inquiries as our knowledge of the facts may warrant:

Dear Sir: Having been referred to you by the Land Commissioner at Washington, I take the liberty of asking you to be kind enough to let me know whether there is any tract of land in your district of from 20,000 to 40,000 acres, suitable for agriculture, either surveyed or unsurveyed, which could be got under the pre-emption laws or otherwise, for a party of settlers.

You would confer a great favor by informing me also whether such land is in a healthy locality, whether adapted to sheep and cattle raising, grain growing or fruit culture, or perhaps for all branches of agriculture combined? The information sought is for people from South Germany, who are respectable but small farmers, swine raisers, etc. Also, would esteem it a favor if you would give some details about the peculiarities of climate, condition and prospects of agriculture in your district, and you will very much oblige,

JULIUS C. SCHLACTER,
No. 52 Exchange Place, New York.

There is a vast amount of Government land yet unoccupied in this valley, eminently well suited for pasturage, and for fruit, cerials, in short for every agricultural production almost without exception of the temperate zone.

In the main it consists of what is known as black sage brush land, a rich, sandy loam, which, when cleared of the sage brush, can be broken up with the ordinary team, in this differing from the heavy grass or sod land, hitherto the first choice, which requires a plow and team at first like those for the western prairies. The sage brush land, or much of it, is fully as fertile and no less desirable than the best of the sod land; it, however, requires more water, and is perhaps less durable. Being the freest of alkali, and variations in its component parts, its crops, when properly irrigated, are the most uniform in stand and turn out, one acre with another.

In its natural condition, varying materially according to degrees of moisture near the surface, the driest produces a scattering growth of the nutricious bunch grass, affording good pasturage in the Spring months on a free range, while the more moist bears in addition to the sage brush, a rank growth of coarser grass, making fair range for cattle the year through.

Remembering that we are trying to convey information to parties who have no acquaintance with the peculiar conditions and growths of this country, it will be proper to state among the rest that this sage brush (artemesia) is a shrub rarely exceeding four feet in hight, wide spreading branches, stout, gnarly trunk, and so superficially rooted as to be easily grubbed up or torn out with a horse and suitable appliance; burns like pitch pine in stove or furnace, and is useful in ditch fencing; is a drawback, and the only one worthy of notice, to wool growing.

Irrigation is a prerequisite to successful farming, whatever the crop. About, if not quite, all the water available for this purpose, and afforded by the numerous lateral streams of pure mountain water, is now under claim. The principal and perfectly reliable and abundant resource for water for all the untaken lands remains untouched. This is Owens river, a very crooked stream of good water except near its debouchement into Owens Lake, having an average width of say fifty feet by two and a half in depth, and about a five-mile current to the hour. Its total length is set down at 150 miles, 100 of it being through the valley proper. It heads in the high Sierras, and runs south along their eastern base. Its windings are such that a float on its surface must traverse at least three miles to make one in a straight line. One mile of ditch on such a line, with the necessary grade of from an eighth to a quarter of an inch to the rod, will give a head of about three feet. Large areas along the central or upper sixty miles of the valley, of the kind of land here referred to, could be irrigated by canals of from ten to fifteen miles each in length. At least three such canals might be taken out at different points, and probably to a better purpose than one alone traversing the whole distance continuously, though the latter would cover a vastly greater area through its increased altitude, provided the nature of the ground permitted it to forward sufficient water through, which is doubtful.

All the land that Owens river will irrigate is yet open to settlement, whether that would be 20,000 or 40,000 acres. It can be found in contiguous Government sub-divisions aggregating probably 5,000 or more acres in a body. The State throughout does not offer any superior inducements for considerable colonies of small farmers than does this valley. This pre-supposes two things: first, an adequate market for their products, to which we shall refer presently, and, secondly, their joint stock association to dig the irrigating canals, so that each could command a sufficiency of water clear of cash rents, which no farmer here nor elsewhere can live under and prosper, unless merely nominal in amount—a contingency not to be hoped for when the water is controlled only for a market, as under a separate proprietorship. Such an association of working men, whether comprising a hundred or but a dozen or so, can with their own teams and labor only, construct such a ditch as here contemplated during one winter season, and in time for a crop the following season.

Should the bill now pending in Congress to extend the so-called Lassen County Desert Land Law to the benefit of all the States and Territories become a law, as it likely will, the inducements will be greatly increased for present residents to undertake a river irrigating enterprise, thereby barring out colonies. That law proposes to confirm title to not exceeding 640 acres of desert land to any one person, conditioned on its satisfactory irrigation so that it may brought under cultivation.

Recurring to the matter of markets, THE INDEPENDENT has not hitherto deemed it conducive to the general welfare to have a material increase in our agricultural population, for the reason that such an increase would in a short time destroy the balance, uncertain as it has been, between supply and demand for farm products. While the mining interest, constituting the whole demand for such directly and indirectly, would not be fatally affected if there was no local supply at all, and in fact be carried on nearly the same, it would be disastrous to every other interest and to permanency of society, to have the farmers killed off by their own fatness—that is to say, the profusion of their productions, possible by excess of producers, reducing prices to veritable starvation rates. While their market was entirely local and limited an accession of say one hundred additional producers would likely have caused the very condition supposed. Without pursuing that matter further, we now believe in view of the changed and constantly changing conditions touching the aforesaid question of supply and demand, that the immediate opening up of a hundred more broad farms could not affect that balance to the dretriment of any interest, but surely benefit all. This implies not only a more varied agriculture, but the inauguration of numerous other pursuits, such as every prosperous and permanent community requires. Inyo county is no longer an experiment in any respect.

As for its climate we will simply say it is essentially Californian, and as good as the best.

Lastly, the very best thing any colony can do is to send out a qualified agent to "investigate"—the only word and plan that covers the ground.

THE PRESIDENTIAL MUDDLE.—Wm. M. Grosvenor publishes, in the New York Tribune of December 27, a strong letter to show that if Congress continues the discussion of the Presidential muddle until the 4th of March next, the new House of Representatives will have the right and duty to elect the President. Grosvenor further claims that the right to elect does not devolve upon the House of Representatives until the certificates of the Electoral College have been opened, and a prolonged debate may prevent such complete opening until the present Congress expires; in such case the new House will have to choose the President, if in the meantime it shrll have been officially ascertained and declared that no person is elected by the people. It is only after such ascertainment that the Constitution directs the House to choose immediately by ballot the President. In replying to Grosvenor's letter as above outlined, the New York Post says his reasoning defeats itself, and adds if it has not been officially ascertained before the 4th of March whether there has been a choice for President, by the people, the present Congress cannot decide, because it will have no existence; and the next Congress cannot take the matter up as unfinished business of the present Congress, for according to the Constitution whatever is done must be done by the present Congress. Therefore if a President shall not be declared elected by the 4th of March there will not be a vacancy in the office.

TWO MEN KILLED.—About 5 o'clock on the morning of the 24 instant, at the Delta saloon, Virginia city, two noted fire-jakeys, Dick Paddock and Tom Hughes, were shot dead by a policeman named McDonald. The two men killed were making a great disturbance in the saloon and special officer Bartlett entered, and in endeavoring to arrest the men got shot in the leg and received a blow on the head from a pistol. Officer McDonald came to the assistance of Bartlett and was attacked by the two roughs, and finding it necessary to protect himself, drew his revolver and shot them both dead. They were two reckless men, and of that class that usually come to a sudden end. The foregoing is collated from an account in the Carson Tribune, which has a postscript to the effect that McDonald was the man shot in the leg and beaten on the head; that fears are entertained that he is mortally wounded.

PIUTE ADRIFT.

CHAPTER XV.—WEATHER, ETC.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Piute having experienced fine weather, Indian Summer and other delicacies, why not have a taste of hoary Winter in this latitude? It has come. A foot of snow has already fallen, and still it's coming. Not only snow, but ice and icicles, in quantities to suit. Just think—that noble stream called the Susquehanna river, which is from a quarter to half a mile wide, frozen over, two or three weeks before Christmas! The above suggests overshoes, overcoats, mufflers, etc., all of which are very fashionable just now.

When Jack Frost bites a fellow's ears, and the fine snow drifting fills a fellow's eyes, nostrils and pockets, he does not feel like singing that poetical effusion, "The Beatuful Snow," which, I suppose, sounds well enough in a southern clime. However, the boys do sing during their delightful sleigh-riding—when wrapped up snugly in a flying cutter, with masculine arms lovingly around feminine waist—they sing and whisper "Beautiful Maid," etc. The ladies, also being in a tuneful mood and of a more sentimental nature, sweetly warble "Oh, John, it's perfectly magnificent!"—the snow, the ride or the hugging Piute did not ascertain; will make further inquiries. And they say this "elegant" sleighing will last for months. A good crop of snow is generally produced every Winter—hardly ever a failure—grasshoppers never make a raid on it; about the only raid made is the sleighraid, and that is O. K.

When canals were about the only means of transportation Winter was always a dull season for business in these regions, but since the advent of railroads the iron horse speeds along during Winter with but little interruption, so that business is nearly the same the year round.

There is quite a contrast between California climate and this. Here it is of a similar character the State through, while California has a great variety, and one to suit the most fastidious. These good people know that the Pacific climate is "mild," but if you say that snow falls in the mountains to the depth of from ten to twenty feet during the Winter they'll brand you as a genteel liar. On the contrary, you may as well bump an engine off the track with a rye straw as to convince many that the large valleys of California are covered with green grass and a variety of vegetation—flowers in full bloom the Winter through, and oranges ripe in January! They'll pronounce you as one just escaped from Stockton, or a bloated land speculator, who don't care a tinker's drink how many lies he utters.

TINNAMUCKAHEE.

A VERY GREAT HORROR.—Scarcely a week now but we hear of some terrible accident by which scores—aye, hundreds—of human beings are hurled into instant eternity. Now comes the most destructive railroad horror yet recorded; a heavy train, coaches and sleepers filled with men, women and children, broke down an iron bridge at Ashtabula, Ohio, and all went down one on top of another seventy-five feet to the bottom. The lives of many were crushed out at once, but still there were numbers who escaped that fate only to be slowly roasted alive. The wreck was soon in glowing flames, and all who were in the more crowded coaches lying under the heavy sleepers and one engine (there were two engines, one of which escaped) were slowly burned up, it being impossible to get them out. Between one and two hundred perished. The accident occurred at 10 at night, and during a blinding snow storm.

THERE is talk of removing the Nevada State Prison from Carson to Reno.—Inyo Independent.

THE INDEPENDENT doubtless means the prisoners. It wouldn't pay to transport a pile of rock 35 miles.—Austin Reveille.

The "Cwooked Wailwoad" wouldn't object, however. And you know that it was the "rocks" in it which caused the whole job.

OUR most stirring farmers have been dry plowing and seeding their ground, and it is probable that, even should the season prove a poor one, on ground once deeply plowed a crop of hay or light grain will be made. On our moist lands we regret to see that not much is doing in the way of putting in crops. On these soils a crop can be made every year; and as wheat and barley always command a higher price in poor seasons it has invariably turned out the most profitable to cultivators of such lands. In fact we know that some farmers who live on the dry plains have aimed to own moist lands on the river bottoms to be sure of making expenses in bad seasons. Yet most of our moist lands remain untilled from year to year growing rank with weeds, diffusing their malarious and pestilential influence over all their surroundings.—Visalia Delta.

THE WEALTH OF WASHOE.—Not a few scientists are of the opinion that great quantities of low-grade ore now thrown into the waste dumps in this city, will eventually be worked. German experts say there are now being thrown into our streets richer ores than many of those they are working at home. With cheap water and fuel, the "float-rock," the capping of our great lode, will be worked. Hundreds of tons of this rock now lie on the hill side in this city that will eventually be worked at a fair profit, and it is not improbable that some years hence parties will be found who will be willing to take the very dirt from our streets and pay a good price for it, for the precious metal it contains, or at least, to bind themselves to leave the streets as good as they found them for the privilege of working their ores.—Virginia Enterprise.

All Sorts.

The ship Circassian went ashore on Long Island on the 29th ultimo. The next day, while there were 34 employés of the Coast Wrecking Company aboard the wreck a storm sprung up, during which she went to pieces with a terrible crash and every man perished but four, and they were more dead than alive when rescued from the breakers.

During a few days just previous to December 30, there were several snow slides in Little Cottonwood Cañon, Utah, one of which carried away several hundred feet of railroad snow sheds. Another slide near Alta killed two Frechmen in their cabin. Their names were Charles Hautani and Louis Labrie. Their bodies were recovered.

It having been charged that the Republicans who visited the South upon the invitation of the President to witness the Returning Boards count had been paid their expenses out of the United States Treasury, a resolution of investigation has been prepared which will be offered in the House.

The accounts of the famine received from Madras are worse than those from Bombay. Large numbers of starving people are flocking into Madras to escape death from starvation. The distress existing in the country districts is fearful.

It is said the Porte is willing to make concessions, and offer securities to the Powers for the accomplishment of the proposed reforms, but will not sanction the occupation of any of its provinces by any foreign power, England not excepted.

Two young brothers may be as devoutly attached to each other as Damon and Pythias, but you will never hear of one snatching the coal-scuttle from the hands of the other and insisting upon going down cellar to bring up the coal.

In London, December 30, in the 300-mile walking match, O'Leary, the American champion walkist, was again defeated, breaking down at the 209th mile. Howse, his competitor, walked 241 miles before he gave it up.

The Pioche Record, December 27, says: The first stage for Leeds from Pioche started on Monday last. Messrs. Gilmer & Salsbury, the proprietors, will for the present run three stages a week between the two places.

At Yreka, December 30, in the County Court, the Scotts Bar stage robbers received sentences as follows: Alexander Condrey, 10 years; Eli Kelly, 8 years; and Billy, an Indian, 5 years, all in the State Prison.

The salary of the President of Peru is $48,900 a year, which is small enough seeing that they never let one hold the office long enough to draw his salary—very often they don't even let him draw his breath in peace.

All the locomotive engineers on the Grand Trunk Railway went on a general strike, December 29, and at 6 P. M. that day simultaneously abandoned their engines at any station they happened to be.

THE Commission appointed by President Grant, consisting of Gen. A. A. Humphreys and C. B. Patterson, of the Coast Survey, and Daniel Ammon, of the Navy Department, have made a report in favor of a canal across the Isthmus by the Nicaraugua route, estimating the cost at $100,000,000, which is less than by any other route. The time required by the construction will be only ten years.

THE Returning Board of Florida made a recanvass of the vote, in obedience to the order of the Supreme Court. They report that upon that count the Hays electors received 209 majority, but give the governorship to Drew, the Democratic candidate, by 195 majority. The recount also gives the Democrats one member of Congress.

CRONIN delivered the Oregon electoral vote to Vice President Ferry December 27. The latter declined to give a recept on account of two returns, as in the case of Florida.

DEAD.—Ex-Senator James W. Nye, a few years ago one of the best known men in the Union, died at White Plains, N. Y., on Christmas day.

A VIENNA special says that on Tuesday, December 26, 5,000 Russians crossed the Danube from Thumesverin.

ANOTHER POINT SETTLED.—A decision of some interest has been rendered under the usury laws of New York. The plaintiff in the case had purchased of the defendant a promissory note which turned out to be void on account of the illegal rate of interest mentioned in it. The action was to recover the money paid for the note, and finally reached the Supreme Court, where it was decided in the plaintiff's favor on two grounds: First, it was held that in selling the note there was an implied warranty on the part of the vendor that it was what it purported to be—a legal, valid instrument. Second, as the note was not a legal instrument, it was entirely without value, the plaintiff received nothing for his money, and upon such total failure of consideration was entitled to recover his payment. There can, in this instance, be no doubt of the coincidence of law and justice, whatever may be thought of the expediency of the laws' intervention to protect people from the consequences of their own carelessness or ignorance in purchasing worthless paper.—S. F. Call.

MRS. BELKNAP, it is reported, is writing a book giving an account of society and political life in Washington during the past six years. This lady ought to be able to make such a book interesting. She is quite conversant with the ins and outs of Washington society during the time mentioned—with the political if not the personal intrigues of prominent personages of both sexes, including Mrs. Attorney-General Williams; with the mysteries of feminine lobbying, the heart-burnings and jealousies of political schemers, male and female, and particularly with the inner history of post-traderships and their private profits. If Mrs. Belknap will only tell all she knows about Washington society and political life in the Federal capital, her book will find a ready and rapid sale.—Austin Reveille.

WHAT IT COSTS TO MAKE COAL.—In conversation yesterday with a prominent manufacturer of coal, we were told that the contract price paid men for cutting the wood and burning and sacking the coal is fifteen cents per bushel. There is barely a living in the business at these figures. In fact most of the men who spend the Summer in the woods come in in the Fall with scarcely money enough to pay a month's board. The life of the coal-burner is indeed a hard one, and the emoluments of his calling do not begin to compensate him for the wear and tear of his muscle. To make it still more binding on him we understand that there is some talk among certain contractors of a reduction to fourteen cents a bushel. The price paid for coal delivered at the furnaces is 30 cents.—Eureka Sentinel.

What Pays?

IT PAYS EVERY MANUFACTURER, MERCHANT, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer or Professional Man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has been published weekly for the last thirty-one years, does this, to an extent beyond that of any other publication; in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and New Discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes and improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Suggestions and Advice by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record, not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics and Science abroad.

The Scientific American has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past thirty-one years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress published in the world.

The practical Recipes are well worth ten times the subscription price, and for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1877.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and Several Hundred Engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3 20 cents a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars, giving Club rates, sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms, Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole to parties attracted to the invention by such notice. A Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents sent free. The Scientific American Reference Book—a volume bound in cloth and gilt, containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 142 engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents. Address for the paper, or concerning patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New York. Branch office, Cor. F and 7th sts., Washington, D. C. n342t3

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JANUARY 6.....1877.

REGRETFUL.—The young Calithumpians—seven pieces, each piece liable to several subdivisions—failed to favor the town with their promised serenade last night. We have various surmises as to the cause, but none exactly satisfactory; some think it was because the first harp had suffered a relapse of the fan-tods; others that the last dose of doughnuts disagreed with the second drum; some again that the leading fiddle had twisted himself out of level in trying to make a chord alone when the capacity of the entire combination didn't exceed a cord and a half; perhaps it was because the night was dark, and if hobgoblins were not abroad to fright little boys away, there was at least a chance envious Thomas cats might set up an opposition vocal demonstration and, in the biased judgment of single people, get away with more than an equitable share of the involuntary applause; there are other hypothesises also, but we will content ourselves with the tangible facts, simply adding that the little band, when in full blast, and everthing running with wonted smoothness, can produce a volume and variety of sound which, if properly analyzed and reduced to its lowest terms, would be equal to a first class opera plus two Thomas cats of medium powers. That is substantially the opinion of one of the members with whom we have conferred, and who regrets the public disappointment on that account—and so would we if "local copy" had been more abundant.

A TERRIBLE CASE.—Simon Bowden, whose pitiable story of insanity and misfortune is familiar to our readers, underwent amputation of one foot entirely and a portion of the other, at the County Hospital in Lone Pine, last week. Dr. Colleau was compelled to perform the surgical operation with but one assistant, who suffered for days from the effects of the terrible stench arrising from the mortified feet, which had been frozen to the bone. It is hardly possible that the crazy suffer will live. Indeed, it were well that death should relieve him—a man without reason and so horribly maimed.

INCORPORATION.—A certificate of incorporation has been filed of the Panamint Valley Water Company. The Trustees are R. C. Jacobs, J. W. Pearson, D. M. Seaton, P. I. McLaren and C. E. Pearson. We presume that it is the object of this Company to supply the Modoc country with water, by means of pipes across Panamint Valley from Narboe Cañon, in the Telescope range.

IN FULL BLAST.—We hear that both the Defiance furnaces are in full blast, and again shipping bullion. The first 24 hours' run the output was 152 bars of 88 pounds each, amounting to 6 tons and 1,306 pounds; the succeeding 24 hours gave 159 bars, which rate was at last accounts being steadily maintained, everything working beautifully, and the bullion richer than ever.

DIED.—There will be many a sad sigh of regret in Inyo when the fact is known that Henry Burroughs, of Fish Slough, died at that place last night at half past 10, after an illness of some two or three weeks. He was the youngest of the well-known brothers—a kindly, genial man, and one loved and respected by all who knew him. May he rest in peace.

GONE BELOW.—V. G. Thompson, of the Blaney, and Register R. M. Briggs started for San Francisco on Thursday last. The latter will remain a few days at Tehachepi and then go on the Bay, where he has business in one of the District Courts. During his absence from this point S. P. Moffat, Esq., will attend to his law matters.

NO SNOW.—For aye these many years at this season a "great white mantle" of snow has covered ye mountains; the Cerro Gordo furnaces were run upon water made therefrom, and the rancher calculated with a certainty upon the Sierras' streams for necessary irrigation. There being no snow-fall yet, our miners and farmers may "get left."

LIDA VALLEY.—Things are now distressingly quiescent out at Lida. The mill stands in idleness, with little prospect of resuming business within any definite period. But there are men we know of who maintain that the camp will yet at no distant day flourish with the best of them.

HELD TO ANSWER.—The examination of Wm. M. Boyd, under arrest for the murder of the soldier Mackey, which was had before Justice Schalten on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, resulted in Boyd's being held to answer to the Grand Jury. Bail was fixed in the sum of $10,000.

TO-DAY.—The entire property of the Silver Sprout Mining Company, including the mines, mill, ranch, water-right, etc., will be sold by the Sheriff to-day, in the suit of Harris & Rhine. The Company will doubtless redeem long before the six months' time has expired.

MARRIED.—The marriage of Mrs. Eames, to a San Francisco gentleman, is announced to have transpired on New Year's day. Joe Seeley said his name was $180,000; he couldn't remember the rest, but we learn that it was Harry Ellsworth.

THE weather is as balmy as June. Flies buzz around of evenings, and even the wasps crawl around of nights, and manage to "sock it to a feller," now and then.

LENGTHENING.—The latter eend of the day begins to grow longer apace, and as yet we have had no Winter. Mayhaps this is to be one of California's dreaded dry years.

The Taboose Races.

The concourse of people that gathered at the Taboose race course at the beginning of a series of races on New Year's day was something fearful—that is, fearful to circulate amongst without the risk of discouraging one's corporeal system and demolishing a rib or two. THE INDEPENDENT reporter noted nothing peculiar or different from other occasions of this sort, other than, perhaps, a larger display of feminine lovliness, considerable more jockeying and the extravagant waste of wind backed up with a thousand or so of corn. The absence of more than one boisterous drunk was probably due to the fact that the hereditary stiffs weren't very well "heeled" and the younger ones were carefully guarded over from the tempting red (eyed) wine and chided to good behavior by their charming little dulcinea companions.

THE FIRST RACE

Came off as advertised on Monday, and the four horses, Billy Kingsley, Pinto, Croppy and Frank Reddy, attracted everybody—the young and the old, the fair and the unfair—to the track. The Judges were appointed and chief major-domo formally opened the funeral by running everybody out of the judges' stand, except the writer of this—he was allowed to remain. (Check on his part and the anticipation of a favorable report on their part, done the business.) A Bishop Creek sport afterwards crawled up through a knot hole, but he was found "heeled" and was appointed deputy reporter. Next on the programme was the reading of the jockey rules, according to the original old Hoyle and about as long as a female conversation at the front door. They were highly interesting; read from an ancient copy of the Spirit of the Times, during which the spectators went to sleep and the mettled horses were walked up and down the course pretty much as a blooded lawyer walks and chews tobacco while his opponent spouts. After some delay the horses were tapped off, and amidst the yells that were yelled streaked over the half-mile stretch in 52¼. Croppy came out victorious—winning the stakes of $400 and some $500 of pool money.

SECOND RACE.

The second race was called, but proved a partial failure—owing, as did the succeeding race, which was to be, to the meanness of some of the horses and the pure concentrated cussedness and jockeying of some of the principals and the perverseness of the judges. The foolish rulings of the latter were astonishing to every one familiar with even scrub racing. Advantage is taken of this mention to point to one illustration, sufficient to justify the above remark. It was thus they ruled: Jake, the Lone Pine horse, was brought up—after the race was postponed and decided to run the second time—and was about to change riders; the Judges looked wise and demurred, emphatically forbidding any other than the first rider. They seemed to be ignorant of the fact that all over the civilized world, in well-regulated jockey clubs, that where catch weights are allowed the horses can change when, where and just as they please, irrespective of the weight of the rider or the color of his hair; and where the horses are restricted to certain weights a change can't be prevented, so long as precisely the same weight is put on. Another interesting piece of ignorance was displayed in the starting, jockeying being permitted until everybody was fatigued, not to say disgusted, and instead of conducing to the general enjoyment of the spectators, it elicited expressions that were more tempered with irony than pathos. It is not the intention to lecture the jockeys, for it is just as natural for trainers to take the advantage as it is for a journeyman printer to get drunk; but the starters and judges, after exhausting a reasonable amount of forbearance, should know their duty well enough to step right into the track and with a little prensation make every horse toe the score; upon the first one refusing to comply with orders eject horse, trainer and rider from the course. The idea of advocating the right to turn a horse for hours, days or weeks, is as preposterous as it is aggravating, and no club now-a-days will permit a jockey to do it. A judge has a perfect right to pull his watch, after a reasonable period, and give every horse so many minutes in which to come to the score, and bar out any horse failing to come to time. All jockey clubs would back him in this, and it is to be hoped that these few hints shall not have been written in vain. But to resume: Tulare Jeff, Johnny Irwin, One-Eyed Dick, Wake Up Jake and Nig were entered for the single dash of one-half mile. After some tom-foolery, such as already described, two horses, Nig and One-Eyed Dick, drew out—satisfied they couldn't win anyway, and making a brilliant little race, Tulare Jeff bore off the laurels and a $50 saddle. About $450 worth of pools were sold on this race.

THE THIRD RAGE

Was a complete fizzle. Bay Savage, Sleepy Dick, Putty Head and Old Charley were entered for the quarter, single dash. Bay Savage and Old Charley were recently from Nevada—the latter, formerly called the Missouri Roan, has the reputation of being one of the best horses in the State in a short race; the former is rightly named—although a fast horse, he one of the most savage, the best trained and withal the cussedest horse in North America. It is said of this animal that when he is fed his grain he will refuse to touch a morsel until his master in so many words tells him to, that he will kick the devil himself or any other man except his master; that in fact he is up to all the meanness that was ever put into a horse or a mule. Owing in part to this unmitigated fraud of a horse, the race was postponed and eventually declared off; $500 pool money, with entrance fees, etc., were paid back.

FINALE.

The space allotted to this report will not permit any distressing account of the ball, the ladies' apparel nor Mrs. Wright's superabundant and really most excellent supper. Harry performed his duties well and everybody congratulated him. The county was represented from Darwin to Round Valley and it was probably the largest gathering of the kind ever collected. To be sure—mothers lost their babies and had to search for private marks to identify them; wives strayed in the dark and a light would reveal horrifying things to their astonished gaze—for in the place where their dear, sweet hubbies should be would lie a great bushy beard, a red head, and far down the ridge a pair of dirty feet would loom up like Ethiopean ghosts—and just about as fragrant; husbands got into the same fix, but the demoniac smile that would light up their countenances showed anything but astonishment. But the entire fracas was an enjoyable one and during the six days of sport was interspersed scrub-racing, raffles, dancing and ministrel shows—the latter by the Benjamin troupe. No legs were broken, or if there were, "nobody said nothing about it."

FOR OAKLAND.—We received a cal this week from Albert Mack, the legitimate daddy of Benton, our most flourishing neighboring mining town. Mr. Mack was on his way to the coast where he goes with the view of establishing a permanent abiding place and headquarters for himself and family, either at San Jose or Oakland, in both of which places he is the possessor of desirable real estate. He does not propose to abandon this sage brush region yet by any means, having some promising mining property at Benton which he hopes will develop equal to his old mine, the Comanche, this being its extension, or the Kearsage, as they spell it up there, whether from natural depravity or ignorance it don't become us to say. Mr. Mack found here a number of old friends—Harry Isaacs, Isaac Harris, and sich—with whom he flourished and faded in Aurora years agone.

AN UPSET.—Under Sheriff Gregg and family met with an accident last Sunday which might have proved a great deal more serious that the severe bruises received all around. They had been buggy riding, and upon reaching home Steve got down to assist Mrs. Gregg to alight. At the moment of doing so the horses suddenly started to run, throwing her violently to the ground. Gregg managed to catch one line and kept the horses' movements confined to a circle. The two children were thrown out, one getting pretty badly brused, while the buggy came out of the melee minus two wheels.

CERRO GORDOITES.—We were to-day honored with a call from Hugh Morrison, of the new mercantile firm of J. T. Belshaw & Co., Cerro Gordo, and Judge Bowen, of the same smoky region. They report matters salubrious on the hill.

RELIGIOUS.—Rev. L. Case will preach to-morrow at George's Creek at 2 o'clock P. M., and at the school house in this place in the evening.

The Holidays at Lone Pine.

LONE PINE, Jan. 4.

MESSRS. EDITORS—In your last issue I notice a brief allusion to the fact that Santa Claus, in his customary annual round, had not neglected to call on the good people of Lone Pine and vicinity. As I understand that you desire a more detailed account of the ceremonies with which we did honor to the old gentleman's presence, I send you a few particulars of the festivities of the occasion.

First of all we had a Christmas tree for the children on Christmas eve. The prime movers in this affair and those who bore the brunt of the work—although nearly all of the ladies and not a few of the "bredren" had "a finger in the pie"—were Mrs. Annie Harvey and Mrs. Kate Phillippay; and to these two ladies is due the credit of getting up one of the prettiest Christmas trees that ever graced the school house of Lone Pine.

The exercises of the occasion consisted of singing and speaking by the young ladies and children of the school, followed by the appearance of Kriss Kringle and the usual distribution of gifts. In singing, the young ladies were seconded in their efforts by Mrs. D. P. Macarter and Mrs. John Veil, who very kindly gave them their aid. Shortly before the exercises began Mr. Wm. Hoskins, of Cerro Gordo, entered the room and courteously offered to vary the entertainment with a few tunes on the piccolo. To him we are indebted for enlivening the occasion with some very sweet music.

Following is a programme of the exercises:

1st. Song—"Come Cheerful Companions."

2d. "Christmas Greeting"—Annie Adams.

3d. "The Little Orator"—Bennie Lasky.

4th. "Old Father Graybeard"—F. Pitzer Ball.

5th. "The Bird's Nest"—Frank Elder.

6th. "The Polar Clouds"—Agapina Salazan.

7th. "Hold Your Head Up Like a Man"—Charlie Hamilton.

8th. "Freaks of the Frost"—Felix Meysan.

9th. "Evening Hymn"—Christobal Carrasco.

10th. "Christmas Chimes"—Zelia Meysan.

11th. "Charley and His Shilling"—Joseph Rock.

13th. "A Southern Christmas Eve"—Mary Ball.

15th. "The Little Colt"—Edward Schober.

16th. "The Tobacco Lovers"—Lillie Holland.

18th. "Christmas Carol"—James Ball.

19th, "It Snows"—Sophia Schober.

20th. "Christmas Joys"—Rudolph Schober.

21st. "Saint Jonathan"—Minnie Lasky.

Song—"The Christmas Tree," or "Kriss Kringle."

As the chorus to the last verse of this song was being sung, old Kriss Kringle suddenly popped out from behind the tree, and was greeted with laughter and applause. He jingled his bells right merrily; and after shaking himself and bowing his acknowledgements, "he said not a word," but went briskly to work clipping off the presents and handing them to carriers, who distributed the gifts amongst the audience. The tree, as large a one as the hight of the room would admit, was just loaded down with gifts. Every child in the district was represented, and many of the "older children" were likewise remembered. Even the babies were not forgotten, as Mrs. J. J. McCall made it her special duty to see that every one of them should have a stocking crammed with pop-corn and other goodies.

The whole affair passed off pleasantly and seems to have given entire satisfaction. The speaking on the part of the pupils was very creditable to them. They all did their best and acquitted themselves well, although some of them labored under the disadvantage of having never before spoken in public. Several of them elicited special applause and commendation, by the clearness and fluency with which they spoke.

The Christmas tree was followed by a dance at the hall on Christmas night. The music and the shuffle started about 8 o'clock in the evening, and were kept up with but slight interruption until 2 A. M. About midnight the whole crowd moved across the street to the Lone Pine Hotel, where the hostess, Mrs. Barry, had spread an excellent repast to warm up the inward parts of the dancers and lookers-on.

Late in the afternoon of the day following it was rumored about town that Mr. Hoskins would be down that evening from Independence. Knowing how well the ball is kept rolling under his auspices, we determined to capture him on his arrival, and if necessary to carry him off bodily to the hall. Although suffering from a severe cold, Mr. Hoskins was unable to resist our importunities, and consented to give us another dance. This began at about the same hour as on the night previous, but did not stop until about 3:30 A. M., and then the people quit only from sheer exhaustion.

Nor did the fun end here; for, after a week's rest, we had another ball on New Year's night. This, like the rest, was kept in motion until the "wee sma' hours."

Thus you see, Messrs. Editors, that even slow-moving Lone Pine, with its "grass-grown streets," is capable now and then of having a right jolly good time. Yours, etc.

ONE OF THE "BREDREN."

OUR MONO LETTER.

BENTON, Cal., Jan. 2.

MESSRS. EDITORS—"The melancholly days have come, the saddest of the year;" the holidays have passed and gone. Bright hopes of a joyful time were anticipated for a little season, but it was not so willed. Death called and claimed J. R. Bowman on Christmas night; also, on the same night, W. Castello. And on the same eventful night a difficulty occurred between W. Adams and J. L. Brooks, in which Brooks drew a revolver; Adams wrenched it from his grip and with the butt thereof struck him on the forehead. After a few days' intense suffering Brooks expired about 6 o'clock this morning. Mr. Brooks leaves a beloved wife and child, besides a host of friends, to mourn his loss.

A SUCCESS.

Nevertheless, to all outward appearances the Christmas festivities were a complete success in all branches; the Christmas tree was loaded down, besides piles of presents lay at the roots—all of which were fairly, equally and evenly distributed by old Santa Claus, who did justice to the profession. The ball was attended by almost the entire population of Benton and the surrounding country, the room being filled until sitting room was scarce. Our music was without parallel in this section, being Thompson & Truman's string band, favored by the company of Prof. Andress and band. There was a sumptuous supper, prepared and donated by the ladies, at which about 175 persons ate until they were perfectly satisfied, yet there were a great many baskets of fragments taken up and given to the Piutes. The net proceeds were $200—and yet some say it was "a grand, total failure.

COURT ITEMS.

The Justice's Court has been pretty well patronized lately, and as a consequence some of our legal fraternity sport nice, new clothes. Henry Meyers commenced an action against W. B. Marshall for the recovery of rent. Billy makes a stand-off case of it on account of the improvements. Mr. Witherill has begun an action against Thompson & Co. for money due. Mr. W. is trying to settle up his business in this locality. There are some other cases which I will not specify, because they are of a speculative nature.

PERSONAL.

R. M. Briggs, of Independence, gave us a Land Office call last week. Dr. Wainright, of Bishop Creek, is in Benton on a medical call. Thos. Kelty is on the grub call—having leased his father's hotel. Also, Mrs. Tyler, of Partzwick, has started a boarding house. Albert Mack has gone to San Francisco. Toads are scarce and so is

RURAL JACOB.

LATER.

James A. Parker, a prospector formerly of Darwin and vicinity, who has for some time been prospecting in this locality, came to town to spend the holidays. Rumor says that he was stopping with Kellogg, who upon getting up one morning examined Parker and pronounced him dead. He stepped out to make the fact known, but upon his return said Parker was missing and has not been heard of since. His partners from the prospect camp were in town yesterday in search of him. The circumstances are very strange, and should have an investigation. R. J.

CONTESTED APPLICATIONS FOR MINING PATENTS.—The Secretary of the Interior has ordered the City Rock Mining Company's application for a patent for the King of the West mine, in Utah, shall be suspended until the controversy now pending between the parties in Utah is finally adjusted by the courts. Secretary Chandler, in making his order, lays down the following important general principles: First, that it is the duty of the Department, when an adverse claim is presented for consideration, to examine it and determine whether the claimant has substantially set forth under oath its nature, boundaries and extent; secondly, that if a compliance with the law is shown in the particulars, and a suit has been instituted to determine the rights of the parties, the Department can proceed no further with the investigation, but must await the determination of all other questions in regard to the controversy by the courts. This order is of great importance to mine owners, as it completely reverses the past practice of the Department, which has been to decide mining contests and issue patents while suits relating to them were still pending in the courts.

GREAT LOSS OF SHEEP.—We regret to learn of the serious loss of our popular citizen, Mr. John G. Dawes, who left here two weeks ago with his flock of 2,000 sheep for the north. While crossing the alkali lands near Tulare Lake he camped for the night, and in the morning when he awoke he saw his sheep all lying down but one, and on examination found that there was but that one alive. They had all quietly died in the night; loss of more than $5,000.—Bakersfield Courier.

THE Cologne Gazette observes that Bulgaria has on several occasions figured in history as the scene of "atrocities" no less horrible than those lately committed by the Bashi-Bazouks. The Greek Emperor Basilius II was nicknamed "Bulgaroktonos," because he ordered 15,000 Bulgarian prisoners to have their eyes put out, a few only being left with one eye in order that they might guide their fellow prisoners back to their homes.

IN Southern Utah, from a silver mine of considerable depth, petrified wood is being taken, in which chloride of silver is contained. The formation is sandstone, out of which horn-silver is taken. The remarkable point in the foregoing is the evidence that the deposition of the silver was subsequently to the inclosure of the wood in the sand that afterwards became the sandstone.

PROSPECTUS.

ST NICHOLAS

"The King of all publications issued for the young on either side of the Atlantic."—Southampton (England) Observer.

THE THIRD VOLUME OF THIS INCOMPARABLE Magazine is now completed. With its 800 royal octavo pages, and its 600 illustrations, its splendid serials, its shorter stories, poems and sketches, etc., in its beautiful binding of red and gold, it is the most splendid gift book for boys and girls ever issued from the press. Price, $4; in full gilt, $5.

ST. NICHOLAS FOR 1877

Which opens with November, 1876, begins a short and very entertaining serial from the French, "The Kingdom of the Greedy," a story adapted to the Thanksgiving season. Another serial, of absorbing interest to boys, "His Own Master," by J. T. Trowbridge, author of the "Jack Hazard Stories," begins in the Christmas Holiday Number, together with "The Boys of My Boyhood," by William Cullen Bryant, Christmas stories, lively sketches, poems, pictures, etc.

During the year there will be interesting papers for boys, by William Cullen Bryant, John G. Whittier, Thomas Hughes, William Howitt, Dr. Holland, George Macdonald, Sanford B. Hunt, Frank R. Stockton and others.

There will be stories, sketches and poems of special interest to girls, by Harriet Prescott Spofford, Susan Coolidge, Sarah Winter Kellogg, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Louisa Alcott, Lucretia P. Hale, Celia Thaxter, Mary Mapes Dodge and many others. There will also be "Twelve Sky Pictures," by Prof. Proctor, the astronomer, with maps, showing "The Stars of Each Month," which will be likely to surpass in interest any series on popular science recently given to the public.

AMUSEMENT and INSTRUCTION, with FUN and FROLIC, and WIT and WISDOM, will be mingled as heretofore, and ST. NICHOLAS will continue to delight the young and give pleasure to the old.

"ST. NICHOLAS is full of the choicest things. The publication is, in all respects, the best of its kind. We have never yet seen a number that was not surprisingly good"—The Churchman, Hartford, Conn.

"There is no magazine for the young that can be said to equal this choice publication of Scribner's press. All the articles, whether in prose or rhyme, are throbbing with vitality. * * The literature and artistic illustrations are both superb."—The London Literary World.

"We wish we could point out its equal in our own periodical literature"—London Daily News.

Good News for Boys and Girls.

To meet the demand for a cheaper ST. NICHOLAS Gift Book, the price of vols. I and II has been reduced to $3 each. The three volumes, in an elegant library case, are sold for $10 (in full gilt, $15) so that all may give their children a complete set. These volumes contain more attractive material than fifty dollars' worth of the ordinary children's books.

Subscription price, $3 a year. The three bound volumes and a subscription for this year, only $12. Subscribe with the nearest news dealer, or send money in check, or postoffice money order, or in registered letter, to An Outrageous Swindle.

In the early part of December some miners at Mineral Hill and Cortez district shipped a batch of very rich ore to the reduction works at Winnemucca. That from Mineral Hill was pure chloride, assaying $1,300 per ton, and has heretofore invariably worked up to 90 per cent. of assay; that from Cortez was also very rich. Mr. Lockwood, of Mineral Hill, went to Winnemucca in charge of the ore, and found the mill closed down, but the foreman in charge agreed to start it up for his benefit. It was agreed that the ore should be spread upon the floor and an assay taken from it, both there and in the pulp. From certain actions of the foreman, among other things refusing the floor assay as promised, Mr. Lockwood suspected all was not right and concluded to watch proceedings, and was rewarded by catching the feeder, a Chinaman, throwing waste rock into the batteries. On remonstrating with him he replied that it was done by order of the foreman. It was too late to do anything in the premises, and the consequence was that the ore that assayed $1,300 when it went into the batteries came out of the pans assaying $600.

As there was no remedy, Mr. Lockwood allowed the shipment of the bullion to San Francisco and awaited returns. After considerable trouble he managed to get the amount due him, being forced to take the most of it in silver, and came home $2,000 loser by the speculation.

The returns from the Cortez ore was paid in checks on the company and sent to San Francisco for collection, but were returned dishonored, and at last accounts the agent was vainly endeavoring to collect them. The company has no property, leasing the mill from the owners, and there is no recourse for the victims but to grin and bear it. We opine that it will be a long time before another batch of ore is sent to those reduction works from this county.—Eureka Sentinel, Jan. 3.

THE POPULAR VOTE.—The popular vote for the Presidency is in about as much doubt as the Electoral vote, though there is nothing of practical effect depending on its result. In some States the vote has been declared with one or more counties lacking, and in others with partial estimates in place of official returns. The extremes of the various statements which are now being put forward as reliable, are as follows: Highest estimate for Tilden and Hendricks, 4,301,854; Hayes and Wheeler, 4,044,614; Cooper and Carey, 82,926; Smith and Stewart, 6,870; scattering, 3,323. This statement gives a total vote of 8,439,497, of which Tilden and Hendricks have a clear majority of 164,211, and a majority over Hayes and Wheeler of 257,240. Another statement reduces Tilden's majority over Hayes to 241,022, and his clear majority to 147,384.—S. F. Bulletin.

ANOTHER WRIT OF MANDATE.—To prevent any trouble that might arise through the hitch which occurred in the mandamus case of Pacheco vs. Wigginton, counsel for the former yesterday obtained from the Supreme Court another writ of mandate directing the Secretary of State to show cause on the 15th instant, before that Court in San Francisco, why a peremptory writ should not issue compelling him to certify to the Governor the vote cast for Congressman in the Fourth District, including the returns as first sent into the Secretary of State's office from Monterey county. The Secretary of State is also directed not to certify the vote to the Governor until after the decision of the case by the Court. The writ was sent up from the Bay last evening, and was served upon Mr. Beck shortly after his arrival.—Record-Union, Jan. 6.

SOME VERY REMARKABLE WINTERS. Now is the time to trot out paragraphs about remarkable Winters; Winters that have distinguished themselves either warmer or colder than the law allows. No well regulated newspaper will neglect its duty. Referring back to our files, we find that in 1172 the temperature was so high that leaves came out on the trees in January, and birds hatched their broods in February. In 1289 the weather was equally mild, and the maidens of Cologne wore wreaths of violets and corn flowers at Christmas and Twelfth Day. In 1311 the trees flowered in the month of March, and the vines in the month of April. Peaches appeared in May, and little boys commenced to fall out of apple trees a little later. In 1572 the trees were covered with leaves in January, and the birds hatched their young in February, as in 1172. In 1586 the same thing was repeated, and it is added that the corn was in ear at Easter. To the best of our memory there was in France neither snow nor frost in the Winters of 1538, 1607, 1609, 1617, 1659; the stoves were not lighted, trees flowered in February, and out door bouquets were showered on the newspaper offices without number. It seems but as yesterday. Coming to later dates, the Winter of 1846-47, when it thundered at Paris on the 29th of January, and that of 1866, the year of the inundation of the Seine, may be mentioned as very mild.—New London Telegram.

THIS comes from the "Gopher City"—Pensacola:

Some little while ago, at a bar conclave at a Southern hotel, Generals, Majors, etc., were each, with much declamation, giving an account of an incident of the war. A quiet man stood by, and at last said:

"Gentlemen, I happened to be there, and perhaps might be able to refresh your memories as to what took place;" and he gave, succinctly and inoffensively, an exact detail of a smart action.

The hotel keeper said to him: "Sir, what might have been your rank?"

"I was a private," was the reply.

Next day, as the quiet man was about to depart, he asked for his bill.

"Not a cent, sir, not a cent," answered the proprietor. "You are the very first private I ever met."

A PHYSICIAN says that sweet oil is not only an antidote to the bite of the rattlesnake, but will cure poison of any kind, both in man and beast. The patient must take a teaspoonful of it internally, and bathe the wound, for a cure. To cure a horse take eight times as much as for a man. One of the most extreme cases of snake bites occurred eleven years ago. It had been of 30 days' standing, and the patient had been given up by his physicians. "I gave him," says the correspondent, "a teaspoonful of the oil, which effected a cure." It will cure the stings of bees, spiders or other insects, and persons who have been poisoned by a low running vine called ivy.

A LOUISIANIAN caught a negro carrying off some of his fancy poultry the other night. "What are you doing with my chickens?" he yelled. "I wuz gwine ter fetch 'em back, boss; dere's a nigger roun' heah what's been 'sputin' 'long o' me 'bout dem chickums. I said dey was Coching Chyniz, an' he said dey wuz Alabamer pullets, an' I wuz jes' takin' 'em roun' to 'stablish my nolledge. Dey don't lay no aigs, does dey, boss? Ef dey does, I'm mighty 'shamed fur hustlin' uv 'em 'roun'. Aigs is scace."

WE daily hear parties speculating on the prospect of rain. The past is recalled, and all sorts of comparisons are made to show that we will have a dry year, and vice versa. We remember that two years ago, while we lived at Wilmington, it was as dry as at present, until the 17th of January, when a rain set in and we had it steady for four days. It is not late enough to give up yet.—Santa Monica Outlook.

To keep hair in curl, take a few quince seeds; boil them in water, and add perfumery if you like; wet the hair with this, and it will keep in curl longer than from the use of any other preparation of which we know. It is also good to keep the hair in place on the forehead if you are going out in the wind. The seeds can be bought at the drug stores for a few cents an ounce.

THE peremptory writ of mandate issued by Judge Belden, to compel the Auditor of Monterey county to audit the Vasquez claims, has not been obeyed. A notice of appeal to the Supreme Court has been filed, and the matter will come up before that tribunal at the July term.

ON January 23d, at 7 A. M., when the mercury in Sumner marked 32, and pools of water were covered with ice, 22 miles off, in Caliente, it was 63. The wind was blowing a gale there, while here not a breeze was noticeable.—Gazette.

IT is something singular that Washington drew his last breath in the last hour of the last day of the last week of the last month of the last year of the last century. He died on Saturday night at 12 o'clock, December 31, 1799.

A LITTLE boy in Springfield, Massachusetts, after his customary evening prayer, continued: "and bless mamma, and Jenny, and Uncle Benny," adding, after a moment's thought, the explanatory remark, "his name is Hopkins."

How long will our farmers continue to raise scrub stock when by a little extra outlay at first they can as well have improved stock and a consequent increased income?—Ex.

WE would advise our farmers to sow wheat in preference to barley this season. The reason is that heretofore this valley has found a ready market in the mining counties south of here; but the railroad has changed all this. Barley can be furnished to these customers from the valleys south of them cheaper than from here, and with less cost of freights. Barley will not bear transportation long distances like wheat. Freights to San Francisco or Europe will eat it up. Hence we regard the cropping of barley in quantities sufficient to glut the market as likely to prove ruinous to all who engage in it every season, when the product exceeds the home demand.—Visalia Delta.

TOMMY is just old enough to understand literally what he hears in church, a place he dreads to go, for Sunday is a day of misery to him. The other morning he came home in a gloomy state of mind, and confidentially informed his mother that he didn't want to go to heaven. Upon being asked why, he said there was too much Sunday there, for he heard the minister read out of a book that it was a place, "where congregations never break up, and Sabbaths never end," and he thought one Sunday a week was all he could stand.

THE fire which destroyed over 3,000 feet of snow sheds near the Summit a few nights since, is still smoldering, and in many places is burning away quite lively. Two water trains are gradually subduing it. Men are kept constantly on the watch to prevent the flames from destroying the temporary track laid. Trains go slowly over it. As the conflagration occurred in one of the most exposed portions of the Sierras, a snow storm now would certainly blockade the road.—Virginia Enterprise, Jan. 6.

Hokokus says: "I saw approaching a pretty girl that I had not seen before in three years. I exclaimed: 'Well, Molie, I'm so glad to see you that I've half a mind to embrace you.' Drawing herself up to full hight, the ready answer was: 'Sir, do you take me for an opportunity?'"

A LOCOMOTIVE engineer, who had just been discharged for some cause, gave vent to his spite by saying that it was about time he left the company anyhow for the sake of his life, for "there was nothing left of the track but two streaks of rust, and the right of way."

THE editor of a French newspaper, in speaking of the dedication of a new cemetery near Lyons, says that M. Gascoigne had the pleasure of being the first individual who was buried in this delightful retreat.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 13.....1877.

THE NEVADA BULLION TAX.—There is a great financial trouble in the Silver State, all because the bonanza mines won't pay the tax on their net proceeds, as the law provides they should. The entire assessment roll of the State for five years past has averaged $25,303,-360 96, real and personal property, and the average yearly assessment of the net proceeds of the mines has been $12,852,377 00. It will be seen by this statement that the mines, while producing $141,341,838 38 in the last five years, have not paid one-third the expenses of the government. The Consolidated Virginia and California mines owe for the six months ending October 1, 1876, State and county taxes, $207,-033 13. The number of shares in each mine is 540,000, both mines aggregating 1,080,000 shares. The taxes due thus amount to less than 20 cents per share. Each share has received $12 in dividends during the time this tax has been accruing. Taking the six months mentioned as an average for the year, during which a stockholder receives $24, the tax on that amount will reach the enormous sum of about three bits. It is this heavy taxation which the bonanza mines can't stand; it is oppressive in the extreme, and rather than stand it they intend to buy the present Legislature into a repeal of the law—so that hereafter it will be the same old story over again: the poor will have to bear the burdens of government while the rich shall escape with but a tithe of taxation.

THE METRIC SYSTEM.—Nearly every other nation of Europe having led the way, Russia is about adopting the Metric weights and measures. The special committee which is sitting at St. Petersburg, at the headquarters of the Russian Imperial Technical Society, have not only come to the conclusion that such an innovation would be useful, but have also emphatically declared that the present is the fitting moment for the introduction of the Metric System. They think that the change ought to be accomplished within two years. It is a remarkable fact that Americans, with all their boasted readiness to adopt labor-saving inventions, and having led the world in use of a decimal currency, should be one of the very last nations of the globe to adopt what John Quincy Adams, in his official report, pronounces the greatest invention of human ingenuity since that of printing, and a greater labor-saver than steam.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—Gen. Eaton, the Commissioner of Education, says in his report that only one State (Delaware) and three Territories (the Indian, New Mexico and Wyoming) do not report their school population. The other thirty-six States and eight Territories reported 14,007,522 children by their respective laws entitled to instruction. All the States, either by actual count or by estimates, reported pupils enrolled in the public school system, giving a total of 8,756,659. The Commissioner says a most gratifying fact, often noticeable, is the interest, skill and energy with which evils, old and new, are encountered.

THE RECORD-UNION.—This old standby newspaper is determined not to be outdone, more particularly in the amount of telegraph news furnished. In this it claims to give a greater number of words than any other paper this side of the Rockies except the Call, belonging to the same press association. Its issue of January 10 comprises a vast amount of reliable and valuable statistical matter.

THE increase of prisoners at the State Penitentiary during the past over the previous year was 103, as follows: On hand December 31st, 1875, 1,093; received during the year, 541; discharged during the year, 482; on hand December 31st, 1876, 1,196; increase during the year 103. During the past year there were 502 commitments, 31 pardoned, 308 discharged for expiration of sentence, 11 escaped and 16 died.

IT is said the engagement between Bennett, of the Herald, and Miss May was terminated by the lady's father, in consequence of young Bennett's intemperance. The beauty, intelligence and refinement of the lady are universally conceded. A hostile meeting is considered probable between Bennett and May.

THE struggle between the Chamberlain and Hampton factions in South Carolina has been transferred from the capital of the State to the interior, there being two sets of appointees in nearly every county. The contests are said to be carried on good-naturedly, neither parties desiring to provoke a collision.

THE GOOD TO COME OF IT.

The "Presidential muddle," as it is called, has developed an immense amount of popular ignorance in regard to some leading features of our form of government; and this ignorance is by no means special to the masses, for the great law-makers and statesmen themselves are feeling astonished at the limited extent of their own knowledge of what the framers of the Constitution did intend to provide for emergencies like the present. If no other good comes of these complications, at least a great deal of fog and ignorance is likely to be cleared away through examination and discussion.

The New York Herald points out numerous errors of popular belief made manifest through the general discussion now going on. For instance, it is shown that there is no such aggregated body as "the Electoral College," as applied to the gathering of the Presidential Electors from all the States; in that sense it is inadmissible to employ the term in the singular, each State having an Electoral College, and with each the College proper begins and ends.

The effect of throwing out the votes of any State is also better appreciated than it ever was before. When one political party has had a great majority the rejection of a few votes was of no practical consequence, and nobody looked very closely into the Constitutional points involved in such a rejection. It is now at length perceived that it may lead to questions of great delicacy. If the Florida votes or the Louisiana votes should be found illegal would that insure Mr. Tilden's election by the Electoral Colleges? This is a difficult question, because it is not yet decided what constitutes a majority in such a contingency. In order to elect a candidate must there be a majority of the votes to which all the States are entitled, or only a majority of the votes which are counted? If the former, Mr. Tilden would not be elected if Florida or Louisiana is thrown out; if the latter, he would be elected unless some of the States voting for him should also be rejected.

The rule established by the Constitution seems clear where there is a real doubt respecting the facts. It only requires "a majority of the Electors appointed." If none are appointed from a particular State that State has no more influence that if it did not exist. But if it appointed electors and for any reason they did not assemble and vote, the fact of appointment remains, and the Electors to which it is entitled must be counted to ascertain what is a majority, although they cannot be counted for any candidate. If, for example, Florida should be flung out on the ground that the Tilden Electors and not the Hayes Electors were legally chosen on the 7th of November, they could not be counted for Tilden, because they did not vote and certify according to law, and yet they would have to be taken into the estimate in determining what is a majority. The result would be no choice by the Electoral Colleges, and the House would choose the President and the Senate the Vice President—a result which is now generally expected by people who frankly avow their opinions.

But even on this point a difficulty has been raised, in connection with the fact that Mr. Tilden and Mr. Wheeler are both citizens of New York. A careless reading of the Constitution has led a few people to believe that it forbids the election of a President and Vice President from the same State. A careful examination of its language will show that this is an error. The Constitution does not permit the Electors of New York, for example, to vote for two citizens of New York, but it leaves them free to vote for two citizens of Illinois or Virginia or any other State than their own. It does not declare that the President and Vice President shall not be from the same State. But it will be a coincidence without any example in our history if both the highest officers should be citizens of the same State.

A NOTABLE LIBEL CASE.—Our readers will remember that at the late election it was charged that Parson Fitzgerald, who was a candidate for State Superintendent of Public Schools, had, during the time he held this office previously, received a $3,000 bribe to aid in the introduction of a certain school book. The charge wss made by C. A. Klose, who was the Parson's partner at the time. The Parson entered suit against Klose for libel, but through the law's delay in some way, the case came up for trial only last week, and is exciting considerable attention. The evidence so far is somewhat contradictory, but in the main seems to lead to the belief that the Parson will be able to fully establish his innocence.

THE President, January 5th, laid before the Senate a memorial of the National Board of Trade, praying for a revision of the bankrupt law, the tariff and internal revenue tax. It was referred to the Committee on Judiciary and Finance.

DIAZ of Mexico is said to possess a face of stubborn fortitude. There is even something gruff and gloomy in the contraction of his heavy eyebrows if he sinks into the deeper fits of silence, but once fairly engaged in an interesting conversation his features are lighted up by merry twinkles of humor or sparks of caustic wit, and if roused by indignation flame up in flashes of defiance that reveal the fiery soul within. The eyes of Diaz are low; that is, he has a deliberate way of gradually centering his focus of vision on your face, but after that his look assumes an intense power of scrutiny. He wears a full black beard, rounded by nipping here and there to an average length of three inches; is above the medium hight of his countrymen, but appears thick set on account of the enormous girth of his chest, and has in his walk that ponderous leonine bearing which is found among the Turks alone of all southern nations of the present day.

QUEEN VICTORIA was duly declared Empress of India throughout that vast country on the 1st of this month. The Imperial Assemblage at Delhi (if done according to programme), came together in an open plain, in order to avoid the angry contentions for precedence which occur at the "Durbars" held in a spacious tent. Each chief and his retinue proceeded on elephants from their camp in a separate procession, to the platform assigned them. When all were assembled the Viceroy read the proclamation, and the royal standard was unfurled to an imperial salute of one hundred and one guns. The Queen was at the same time proclaimed Empress at every civil station and camp throughout India. All this pageantry and ceremony is, of course, intended to impress the Orients with the glory and power of England.

IMPORTANT TO MINING LITIGANTS. Secretary Chandler's decision in the Last Chance (Utah) mining case, carries still further the important principle announced recently in the case of the King of the West lode. The Department now fully decides that general land offices cannot in any way oust the jurisdiction of Courts while adverse claims are prosecuted with reasonable diligence, but must await their final decision in every point involved, regardless of any abandonment of a portion of the surface ground in conflict. This materially changes the practice of the office, and is of great importance to all mining litigants.

THE Chief Signal Officer, in his annual report of his department for the last fiscal year, states that during that period over 88 per cent. of his "probabilities" of the weather were verified. This is quite an improvement in accuracy over previous years, but the Chief Signal Officer thinks that an average of 90 per cent. is attainable. Owing to lack of appropriations the receipt of signals from the West Indies has been suspended. There are 145 signal stations maintained in the United States.

THE ship King Arthur cleared from New Haven for Turkey a few days ago, with a cargo consisting of 10,080,000 cartridges, 10,000,000 bullets, 10,001,-600 shells, 40,600 guns, 40,000 scabbards, 50,000,000 gun wads, and 48 packages of miscellaneous goods, all valued at $1,344,000. Another still larger cargo of the same kind is to go soon, all of which indicates that the Sick Man thinks of bulldozing somebody yet before he dies.

THE Inter-Ocean canal treaty between the United States and Nicaragua was completed at Washington on the 7th, and was to be submitted to the Senate for ratification immediately. A special Commissioner will then start at once with the instrument for Nicaragua to have it ratified by the Congress of that country. The canal is estimated to cost $100,000,000.

THE President thinks it very unlikely that he will call an extra session of the new House of Representatives in case there is no President selected or elected in the meantime. He doubts whether he has that power. He is confident of a peaceful solution of the pending question.

THE Burlington Hawkeye says the Senate acted wisely in deciding not to let the U. S. Supreme Court count the Electoral vote. That august body would have docketed the matter, and by the time it got to it for action all the present candidates would be dead.

Pacific Railroad Matters.

A fair interpretation of the Chronicle's latest Washington dispatches touching Pacific Railway matters leads to these conclusions: First, that the Central Pacific party have made, or are in the act of making, a compact with the Scott party, by which each shall be entitled to build, the one eastward, the other westward, till the road meets, which may be somewhere in Arizona; that they will unite their political forces in Congress for the passage at this session of a grand subsidy scheme, and that there is some prospect of its success. Second, that the House Railway Committee will soon report a bill extending the time for the completion of the Northern Pacific road eight years, with a proviso for the restoration to the public domain of some seven or eight million acres of land in Washington Territory now locked up by the grant to that corporation. Precisely how the road is to be built and where the funds are to come from does not appear. But they probably hope that, if the Southern combination of Huntington and Scott shall be able to get through their subsidy scheme, the example may hereafter be pleaded with irresistible force in favor of a like subsidy for the Northern Pacific, and in this they stand to be right. If the Huntington-Scott party succeed in what they are after, the subsidy monstrosity may be considered fully reopened, with a fair prospect of adding some three to five hundred millions more to the national debt, and of creating from the resources of the people, secured by taxation, a power within the Government, which, combining, as it is sure to do, will be greater than the Government itself—able to command by purchase or otherwise whatever laws, privileges and immunities the combination may desire. The success of the Huntington-Scott scheme would probably give us a through road South two years from this date, but it would lay the whole Pacific coast, from Oregon to Mexico, forever at the mercy of the men who own the Central and Southern Pacific railroads.—S. F. Chronicle.

IN addition to the extensive mining country within our own borders, we have the great mining region composing the districts of Darwin, Modoc, Lee, and others which are but partly developed, in Inyo county. There is already a population of six or seven thousand, and when these mines shall become better known and appreciated, as they will be in the near future, it is probable that they will attract a population equal to that of the Comstock. All this country, including that embraced in our own mountain limits, will be directly dependent upon and tributary to the Kern valley. Inyo county has literally no agricultural resources of her own, if we except the little strip of arable land along Owens river. But this is so small as to bear no significance to the real consumption of and demand for farm products. Inyo county, while probably the richest mineral county in the State, is without doubt the poorest in an agricultural point of view.—Courier-Californian.

We had no idea that our neighbor was so lamentably ignorant of the comparative agricultural status and capabilities, and population of this county—the latter is nearly as much over stated as the other (our agricultural resources as compared) is under estimated.

THE Kern county Grand Jury, January 6, found a true bill for murder against Jim Hays.

Paddock and Peel.

The shooting of Richard Paddock, on Tuesday, recalls an affair of early times in which Paddock figured prominently. In 1863, a man named Peel came to Virginia with the reputation of being a cool and calculating desperado, who had killed his man in Texas, Salt Lake and other parts of the country. His advent here caused some little excitement among the class who frequently risk their heads on the pull of a trigger. Peel was expected to make some public exhibition of his metal, but he disappointed everybody by quietly minding his own business, until his unobtrusive manners acquired for him the name of Farmer Peel. One day Paddock and Peel had a few words in Robinson & Gentry's gambling saloon on B street, south of Sutton avenue, and Paddock asked Peel to step into the street and fight. Peel coolly walked out, and taking the center of the street drew simultaneously with Paddock, who was on the sidewalk. Peel's first shot pierced Paddock's side. The wounded man, throwing his arm round a post, steadied himself for the return shot, but was too weak from the shock of his wound to take a correct aim, and the ball scattered the dust at Peel's feet. Peel continued to answer his antagonist's desultory fire by deliberate shots, each ball knocking the splinters from the post behind which Paddock was trying to shelter himself, and passing into Paddock's body. Three or four bullets took effect, and one passed through his stomach. Peel was unhurt. After the fourth shot Paddock threw down his pistol and remarked, "Boys, I'm a dead man," and sank down at the foot of the post. Peel put away his revolver, and walking back to the saloon, resumed his seat as if nothing had happened, while Paddock was taken to the hospital. He remained several months, expecting to die daily. The wound in his stomach was such that the physician at the time of the examination did not expect him to live an hour, but after his recovery he was as strong as ever. Peel afterwards killed "El Dorado Johnny" in a street fight, and was in turn killed in Helena, Montana, by Johnny Bull.—Virginia Chronicle, Jan. 4th.

The Great Steel Works at Essen.

Since the year 1826 the world-renowned cast-steel manufactory near Essen has been conducted by Alfred Krupp. The magnitude of these works at this time will be understood when it is stated that they give employment to 15,000 men, more than 10,000 of whom are immediately employed in the manufacture of axles, wheels, tires and crossings for railways and mines, shafts for steamers, machinery, boiler plates, rolls, spring-steel, tool steel, guns, gun-carriages and projectiles. At the mines and blasting furnaces 5,000 additional workmen find constant employment. The firm operates 250 smelting furnaces, 390 annealing furnaces, 161 heating furnaces, 115 welding and puddling furnaces, 33 cupola and reverberating furnaces, 116 furnaces for other purposes, 295 coke ovens, 264 smiths' forges, and 298 steam boilers. Connected with the works are 77 steam hammers and 294 steam engines, aggregating more than 10,000 horse power. To lodge the officers, workmen and their families, 2,227 dwellings are furnished, affording accommodation to 16,200 inhabitants. Other dwellings at the mines and smelting works give shelter to 3,200 more, while boarding houses are provided for 2,500 unmarried workmen. The sanitary condition of the workmen and their families is amply provided for. A bathing establishment, two hospitals under the care of competent physicians and a disinfecting house for the beds and clothes of the sick, are maintained. A sick, burial and pension fund has been instituted for the benefit of workmen, to which the firm contributes an amount equal to one-half the contribution paid in by members. Besides a life-insurance association, the firm have organized an excellent scholastic system, four of the industrial schools for girls and women being maintained at their expense. The works were first founded in 1810, but have been under the present management for the past fifty years.

Jones' Sumner Mine, Kernville.

Hon A. C. Lawrence, of Kernville, who passed through our city yesterday, on his way to San Bernardino, gave us a few interesting notes of the great Sumner mine at Kernville, in Kern county, in which Senator Jones is largely interested. Mr. Lawrence informed us that Superintendent Ed. Burke has put into the mine one of the largest mining pumps in the world, costing $125,000. This great pumping power will be sufficient to keep the mine in a condition for working, and keep the eighty stamp mill running day and night. Mr. L. stated that he learned from Superintendent Burke that he had very recently found in the mine a vein of unusually rich rock. The Sumner is without doubt, the biggest gold mine in the State of California, has the largest mill and pump, and is under good management. Judge Lawrence also stated that the Al. Bunnell, a companion mine to the Sumner, is looking splendidly at present. The company have just completed a fine mill, and will soon be in operation. The mining outlook about the old town of Havilah is improving, three mills being in operation at present. Mr. Lawrence informed us that neither rain nor snow have fallen in the mountains of Kern county thus far, and that the weather and climate up about Kernville will compare favorably with Los Angeles at present.—Los Angeles Express, Jan. 6th.

THE Courts of San Francisco have recently decided a very interesting case, involving the right of a single lodge of an order to real estate placed in their hands for the order in general. It seems that some twenty years ago the then only existing lodge of Odd Fellows in San Francisco acquired title to real estate in this manner. The question that now arose was whether this property was solely the property of individual members of that lodge, or of the order.

THE snake's poison is in his teeth: the slanderer's in his tongue.

FRESH discoveries have been made on the Esquiline at Rome. There have been found a marble figure with a helmet, larger than life, considered older than the time of Antonious; another of a youth, reminding one by its style and pose of the Cupid of the Pio Clementino Museum, and three well preserved heads in marble, one of which appears to be a reproduction of that of the young Hercules, attributed to Lysippus, and discovered in 1870 at the Camp Vetano.

MOUNT PLEASANT, the chief of the Tuscarora tribe of Indians, who are settled on a reservation in Niagara county, New York, says that certain papers supposed to be lost have recently been found which entitle the tribe to the State of North Carolina, and 1,500,000 acres of land in Kansas. The Chief has accordingly put in a claim against the Government.

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE WHY ORDER OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE SHOULD NOT BE MADE.

IN THE PROBATE COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California, in the matter of the estate of Francisco Gonzales, deceased. Order to show cause why Order of Sale of Real Estate should not be made. It appearing to the Judge of said County by the petition this day presented and filed by Sebrino Arana, the partner and co-owner with the said deceased in that certain mine or lode known as the "Hidalgo mine," situate in the Coso Mining District, in said County and State, praying for an order of sale of real estate, that it is necessary to sell the whole of the said real estate in order to protect the interest of said estate of said Francisco Gonzales, deceased, in and to the lode or vein known as the "Hidalgo mine," situate in the Coso Mining District, County and State aforesaid.

It is therefore ordered by the Judge of said Court that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased, appear before said Probate Court on Friday, the Twenty-Third Day of February, A. D. 1877, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the Court Room of said Probate Court, at the Court House, in Independence, in said County of Inyo, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the Administrator of said estate to sell the real estate of said deceased as above set forth.

And that a copy of this order be published at least four successive weeks in THE INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper printed and published in said County.

JOHN A. HANSAH,
Probate Judge.

OFFICE OF THE COUNTY CLERK of the County of Inyo.

I, Wm. B. Daugherty, County Clerk of the County of Inyo, State of California, and ex-officio Clerk of the Probate Court in and for said County, do hereby certify the foregoing to be a true, full and correct copy of an order duly made and entered upon the minutes of said Probate Court.

Witness, my hand and the seal of said Probate Court this 12th day of January, A. D. 1877.

[SEAL] WM. B. DAUGHERTY, n34314 Clerk.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, JANUARY 13.....1877.

SWEARING OFF.—Notwithstanding the fun usually perpetrated at the expense of the class of weak-kneed reformers who make New Year's Day the date of turning over a new leaf in the matter of the absorption of stimulants, and who invariably rescind the resolution long before the ides of March, there is a crowd of half a dozen in Independence which will be likely to stick, individually and severally. As the final cocktail muzzled down their gullets on the last minute of the last hour, etc., etc., of the Centennial year the general reformation began, and subsequently arrangements were mutually agreed upon to the following effect: That all were to remain total abstainers during the entire year; that upon the opening hour of the next the party are to duly assemble again, each with $100 in his clothes—the sum total of which is to be devoted to a general drunk, the whole town to participate. This particular finale of the arrangement may be the supreme climax of idiocy; but upon one special feature of the affair do we base the opinion that all will faithfully stick, since none of the immaculate six are in the full enjoyment of a bonanza, i. e.: the first one to indulge in the meantime is to put up the entire $600 himself.

FOOT PADS—REGISTER BRIGGS ROBBED.—On Friday night last, at a point near the first station this side of Mojave, the down stage on the Southern line was stopped by three Mexican highwaymen, who "went through" the express box, driver and passengers. The latter were Register R. M. Briggs and Emma, the little daughter of John W. Martin of this place. In a note concerning the affair, Mr. Briggs states that the robbers first demanded and broke open the express box, from which they obtained the enormous sum of $20. The Register then passed over $33, at the point of a pistol, the agents, however, failing to get his greenbacks and gold. They next went for the little girl's trunk and relieved it of her gold watch and chain and the Register's good clothes. After lifting the driver's ticker, the gentlemanly knights of the road permitted the goloche to move on. Miss Martin stood the ordeal bravely, and Mr. Briggs thinks that he got off luckily enough in this, his first, experience of the kind.

COUNTY FUNDS.—The largest amount of money ever paid into the county treasury at any one time was turned over to the Treasurer on Saturday last, being the sum of $35,956 07, of which the Tax Collector paid $35,579 25 and the Assessor $376 82. Following is the apportionment made to the respective funds, as provided by law:

Expense Fund	$13,219 99
Road Fund	1,156 82
School Fund	503 34
Hospital Fund	2,892 04
Sinking Fund	1,388 18
General Fund	2,892 04
Interest and Building Fund	3,296 93
State General Fund	8,502 61
Bridge Fund	1,735 22
Road Poll Tax Fund	368 90
Total	$35,956 07

The annual interest on the $34,000 of outstanding bonds, due January 2, was promptly paid to the holders, at the banking house of Wells, Fargo & Co., San Francisco.

TREES.—The advertisement of Thos. E. Bell, in this issue, of itself shows the capabilities of our soil and climate in the matter of fruit and tree culture. His nursery, though located among the foothills on a tract above Big Pine, and well protected from winds, has no better advantage than scores of other places along the west side of the valley; and we opine that the enterprising farmer who shall utilize any of such in the same manner that Mr. Bell has done, will make a direct start on the road to fortune, as well as confer a lasting benefit upon the whole country. See his list.

SMALL POX.—A private letter from Darwin to Judge Conklin here, states that a man recently arrived in that place from below somewhere, went to the hotel sick, and in a day thereafter his case developed into unmistakable small pox. It would be rather a serious matter to everybody should the contagion get among the Indians, who would be quite certain to spread it far and near.

AT LAST.—A light instalment of the long looked for Winter snow has come, beginning on Thursday night. The mountains on both sides are covered to the base, but so far there has been no snow or rainfall in the valley. The weather is getting decidedly cool, and a gusty wind portends a storm.

ONLY FOR A CHANGE.—Charles Keppler, of the Half Way House, George's Creek, perpetrates a seasonable joke in his regular advertisement this week, which should be read. The point will be appreciated by the many who know the fact that Mrs. Keppler is unexcelled as a chef de cusine.

WAY HE DID IT.—The other day a mother noticed her boy digging away with both hands upon his cabesa. "Why do you scratch your head in that way?" "Cos, pop says the only way to get along is to 'scratch ahead,'" replied the young hopeful.

NOTICE.—Parties receiving statement of accounts from this office during the next two weeks will please make returns as promptly as possible, and thereby save themselves trouble—of conscience, at least.

HERE.—Ex-Sheriff Jack Moore and family, late of Big Pine, have resumed a residence in Independence.

TO BENTON.—District Attorney Bennett is off on a professional trip to Benton.

CRAZED.—There is an unfortunate at Martin's boarding house in town who is a raving maniac, at times requiring two or three men to hold him. His malady results from an old wound in the head. He has lately been in the employ of the Eclipse company, but his name, other than John, is unknown here.

GRAND JURY.—A special Grand Jury has been drawn and called to meet on the 22d instant, to take the Boyd case under consideration.

NON EST.—About these times interesting home events, from which to manufacture locals, are notably "scace."

COMING.—V. Beaudry is announced to start from Los Angeles to Cerro on the 22d instant.

FILIBUSTERING.—There is great excitement in Lower California, Sonora and Mexico concerning a reported filibustering expedition from San Francisco to capture the northern Mexican States. There does not appear to be any real ground for believing any such expedition is being organized as yet, but it is not improbable the excitement and mutual fears and distrusts of the rival Mexican leaders may produce the identical result apprehended. There are hundreds of men now in San Francisco besieging the Mexican Consul's office, offering their services in the ranks of the Mexican army to fight either faction or to filibuster if a leader will step forth.

THE Manager or Secretary of the San Francisco Benevolent Society, one I. S. Allen, has just been exposed in some very nefarious operations, and in consequence he has been forced to step down and out. Those operations of the aged Allen were seduction, procuring abortion, supporting his mistresses at the expense of the institution, and the like of that. He was a man of high social standing, and very benevolent toward the good looking girl applicants, but the Chronicle got after him and spoilt it all.

A SAN DIEGO dispatch of the 2d says: "Some of our Spanish-speaking people are excited to-day at a report that two vessels loaded with 600 filibusters had left San Francisco, on Friday last, destined for Lower California. The report goes that the news comes from the Mexican Consul, at San Francisco. Col. Ferrera, of this city, who received the news, says he will raise the flag of Mexico here, to-morrow, for volunteers. The whole thing looks fishy."

CORRECT.—"Old Probs." notified the people of this coast to look out for a general rain storm about the 12th. We judge that Probs. guessed right, and that therein the coast is lifted from a dry slough of despondency.

A TERRIFIC hurricane is reported from Madrid, Spain, destroying hamlets without number, and whole herds of cattle.

MR. MOODY in an address at the Chicago Tabernacle made rather a practical application of the parable of the sower. He said that he did not believe every protestation of a change o heart which he heard. Men came with the crowd and acted with the crowd, but the seed was only in a sub-soil, and a good stiff breeze would bear them down like stubble. He knew one who sang hosannas and was very much worked upon; the seed had fallen and sprung up. But there was a lack of soil; there was a lack of depth. He knew this, because the man owed his landlady a board bill which he was able to pay, but which he utterly neglected. He believed in the conversion of deeds. He did not believe in the Christianity that found time to read a Sunday paper but none for the Bible.

CRACKING jokes about the political crisis is nearly on a level with fiddling when a city is burning, but Nevada papers do it all the same. "This morning about 10:30, a sandy-complexioned man rudely stopped a Chronicle reporter in the street, dragged him into a doorway and asked him to give the exact figures on the remaining 36 parishes in Louisiana. The reporter paused a moment, prayed to be forgiven, and then sent six shots into the man. He died without a struggle, and will be buried this afternoon at 3 o'clock. He was in all respects an exemplary citizen, and always paid his taxes like a man. His wife and nine children will be cared for during the Winter by some of our benevolent societies. Small subscriptions for their relief will be received at this office."

AT Rattlesnake Bar the other evening a wedding party was all ready for the ceremony, but it was discovered that the groom had procured a Placer county license. The parties had to cross the bridge and be married on the Placer sipe.

IT is said that the fire department of Ashtabula had orders not to play upon the burning cars, in order that the bodies might be burned beyond recognition so that the railroad company would not be responsible for damages.

A DEVOUT negro woman prayed in a Milwaukee meeting that she might escape the fires of future punishment; and, in the midst of her petition, backed against a red-hot stove and was burned.

THE New York Times warns Senator Thurman that if his and Governor Grover's plea of ineligible Electors be carried out, it will cost Tilden at least four votes.

THE Texas Pacific and Southern Pacific railroad companies have fixed up a compromise.

To The Memory of F. H. Burroughs.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Again it becomes our painful duty to chronicle the death of a valuable citizen and a good man. How much we always miss such a one! Mr. F. H. Burroughs, of Fish Slough, Mono County, departed this life on the 5th inst. about 10 o'clock P. M., after an illness of three weeks. Mr. B. was born in Vermont in 1822; he came to California in 1849, and was a typical representative of that whole-souled class of men who were the pioneers of this country. He returned to the States for his family in 1852, but only returned to witnesss the death of his wife. Bereaved of the companion of his early youth he returned to the Golden State, where he has since resided, and for the period of three years at his late residence. A well known stand to travelers and teamsters of this vicinity, who will miss his welcome smile and hearty greeting. He was very patient and cheerful throughout his illness, always pleasant and hopeful, while suffering very much from inflammatory rheumatism, dysentery in the early part of his sickness, and also a chronic throat trouble, which a post mortem examination disclosed as a necessarily fatal malady, which no doubt was the immediate cause of his sudden demise. Peace to his ashes, for his spirit has departed to the realms of bliss to be united throughout eternity with those of his redeemed. And his brother and relations who are thus bereaved have the sympathy of a large circle of friends.

W.

DARWIN ITEMS.—We condense the following items of interest from the Mining News of Saturday last:

P. Reddy, Esq., Superintendent of the Defiance Mining Company, desires us to say to all creditors in Inyo county that an adjustment of their claims will be more speedily effected if they will at once send their accounts, etc., to Messrs. Beaudry & Judson, No. 420 Front street, San Francisco, as it will be absolutely necessary to have the different claims in the hands of some one party in order to calculate the percentage due to each when money is received from sales of bullion.

We advertise to-day the notice of the Modoc Mining Company declaring a dividend of 50 cents per share, payable on the 5th instant. This is pretty good for a mine that was opened only one year ago. One or two more dividend-paying mines and Inyo county will soon be out of the woods; and we think we shall soon record that same.

Since starting the Defiance had shipped 500 bars of bullion, averaging 88 pounds each. At this rate Defiance debt will soon be one of the things of the past. Besides 170 bars on hand there are three tons of bullion in the bottom of the furnace, which will be taken out at the general clean-up.

The Lookout Coal and Transportation Company has been incorporated, to deal in coal, lumber and wood. Directors—Chas. W. Tozier, John W. Pearson, Chas. E. Pearson, David M. Seaton and Peter McLaren.

The Modoc Mining Company celebrated Christmas by making her ten thousanth bar of bullion. Both furnaces are running well, water plentiful. The value of the bullion shipped for December amounted to $88,090.

Messrs. Paris & Shepard succeed A. K. Briggs in the general merchandising business. The latter has gone to the coast for the benefit of his health.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Reddy were serenaded by the Darwin Band on New Year's night, as the furnaces started up for '77.

Sunday Reading.

He came recently from Arkansas, and was entertaining a party of friends at the Ormsby House last evening by relating his experience in that wild country. Among other interesting narratives he related the following, for the truth of which he vouches:

At the time of my visit to Baxter, a Court of Judge Lynch was in session just outside the town. The culprit, a young man of twenty-seven, was proven guilty of horse stealing. The jury—the mob—sentenced him to be hanged forthwith. The rope was procured and he was mounted on the rear of a wagon under the branches of a black oak. Everything was ready for his death, when a philanthropic man of benign appearance—he was a stranger in that community—requested to pray in secret with the prisoner. A vote was taken and he was allowed ten minutes to work on the soul of the doomed man. It was the most fortunate grant the young man ever received. When in the midst of an earnest supplication to the throne of grace, three of the prisoner's comrades entered the crowd, tumbled the praying man over, and gave the young man two loaded revolvers. The four desperadoes broke for horses held by another of their party, which they mounted, and rode off, firing into the crowd. So quick were the movements of the desperadoes that the members of the sanguine Court were taken by surprise, and before they recovered the horse thieves had a good start. There was mounting of steeds in hot haste, profanity and pistol shots in profusion. The outlaws had the fleetest horses and escaped. The jury dispersed sadly to their homes, intending to make surer work of their next culprit.—Carson Tribune.

A BRIDE on a railroad car, seeing her husband take something rolled up in brown paper from his pocket, snatched it from his hands and threw it out of the window, saying that he had promised to give up chewing tobacco. The young man told her she had thrown away all the money he had in the world.

VERMONT'S new liquor law provides that every place where liquor is sold as a beverage shall be declared a common nuisance, and the keeper shall be fined $200 or less, besides being forbidden to re-occupy the premises until he gives bonds not to offend again.

"My brother," said a clergyman, "do you feel charitably inclined this Winter?" "Yes," said the brother, "if it don't cost anything."

George F. Hoar's Views.

"The fact is," Mr. Hoar continued, "nothing definite will be done until the Investigating Committees on both sides return from the disputed States; then one of three things will, in my judgment, take place, namely:

"First—The Committees will present such a report that the Republican leaders will make no further opposition and allow Mr. Tilden to be inaugurated.

"Second—That they will present such a report that the moderate Democrats will concede the election of Mr. Hayes and allow him to be inaugurated.

"Third (and this is the most probable course of the three)—That the Committees will, on their return, present reports diametrically opposite, accompanied with a mass of testimony so voluminous that the country, and not even Congress itself, will have the time to digest it, and we shall have a proposition to refer the question to some outside tribunal. That proposition will fail: First, because there is no provision in the Constitution or precedent in our history for it; and second, because in the struggle of both parties for the advantage in the composition of the tribunal an agreement would be almost impossible. This being the situation, the Senate and House will meet, and the President of the Senate will count the vote and declare Governor Hayes elected. The Administration will see that he is inaugurated. Now, in my opinion, there will be no trouble, no revolution, no war, and for these reasons: The Democratic party is so strong, has polled so large a vote, and has so many advantages in its favor that its triumph four years hence is as certain as anything ever will be. The leaders of the party will not be likely to do anything which would throw them back into their old condition of a hopeless minority, as they would certainly do by inaugurating anything like rebellion. The South will be tranquil, because it knows very well that the inevitable end of a resort to force and violence on its part would be to bring about a reunited North, and it knows what that means. Then, again, Mr. Tilden's competitors in his own party will not be very sorry to see him beaten this time, for they know that his success would mean his success four years hence. Above and beyond all these considerations there is the additional one that Democrats are not any more anxious to have their sons shot down than are the Republicans. All the interests of the country lie in the direction of peace."

SATURDAY, JANUARY 13.....1877.

CLIMATIC CHANGES IN RUSSIA.—The Winters in Russia are becoming colder every year, and the Summers hotter, more dry and less fruitful, owing, as is clearly stated by Livingston, to the destruction of the woodlands which formerly abounded in the southern districts. The clearing of these lands has caused such an enormous evaporation that many once capacious water courses have become mere swamps or are completely dry. The Dnieper becomes every day more shallow, and its tributaries are no longer worthy of the name of streams. The question of replanting has frequently been agitated, but the dried condition of the earth in many places in Southern Russia makes it a great difficulty. Energetic measures, however, are about being adopted to overcome this difficulty by scientific means.

MARKS OF A GENTLEMAN.—No man is a gentleman who, without provocation, would treat with incivility the humblest of his species. It is vulgarity for which no accomplishment of dress or address can ever atone. Show us the man who desires to make every one around him happy, and whose greatest solicitude is never to give cause of offense to any one, and we will show you a gentleman by nature and species, though he may never have worn a suit of broadcloth, nor ever heard of a lexicon. We are proud to say, for the honor of our species, there are many men in every throb of whose heart there is solicitude for the welfare of mankind, and whose every breath is perfumed with kindness.—Ex.

THE HOLE IN THE WALL.—The abrogation of the joint rules by Congress has had rather an unexpected effect. It has revived the sale of liquors in the Capitol building, and the Senate and House restaurants and the famous "Hole in the Wall" are again flourishing in all their pristine glory. Henry Wilson, whose commanding influence secured the adoption of the rule, and Jim. McDougall, whose wit and eloquence so long effectually resisted its passage, have both passed to their last account. Whether it will ever be re-enacted we can not say. At present in Washington one does not say "take a drink," but invites his friend to suspend the 19th joint rule.

THERE is a native dog in New Foundland now 16 years old. He is gray and his fangs have fallen out, but he is provided with a cosy kennel and food that does not need much mustication. Around his neck is a glazed collar bearing three medals, one of silver and two of gold. One of the latter is from the Royal Humane Society of England; the other is a gift from an American captain, and the silver medal is from a former Mother Superior of St. Michael's Convent in St. John's. All three testimonials are in recognition of the animal's sagacity in saving lives.

HAPPINESS is inborn. It is not an outward trait. It is generated in the soul. It is never bought or sold as an article of commerce. You may fill your house with all manner of beautiful and curious things, but you cannot lay in a stock of happiness in the same way. If you are happy, your happiness is that which you are able to make by the use of the mind itself.

A MAN died at Pont Neuf Cañon, in Montana, recently of small-pox. He was buried by his comrade, together with all his clothing and effects; a few days afterward the Indian Chief, Pocotello, with some of his men, dug up the body and stripped it of the clothing, which was distributed among the band, who caught the infection from them.

MISTRESS: "Come, Brdget, how much longer are you going to be filling that pepper-box?" Bridget (a fresh importation from where they don't use pepper-castors): "Sure, ma'am, an' it's meself can't say how long it'll be takin' me to get all this stuff in the thing through the little holes in the top."

AN atrocious jester advised a dropsical prisoner to get "bailed out."

PATENTS.

American AND Foreign Patents.

GILMORE & CO., SUCCESSORS TO CHIPMAN, Hosmer & Co., Solicitors, Patents procured in all countries. No fee in advance. No charge unless the patent is granted. Send stamp to Gilmore & Co., for pamphlet of sixty pages.

Land Cases, Land Warrants, and Scrip.

Contested Land Cases prosecuted before the U. S. General Land Office and Department of the Interior. Private Land Claims, Mining and Preemption Claims, and Homestead Cases attended to. Land Scrip in 40, 80, and 160 acre pieces for sale. This Scrip is assignable, and can be located in the name of purchaser upon any Government land subject to private entry, at $1 25 per acre. It is of equal value with Bounty Land Warrants. Send stamp to Gilmore & Co., for pamphlet of Instruction.

Arrears of Pay and Bounty.

Officers, Soldiers and Sailors of the late war, or their heirs, are in many cases, entitled to money from the Government of which they have no knowledge. Write full history of service, and state amount of pay and bounty received. Enclose stamp to Gilmore & Co., and a full reply, after examination, will be given you free.

Pensions.

All Officers, Soldiers, and Sailors wounded, ruptured, or injured in the late war, however slightly, can obtain a pension by addressing Gilmore & Co.

Cases prosecuted by Gilmore & Co., before the Supreme Court of the United States, the Court of Claims, and the Southern Claims Commission.

Each department of our business is conducted in a separate bureau, under charge of the same experienced parties employed by the old firm. Prompt attention to all business entrusted to Gilmore & Co is thus secured. We desire to win success by deserving it.

PROSPECTUS.

What Pays?

IT PAYS EVERY MANUFACTURER, MERCHANT, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer or Professional Man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has been published weekly for the last thirty-one years, does this, to an extent beyond that of any other publication; in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and New Discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes and improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Suggestions and Advice by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repository of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record, not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics and Science abroad.

The Scientific American has been the foremost of all Industrial publications for the past thirty-one years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress published in the world.

The practical Recipes are well worth ten times the subscription price, and for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1877.

A year's numbers contain 852 pages and Several Hundred Engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3 20 cents a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars, giving Club rates, sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms. Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to parties attracted to the invention by such notice. A Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents sent free. The Scientific American Reference Book—a volume bound in cloth and gilt, containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 142 engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents. Address for the paper, or concerning patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New York. Branch office, Cor F and 7th sts., Washington, D. ST NICHOLAS

"The King of all publications issued for the young on either side of the Atlantic."—Southampton (England) Observer.

THE THIRD VOLUME OF THIS INCOMPARABLE Magazine is now completed. With its 800 royal octavo pages, and its 600 illustrations, its splendid serials, its shorter stories, poems and sketches, etc., in its beautiful binding of red and gold, it is the most splendid gift book for boys and girls ever issued from the press. Price, $4; in full gilt, $5.

ST. NICHOLAS FOR 1877

Which opens with November, 1876, begins a short and very entertaining serial from the French, "The Kingdom of the Greedy," a story adapted to the Thanksgiving season. Another serial, of absorbing interest to boys, "His Own Master," by J. T. Trowbridge, author of the "Jack Hazard Stories," begins in the Christmas Holiday Number, together with "The Boys of My Boyhood," by William Cullen Bryant, Christmas stories, lively sketches, poems, pictures, etc.

During the year there will be interesting papers for boys, by William Cullen Bryant, John G. Whittier, Thomas Hughes, William Howitt, Dr. Holland, George MacDonald, Sanford B. Faust, Frank R. Stockton and others.

There will be stories, sketches and poems of special interest to girls by Harriet Prescott Spofford, Susan Coolidge, Sarah Winter Kellogg, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Louisa Alcott, Lucretia P. Hale, Celia Thaxter, Mary Mapes Dodge and many others. There will also be "Twelve Sky Pictures," by Prof. Proctor, the astronomer, with maps, showing "The Stars of Each Month," which will be likely to surpass in interest any series on popular science recently given to the public.

AMUSEMENT and INSTRUCTION, with FUN and FROLIC, and WIT and WISDOM, will be mingled as heretofore, and ST. NICHOLAS will continue to delight the young and give pleasure to the old.

"ST. NICHOLAS is full of the choicest things. The publication is, in all respects, the best of its kind. We have never yet seen a number that was not surprisingly good."—The Churchman, Hartford, Conn.

"There is no magazine for the young that can be said to equal this choice publication of Scribner's press. All the articles, whether in prose or rhyme, are throbbing with vitality. * * The literature and artistic illustrations are both superb."—The London Literary World.

"We wish we could point out its equal in our own periodical literature."—London Daily News.

Good News for Boys and Girls.

To meet the demand for a cheaper ST. NICHOLAS Gift Book, the price of vols. I and II has been reduced to $3 each. The three volumes, in an elegant library case, are sold for $10 (in full gilt, $15) so that all may give their children a complete set. These volumes contain more attractive material than fifty dollars' worth of the ordinary children's books.

Subscription price, $3 a year. The three bound volumes and a subscription for this year, only $12. Subscribe with the nearest news dealer, or send money in check, or postoffice money order, or in registered letter, to Interesting Calculations.

If one cent was set out at compound interest in the year 1 at four per cent., the 1st of January, 1866, it would amount to 1 quintillion 291,458 quadrillions 332,000 trillions of dollars. If we were to take this sum as a capital and would use its yearly interest (four per cent.) then the income tax we would have to pay at the rate of one per cent. would be 480 quadrillions 583,320 trillions of dollars. If we paid the tax-collector this sum in silver, he would need 3,004,345,000,000,000,000 wagons for its transportation. Provided the whole earth's surface, both land and water, were peopled as closely as possible, we should have but the two-millionth part of the drivers required, and the line of wagons would have the length of 8 trillions 442,000 billions of miles. The speed of light is 192,000 miles per second, and it would take 743,600 years to reach the collector beginning at the furthest wagon, if he, to have better control over the wagons on both sides, stationed himself in the center of the line. Again, a robbery could be committed on the hindermost wagon which would not be discovered till the 24,780th generation of tax-collectors. If on the contrary, instead of using the interest of the capital, (the bulk of which, by-the-by, would be equal in gold to forty-four globes) this capital were distributed among the people of the earth, each one of its 1,000,000,000 of inhabitants would receive about 1,200 trillions of dollars to live on, and could every second use $2,000,000 for 38,096,000 years without reaching the bottom of his purse.—From the Danish.

PIPES AS ELECTRIC DISTRIBUTORS. Cast iron pipes of several feet in length, and with collars nearly three times the diameter of the pipe cast thereon, like the pipes used for heating purposes, have been used with good results as distributors, deep in the earth, of electricity brought down by lightning conductors. A length of copper pipe about four times the diameter of the lightning conductor being fixed in the top of the iron pipe, stands some distance therefrom, and partly above ground. Below the distributing flanges a pointed and perforated cast iron pipe is attached, the length of the whole of the pipes being about 30 feet, and the conducting rod penetrating nearly to the bottom of the lower pipe.

THIRTY years ago a young man entered the city of New York in an almost penniless condition, and without a single acquaintance in that great city of houses. To-day his name is known wherever humanity dwells. It is spoken in every hamlet, it is heard in every city, and is as familiar to the worker in the mines as to his brother in the mills, and where language is known and ideas expressed, the name of this penniless, unknown and uncouth lad of thirty years ago is uttered. It is John Smith.

PROGRESS.—"Oh, if yer please, Miss, hi wish you'd hear me my German lesson. Mother sez as I haint to neglect my heddication, though hi ham in service, has there's no knowing what position a good looking 'complished gal mayn't get nowadays. I learnt it while I was blackening the stove, Miss, and it won't take yer a minit to 'ear me."—London Fun.

SELF-LOVE is at once the most delicate and the most tenacious of our emotions. A mere trifle will wound it, and often seriously; but nothing on earth will kill it.

New Railroad Survey.

From C. L. Anderson, Chief Engineer of the Virginia and Truckee railroad, we obtain the following particulars of a survey for a new division of the road to be known as the Genoa Division.

The road has been surveyed and located sixteen miles in a southerly direction from Carson, and toward Genoa. It runs 1,800 feet east of the main street of that place and directly opposite the hotel at Warm Springs. The heaviest grade is sixty feet to the mile. The route has been cross-sectioned and estimates are now being made preparatory to the commencement of work. The road is located as close to the mountains as is convenient for the sake of the wood and timber along the line, and to bring it in connection with the ranches there located so as to reach their hay and grain.

It requires but a single glance at the position to see the desirableness of this new division of the Virginia and Truckee railroad. A large amount of wood and timber is consumed daily here on the Comstock. It is true that the flumes connecting with the summits of the Sierras and the narrow-gauge road opening communication with Lake Tahoe have developed immense resources, but these cannot last forever, and it takes time to build and equip railroads and construct connections such as are needed to provide and handle this daily consumption.

But there is another objective point which doubtless the projectors of this plan have in view. Douglas county is rich in mineral resources, and adjoining it on the California side are Alpine and El Dorado counties, also bearing abundance and calling for some one to came with requisite facilities to take and appropriate. This rich harvest-field of minerals can be reached much easier from this side of the Sierras than the other, and in consideration of the fact that the Central Pacific have a road over the range, the cost of construction and maintenance of another is too great to be incurred unnecessarily. A little extension of this new division of the Virginia and Truckee railroad will open up this country at a comparatively small cost.

There is, however, still another consideration which is doubtless moving the Virginia and Truckee railroad in this matter. The road will unquestionably soon be extended as far as Wellington in Esmeralda county, and thus open communication with that section of the country, rich in resources which has often been mentioned in these columns. This is needed now and will be indispensible soon. And then, everybody knows that the construction of a Southern Pacific road by some one is only a question of time. This new division will then become another link of a chain of connection running through this basin and giving the people of Nevada a choice of routes both east and west.—Virginia Enterprise, Jan. 5.

The Latest Arctic Expedition.

It is a pity that the Admiralty ave not thought fit to publish fuller details of the expedition. A number of documents such as the sledging journals, have indeed been printed, and even circulated, but among a very limited coterie. It would almost seem as if it were wished to suppress the painful details—tragically painful they are described in a well-informed medical journal, which says that the sufferings of the men engaged on the sledging expeditions were frightful. "Before they were out a week or a fortnight they were ravaged by scurvy; their limbs swelled; their teeth fell loose; the blood was effused in patches; one-half of them became prostrate, fetid, miserable beings, whose existence was intolerable to themselves and those around them. Every sledge party, without exception, broke down prematurely from scurvy. Not only so, but the disease seems to have taken all the commanders of sledge parties by surprise; each in turn expresses his astonishment horror and terror of this affliction when, its full force being felt, he can no longer shut his eyes to its nature, and each bewails pathetically his want of lime-juice." Nothing like this has befallen any maritime expidition since the days of ancient navigators, to whom the anti-scorbutic virtues of lime-juice were unknown. It is evidently not to the officers of the expedition that this lamentable breakdown is to be attributed; they appear to have been fully aware of the virtues of the prophylactic so strangely neglected; but it is rumored that the Whitechapel tars at Whitehall sent out the ships, otherwise splendidly provided and manned, with a short supply of what is by common consent, and from about a century's experience, considered an almost perfect preventitive of one of the gravest dangers of long voyages. Mr. Clements Markham and other defenders of the Admiralty have been insinuating that lime-juice is not so effective as it is generally believed to be, but that fresh meat is the only remedy, forgetting that even the long acclimatized Esquimaux are often affected by scurvy, although they live exclusively on meat, and never use salt. In such cases they apply to scurvy grass, the well-known anti-scorbutic.—Iron.

SHE was a forlorn and mild-spoken woman, but firm, and as the lady of the house placed a half loaf of bread and some cold meat in her basket, she calmly said, "No, ma'am! I couldn't think of taking it. You've give me cold veal once afore this week, and my family hasn't been raised to repeat their meat more'n once in two weeks."

A CYNICAL man insists that the fewer relatives or friends we have the happier we are. "In your poverty they never help you; in your prosperity they always help themselves."

About the Sexes.

Let those who fancy men and women fitted for the same lives, formed for the same destinies, intended for similar careers, turn their attention for a little while to man and woman in long clothes and socks, still biting at their corals with half the teeth that providence intends to give them, and attaining their objects in life by shrieking—in other words to babies, and, noticing their tricks and their manners carefully, declare, if they can, that a boy baby and a girl baby are not as evidently intended for two different life paths as are ducks and chickens. Before she can walk alone, the girl rejoices in any object that imagination can convert into a doll. She has a tenderness for all its kind, from the waxen beauty with a blue silk dress, to the clothes-pin with a pocket-handkerchief about its neck. When she is able to toddle about she puts these dolls of hers to bed, makes garments for them, drags them in her little wagon, is troubled about their suppers of sliced apple and segmented ginger-cake, and before long goes through little dramas in which the doctor is called into Dolly with the measles, and in which she takes Dolly to school where a paper preceptress keeps guard over a row of paper scholars. She plays her little life over again with her doll, always playing at being woman, and housewife and mother.

Not so does her little brother brought up by her side. Dolls never interest him. He detests the pink and white beauties, and ridicules the bundle of rags which are so dear to his sister. He is not to be induced to go to the dolls tea-parties, even while he is in his aprons. What he wants is a cane with a horse's head, on which to gallop about in the character of a soldier; a sword and a gun, a ball and a drum. He must make a noise and imagine himself a tremendous fellow, who sometimes—but quite out of sight of other people—may be kissed by mamma, though he rather resents it pretty generally; while the little girl rejoices in the tenderness of those about her and would be wretched if not caressed by them.

So it goes on. Not, as a thousand mothers will tell you, because of any teaching. Often the mother would like her boy to play quietly with his sisters, or would not be averse to see her girl less timid and more with her brothers; but nature has marked the paths they are to tread. It is rare, indeed, for man to leave his, and when woman is led from hers by some ism, she seems less like a woman than before, just as she looks less like one in anything approaching masculine costume. The same education, the same work, the same pleasures, the same experiences are not meant for woman and her brother, and unerring childhood teaches us the lesson even before it learns to lisp.—Mary Kyle Dallas.

THE PERMANENT EXHIBITION.—The permanent exhibition promises to be a grand success, the applications for room being already so numerous as to more than fill the main building, and that fact will give our readers an idea of what the exhibition will be. Many foreigners have applied for space, and it is believed that nearly all the countries represented at the Centennial exhibition will secure room in the permanent exhibition for the display of their goods. Those articles exhibited during the Summer and Fall will generally be removed, to be replaced by other and still better ones, fresh from the manufacturers and artists of this and the old world. The manager has received such an immense number of applications that he will be compelled to make selections from the mass of articles submitted, and by so doing those accepted will be of the best quality, and in numerous instances superior to those of the same character displayed at the recent exposition. The directors design to improve the conveniences of the main building in every possible manner, especially in widening the passages and avenues, and introducing such other changes as may be deemed necessary to facilitate the movements of large crowds and give visitors better opportunities to view the exhibits. The success of the permanent exhibition is assured beyond a doubt, and we have no fears but it will be conducted in such an enterprising and liberal spirit as to merit the support and well wishes not only of Philadelphia, but of the country.—North American.

THE firm name is Hull & Johnson, and the business of life is to be conducted in accordance with the following conjugal contract: "We regard ourselves as in every sense of the word equal partners, promising to strive to treat each other, under all circumstances, as becomes such. We promise that we will not try in any other way than by advice or persuasion to control the action of each other. Believing that neither church or State have" (those who are fired by great social principles are sometimes above little matters of syntax) "any business with our affairs, we propose to live our own lives without reference to either, farther than, if necessary, to give security to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, that our children, should we be blessed with offspring, shall be, at least, as well cared for as are a majority of those born in legal wedlock. We further contract that when mutual love shall no longer justify our conjugal union, we shall part, giving the State as little trouble in our parting as we have in coming together." The Boston Herald in publishing this disgusting contract states that the father of the bride is an avowed believer in free love, and that his daughter and her co-partner, who is a clerk in a leather store, produced the document one night last week and called for his criticism. The father expressed his approval and the paper was signed.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JANUARY 20.....1877.

THE huge guns made and to be made for modern warfare continue growing in size. The English "80-ton" gun and the Italian "100-ton" are now being eclipsed by a gun weighing 160 tons, which is projected at Woolwich. The monster will be thirty-five feet long and have a bore of twenty inches. Six hundred pounds of powder will be required at each discharge, and the shot it is expected to send for an indefinite distance will weigh a ton and a half. Why don't they stop fooling and spending their time constructing such toys? Let us have a 20,000 ton gun at once.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Carson Tribune offers the following conundrum for politicians: "Supposing Grant should die before the 4th of March, and the Senate should recognize Hayes and the House should stand in by Tilden, and the Indians should scalp Sheridan, and Congress should impeach Sherman, and the bulldosers should capture Don Cameron, and the European war should homolgate Secor Robeson, and the Supreme Court should go crazy over the complications, then who'd be President?"

OF the Bank of California the San Francisco Stock Report says: "The gross earnings since the resumption of business have been upwards of $1,250,000. Some $14,000,000 of liabilities have been discharged; the loans of the Syndicate formed to aid the bank at the time of its suspension have been paid in full with interest, and the bank is now considered by its officers on a dividend-paying basis. The average amount of the deposits is close upon $6,000,000."

THE following is a recapitulation of the official statement showing the amount and value of coinage during the first six months of the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1877: Total gold, pieces, 1,380,811; value, $27,512,915. Trade dollars, pieces, 3,188,300; value, $3,188,300. Subsidiary pieces, 37,371,700; value, $10,680,615. Minor, 133,255; value, $53,640. Total coinage, pieces, 42,284,811; value, $41,435,470.

NEVADA'S POPULATION.—From published statistics we observe that the Bonanza State has a total population of 52,540. Of these 48,127 are white, 494 colored and 3,919 Chinese. Of the white residents, 33,622 are males, the females numbering only 14,505, the disproportion between the sexes being greater than in any other State in the Union.

THE public debt statement shows an increase during December of $358,142; coin balance, $96,517,418; currency, $9,483,860. Total coin bonds, $1,690,821,250. Total in Treasury, $137,000,000. Bonds issued to Pacific Railroad Companies, interest payable in lawful money, principal outstanding, $64,622,512; interest accrued and unpaid, $1,958,705.

THE late Gen. Bartlett, after having been several times wounded, wrote to the lady of his choice releasing her from her engagement, and it was she who wrote the memorable words, "I'll marry you if there's enough left of your body to hold your soul." He lived happily and left five children.

IN the libel suit of O. P. Fitzgerald vs C. A. Klose, the jury find a verdict for plaintiff and awarded damages for $1,000, which seems very small considering the lack of all evidence to substantiate the charge. Nevertheless the result will be a great satisfaction to the Parson and his friends.

ON the 13th a riot occurred in the Westboro (Mass.) State Reform School. After a desperate fight, in which the school furniture was entirely destroyed, the fiery spirits of the youngsters were dampened snd subdued by the liberal use of a convenient hydrant.

THE Moody and Sankey movement for the reclamation of fallen women in Chicago seems to have been a failure. It began and ended, apparently, with a preaching service or two in their behalf. We suspect these women would rather have bread than prayers.

MINERS OUT OF WORK.—More than half the mines in the State of Pennsylvania have been stopped. The number of men thrown out of employment is estimated at 45,000. It is believed that the suspension will be entire by the middle of the month.

THE Sub-Committee of the House on Pacific railroads have reported in favor of the Scott-Huntington compromise. The full Committee will probably agree to this view of the matter.

FOR President in 1880—Booth, of California.

THE MUDDLE.

It may be well to remark once in a while that it is not generally known yet who is elected President. True, there are some newspapers and occasionally a convention of politicians which assert with appalling positiveness that they know their man is elected and will be inaugurated and all that. In point of fact they "know" just as much about it in honest truth as they know about the domestic affairs of the man in the moon, and it would be just as sensible and far less harmful for them to assert that the aforesaid man in the moon never staid out late of nights, and was peculiarly an easy-tempered individual, as for them to say that they know this or that man was honestly elected President, and that they know he will be duly installed. Reiterated assertions in the one case as well as the other will doubtless in the course of time induce a belief next akin to conviction in the minds of prejudiced or unreasoning persons, and in that way be made to answer a purpose for good or evil as the case may be.

So far the only tangible result produced by this dogmatic system of making Presidents after the polls have long been closed, is simply to make almost every one not purblind believe that no matter which of the two candidates finally becomes President he will owe his position in some measure to dishonest means. He himself may be held personally guiltless—with a great majority of people he will be so held—but it will be none the less a conviction that fraud was an important factor in his elevation. It is a platitude to say that wrongs have been perpetrated by both parties in this contest, but without shadow of doubt it is the truth; and now, as between Mr. Tilden and Mr. Hayes, estimating them as individuals high as we may, it is purely a question of equities so far as their respective claims are to be decided in public opinion. They are in Court, and a verdict in favor of one or the other must be deduced from a mass of conflicting testimony, convincing to the great jury in but one single point, to-wit: that the claims of both are based in a material degree on chicanery, and that while a verdict must be rendered for one or the other, it will be with a codicil something like this—"We, the jury, find an expedient verdict for the plaintiff [or defendant, as the case may be], but under circumstances of so much doubt that we earnestly recommend him never to do the like again."

That is about the way this miserable business strikes our view. We do not propose attempting to show which of the claimants in the case at bar is entitled to a verdict. To do so would be to show that he—by which we mean his partisans—had not violated law quite so frequently as the other. That is a task no one is justified in offering to do with the lights now before him. But a few words as to what is being done about it will be in order:

Some seem to think the only solution lies in an appeal to arms, or rather by threatenings of such an arbitrament. In this view, quite a number of Federal troops are being concentrated at Washington, and the arms from the Southern arsenals are being removed to Northern strongholds. Gov. Hartranft of Pennsylvania, it is said, proposes to have 50,000 State militia ready to support Hayes on the 4th of March. On the other side, Gov. Williams of Indiana has ordered his State militia to be put on a perfect war footing, ready for any emergency. Some speakers at different conventions on the 8th instant declared for Tilden or "wah." Hewitt, Chairman of the National Democratic Central Committee, declines to accede to the request of some of the members of the Committee and others to call a meeting at Washington on the 12th of February, saying that rather than do so, or in any manner jeopardize the peace of the country, he will gladly resign his place, and that, though convinced that Tilden is the rightful President, not one drop of blood should with his connivance be shed to enforce his rights. That is about the sum of the war talk, except that few believe for a moment that the American people are such fools as to fall to cutting each other's throats for the sake of any man, whether Hayes or Tilden, if for no other reason than it looks too much like a mere personal matter.

South Carolina is now removed from the list of doubtful States, though it, like Louisiana, has a double-headed State government. It is believed that one or the other of them will give way without further trouble accordingly as the Presidential question is settled on the 4th of March. The Florida matter is not yet fully settled on the national issue, but Stearns, Republican, resigns all further claims to the Governorship. The chances, however, seem to favor a declaration of the election of the Republican Electors, so that Louisiana and Oregon are generally conceded to be the only States in issue in that matter. The Congressional Committees have not yet presented even a partial report to justify an absolute opinion on the main question. There was a speck of war between the contending State governments. A number of Republicans have gone over to the Nicholls or Democratic Legislature, and the probabilities are, that branch will eventually be recognized as the proper State government. The Oregon matter is looked upon more as a broad farce than anything else, though not yet beyond issue. Cronin, the multitudinous Cronin, seems to have made a mess of it in Washington, pretty much as he did in Salem, and the Republicans are making an immense amount of fun at his expense. He is on the way back to his home in Oregon, a very distinguished if not a highly honored man. Grover has some backers, but on the whole does not seem to be glorified much more than Cronin.

There is a chance that the joint committee may agree on a plan of counting the vote that will satisfy the country, or rather the politicians, but this chance is hardly worth counting on just yet. President Ferry, of the Senate, has waived his alleged right to count the vote, and this is considered an important step toward a satisfactory solution of the great problem.

THE DESERT LAND BILL.—The Luttrell-Lane desert land bill has passed the House. It provides that it shall be lawful for any citizen of the United States, or any person of requisite age "who may be entitled to become a citizen, and has filed his declaration to become such," to file a declaration with the Register and Receiver of the land district in which any desert land is situated, that he intends to reclaim a tract of desert land not exceeding one section by conducting water upon the same, within the period of three years thereafter. Said declaration shall describe particularly said section of land if surveyed, and, if unsurveyed, shall describe the same as nearly as possible without a survey. At any time within the period of three years after filing said declaration, upon making satisfactory proof of the reclamation of said tract of land in the manner aforesaid, and upon payment to the Receiver of $1 25 per acre for a tract of land not exceeding 640 acres to any one person, a patent for the same shall be issued to him. That all lands, exclusive of timber lands and mineral lands, which will not, without irrigation, produce some agricultural crop, shall be deemed desert lands within the meaning of this act. This act shall only apply to and take effect in the States of California, Oregon and and Nevada, and the Territories of Washington, Idaho, Utah, Wyoming, Arizona, New Mexico and Dakota.

An atrocious outrage was committed upon the peson of a Mr. Umphleby, in Stanislaus county, a few days ago. Three masked ruffians entered his house, in which he lived alone, and robbed him of $40. Not content with this, the fiends poured coal oil on his legs and set it on fire, and then bound him hand and foot. The miscreants escaped.

It is believed that organized bands of horse thieves are working in the vicinity of Los Angeles. Our farmers lose a horse in a mysterious manner, another loses a saddle and a third a bridle or harness. The natural inference is that all find their way together in time and leave the country in possession of a common party.

The Los Angeles Herald says that a $50,000 suit has been brought against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by parties residing in San Bernardino county. Some time since a boy who was lying on the track near Colton was run over by the cars, both his legs being cut off, and this is made the basis for the suit.

Senator Booth's Plan.

Senator Booth, January 8, submitted what is, so far, the shortest and best plan for settling all the points in controversy relating to the count and declaration of the vote for President and Vice-President. The plan is presented in the shape of a joint resolution, which, if adopted, will take the place of the Twenty-second Joint Rule, curing all the radical defects of the latter and altogether obviating the necessity of any further legislation on this important subject. It provides: (1.) That the President of the Senate—the two houses being together in the same chamber—shall report each certificate to the tellers. (2.) Any Senator or Representative may then object to counting of the votes in said certificate, reducing his objection to writing. (3.) The President of the Senate shall then rule on this objection as to whether the votes shall be counted or not. (4.) Any Senator or Representative may appeal from this ruling, reducing his appeal to writing. (5.) Appeal being so taken, the two Houses shall separate, each immediately convening in its own chamber, and vote on the following propositions:

First—Shall the ruling of the President of the Senate be sustained as to the counting of the votes of the State of——?

Second—How many votes of said State shall be counted?

Third — For whom shall they be counted?

The members on each of these propositions shall vote viva voce, and the votes shall be entered on the journal: "and no other business shall be in order" at that meeting. After this the two houses shall again assemble together and proceed with the count. The second clause of the resolution provides that when the President holds two or more certificates from any State he must open and report them all, and the same proceedings as above described shall take place.

The gist of the plan is in the third clause, which makes the Supreme Court the final arbiter and its decision in every case conclusive and binding. To reach a decision, where there are obscurities in the record of the two Houses, the Court may "receive in evidence the official acts and proceedings of any State officer or Board of State officers," and the reports of Committees of Congress. Each House may appear before the Court by Committee of three for the purpose of presenting and defending its side of the case. And when the Court shall have decided, then the Chief Justice shall officially transmit the decision to the President of the Senate, and the vote or votes shall be counted accordingly. Mr. Booth gives notice that he will speak in defense of his plan some day this week.

The Supreme Court appears to us as the proper arbiter. In all cases where the count of the vote of any State or of any particular vote (as that of Watts of Oregon, for example) is objected to, there are involved questions of law as well as of fact, and it is consistent with the dignity of the Presidential office that these questions of law should be passed upon by the highest law tribunal known to the Constitution. The resolution is carefully drawn so as not to conflict with any thing in the Constitution, and there is no good reason why it should not be adopted by both Houses as a safe and final mode of settling every point in controversy. If it is defeated it will probably be owing to the fact that the majority of the members of the Supreme Court are Republicans and wanting in the confidence of the Democratic members of the House of Representatives. Nevertheless, they may go farther and fare worse. There is no just ground to suspect that any member of the Court would depart from the principles of right to favor his own party; and there are reasons for belief that at least one member of the Court, a Republican, has intimated an opinion (possibly after dinner) that Tilden is fairly elected.

The Supreme Court is composed as follows: Waite of Ohio Chief Justice, and Clifford of Maine, Swayne of Ohio, Miller of Iowa, Davis of Illinois, Field of California, Strong of Pennsylvania, Bradley of New Jersey and Hunt of New York Associate Justices. Of these Clifford, Swayne and Davis are not Republicans, while Field is thought to be of the opinion that Tilden has been fairly elected. Surely the Democrats ought not to be afraid to submit their cause to the final arbitrament of a Court so constituted, especially when it is so manifestly in the interest of peace, law and order.—S. F. Chronicle.

Congressional and General Washington Notes.

Washington dispatches of the 10th give the following:

In the Senate the Appropriation Committee amended the deficiency in the House Contingent Fund, appropriating $40,000 for the transportation of United States notes, and $50,000 more for the Senate Investigating Committee.

The House discussed Holman's amendment, reducing ministers' salaries, and adjourned.

The Secretary of the Treasury has called for the redemption of ten millions of the 5-20s of 1865, May and November. The principal and interest will be paid after April 10th, when the interest will cease.

Senator Sharon arrived to-day. All the Pacific Coast delegation are now here except Sargent.

The San Francisco merchants' memorial urging the passage of the House bill for the payment of the war premium claims from the Geneva Award Fund, is held by its custodian, Mr. C. A. Wetmore, for presentation by Sargent on his return from Florida, which is expected this week. The Senate Judiciary Committee will not take up this subject before next week.

The petition of Charles Scott, formerly Congressman from California, for the removal of his political disabilities, was presented by Senator Dawes at the request of Lamar, and also because he and Dawes served together in the House of Representatives twenty years ago. The petition is dated at Camdem, Alabama, and is confined to a formal request, without argument. Lamar says that Scott exhibited great gallantry in the Confederate service and was nearly shot to pieces.

A BOA CONSTRICTOR'S VOYAGE.—The Norwegian bark Surprise, Captain Weigner, now in this port, had an exciting adventure lately. While the vessel was at some point in Africa, about six or seven months ago, a huge boa constrictor some fifteen feet in length, got on board the ship without the knowledge of any of the officers or crew, and made his way into the hold. The vessel sailed and the snake was not discovered until after landing at Liverpool, when, upon proceeding to remove the cargo, which consisted of wool and other articles, the presence of the constrictor was made known. The stampede that occurred among the bewildered and affrighted stevedores, as well as all others on the ship at the time, was a scene long to be remembered. The monster was captured and caged. —Wilmington Star.

COMMISSIONER BURDETT HEARD FROM. The St Louis Republican has a special from Sedalia (Mo.) which says: "Information from a trustworthy source is received here that Samuel S. Burdett, late Commissioner of the General Land Office in Washington, who mysteriously disappeared some months ago, was recently seen at San Antonio, Texas, by a gentleman who knew him well and talked with him. He did not allude to the cause of his disappearance, but asked his friend not to mention their meeting."

THE LARGEST RUN ON RECORD.—A billiard match, $1,800 points for $100, between Sexton and Slosson, was played at New Orleans on the 7th inst., and won by the former in 75 innings. The winner's average was 24. The largest runs were: Sexton, 417, and Slosson, 102.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JANUARY 20.....1877.

AT PEACE.—We made mention last week of a man, whose name we could not then learn, becoming violently insane while stopping at Martin's boarding house in this place. In his frenzy he smashed up furniture and did considerable other damage in that way before he could be restrained, which had to be done by sheer force. At the request of Judge Hannah, an examination as to his mental condition was had by Dr. Matthews, of the Post, and Dr. Blair, the result of which was that he was found to be entirely insane but in such a reduced physical condition as to render his removal to Stockton, or the County Hospital, out of the question. He was placed in care of Sheriff Passmore, who had him removed to a comfortable building near by, where he lingered until Thursday morning, when he expired. We now learn that his name was John McAlemany, aged about 36, a native of County Derry, Ireland, and apparently a man of good education and extraction, but peculiarly unfortunate in his western career—at Knoxville, in this State, his skull was crushed so that it had to be trepanned, and subsequently, in the Black Hills, he received a ghastly wound in the neck.

PERSONAL.—Judge A. R. Conklin, lady and daughter, are spending the week in visiting at Darwin.....A. K. Briggs, late of that place, and whom everybody knows, is paying this place a visit, preparatory to his departure to some point on the coast in search of health, for we are sorry to state that Al. has been considerably "under the weather" for a number of months past: but he will come around all right yet, and we hope will reconsider his present intent of bidding a final adieu to Inyo county.....The J. A. Parker, whose mysterious disappearance from Benton, was mentioned by our correspondent two weeks since, is now in this place alive and kicking, but the mystery is still unexplained so far as we have heard.

WEATHER.—This is a common place topic, very; nevertheless, to the people of this valley and State generally, it is a matter of more immediate interest than a fair count in Louisiana. Here, we are pleased to say, there has been quite a profuse fall of snow on our mountains during the week, and still plenty more in prospect, so that no fears at all are entertained as to an insufficiency of water for next season's crops in this valley, and from accounts received, enough rain has fallen to insure fair crops in every part of the State, even where a short time since it was thought the chances were hopeless.

MOST AN ITEM.—We know of a mother who stepped into the kitchen a short time since, while the family washing was being done, just in time to spoil an item, but not of the kind we are seeking after much. This was by pulling her pet, a yearling girl baby, out of a tub of "bluing water," into which the aforesaid pet had tumbled head first, and helplessly. One of the parties looked mighty blue over the mishap, but said nothing worthy of record.

VACCINATION.—With a threatened advent of the small pox, the opportune announcement comes that Dr. Matthews, Post Surgeon at Camp Independence, will shortly receive an ample supply of pure vaccine matter, with which he will gratuitously inoculate all who may apply. In the light of the world's medical experience on this subject, the person neglecting to take this precaution deserves a small dose of the loathsome disease.

ANOTHER PIONEER GONE.—Wm. G., better known as "Pap" Russell, died in San Francisco December 29. He was the eldest of the Russell brothers, for many years owners of the Bishop Creek Flouring Mills. He always bore a most enviable reputation for genuine goodness of heart, and those who mourn the demise of the old man are many.

FROM BENTON.—Paul Bennett, Esq., returned from his trip to Benton this week, where he had gone as counsel for Adams in his examination as mentioned elsewhere. Mr. Bennett assures us there could not have been a more justifiable case of homicide than in this unfortunate affair, and Adams is honorably exonerated by everyone.

SICK.—H. J. Ackley, our accommodating lightning slinger at the Camp Independence end of the local telegraph, is on the sick list—whether from an overdose of intelligent messages or the brewing of a thunder storm we know not.

NEW MINING DISTRICT.—Elsewhere will be seen a notice of a new mining district, in our immediate vicinity, called Goldopolis district. For further particulars, see notice under "new advertisements."

THE internal arrangements of THE INDEPENDENT office are receiving a refitting and overhauling which will make it the most convenient and best arranged country print-shop in the State.

DIED.—We inadvertently omitted to mention in our issue of Saturday last the death of Simon Bowden, which occurred at the County Hospital in Lone Pine on the preceding Friday.

THE ECLIPSE.—This mill is running right along, and in a few days will make another clean up which promises to be the largest and most encouraging ever yet made from that mine.

ARRIVED.—The Northern stage got in this morning, but without through mails. The driver reports an immense depth of snow on the mountain.

THE TWENTY-SECOND.—Who proposes to get up a celebration ball on the night of Washington's Birthday, the 22d of February next?

THE ESTRAYS.—Occasionally we are reminded of the fact that there are several old Inyoites straying around the Eastern States, who probably need supervision, if it were practicable to administer it. There's our racy Centennial correspondent—at last accounts he was somewhere in Pennsylvania, and supposing he should take lessons in "bundling" and then try to introduce the custom here? And among the prominent sufferers of the day is G. W. Brady, in Kentucky, who has every day to apply to a brother-in-law doctor for a prescription that he may have the legal right to take a little wine for the stomach ache, even though it is a hereditary affliction. Likewise Uncle Abe Parker of whom we know naught, except that he was prospecting around Wood's Hole, then in Massachusetts. But of J. P. M. alias Jeems Perham, we have something definite in a note from Woodstock, Vermont, his abiding place, where, we are informed, he is having an elegant time sleigh riding, and the like of that, with the thermometer at times actually 32 degrees below freeze to death. That's the sort of country that tries peoples' souls, and where it takes two men to blow one man's nose. We earnestly advise all these estrays to get back to crude civilization and a decent country at once. They will be welcome if they would try to make themselves useful.

FEBRUARY 14.—Valentine's Day will have rolled around again in two or three weeks. If we are not "made the happy recipients" of some soul-harrowing doggerel and hideous caricatures concerning the business of printing we shall ne'er smile again. If the idiots can't find any of the usual sort this season we will cheerfully furnish a few of last year's stock, upon proper application being made.

QUESTION FOR QUESTION.—The other day a man was riding past where sat two little shavers who, boy like, commenced to "holler" with might and main, causing the man's horse to shy. —"What in Texas do you "holler" that way for when I'm riding by?" "What in Texas" piped one of the gamins, "are you ridin' by for when we are hollerin'?"

LOCATED.—Through a private note we learn that V. A. Gregg, Esq., late of this place, proposes to locate at Santa Cruz. He has just got back from the East, his family returning with him.

CIGARS FOR TEN.—There is an animated game of whisky pool in nightly course of progress at the Aldine, in which the principal drinkers take it out in cigars.

SNOW BLOCKADE.—As we have had no stage or mails from the North since Wednesday, we infer there is something of a snow blockade on Esmeralda mountain.

WAITING FOR A CLAIMANT.—Two large packages are in the postoffice, directed to Mrs. O. G. Townsend, waiting for a claimant.

GRAND JURY.—The special Grand Jury, for action in the Boyd-Mackey case, convenes on Monday next.

ANOTHER political campaign will soon open. Both parties in New Hampshire are already marshaling their forces for the struggle of next March, which, from present indications, will be one of the most determined political contests that the State has ever known. The fact that the three Congressmen from New Hampshire may possibly determine the complexion of the next National House of Representatives will, in itself, be sufficient to stimulate both parties to do their utmost to carry the State.

THE first step toward the end of a great source of political corruption has been taken in the "October" States. What Gov. Hayes recommended in Ohio (legislation changing the time of the State election from October to November), has already been endorsed in Indiana in a bill to make the change for that State. Very appropriately the bill was the first one introduced after the organization of the Senate.

THE REGISTRATION INQUIRY. — The Finance Committee of the Board of Supervisors will meet this afternoon for the purpose of taking testimony in respect to the manner in which a large number of voters secured certificates of registration. For the past two months the Committee have employed canvassers, who have scoured the city in search of the 18,000 persons who secured certificates, and it is asserted that they have discovered nearly 3,000 illegal votes. Many persons voted the name of a deceased voter which still remained on the Great Register. Many gave their places of residence where they did not reside, and various other methods are said to have been adopted for the purpose of securing the necessary certificate.—S. F. Chronicle, Jan. 13th.

AN enterprise is now being carried out for reclaiming a large tract of land, lying to the east and southeast of Sutro, on the opposite side of the Carson river, which is fertile and dry, and in which the inexhaustible sagebrush thrives luxuriantly. The object of the company carrying out the enterprise, is to take water from the Carson river, in the vicinity of Ophir dam, above Dayton, and carry it in a ditch, six feet wide at the top, four feet at the bottom and two feet deep, to the land mentioned. By this means, it is thought sufficient water can be conveyed to irrigate at least 2,000 acres. The cost of the ditch when finished, will net $5,000. —Sutro Independent.

THE United States Government has commenced suit against the Central Pacific Railroad Company for the sum of $1,836,635, being for interest due on the company's bonds.

THE resolution to strike the word "white" out of the State constitution has passed the Nevada Assembly by an unanimous vote.

Mono Affairs.

Our Benton correspondent, writing under date of Wednesday last, jots down the following current items of the day:

SNOW.

Some ten or twelve inches of snow has fallen here off and on during the past few days, and at the present it is coming down steadily and presents every appearance of continuing so for a time.

MINING MATTERS

Continue in a more prosperous condition than ever before. As a consequence of this there are several new dwelling houses in course of erection.

SANITARY.

There appears to be considerable sickness, mostly, however, the result of colds or exposure of some kind or other. A mining accident occurred yesterday, through the breaking of a ladder, by which means six men were precipitated some twenty feet, resulting in serious injuries only to one of the number. The others escaped unhurt.

EDUCATIONAL.

The public-school was opened on the 8th of the present month, with about twenty-five children. The teacher, W. J. Adams, who came here from San Francisco, has taught many years in the State, and holds an "Educational Diploma." Speaking of school matters, much credit is due to Messrs. Golden, McNamara and Rankin, the School Trustees, for the energies they have put forth and the amount of time, trouble and expense which they have devoted toward adjusting with the contractor the money difficulties which have existed in connection with the building. Some $700 or $800 still remain due, which the Trustees hope to pay off at an early date. An evening school for grown persons was commenced on Monday last by the teacher of the day school, with an attendance of about ten or twelve.

LEGAL.

In the case of "the People vs. Adams," for having caused the death of Mr. Brooks, a resident of this place, the Court dismissed the charge, it being very clear that Mr. Adams meant no injury to deceased. A few cases of minor importance were also disposed of during the past week. W. J. Adams, who is a member of the San Francisco bar, has been appointed Deputy District Attorney here.

BELLEVILLE ITEMS.—The races of the Belleville Jockey Club announced for the 15th and 16th inst., are the only matters worthy of note this week. The horses are all here with their owners and trainers. For the first race, Monday, the following horses are entered: P. W. Murray's brown horse, Frank; Clem Ogg's horse, Joe Crabb; Jack Horton's horse, Billy Kingsley, Wm. Gill's horse, Croppy; Jas. Trask's horse, Bay Savage; Frank Hutchinson's horse, Black Harry. Second day's race, Tuesday, single dash of a half mile. Oscar Hilton's sorrel mare; Mason Valley mare; Frank Hutchinson's Black Harry; P. W. Murray's Frank; J. Trask's Bay Savage. All the arrangements have been made by the Jockey Club to insure a couple of days good sport. The contest will be a spirited one, and the races, the merits of the horses, etc., are the principal topics of conversation. Joe. Turner, Deputy Sheriff, arrived from Aurora last evening. Joe. says he will enter his mule for the second day's race provided he can get Johnny Newman to ride him. On Monday evening there will be a masquerade ball at the Thoroughfare Saloon. A prize of $50 is offered by the proprietors to the lady who best sustains the character she represents. —Cor. Borax Miner.

LOOKOUT GOLD MINES.—W. T. Grant, one of the principal owners in the gold mines just south of the Modoc claims in Lookout, came in last Tuesday. Grant has been out there at work several weeks upon his ledges, princinally upon the Alpha, which is showing up magnificently and much beyond anything he ever expected to realize. He has worked several tons of ore by arastra process which yielded $220 per ton. The specimens of ore brought in by him are as fine as any we have ever seen, plenty of gold being perceptible to the naked eye. He will return in a day or two to resume work. As Messrs. Snow & Grant are also owners of one of the best water-rights in this section of country, situated but a short distance from their mines, they may congratulate themselves that they have a property which will soon command the attention of capitalists. Other parties here are also interested in some of the gold ledges, and are making arrangements to erect a five-stamp mill for reduction of ores.—Coso Mining News.

THE Board of Pardons met in Carson to-day and considered the petition for a rehearing of the case of Peter Larkin, convicted of the murder of Daniel Corcoran. The Board, by a vote of four to one, decided not to commute the sentence to imprisonment for life. Governor Bradley voted in favor of commutation. Larkin has played his last card and lost. The unhappy man must die on the 19th of the present month.—Gold Hill News, Jan. 9th.

BULLION.—Since our last issue Defiance has shipped 1,000 bars of bullion, leaving on hand 100 bars. This is an average of 158 bars per day. Furnace running splendidly.

Up to January 8th, Modoc shipped bullion for the month, to the amount of $35,200. The amount shipped by New Coso for the same period amounts to $9,000.—Darwin News, Jan. 13.

IN San Jose on New Year's Day a little boy was shot dead in a mysterious manner. He was struck by a bullet while standing at the front door of his mother's house, and it was evident that it came from the direction of a field in the rear of the house. No report of a pistol or gun was heard, and no clue as to who caused the accident has been obtained.

A COMPROMISE has been effected between the trustees and heirs of the Lick estate. All further action in the Probate Court with regard to the estate will be of a friendly nature.

New Mexico as a Sheep Country.

We find the following in the Visalia Delta:

J. N. Furlong, writing from Los Vegas, New Mexico, under date of December 20th, says "that after a residence of three years in New Mexico, during which I have traveled over the most of the Territory and looked carefully into the advantages here met with for the successful growing of sheep and cattle, and having talked with Californians of experience, all of whom give it as their opinion that New Mexico possesses advantages for stock-growing which California does not, I feel confident in making the following statements, giving some of the advantages spoken of, etc., one of the most important of which is that here the green grass lasts all Summer and until October, giving the lambs time to learn to eat and become accustomed to the feed as it cures on the ground for the Winter requirements. And again, there are large Mexican land grants for sale here at very low prices; also, opportunities to exchange sheep for land, offers being made by reliable parties to give one-half interest in 10,000 acres of good land for a one-half interest in 10,000 head of good California sheep, delivered here, or a greater or less amount in the same ratio. There is no occasion for stock-men to be crowded out by farmers when they can sell their lands for a big price and find an abundance of better range of land cheap. The climate is unexcelled, and the land can be reached in a few months drive through Arizona. As some of your readers are no doubt aware, there have been several thousand head of sheep driven to this country from California during the present year, one flock of 10,000 head with a loss of only 350 head. Others, from some cause, were not so successful, but all who have been over the route with sheep claim that they could come again without any more loss than will naturally occur even on the range. It would be well for stock-men of California to see this portion of New Mexico."

WHAT SOME SHEEP MEN ARE DOING. A number of our sheep men are turning their sheep into hogs, and this is how it is done: They purchase a number of lean swine to correspond with the number of sheep to be disposed of. The sheep are then slaughtered, their pelts dried, the fat tried out into tallow, and the offal thrown to the hogs, which thrive and grow fat, when they in turn are sold, slaughtered and turned into money. It is getting to be high-binding times with our sheep men. In ordinary seasons those who have wool in warehouse at the Bay, can draw well up to its value in coin, because the commission merchant can borrow of the bank; but in such a season as this, the bankers knowing that a continued drought will ruin many sheep men on whom the merchant depends, refuses to loan. In short, the banks keep up the commission men, the commission men keep up the producers, and the producer having no one to keep him up when the season fails, is ground to powder between the upper and nether mill stones, for he alone, of all the dealers, takes the risk for the smallest share of the profits.—Visalia Delta.

EXCHANGE AND BULLION.—Capital continues plenty, and is seeking investment in every direction. Call loans at the bank vary from 10 to 12 per cent., though on the street the range is from 12 to 18 per cent. Term loans are from 9 to 10 per cent. for the bulk of business. There is a good demand for remittance, and quite a range among the drawers. Fine silver is steady. Trade dollars are in good demand, and a considerable quantity has already been negotiated for the next steamer. Coin drafts on Atlantic cities are drawn at 45@50c per $100; currency drafts, 5¼ per cent.; telegrams, 50@75c per $100; exchange on London, 49⅜d for 60 day bankers' bills, and 49¾@50d for commercial bills; gold bars 880@900; silver bars, 3@12 per cent; refined silver, 4@5 per cent., selling price; trade dollars, par to 1per cent. premium, Mexican dollars, none here; half dollars, 6@6¾ per cent. discount.—S. F. Bulletin, Jan. 10th.

MINERAL KING BULLION—About three thousand five hundred pounds of bullion have been run out by the N. E. tunnel and smelting company at the Mineral King mines. This bullion was obtained from the ores of the famous White Chief, and is a result long and anxiously looked for; and though the bullion is not all that might be desired by the fastidious and uninitiated, still the separation of metals from gangue and foreign matters was complete, making what all metaelurgists delight in, a clear fluid slag, entirely free from metals or metal bearing ore. As all necessary material for the proper fluxing of the ores of said mines have been and are obtainable in the district, it is now the object of said company to proceed by a sure process, as determined by chemical analysis, to manufacture marketable bullion at as rapid a rate as is possible, full confidence being had in the quality and quantity of Mineral King ores—Visalia Delta, Jan. 13th.

JOHN D. LEE was in Corrinne yesterday visiting around among the brethern to raise enough money for perfecting his appeal to the Supreme Court of the Territory. Two hundred and fifty dollars was the amount required, and he succeeded in finding somebody among his friends good enough to put up this sum. His case will come on for hearing in about ten days; W. W. Bishop, of Pioche, who will arrive here next Saturday, appearing for Lee, and Judge Tilford for the people.—Salt Lake Tribune, Jan. 6th.

IN Tehachepi sheep are dying from eating a green weed which grows in the valley, and which has never been known to affect them before. The animals seem to become crazy, and will stand in water up their knees, with their noses but an inch or two out of it. They die in about two days after the first symptoms are perceptible.—Courier-Californian.

ROBERT BRODER, Esq., of Visalia, has been in town a few days, with a personal appearance indicative of good living.—Bakersfield Courier.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JANUARY 20.....1877.

AN Indianian went into a Chicago saloon and asked for "a gin cocktail with some strength into it." The barkeeper made a mixture of alcohol, pepper sauce, absinthe, limes and painkiller. The Indianian drank it, and about a quart of tears came to his eyes, his mouth contracted to about the size of a safe-key hole, and when he had sufficiently mastered his emotion to speak, he said, "How much's that?" "Fifteen cents," responded the barkeeper. The customer put down a quarter and said, "Keep the change—have something yourself;" then wringing the barkeeper's hand, he added: "That's the first good gin I've tasted since I left home—something like liquor; it's sort of quick in taking hold, and slow in letting go. Come and see me, and I'll give you some corn whisky that's better still."—Chicago Tribune.

THE National Women's Suffrage Association asks the following "Centennial Questions:"

Why should women more than men be governed without their consent?

Why should women more than men be taxed without representation?

Why should women more than men be tried without a jury of their peers?

By what right do men declare themselves vested with power to legislate for women in all cases whatsoever?

THE last Texas Legislature created fifty counties in a batch out of the Territory of Young, which includes the haunts of the Comanche and Lipan Indians. There has been a resulting great scramble for county offices, the opportunities of which in the way of tax-sales are inviting: but it remains to be seen how high respect Mr. Comanche will have for the forms of law and the all-penetrating power of the frisky Recorder.

A RATHER good-natured German became jealous of the warm friendship his sweetheart manifested for one of his male friends and one evening reproached her for her conduct. She said she had only been polite to the man who had aroused his jealousy, and politeness was nothing to get angry at. He replied: "Ish vishpering nodding? Ish shlamming noses to noses and shmelling sourkraut mit onions—ish dot nodding?"

DURING the first eleven months of the year the overland shipments of wool from California to the East aggregated 45,017,962 lbs. The shipments by sea during the same period were 4,194,208 lbs., making a total outward movement of 49,212,260 lbs.

EMIGRATION from foreign countries for the present year is estimated to reach a total of only 70,000, as against 85,000 last year. This is attributed to the cry of hard times here, which has a depressing effect on the other side of the water.

PROSPECTUS.

What Pays?

IT PAYS EVERY MANUFACTURER, MERCHANT, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer or Professional Man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has been published weekly for the last thirty-one years, does this, to an extent beyond that of any other publication; in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and New Discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes and improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Suggestions and Advice by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record, not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics and Science abroad.

The Scientific American has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past thirty-one years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress published in the world.

The practical Recipes are well worth ten times the subscription price, and for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1877.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and Several Hundred Engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3 20 cents a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars, giving Club rates, sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms. Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to parties attracted to the invention by such notice. A Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents sent free. The Scientific American Reference Book—a volume bound in cloth and gilt, containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 142 engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents. Address for the paper, or concerning patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New York. Branch office, Cor. F and 7th sts., Washington, D. C. n3423

"The King of all publications issued for the young on either side of the Atlantic."—Southampton (England) Observer.

THE THIRD VOLUME OF THIS INCOMPARABLE Magazine is now completed. With its 800 royal octavo pages, and its 600 illustrations, its splendid serials, its shorter stories, poems and sketches, etc., in its beautiful binding of red and gold, it is the most splendid gift book for boys and girls ever issued from the press. Price, $4; in full gilt, $5.

ST. NICHOLAS FOR 1877

Which opens with November, 1876, begins a short and very entertaining serial from the French, "The Kingdom of the Greedy," a story adapted to the Thanksgiving season. Another serial, of absorbing interest to boys, "His Own Master," by J. T. Trowbridge, author of the "Jack Hazard Stories," begins in the Christmas Holiday Number, together with "The Boys of My Boyhood," by William Cullen Bryant, Christmas stories, lively sketches, poems, pictures, etc.

During the year there will be interesting papers for boys, by William Cullen Bryant, John G. Whittier, Thomas Hughes, William Howitt, Dr. Holland, George Macdonald, Sanford B. Hunt, Frank R. Stockton and others.

There will be stories, sketches and poems of special interest to girls, by Harriet Prescott Spofford, Susan Coolidge, Sarah Winter Kellogg, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Louisa Alcott, Lucretia P. Hale, Celia Thaxter, Mary Mapes Dodge and many others. There will also be "Twelve Sky Pictures," by Prof. Proctor, the astronomer, with maps, showing "The Stars of Each Month," which will be likely to surpass in interest any series on popular science recently given to the public.

AMUSEMENT and INSTRUCTION, with FUN and FROLIC, and WIT and WISDOM, will be mingled as heretofore, and ST. NICHOLAS will continue to delight the young and give pleasure to the old.

"ST. NICHOLAS is full of the choicest things. The publication is, in all respects, the best of its kind. We have never yet seen a number that was not surprisingly good."—The Churchman, Hartford, Conn.

"There is no magazine for the young that can be said to equal this choice publication of Scribner's press. All the articles, whether in prose or rhyme, are throbbing with vitality. * * The literature and artistic illustrations are both superb."—The London Literary World.

"We wish we could point out its equal in our own periodical literature."—London Daily News.

Good News for Boys and Girls.

To meet the demand for a cheaper ST. NICHOLAS Gift-Book, the price of vols. I and II has been reduced to $3 each. The three volumes, in an elegant library case, are sold for $10 (in full gilt, $15) so that all may give their children a complete set. These volumes contain more attractive material than fifty dollars' worth of the ordinary children's books.

Subscription price, $3 a year. The three bound volumes and a subscription for this year, only $12. Subscribe with the nearest news dealer, or send money in check, or postoffice money order, or in registered letter, to Instance of Scent in a Dog.

Many years ago, when in India I had a hound of a kind of cross-breed, which in India is known as the Polyglad. These dogs are unsuited for coursing, but make splendid companions for long and rapid journeys on horseback, being able to go great distances without fatigue, and caring little for heat. Phakree (beautiful), for such was her name, had been my companion for years, and during that time was seldom out of my sight. When she had become old and unable to keep pace with me in my gallops, I parted with her to a friend whom she seemed to take a great fancy to, and who then resided on the Mahableshwur Hill. My own station, Poonah, lay about eighty miles east of Mahableshwur, and separated from the hills by three ranges of lofty mountains, which in those days were covered with dense jungle. On the day of my departure I cautioned my friend to keep Phakree securely chained for some days, so that she might not follow me. On this occasion—for I had been the journey once or twice before—I left the main road and selected an unfrequented bridal path for my route, in order that I might enjoy the beautiful mountain scenery through which it led. I had reached Poonah, and had been there for several days, living in my tent, when one night I was roused by the howling of a dog under my bedstead. I struck a light, when to my astonishment, there was poor Phakree, with a collar round her neck and a few links of chain hanging to it. A letter I received next morning from my friend gave me to know that she had broken loose and ran away, and that, although he had made every search for her, she was nowhere to be found. He regretted that we should never see her again. She had been four days on her journey; and her famished condition and the numerous wounds she had on her, showed the privation she had undergone, and the treatment she had received from the dogs of the different villages through which she had passed. The poor creature had no doubt scented me the whole way, for had she followed or accompanied any one she would have been cared for and protected. We never parted again.—Chambers' Journal.

THE Court House of Monterey county, at Salinas city, was recently destroyed by fire. The fire is said to have been the work of an incendiary, and broke out in the Tax Collector's office. All the books and papers belonging to the Tax Collector's office, including the Assessment Roll for 1876-7 were destroyed. Also, a portion of the books and papers belonging to the Auditor's office were burned. Tax Collector Castro is said to have lost many valuable private papers which had been left in the office. The loss by the burning of the Assessment roll, the loss by burning of delinquent tax roll amounts to $28,000, all of which is lost, and the building was worth $2,000.

FROM the Custom House and Railroad Office records it appears that the passenger arrivals in California during the past year number 86,000, and the passenger departures number 51,000, leaving a gain of 35,000. The total number of foreign passenger arrivals has been 25,804, and the departures 13,369. The arrivals from the Atlantic States have been 60,565, and the departures in that direction 37,636; showing that more than 60 per cent. of our gain from the passenger movement has been by the Eastern State immigration.

THE San Bernardino Times says that only a few miles from that place there are several cases of small-pox. The unfortunate patients are without medical aid, and surrounded by a lot of ignorant people, careless of consequences.

A Stranger in the School.

On a warm day, a large school of boys and girls were conning over their lessons. The teacher tried hard to keep order, to make all take to their studies, to help those who needed aid, and to make all happy. He opened the doors and windows to give them fresh air, but all would not do. Some felt discouraged with their lessons, some felt sleepy, some felt cross, and everything seemed to drag and linger. By-and-by the heavy trod of a foot on the door-steps was heard, and without knocking, in walked a hard-faced man, somewhat old in years, but with a firm step. The children at first felt afraid of him, but they soon found that beneath his hard looks there was a bright eye, a pleasant smile, and a kind heart. But instead of sitting down and staring at the school, he sat down by the side of a little girl who was trying in vain to get her spelling-lesson. There were tears of discouragement in her eyes.

"Well, what's the matter with our little one?"

"O sir! I can't get my lesson! It's so long, and the words are so hard. I can never learn them!"

"Let us see. How many of those words are there in one column?"

"Fifteen, sir."

"And how many columns in your lesson?"

"Three, sir."

"Very well. That makes forty-five words to be learned. How many of these are easy, so that you can spell them at once? Count them."

"Twenty-five, sir."

"Then you have twenty left which you call hard. Now take the first one, look at it sharp, see every letter in it, count the letters, see just how the word looks. Now shut your eyes, and see if you can still see how the word looks. Spell it over softly to yourself. There, now, you spelt it right. Now do so with the next word, and the next, till you have them all."

"O sir! That is very easy. I can get my lesson now."

Then the visitor went to a boy who was puzzling over a sum in arithmetic. He was discouraged and almost cross.

"Let us see. What's the matter here?"

"This sum, sir! I can't do it, and every sum grows harder and harder! It seems as if the man who made the book tried to see how hard sums he could put down."

"I see. Now, what's the rule by which the sum is to be done? Repeat it. Very well, only you have not said it quite right. Turn to it, and see. There, now, you left out one important link. You now understand the rule. Try the same now, putting in the part you left out."

"O sir! It's easy now. I see, and I can now do them all."

"Yes; but you must not be thinking about your ball, and kite, and play. You must give all your mind to the thing you are studying, and then it will be easy."

The stranger next sat down by a boy who was trying to commit the declension of a noun in Latin Grammar. Over and over he had repeated, but alas! he could not make the memory hold it. He was ready to throw down the book.

"Hold there, my boy! Don't look so discouraged. Take your pen and carefully write down that declension. See how every word is written, and what letters end every case. There, now, is every one right? Yes! Well, shut your grammar, turn over your paper, and on the other side write it all over again from memory. So ho! How many mistakes have you made?"

"Two, sir!"

"Very well. Put away that bit of paper, get another, and try it again, and again, till you can write it without a single mistake. You can say it then, for writing will fix it in the memory."

Thus he went from seat to seat, and helped all. The scholars forgot the heat. They all had their lessons, the teacher smiled and praised them, and all were very happy. Just as he was leaving, the teacher thanked the stranger, and hoped he would soon call again.

"Oh!" said he, "just send for me at any time, and I will come and give any one a lift."

"Pray, sir, by what name shall we ask for you?"

"Mr. Hardstudy sir, at your service!"—John Todd.

Wearing and Washing Flannels.

We read in Hall's Journal of Health that the very best thing that can be worn next the skin in Summer as well as Winter, is common woolen flannel. One color has no advantage over another, except white is more agreeable to the sight. Recent scientific experiments, carefully conducted, prove the truth of the popular sentiment, that woolen flannel is the best fabric to be worn next the skin, as it absorbs more moisture from the body than any other material, and by so doing, keeps the body more perfectly dry. Cotton absorbs the heat, hence the perspiration remains more on the skin, and being damp, the heat of the body is rapidly carried off by evaporation and suddenly cools when exercise ceases, the ill effect of which no intelligent mind needs to be reminded of. Hence it is that the common observation of all nations leads them to give their sailors woolen flannel shirts for all seasons, and for all latitudes, as the best equalizer of the heat of the body.

We believe it to be one of the most difficult things about the house to properly wash flannels so that they will neither shrink nor full up and become hard. Mrs. Beecher has a talk in the Christian Union about this, as follows:

"Cut up what soap may be needed, and dissolve it in a skillet of boiling water. Let it stand on the stove and simmer until every particle is dissolved. Never rub soap on, or allow a bit to settle on flannels. Nothing fulls flannel so badly as rubbing soap on it or letting bits of it settle on the cloth. A place on which a bit of soap has lodged or rubbed will have a different shade from the rest when dried, making the whole garment look spotted.

Take a small tub, not quite half full of scalding hot or boiling water. Into this pour enough of the dissolved soap to make a rich suds, pour to this some ammonia (prepared from concentrated ammonia)—a tablespoonful and a half to ten or twelve quarts of suds is a fair proportion. Stir this and the soap into the hot water till it is thoroughly incorporated. Then put in the flannels. Two or three articles are quite enough to soak at one time. Press them well under the water, but turn them over in the water occasionally while soaking. Let them remain in the water till it is cool enough to put in the hands without discomfort. While washing keep a good quantity of water at boiling heat on the range for rinsing purposes and to keep the suds as hot as it can be used. Before one piece is washed and ready to be wrung out, fill a small tub half full of clear hot water. Into this stir a little more blueing than would be used for cotton or linen. Shake out each piece as soon as washed quickly, and throw at once into the hot rinsing water.

Rub the flannel as little as possible, but draw it repeatedly through the hands, squeezing rather than rubbing. Harsh rubbing thickens and injures the fabric. Never wring with a wringer, as the pressure mats the nap down so closely as to destroy all the soft fleecy look of good flannel. Wring with the hands as dry as possible, then rinse and wring out again; and when as dry as can be made by hand, snap out, stretch and pull out into to true shape; dry in the open air if possible. Bring it in before quite dry, roll up a short time, and iron while still a little damp, so that each part can be more readily brought into shape. Pressing when ironing is better for the flannel than rubbing. It does not make the fabric feel so hard and wiry.

Scarlet flannel is poisonous to some skins if used before washing, and as one is not sure how one may be affected by it, it is safer to give it a scald in hot water with a little soap—not enough to make strong suds. Let it stand and soak for a few minutes, then wring out and treat like other flannels."

CAUTION IN VISITING SICK ROOMS. Never venture into a sick room if you are in a violent perspiration (if circumstances require your continuance there) for the moment your body becomes cold it is in a state likely to absorb the infection and give you the disease. Not visit a sick person (especially if the complaint is of a contagious nature) with an empty stomach; as this disposes the system more readily to receive the contagion. In attending a sick person, place yourself where the air passes from the door or window to the bed of the diseased; not betwixt the diseased person and any fire that is in the room, as the heat of the fire will draw the infectious vapor in that direction, and you would run much danger from breathing it.

WE are informed that the INYO INDEPENDENT erred in connecting Jim Hayes with the burning of a man near Tehachipa a year or two ago. The injured man recovered and is now in Bakersfield. His name is Moore. He and Hayes have been intimate and close friends for years, and he does not believe that Hayes had anything to do with the outrage perpetrated on him.—Sumner Gazette, Jan. 20th.

THERE is nothing like a pleasant surprise. A Windham county girl, who hung up her stocking Christmas and thought she had taken everything out of it, accidentally found four oranges and a pound and a half of broken candy hidden way down in the toe the other day.

WITHIN a little more than nine months, since it commenced business, the clearing exchanges of San Francisco "Clearing House" have amounted to the immense sum of $476,283,375; and the operation of the plan is said to be very satisfactory to the banks forming the association.

"FROM the present aspect of San Francisco youth, the next generation will be one of thieves and vagabonds, so far as the city is concerned. Our youth can burglarize a house, stop and go through a man, with the becoming skill of older adepts in this line of business."—S. F. Wasp.

MAYOR BRYANT and the other San Francisco Police Commissioners have asked the Board of Supervisors to pass an ordinance ordering them to revoke liquor licenses when found to be held by improper persons, who make their places dens of robbery and murder.

THE Trustees of the Lick estate have compromised with the contesting heirs, buying them off with the sum of $383,000, $270,000 of which, in addition to the $150,000 bequeathed by his father, goes to Mr. Lick's son; leaving $113,000 to be divided among the other claimants.

THE Committee on Privileges and Claims has agreed to recommend a bill to pay Gen. Sutter the sum of $50,000 for losses sustained and services rendered in the days of 1849 in California.

THE San Bernardino Times says ninety-five persons, mostly children, are confined with the measles in Warm Creek District in that county. School has been suspended.

IN 1874 there died in London a man named John Ellis, aged 95. He was considered one of the finest and handsomest men in Europe, and probably more English people have seen his likeness than that of any but the greatest celebrities, because he had been sitting the greater part of his long life as a model, and had amassed a competence by doing so. He died within a few hours after experiencing the only illness he ever suffered.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JANUARY 27.....1877.

THE principal feature of Appletons' Journal for February is the opening chapters of a new novel entitled "Cherry Ripe," by Helen B. Mathers, author of the recent much criticised novel "Comin thro' the Rye." "Cherry Ripe" exhibits the life and vigor of the writer's first novel, with nothing of its coarseness. The first chapter introduces a delightful young girl as heroine, one fairly entitled to a designation borrowed from old Robert Herrick's quaint madrigal of "Cherry Ripe." The early scenes of the story have charming freshness. The first article of the number is an illustrated paper on "Our Winter Birds," by Ernest Ingersoll; there is a paper by Junius Henri Browne, entitled "The Men who fascinate Women," which may fairly be said to have fascinating interest; there is a short story by "M. E. W. S.," one by Nora Perry, and a third by James Payn; and a variety of other papers. The poem, "Two Women," the first portion of which was given in the January number, is concluded. This is a stirring story in verse which, while lacking finish somewhat, perhaps, exhibits a really remarkable graphic power.

WANTED TO BE SATISFIED.—Cronin, the Oregon Electoral College, e pluribus unum, arrived in San Francisco on his return home some days ago. While waiting for the Oregon steamer, he kept himself strictly "not at home" to newspaper reporters and the public generally, but the newsboys pestered him sorely, standing around with copies of Nast's nasty caricatures of his nose, trying to institute a fair comparison with the original, to see if Nast had done justice by it. The boys have not submitted their report yet, so we are in the dark as to their conclusions.

IT is reported at Ogden that the Utah Central railroad, which extends from the junction of the Union and Central Pacific roads south to Salt Lake city, has been purchased by the Union Pacific, and that the transfer will be made on the 1st proximo. The Utah Central was built and owned by the Mormons, who were gradually extending it south from Salt Lake city, Brigham being the manager in chief. And pretty soon the big anaconda will have gobbled everything west of the Mississippi and north of Mexico.

THE San Francisco stock papers assure the public that there is no immediate danger of a panic or embarrassment growing out of stock transactions. They say it is true that money has been a little tight, but everything will soon be lovely. The general rains throughout the State will of itself relieve the stringency in the money market, as many had been hoarding for the purpose of taking advantage of the anticipated short crop.

A BOY, 12 years of age, named George Russell, hung himself in Salt Lake City on the 9th instant. He was found hanging to a rafter, in an adjoining room to where his mother and others were sitting at the time the execution occurred. No reason is assigned further than that his mother had been in the habit of whipping him severely.

THE mails burned in the railroad disaster at Ashtabula, Ohio, on the 28th ultimo, were those leaving New York by the Pacific Express at 8 P. M. on Thursday, the 28th of December, and included two letter pouches for San Francisco and one for Alaska, Montana, Utah, California, Nevada, Washington Territory, Oregon and Wyoming.

ON the 19th, at Virginia city, Peter Larkin was hanged pursuant to sentence for the murder of Daniel Corcoran in that city, August 4th, 1875. He met his doom without flinching, protesting his innocence to the last. Harrington is to undergo a similar experience in the same city in a few days.

THE Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune says, speaking of the compromise bill, that "it is a curious fact that extreme partisans on both sides in the House of Representatives express the belief that this bill by its operation will give the election to their opponent."

SARGENT is opposed to the compromise Presidential bill and Booth favors it. Mitchell, of Oregon, is opposed to it and Kelley favors it. Sharon, of Nevada, opposes it, ex-Senator Stewart of the same State favors it and Secretary Gorham thinks it is all right.

THE Woman Suffragists, in convention at Washington, have matured a sixteenth amendment, giving women the rights of citizenship.

THE State of Illinois has over 7,000 miles of railroad, all constructed since 1842.

THE COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

Contrary to general expectation the Joint Committee have agreed upon, and have reported to their respective Houses, a bill to settle the Presidential question. Thirteen of the fourteen members of the Committee signed the agreement, Morton being the one refusing to sign. We are told that the members were so anxious about an agreement, so wrought up under their feeling of responsibility, that they scarcely slept during the several days the matter was under consideration. We may well believe this, for, all the facts considered, no graver issue was ever delegated to a Congressional Committee.

The plan reported is briefly this: On the day appointed for counting the Electoral vote the two Houses meet in Joint Convention, the President of the Senate presiding; each House is given the right to object to the counting of the vote of any State; when there are no objections the declaration of the result by the presiding officer is final as regards all the undisputed States; no discussion is to be permitted in the Convention when the vote of a State is objected to; the count then stops until the point at issue may be discussed under certain restrictions and voted upon by each House in its own chamber; if, after such separate consideration, either branch still votes to reject, that State is passed and the count goes on with the remainder as before.

All rejected returns are to be referred to a Commission composed as follows: Three Republican and two Democratic Senators, three Democratic and two Republican Representatives, and four Justices of the Supreme Court, these four to select a fifth to complete the Commission. The Justices named are Clifford, who presides by virtue of seniority, Strong, Miller and Field—two Republicans and two Democrats. It is not specified how the fifth is to be selected, but the presumption is that if party bias prevents the evenly divided four from an agreement as to the fifth these high dignitaries will fall to pulling straws, or throwing up a chip, "wet or dry?" as they did in their school boy days in their ball or marble games: that is probably how our Centennial President will be chosen at last, and as good a way as any, or at least better than a row. None of these Justices are to be taken from New York or Ohio. It is thought if not so understood that either Bradley or Davis will be the fifth Judge.

To keep this extraordinary expedient within constitutional limits in appearance if not in fact, Congress retains the right of final action upon the award of the Commission whatever it may be. The two Houses, acting separately, vote to sustain or reject the award; if both should happen to vote to reject the award with reference to any particular State then the work of the Commission is of no avail, and the settlement of the main issue is more unsettled than ever; but the negative vote of neither House alone shall be sufficient to set aside the decision of the Commission and the other House, and which ever of the two contestants is thus declared to have received the highest number of Electoral votes shall be President, buildosers, Grover or the Returning Boards to the contrary notwithstanding.

It will be seen that a decision on the all important question must be reached under this plan one way or the other, save in the improbable contingency that both Houses should agree in voting to reject the awarded return of the same State. It is conjectured that the Commission will vote strictly according to their respective party leanings, therefore the whole matter, weighty as it is, becomes the ipse dixit of just one man at last, and that one with no constitutional authority to so act at all. This plausible conjecture as affecting the Congressional part of the Commission is scarcely disparaging to them, since partisanship and not impartial patriotism gives them their tenure of position—party fealty is too nearly their sole stock in trade, otherwise there would be no need of calling in a new umpire in the present or any similar emergency. But to assume that the most august and perfectly independent body under our Government cannot adjudge this case as any other, and according to the law and the facts, is to put an absolutely disgraceful estimate upon that high tribunal. But the very fears manifested in this particular, or rather the hesitancy thus implied in submitting the cause on its true merits to the judgment of a competent and impartial tribunal like the Supreme Court, leaves the impression that both parties at issue feel that there is a disagreeable weakness in their own respective causes, and in reality it is justice they are afraid of. Should the vote of the full Commission stand divided seven to eight on party lines on all or a majority of the questions the country will acquiesce in the verdict almost as cheerfully as if the vote had been more unanimous or differently divided with respect to party bias; but the high character popularly attributed to the Justices as a body will give way to a feeling of disrespect such as pertains to other more common political combinations—and it will have a discouraging effect.

The general sentiment of the country is very strongly in favor of the adoption of the expedient, and under this pressure, if not from choice otherwise, there is hardly a doubt but both Houses will adopt it, though not with unanimity by any means; it has bitter and influential opponents in both Houses and in both parties; and the House talks of amendments, which, if adopted in that body, will pretty certainly cause the speedy death of the whole bill in the Senate. If it passes President Grant will sign it.

We earnestly hope it will become the law, however it may worry constitutional hair-splitters. The Constitution will survive it, and so will the Republic.

NEXT to the Bennett-May scandal as a subject for the New York gossips is the marriage of Horace Stokes (only brother of Jim Fisk's murderer) and Jennie Foote, a niece and adopted daughter of two wealthy Madison avenue bachelors named Valentine. Both parties are young, and neither family knew anything about the wedding till it was over.

THERE are about 200 Chinamen at work in Spring Canyon, south of Unionville, Humboldt county, engaged with rockers, and have shipped during the past three or four months about $60,000 in gold dust. There are four stores in the camp. A good portion of the ground was purchased from white men.

CATTLE, horses and sheep are said to be rolling in fat in all parts of Montana Territory. This is mainly to be attributed to the light fall of snow on the principal stock ranges. There is reason to believe that none of the loose stock will require any feeding this Winter, and will get through in good condition.

THE nomination of Rev. J. J. Burchard as Indian Agent at Round Valley, Mendocino county, has been confirmed by the Senate, so we infer he has fully vindicated himself from the numerous charges preferred against his previous management, as mentioned in these columns heretofore.

THE Ocean House, at Eureka in this State, was burned on the morning of the 22d, and Thomas Gorsham, Alexander Brown and —— Collins perished in the flames, and some others were badly injured by jumping from the second story windows.

CHARLES SILVERSTEIN was shot and killed in Elko on the 16th instant by a man named Robert Crozier. The difficulty that brought about the shooting was in discussing the matter of which of two or three a woman of the town loved best.

A SOCIETY, to be known as the "Brotherhood of Old Stiffs," has been organized at Eureka. They agree to abstain from the use of whisky until after the second of January next.

CARDINAL MANNING has issued a mandate compelling parties to mixed marriages to content themselves with the Catholic service, and omit the Protestant, both being often used.

THE changed condition of feeling at the South in regard to slavery may be inferred from the fact that Uncle Tom's Cabin has recently been played with success in New Orleans.

THE London Daily Telegraph certifies to an average daily circulation between July 1st and December 1st, 1876, of 200,317, something unparalleled in newspaper history.

THE Utah Supreme Court was to have heard John D. Lee's appeal last Monday. To hang or not to hang is the sum of the issue John has at stake.

THE discount on silver coin is increasing. Brokers will not buy it now at less than 7 per cent. This brings it to a point lower than greenbacks.

THE Sentinel says the capital invested in the charcoal business in Eureka, will reach $400,000 and it yields handsome returns on the principal.

SIR EDWARD THORNTON is paid $30,000 in gold per year, and his house rent free at the British legation building.

THE potency of the unit. The next Congress will have seven or eight members each elected by less than ten majority.

FIVE hundred bills were introduced into the Colorado Legislature during the last fifty days of the session.

PIUTE ADRIFT.

CHAPTER XVI.—WEATHER, ETC.

MESSRS. EDITORS—You cannot expect Piute to write much this freezing weather—everything rigid, ink froze up, and Piute's only salvation is in closely hugging the stovepipe. Can't see how these newspaper fellows contrive to sling ink so flippantly during Winter. Saw a Mr. Lokle the other day, with feet astraddle the stove and his shivering body wrapped in a blanket. He mused profoundly, and finally informed your humble servant that a verdant maid, just in from the "Ould Sod" had met with a fearful accident, to wit: A five-gallon can of kerosene exploded with her, and Mr. L. felt it his duty to grind out appropriate poetry on the occasion. Next morning the following appeared in the paper:

"Miss Bridget Maguire,
Went to kindle the fire,
Wid a can of ould kerosene;
The fire flew away,
And up to this day,
Not a bit of poor Bridget was seen!"

Piute always thought that slang and profanity were entirely confined to the "frontier" and Pacific coast, but he finds that the above style prevails among these enlightened Christian communities, and seem to be highly relished. However, the aforesaid Mr. Lokle would do well to emigrate West, but since his late "effort," that flash of genius concerning Bridget, the publishers have promised to advance his salary so as to enable him henceforth to get a clean shirt once a week. The severity of Winter asserted itself in a severe snow storm the other day. The crystal flakes came hurrying down before a Northeaster, sharply smiting the faces of thin-skinned Piutes and other pedestrians. Towards evening old Boreas blew a blinding hurricane, heaving the drifting snow in whirling clouds along the thoroughfares. The rich can stand it, and exult over the delightful sleighing, fat turkeys, hot punch, etc., but the thousands of poverty-stricken people, who don't know where to get tomorrow's breakfast, despise the inclement weather, and sigh for "the balmy breath of Spring." Destitution is said to exist to such an extent in New York city, that whole families are petitioning the authorities for admission to the almshouse, that being the only alternative between them and starvation. Destitution is not confined to New York alone. The same deplorable state of affairs exists in every large city in the Union, and smaller towns and hamlets are not free from the blight of want. Within fifteen months the three richest men of the United States have died, all residents of New York—Astor, Stewart and Vanderbilt. Together, the three had at their command nearly, if not quite $250,000,000. And we have the consoling assurance that their property will continue to be managed with the same success—with the same grasp of principle and the same close attention to detail, as when under the care of those now beneath the sod. Like poorer men, they will soon be forgotten or remembered only because of their connection with the almighty dollar. A distribution of say $200,000,000 of the above sum among the destitute of the country would alleviate considerable suffering. Then the three families would have left $50,000,000, a significant sum, sufficient to make any three families in Owens Valley feel very proud. However, Piute may as well dry up, his preaching is futile, so he'll conclude by declaring that the white man is a greedy man, the more he accumulates the more, more, more he wants—never says "nuff money"—never satisfied until the grave-digger excavates a hole in the ground for him, into which his kind friends and bitter foes drops his mortal coil to rest forever. After all his struggling and scrambling for money, he leaves this world penniless, with merely the satisfaction of being clad in a good suit of clothes, but without a dollar in his pockets. Too bad!

TINNAMUCKAHEE.

AN Oregon Indian and his squaw arrived here in company with several stock men the other day, and whenever he appears on the street the Shoshones gather around and look at the Oregon aborigine with wonder. His squaw seems also to be an object of curiosity to the aborigines here. The couple live in an old cabin which the buck has fitted up elegantly, and the pair seem to get along very happily together. This is what confuses the Shoshones, no doubt, for the red skins, as a rule, never can make themselves at home in a cabin or house.—Belmont Courier.

GOSPEL SWAMP can't show a vine that has produced 812,999 pounds of squashes in a single year.—Santa Barbara Press. There are over a hundred vines in Gospel Swamp, that have produced more than that amount this year and it has been a dry season, too.—L. A. Express.

Nothing remarkable, partner—over a hundred vines would produce twice that quantity in Inyo.

A RUMOR has reached us that a change in the ownership of the Mineral Park Mill and the Keystone mine is anticipated, and that Senator John P. Jones and James G. Pritchard are about to take hold of them and extricate them from their present difficulties.—Prescott Enterprise.

All Sorts.

Advices of January 19, say that two important engagements have been recently fought on the island. The most important took place at Farralones, where the Spanish were defeated by the Cubans under Gen'ls. Modesta, Diaz and Antonio Macea. The other action was at Zopata, west of Cienfugos on the south coast, and here also the Spanish forces suffered another reverse.

The New Orleans Bulletin says Capt. John Wilson, who, in 1869, saved 601 persons from the burning British steamship Connaught, is now living in this city, blind, and in abject poverty, having been compelled to sell or pawn the gold watch presented by the British Government, and other testimonials of his gallant act.

"I'm a Philadelphia alderman," said a stout, pompous little man, as he approached the turnstile on the opening day of the Centennial Exhibition. "Oh! that's no matter," answered the gatekeeper. "That don't exclude you. Pay your fifty cents and you can go in just the same as the rest."

The San Antonio Herald describes a scene before the Grand Jury as follows: Foreman—"Gentlemen it is not necessary to administer the oath of secresy to this witness, as he is a member of the press, and nobody would believe anything he might divulge, anyhow."

A coachman is brought before the Police Magistrate for running over and killing an old woman. "Why," says the Court, "did you not bear to the left and avoid the accident?" "Because (triumphantly) if I had I would have scraped the panels."

The London Saturday Review gravely discusses the question, "Suicide, and how to prevent it." The best way to do it would be to attach some severe legal penalty to the crime, of course—such as a fine of $5 for each repetition of the offense.

Some way the newspapers keep on cronin' over Cronins' nose. Here are some specimens:

The Washington Nation says Cronin "has a very literary nose." Because it's red everywhere?

We yield the palm to Minnesota wheat,
Each April sown in;
But Oregon has raised the premium beat—
Its name is Cronin.

Cronin is the no blest quorum 'un of them all.

Cronin complains that the Eastern newspaper men have been unjust to him. When we find floating through the press such paragraphs as the following, we can appreciate his feelings: "In cold weather Cronin is obliged to cover his nose with a horse-blanket."

All that's bright must fade. When Cronin's nose fades what will the boys joke about?

THE following is an extract from the speech made in the Senate by Booth, of California, in eulogy of the late Senator Caperton, of West Virginia: "His task is finished. He has no part or lot in all that is done beneath the sun. No more for him the voice of love, the song of gladness, the load of care, the cup of sorrow. Not for him the beauty of Spring, the splendor of Summer, the glory of Autumn, the uncrowned majesty of Winter. Flowers will spring from his grave; storms will beat upon it; morning will greet it with her earliest light; night crown it with her stars, and the earth, rolling in her great orb in infinite space, will bear his dust with hers, till time shall be no more."

THERE is no nonsense about Sojourner Truth. She especially criticises the white women, because with all their privileges of culture and professions of Christianity they accomplish so little unselfish good. To one audience she said: "Wid all your opportunities for readin' an' writin' you do not take an' do anythin'. My God I wonder what you are in the world for." And to another: "What for you all rushin' to hear Moody and Sankey? Ebery one ob you goin' to see Moody and Sankey. What you 'specs?—dat dose two men goin' tote all you women to hebben?" And then, in solemn warning, "I tell you its the doers of the word, not the hearers God wants."

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JANUARY 27.....1877.

GOOD NEWS, IF TRUE.—A letter from a well-informed gentleman of Mojave to a prominent firm of this place says it is generally understood there that active building operations will soon be commenced on the Mojave-Inyo narrow gauge railroad. If narrow gauge roads have the capacity and advantages claimed for them, which is now generally admitted, the road in question would undoubtedly prove to be one of the best paying lines in the Union, hardly excepting the feeder to the Comstock—the Virginia and Truckee.

CERTIFICATES FILED.—As yet but two Inyo physicians have filed their certificates from the State Board of Medical Examiners, showing their right to practice medicine under the law of the last Legislature, which requires the filing of these certificates on or before January 1, 1877, or surrender of practice, under a penalty of $500. There are physicians in the county, besides the two referred to, who hold good diplomas, but have neglected to forward them to the State Board for certification.

RACES AGAIN.—The Benton Jockey Club, notice of the formation of which which will be found elsewhere, give announcement by posters and advertisement that there will be racing at that point on the 9th, 10th and 11th proximo. Purses to the aggregate amount of $750 are offered, and the names of the managers are of themselves sufficient guarantee that everything will be engineered on the dead square. Our horsemen will do well to make a note on't.

THE COST.—At dinner the other day a lady, who is somewhat addicted to the use of Shakspearean quotations, was describing the supreme felicity which would follow the operation of sitting in a Baltimore restaurant, with an able-bodied waiter shoveling fresh oysters into her mouth; it would be a good while before she would cry, "Hold, enough!" "But," growled her liege lord, "you'd 'hold enough' to make the bill pretty heavy."

SILVER SPROUT.—A San Francisco letter states that A. Wingard, of the Silver Sprout Mining Company, will be in Independence about the 1st proximo; that his Company have big faith in the "hill," and expect fine results next year. During the coming month other incorporations, projected by the Sprout people, will be organized and completed, for the purpose of working other mines on Kearsarge Peak.

ENTERTAINMENT TO-NIGHT.—The Jones Brothers "Great Oriental Panorama," in combination with Prof. Black, is billed for an entertainment at the Masonic Hall to-night. The programme sets forth a varied and original show, entirely different in character from the many which have visited Inyo within the last year or so. We doubt not but that it will be greeted with a crowded house.

ASSESSMENT.—The Rex Montis Company have levied an assessment (No. 4) of $1 per share, delinquent March 8th. The latter point is hardly worth mentioning, however, as the Montis stockholders never allow their certificates to go delinquent—a fact which shows well for the solidity of the Company, but not particularly advantageous to the printer.

GONE BELOW.—L. C. Gray, Superintendent and one of the chief owners of the famous Kearsarge property, has gone to San Francisco for a month's sojourn. Meanwhile the contractors are steadily prosecuting work on the new tunnel, but owing to the stubborn character of the rock their progress is necessarily slow.

A CROP OF HOODLUMS.—Loud complaints reach us of hoodlum operations at our neighboring town of Lone Pine, where the peace is nightly disturbed by their warwhoops and dances. But more serious charges are laid against them, and parents will do a wise thing by promptly nipping this element in the bud.

SMALL POX.—Dr. Joseph Lesesne, one of Inyo's best known physicians, is at Darwin suffering from an attack of the small pox, contracted from the patient mentioned a week or two ago as being down with the disease at that place. Our informants state that there are no other known cases in the place.

AT HEADQUARTERS.—Superintendent P. Reddy, of the Defiance, left Darwin on Sunday last for San Francisco, whither he has gone in connection with Company business matters. He expected to be at his post again in a very few days.

SEND NAME.—"Observer" will place this office under obligations by sending his or her full name. There is not the slightest danger of it becoming known, but the requirement is absolute.

SHUT DOWN.—The Defiance furnace, at Darwin, last week closed down for the time being, after a short but very successful run. Work is still going on in the mine.

REBUILT.—The Kearsarge ore dump, which was broken down during the late storm by an overweight of ore and snow, is now thoroughly repaired.

FREIGHT.—There is 50,000 pounds of freight en route for this place, on the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company's teams.

MASONIC.—The stated meeting for January of Inyo Lodge, No. 221, F. & A. M., will transpire at the hall to-night.

COUNTY HOSPITAL.—There are now but five patients in the County Hospital at Lone Pine.

PRINTERS' PASTRY.—Last week THE INDEPENDENT congratulated itself upon the general re-arrangement and internal improvement of its office, and only day before yesterday the proprietors were inwardly chuckling over the fact that the last box full of some 300 pounds of "pi"—which resulted from the fall of an over-loaded galley-rack—had been properly laid in the cases, and henceforth all was to be lovely and serene. In a print-shop man proposes, but the law of gravity sometimes disposes. While the outside forms were being washed up after working, yesterday, the first page dropped into everlasting smithereens. After an experience of ten or fifteen years in the business our boss pressman ought to have managed it differently, but he didn't. What with the earthquake and accidents this office has literally had "pi enough," not counting the last batch.

MINING TIMBERS, ETC.—The Inyo Lumber Company, Col. Stevens, Manager, is now supplying the Union Consolidated, at Cerro Gordo with heavy mining timbers, something like those used on the Comstock, of which several hundred thousand feet are required. The snow at the head of the long flume on Cottonwood, where the saw mill is located, is too deep to permit mill operations, so these timbers are being hewed out for the present, at points lower down on the stream. The Colonel is having a large quantity of brick burnt, with which to construct his charcoal kilns, the production of charcoal being intended as the leading business of the company. The prospects now are that this fluming enterprise is going to prove quite a big thing financially. The Colonel's energy certainly deserves a good reward.

THE GRAND JURY REPORT.—Elsewhere will be found the full text of this document. It handles Assessor Dillon pretty roughly, and doubtless for cause. Still it would be well to suspend judgment until we have the case in detail. We know nothing as to the nature of the specifications nor the proofs, of course, but somehow we feel quite confident the case is not near as bad as may be inferred from the presentments. Dillon expresses himself as confident that he can easily clear himself of all criminal intent in his official transactions, and that the county will not be a cent loser from any acts of omission or commission he may be responsible for. This Grand Jury took hold of their work in the right spirit, and was composed of some of our best citizens. Their names will be found in another place.

LADY STOCK SHARPS.—There are many lady bulls and bears in San Francisco, who take as active interest in the Stock Board as the mightiest short-horned Durham on California street. This fact was somewhat interesting to our friend V. G. Thompson, while visiting the metropolitan city the other day; but he took kindly to their phrases and done as the Romans did—mastered the dialect, bought a little stock and talked Ophir instead of commenting on the weather when making calls. He had occasion to call on an elderly maiden lady of Oakland, and in reply to the usual question of "How are your stocks to-day?" she said: "I'm hopelessly busted—stocks are way down, and now, alas! after years of success, my only salvation is to get married."

AT HOME.—Capt. A. B. Macgowan, Commandant of the Post, reached home on the 24th, having started from New York on the 11th—the delay being occasioned by snow-blockades on the railroads. He looks to be in much better health than when leaving, notwithstanding that the terrible Eastern weather hastened his return. From facts manifest on all sides, the Captain reports that the doleful cry of "hard, hard times" in the East is based upon real facts, as shown by the actual destitution of the working classes in all of the large cities. He is glad to get back, and thinks that the people here ought to be content with their lot.

GRAND JURORS.—Following are the names of the persons composing the late Grand Jury: G. B. Burkhardt, O. Hitchcock, Thos. W. Hill, J. M. Custer, E. W. Powers, A. A. Thompson, Robt. Love, J. L. Bourland, John C. Mills, George Collins, W. M. Stewart, J. F. Denton, John Boyle, G. N. Bartsche, A. A. Riddle, A. Dusenbury, W. W. Adams, Jas. K. Maloney, and Sherman Stevens, Foreman. L. B. Akers, C. H. Powers and K. S. Krumley were also summoned, but drew blanks and were excused.

CHICKEN ALLEY.—He aimed high with his little arrow and barrelhoop bow, to scare away the chickens, and sent the missile through a rooster's neck. This happened on Chicken Alley, where the boys used to bait a string with a little quicksilver and toss it out to the unsuspecting fowls. The peculiar bait would digest rapidly, and as one after another gobbled it the string would be filled and the haul made.

QUEER.—Sometimes there are funny coincidences in small things, but none the less explicable. For instance, in as many years, three different articles taken from this paper and started on the rounds of the Eastern press have all sooner or later come to be credited to THE INDEPENDENT, "Myo county, Cal." A suitable reward is offered for the scalp of the man who perpetrates the change.

RUNAWAY.—Wm. Arcularius, the teamster, the other day had a lively time with his pet mules at Cerro Gordo Landing. The gentle mules started to run him a race, and after smashing the wagons won the race and of course the stakes, consisting of a shower of black-snaking.

DANCE.—The show people will give their patrons an opportunity for a social dance to-night.

WARM.—The smiles of the weather are again most childlike and bland.

Report of the Grand Jury.

In the County Court of the County of Inyo, State of California: We, the Grand Jury for the January Term, 1877, of the above named Court, make the following report:

1st. We have examined into the charge of murder against William M. Boyd, and find a true bill against him for murder.

2d. We have examined into the charge of murder against Ramon Ochoa, and ignore the charge.

3d. We have examined into the charge of assault to murder against John Milsteadt, and ignore the charge.

4th. We have examined into the charge of murder against J. R. Norton, and ignore the charge.

5th. We have examined into the charge of assault with a deadly weapon against Thomas W. Hill, preferred by A. W. Robinson and J. B. Rowley, and ignore the charge.

6th. From evidence that has come before us, we direct the District Attorney to institute suits in the proper Justices' Courts against Aaron Hood for killing, wounding and maiming animals.

First—For shooting, maiming and killing a bay mare, the property of Paul W. and Peter Bennett, on or about the 4th of July, 1876.

Second—For shooting, killing and maiming a red cow, owner unknown, on or about the 1st of November, 1876.

7th. We recommend that a proper and secure place be made at Darwin for the purpose of keeping offenders against the law.

8th. We have examined into a charge agrinst John B. Rowley for compromising a felony, preferred by Thomas W. Hill, and we ignore the charge.

9th. We have examined into a charge of perjury against S. C. Morrison, preferred by George Collins, but on account of not being able to obtain all the witnesses, we have taken no action in the matter further than to recommend that the next Grand Jury investigate the charge.

10th. We recommend that the Board of Supervisors employ an expert accountant to overhaul the books of the various county officers for the past two years, and ascertain how our financial affairs have been conducted.

11th. We present nine charges against James F. Dillon, County Assessor of Inyo county, for willful and corrupt misconduct in office.

12th. We direct that the District Attorney of this county, without delay, do institute suits or a suit against James F. Dillon, County Assessor of said county, and his bonds for all sums in which he is delinquent for moneys collected by him for personal property taxes of 1876, as appears by the books of the County Auditor, and also for all sums assessed for the year 1876 on personal property where the same is not a lien against real estate, and which were not collected by the said Assessor. And the said District Attorney will also with all dilligence prosecute actions against the said Assessor for willful and corrupt misconduct in office as charged and set forth in the accusations which we have made against the said Assessor, to the end that the said James F. Dillon be removed from the office of County Assessor of the county of Inyo aforesaid.

SHERMAN STEVENS,
Foreman.

Corrected Table of Distances.

We have been favored by the Post Commandant of Camp Independence, Capt. A. B. Macgowan, with the following corrected table of distances on the stage road from Camp Independence to the railroad at Mojave, by miles and tenths, to which is supplemented a general table of distances by railroad to many principal points. It will be found reliable, and well worthy of preservation for reference:

PAID OFF.—Major Rucker, Paymaster, yesterday paid off the troops at Camp Independence, this time entirely in greenbacks. The Major left again on the same day.

COMING.—It is announced that Superintendent J. H. Holt, of the Rex Montis, will arrive in a few days and begin fitting up the Sprout mill for next season's work.

AGENCY.—Mrs. J. L. Bourland has the Bishop Creek agency for the sale of the celebrated Florence sewing machines.

A FRIEND'S wife tells us that before Christmas her husband promised to let her "put the washing out." Soon after that stocks went down and she has been putting the washing out ever since—on the line.—Austin Reveille.

BULLION.—The value of bullion shipped by the Modoc Mining Company from Lookout for the first eleven days in this month foots up to $60,257. Look-out for another dividend!—Darwin News, Jan. 20.

OUR MONO LETTER.

BENTON, Cal., Jan. 24.

MESSRS. EDITORS—"Now is the Winter of our discontent, made glorious by" a reasonable amount of snow, which fell last week to the depth of about one foot (or 12 inches), cooling and purifying the atmosphere, giving new life and vigor to all, and operating to check the somewhat prevalent pneumonia.

BUSINESS

In town is somewhat dull, but the mines are being energetically worked; the mills are run to their fullest capacity, and are doing comparatively well. The Diana mill started last week on ore assaying from $350 to $850 per ton, and the Superintendent intends next week to make the largest shipment ever made from the mill. The new hoisting works on the Comanche mine were completed on the 10th, and since then the qualities of the engine and other parts of the mechanism have been thoroughly tested and pronounced good.

SPORTING

Seems to be the topic of the day. Some of our enterprising citizens have formed a Jockey Club, elected Tom Golden President and raised quite a wallet full of silver, for which they propose to test the relative speed of their steeds on the 9th, 10th and 11th proximo, and strange to say, 'tis generally given up that there will be some of their horses beaten. There will be noted turfites present from Inyo, Mono and Esmeralda.

SOCIAL.

A social Dancing Club has been formed here, which meets every Thursday evening at the school house, for the purpose of social pastime and improvement in dancing. The enterprise bids fair to be well patronized, having more than twenty charter members.

THE SCHOOL

In Benton is prospering as never before here. W. J. Adams, the teacher, is believed to be equal to the emergency, and master of the situation. He holds night sessions, also, which are well patronized.

PERSONAL.

District Attorney Whitman is here, snow bound, and afflicted with the rheumatism. Frank Hutch is in town, training Black Harry for the races. Mr. Wiles and lady are stopping at the Golden House. W. H. Ball has returned from the East. Tom Golden started to Virginia yesterday morning. Parker coming to light and life completely spoiled a first-class sensational item, which I had intended to record, but alas for the hopes of

R. JACOB.

THE Philadelphia Inquirer says: Mr Tilden has resumed his residence in New York city as a private citizen. He will not go to Washington unless called there to occupy the White House as President of the United States by the declaration of Senator Ferry that he has been chosen Chief Magistrate of the nation. As to the report that he has retired from law practice, for "recently" read "since he proffered his services, gratis, to prosecute the Tammany Ring thieves." In addition to this Mr. Tilden desires it to be known that he will not resume the practice of the law. These facts are of interest to certain timid people who see disaster in every rumor afloat concerning the two candidates for the Presidency, and it is of general interest to know that Mr. Tilden, unlike General Hayes, proposes to leave the settlement of the electoral contest to the popular court commonly called Congress, and to abide by the decision.

WHAT a bonanza of blessing it would be to the people of California and of this entire Coast if an earthquake were to swallow up the Comstock and all other silver lodes on this side of the Rocky Mountains, as then these periodical and numerous suicides by broken speculators, this terrible ruin of families, this breaking up of homes and division of hearths, this alarming thievery in fiduciary agents, the great public demoralization, this distrust of businses men, this absence of manufacture, this high price of money which so much retards the development of our resources, this moral and financial nightmare which California street has hung about the neck of the Golden State—all these would cease and a happy, prosperous, well-employed, contented people would take the place of these idle, impecunious, distracted multitudes.—Sacramento Bee.

THE wife of a coal miner at Wilkingsburg, near Pittsburg, gave birth to four children recently, all perfectly formed, and each one about the size of an ordinary infant. None of them lived till morning. The interesting occasion tempted the village physician to dip into the statistics, which show, from the meager data obtainable, that birth is given to quadruplets on an average only one time in 250,000 cases of confinement; triplets occur once in 8,000, and twins in every 77.

DEFAULTER.—Our morning contemporary is authority for the statement that Miles Quillan, the County Treasurer of Lincoln county, is a defaulter for nearly $10,000. He used the money in gambling, and intended to return the original after his fortune had been made. But the wheel of fortune turned the wrong way for Miles, and now he is an outcast from society and friends.—Carson Tribune.

A GOLDEN EAGLE, measuring seven feet six inches from tip to tip, was recently caught in a steel-trap in Hope valley, Alpine county, California. The captor of the noble bird has it caged and will endeavor to tame it.

WHEN the North Pole is reached the South Pole will become the goal of the nations' rivalry, and it is stimulating to know that it's harder to reach than the other.

THE Carson Tribune has entered upon its eighth volume. The Tribune is a good paper.

The Old Grizzly Bear Hunt.

Many of our citizens will remember Mr. J. Searles, who, five years ago, was nearly killed by a grizzly bear in the hills near the Ticbre ranch, in this county.

He was camped with a friend, and in the morning before breakfast, he took his gun and started out for game. He had gone about three miles from camp when he caught sight of a bear, shot it, skinned it, and started for home. In the return trail he saw tracks of a much larger bear in the light snow, and followed them for a short distance to a tree, under which the bear had lain down, and rolled over a large space of ground. He passed by a short way when he thought he heard the warning snort of a grizzly, and almost immediately a huge bear raised on its hind feet and put his nose over a bush almost in his face.

Not daring to raise his gun to his shoulder, he brought up the muzzle until he thought he could send the ball into his neck, and fired. The bear fell, apparently paralyzed for an instant, and Searles put another cartridge into his Spencer rifle and snapped it at the ear next to him. The gun missed fire, and the next instant the bear struck the hunter and knocked him down on his back, and taking his jaw in his teeth, crushed it, at the same raking his breast with his claws, tearing away clothing and skin together, cutting great gashes across his windpipe and cheek. The bear then seized the hunter's left shoulder, dislocating it, and broke the arm in three places. By this time the bear seemed to presume the hunter was dead, but to make sure, set his teeth over two of ribs and snapped them in two. The hunter made no sign, and the bear quietly walked away. When the hunter came to his senses, finding the bear gone, he quietly crawled away towards his horse, which he reached, and, though he was covered with blood, and thought himself without a whole bone in his body, managed to mount his animal.

When he arrived in camp after a ride of three miles he was exhausted with loss of blood, and could not move without danger of falling. His companions lifted him off and into the camp, and as soon as they could get away, started for Los Angeles with the wounded man, his jaw tied up and his arm splintered with green branches and lashed with strips of deer skin. It was not supposed he could survive, but he was patched up, and is now doing good service in developing the famous Borax Lake [near the Inyo line], of which he is one of the principal proprietors.—Kern County Courier.

The death of ex-Senator James W. Nye, of Nevada, a native of New York, brings to mind any number of personal anecdotes and reminiscences of the man, as genial, able, witty and kind-hearted as he was caseless, profane, inconstant and irresponsible. Lacking though he was in fixedness of principle, and trying as his vagaries were, it was impossible not to like him after being for any length of time in his society; for his good-humor was contagious; his benignity undeniable; and his fund of stories, despite frequent coarseness, entertaining and inexhaustible. Here is an incident illustrative of one of Nye's well-known defects. Just before Secretary Chase resigned the Treasury in the Summer of 1864, Horace Greeley, being in Washington, was asked who he thought would be a good successor to the important office. "The best man I can think of," replied Greeley, "is Jim Nye." "Jim Nye? You can't mean it. What in the world is there to recommend him?" "Just this," answered the journalist. "I've known Nye for a good many years. He's always borrowing money, and I've never known him to pay a dollar back. Now, if he could be in the Treasury, he'd keep borrowing in his old way, while nobody could ever get anything out of him, and the result would be that the Treasury would be full all the time—and the Treasurer would be 'full,' too—and things would go on swimmingly."

ONE of the most important mining suits ever tried in Eastern Nevada was commenced on the 16th in the District Court at Eureka. The Eureka Consolidated Mining Company is plaintiff and the Richmond Company defendant. The former brings action at law for the recovery of $2,250,000, the estimated value of 35,000 tons of ore at $70 per ton, which is alleged in the complaint to have been taken by defendant from plaintiff's ground. Plaintiff will also file a bill in equity, asking for an injunction restraining defendant from further working of the disputed ground until trial of the case can be had. The famous Potts' chamber, from which so large an amount of rich ore had been extracted by the Richmond Company, is situated on the disputed ground. Plaintiff, in its complaint, bases its claims to the ground under an Act of Congress and also under the covenant of compromise entered into between the two companies in the settlement of the celebrated suit between them which was tried in the District Court several years ago, and which resulted in a disagreement of the jury. The case cannot come to trial before next March.

A MOVE is on foot to have the county seat of Mohave county changed from Cerbat to Mineral Park. This proposition meets with the support of the majority of the citizens of Mohave county, as Mineral Park not only has a much larger population than Cerbat, but is also the business center of Mohave county. The change would certainly be right upon the principle that the object of legislation is "the greatest good to the greatest number."—Arizona Enterprise.

DURING the past week there has been a general rain over nearly the entire State, except our immediate locality. We have had but a few unimportant showers. The papers report that in northern California enough rain has fallen to give a reasonable assurance of a fair crop.—Sumner Gazette.

THE "OFF" SIDE OF A BET.—"De family dat I b'long to never takes a dare," exclaimed a colored man at the Central Market, when a stall-keeper offered to bet him a quarter that he wouldn't take off his boots and run to the City Hall and back.

The money was put up in the hands of Brother Gardner, the colored philosopher, boots and stockings came off, and away the man trotted in the snow.

"I believe I takes dat currency," he remarked, as he returned in gallant style.

"De stakeholder desires to call de attenshun of dis crowd to de followin' paragraph in de daily paper," remarked Brother Gardiner, exhibiting a paper and placing his finger on the statement that John Morrissey had declared all bets off.

"Dat settles dis queshun at once," he continued. "I returns all de money cept three per cent., and de case is jus de same as afore Mr. Jackson hoofed it round in de snow."

HER WEAPONS.—A very heavy woman about 40 years old was making some purchases in a Woodward avenue store yesterday, and, while moving across the store, her spectacle case fell from her pocket to the floor. It was picked up by a cash-boy, who handed it to her with the remark:

"Here's your revolver."

"'Tis, eh?" she remarked as she received the case—"well, that's my hand!"

The "box" received by the lad on the ear echoed all over the store, and when he rose up on the other side of the counter, the canvass seemed to have settled in favor of the old lady. She looked after him, pawed over the calicoes and mused: "I wasn't brought up to stand sass from children, and I don't believe I can ever get used to it."—Detroit Free Press.

WARD District, White Pine county, is a lively mining camp. Two furnaces are running to their fullest capacity, producing a superior quality of bullion. The mill, now in course of construction will be completed in a short time, when the clatter of stamps will add to the prosperity of the place.—Nevada Tribune.

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE WHY ORDER OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE SHOULD NOT BE MADE.

IN THE PROBATE COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California. In the matter of the Estate of Francisco Gonzales, deceased. Order to show cause why Order of Sale of Real Estate should not be made. It appearing to the Judge of said Court by the petition this day presented and filed by Sebrano Arana, the partner and co-owner with the said deceased in that certain mine or lode known as the "Hidalgo mine," situate in the Ceso Mining District, in said County and State, praying for an order of sale of real estate, that it is necessary to sell the whole of the said real estate in order to protect the interest of said estate of said Francisco Gonzales, deceased, in and to the lode or vein known as the "Hidalgo mine," situate in the Coso Mining District, County and State aforesaid.

It is therefore ordered by the Judge of said Court that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased appear before said Probate Court on Friday, the Twenty-Third Day of February, A. D. 1877, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the Court Room of said Probate Court, at the Court House, in Independence, in said County of Inyo, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the Administrator of said estate to sell the real estate of said deceased as above set forth.

And that a copy of this order be published at least four successive weeks in THE INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper printed and published in said County.

JOHN A. HANNAH.
Probate Judge.

OFFICE OF THE COUNTY CLERK of the County of Inyo.

I, Wm. B. Daugherty, County Clerk of the County of Inyo, State of California, and ex-officio Clerk of the Probate Court in and for said County, do hereby certify the foregoing to be a true, full and correct copy of an order duly made and entered upon the minutes of said Probate Court.

Witness, my hand and the seal of said Probate Court this 12th day of January, A. D. 1877.

Brown's Matrimonial Method.

"Brown, I don't see how it is that your girls all marry off as they get old enough, while none of mine can marry."

"Oh! that's simple enough. I marry my girls off on the buckwheat straw principle."

"But what is that principle? I never heard of it before."

"Well, I used to raise a good deal of buckwheat, and it puzzled me to know how to get rid of the straw. Nothing would eat it and it was a great bother to me. At last I thought of a plan. I stacked my buckwheat straw nicely and built a high rail fence around it. My cattle, of course, concluded it was something good, and at once tore down the fence and began to eat the straw. I dogged them away and put up the fence a few times, but the more I drove them away the more anxious they became to eat the straw. After this had been repeated a few times the cattle determined to eat the straw, and eat it they did, every bit of it. As I said, I marry my girls off on the same principle. When a young man that I don't like begins calling on my girls I encourage him in every way I can. I tell him to come often and stay as late as he pleases, and I take pains to hint to the girls that they'd better set their caps for him. It works first rate. He don't make many calls, for the girls treat him as coolly as they can. But when a young fellow that I like comes around, a man that I think would suit me for a son-in-law, I don't let him make many calls before I give him to understand that he isn't wanted around my house. I tell the girls, too, that they shall not have anything to do with him, and give them orders not to speak to him again. The plan always works first rate. The young folks begin to pity each other, and the next thing I know they are engaged to be married. When I see that they are determined to marry, I always give in, and pretend to make the best of it. That's the way I manage it."

ON the morning of January 20th, the body of Charles Collins, chief engineer of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad, was found in his house at Cleveland with the appearance of having been lifeless twenty-four hours. One revolver was held fast in his hand, while another and a razor lay near him on the bed. He undoubtedly committed suicide by shooting. It is supposed the late accident at Ashtabula made him deranged. Mr. Collins' family was absent at the time of the shooting.

A YOUNG fellow named A. B. Hoffman while in a saloon in Virginia city, happening to remark that he wished the city would burn down again, was on the instant collared and walked off to jail. He will be given a chance to explain himself more fully.

AT Bakersfield on the 18th instant, the Bakersfield Brewery was burned. Loss, $3,000; insurance, $2,000. Some uninsured personal property of considerable amount belonging to other than the owner of the building, was also destroyed.

ONE hundred and fifty infant alligators were killed by the cold in Palatka, Florida, recently.

The amount of suffering among the poor of Southern cities this Winter is unprecedented.

The brick work of the Visalia Court House is finished.

The amount of taxes levied in Tulare county this year is $109,423 41.

An enterprising thief in Visalia stole a wagon from the Grangers' store.

A mining tunnel is being run under the Court House lot in Downieville.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 7.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The Woman Suffrage Convention has been held in this city during the last two days and your lady readers, at least, will be interested in some account of prominent women whose names have been familiar to us all through the newspapers and through the books they have written. I must begin, of course, with Elizabeth Cady Stanton, President and oldest member of the Association; a sweet, motherly looking old lady, very like the pictures we see of her, but much more lovely and charming in her appearance because of her color which cannot be represented in an engraving, and which is as smooth and pink and fresh as a baby's. I think she ought to be called "Mother Stanton;" one cannot look at her without thinking of the word. She is quite portly, moving with majesty rather than clumsiness. Her hair is white as wool and she wears it in a high coil at the back, puffed in front and ornamented only with a black lace barbe; she is evidently the leading spirit among the Suffragists, though Susan B. Anthony might seem to rival her in this. The last named lady is nearly the reverse of "Mother Stanton", as can well be imagined. Tall, gaunt, bony, angular and awkward, stooping a little and wearing enormous shining spectacles, her appearance is enough to intimidate any one man who dare oppose her when she is in earnest. She is a strong thinking woman, however, evidently well-read and acquainted with the world. Miss Anthony insisted upon voting last Fall in New York, for which offense she was arrested and fined a hundred dollars. The payment of this fine has never been exacted but is filed against her. Mrs. Swisshelm, from Pennsylvania, for many years editress and proprietress of a Pittsburg newspaper, and by whose means the bill giving married women the right to hold property in their own names, was passed some years ago in that State, spoke very ably on the first day of the Convention, rather reproving the harangues that had previously been made about and against the men, saying: "God bless the men! They've always placed their strong breasts between us and life's rudest, roughest burdens! And they'll always have it to do. They're willing to!—I can't scold them much." Mrs. Matilda Josslyn Gage is another of the veterans in the city this week. She and Mrs. Stanton and Miss Anthony are the only ones of the original movers now left. Mrs. Stanton remarked this yesterday and said she hoped they should not have to enter the kingdom of Heaven disfanchised, but if it must be so—and she feared it would be her own case at least—they could but hope for good fruit from the seed they were sowing and had sowed. Mrs. Lockwood, Attorney at Law, and Dr. Mary Walker, both of Washington, spoke on the second day. Mrs. Lockwood has her own individual grievance—as do most of these good ladies, in fact—in that she was lately refused admittance to the bar of the United States Supreme Court. She introduced a petition in Congress this week for the removal of legal disabilities of women, which was read in the House, referred to the Judiciary Committee, and ordered printed. Dr. Mary Walker was the only one of the Suffragists who appeared in anything like a "Reform Costume." She wore her usual dress, boots and pantaloons a la masculine gender, and outer garment a sort of half fitting frock reaching hardly to the knee. This lady is quite a determined character in her way. The last session held by the Association, she attempted to submit a resolution at a time when it was out of order and so insisted upon it that President Stanton sent for a policeman to remove her.

Congressional matters are daily increasing in interest. Southern and other Committees are beginning to report and there is a general bustle at the Capitol indicative of important business. Barnes, the telegraph operator in New Orleans, who has been imprisoned for a week past on account of his refusal to produce telegrams demanded of him by the Investigating Committee, has now consented to do so, and starts for Louisiana to-day, under the surveillance of a Sergeant-at-Arms, to procure the papers, ordered to be back and report here within ten days. Mr. Orton has also been allowed to leave the city to consult his physician in New York.

SAXON.

IT is an ill war that brings nobody good. Both Russia and Turkey are eagerly buying up American revolvers and rifles. By the Colt machinery bought by Gen. Gorloff, already 3,000,000 rifles have been turned out; Russia has imported 100,000 Smith & Wesson revolvers and 20,000,000 cartridges, to say nothing of the 400,000 cartridges manufactured daily in Russia from American machines. Meanwhile Turkey has contracted in Rhode Island for 800,000 Martini-Henry rifles, of which 250,000 have already been shipped, and 100,000 more are already for export.

"ARE those gratuitous?" asked an old gentleman of a druggist's assistant, taking a patent-medicine almanac from a pile on the table. "No, them's almanacs," curtly answered the matter-of-fact assistant.

"IF you don't stop your coughing, sir," said a testy and irritable Judge, "I'll fine you a hundred pounds." "I'll give your lordship two hundred if you can stop it for me," was the ready reply.

All Sorts.

Virginia owes about $45,000,000, and insists that West Virginia is bound to shoulder $15,000,000 of it as her fair share, but the latter State is not willing to do this. North Carolina's debt aggregates about $20,000,000. Tennessee owes about $21,000,000. The bonds are chiefly held in New York, and the owners have requested a committee of eminent bankers who are not themselves interested in them to endeavor to secure a reorganization of the debts upon an equitable basis.

Last evening a well dressed but dreadfully drunk man stumbled into Coroner Hodge's office and asked, "Whurzecurner?" "That's me," replied Mr. Hodge. "All righ'," said the visitor, winking with deep cunning, "all righ', I'm broke; Now (hic) you hola inques' ouer me an' (hic) divide er fees; eh, ole f'ler?" The Coroner sprung the trap and the body awaits identification.—Gold Hill News.

The attempt made a short time since to burn the picture, "Battle of Lookout Mountain," which has been on exhibition at Rochester, New York, has been clearly shown to have been the work of incendiaries. There was an insurance of $25,000 on the painting which Capt. Crandall, the agent, had obtained from three insurance companies.

The Wheeler Surveys.

Washington dates of January 21 have the following: The annual report of the surveys west of the one hundredth meridian, under the direction of Lieutenant Wheeler, United States Corps of Engineers, is now about ready to be issued. It will exhibit many interesting facts regarding the topography and resources of the regions examined in Colorado, New Mexico and California during the last fiscal year, under special instructions from the War Department. An examination was made to ascertain whether the waters of the Great Colorado River of the West could be diverted to the adjoining plains for the purposes of irrigation. The report thereon is accompanied with illustrations and well regulated data, showing the problem to be difficult if not impracticable. Special investigations have been inaugurated with a view of distinctly dilineating in colors upon the atlas and maps of the survey, the irrigable, grazing, mining and mountain sections of the whole region hitherto unexplored by the Wheeler expedition, covering since the year 1869 nearly 400,000 square miles. These expeditions have been sent out by the War Department principally for the purpose of gathering topographical data for the mapping of the country, and incidentally to report on the mineral, agricultural and other resources of the region west of the 100th meridian, and its climate, geology, etc. Maps of a large portion of the area have already been published. The matured results of the survey are to be published in seven quarto volumes. Two of these—viz., geology and zoology—have appeared; the third, paleontology, is nearly ready for distribution, and the remainder well advanced. Topographical and geological atlas sheets will be issued from time to time. There will also be issued a monograph upon the routes of communication, showing distances between elevations, wood, water, grass, etc. This information is much sought for by parties contemplating the locating of colonies, the transfer of large herds to grazing grounds, etc. The appropriations for this work last year, although limited in amount and not available until late in the Summer, have afforded gratifying results, several field parties continuing their labors up to December, and returning to headquarters in Washington well laden with data to be elaborated and submitted to the Government and incidentally to the public. If Congress makes adequate appropriations, during the present session, parties will be put in the field early in the coming Spring, as skilled assistants, instruments and outfits are all at hand ready for camping at any time.

Cultivate the Memory.

Sir Arthur Helps, in his "Life and Labors of Thomas Brassey," the great English contractor, urges that in youth great pains should be taken to "cultivate the services of that most admirable friend and servant, the memory." He makes the observation that all men who have great powers of mental calculation, or who show great readiness in speech or action, have made it a practice to rely on memory alone. They have never condescended to what Sir Arthur calls "that weak practice of making many notes."

Among the examples which he adduces in favor of his suggestion is that of the late Lord Lyndhurst and the late Baron Rothschild. Lord Lyndhurst, when one of the most successful lawyers at the English bar, or while discharging the arduous duties of Lord Chancellor, did not indulge in much writing to aid his memory. Baron Rothschild, though at the head of a banking-house whose transactions belted the world, did not rely upon notes or written materials of any kind. He expected his memory to do its proper work, and he never discouraged it by making many notes.

Another example more favorable to Mr. Helps' position than the two he adduces, is that of Mr. Hudson, formerly the managing editor of the New York Herald. For years he carried the whole editorial business of that Journal in his head. For years he never lost his hold of a detail, never forgot a suggestion, or lost sight of an opportunity, and they came to him by the hundreds. One day he made a note. From that time his memory began to desert him, and he was soon compelled to rely wholly upon his note book.

The late Justice Sprague, of the United States District Court of Massachusetts, was another striking example of the service which memory will do for the man who trusts it. Owing to weakness of the eyes, he could neither read nor write. Yet he would sit for days hearing testimony, listening to the long arguments of counsel, and when he came to charge the jury, it would appear that not a detail of the evidence or a suggestion of the arguments had been forgotten.

The suggestion of Sir Arthur is one which should be heeded by all who would educate themselves to good, trustworthy, intellectual work—Youth's Companion.

NEAR Chester, some time ago, a colored justice sent a colored man to jail upon a charge of stealing cotton. The case was brought before Judge Mackey, who upon investigation found that the negro had simply taken his own cotton, and was of course wrongfully in jail. The Judge was angry. "What did you put that man in jail for?" he thundered at the trembling justice. "For stealin' cotton, sah." "Did you have any proof that he was guilty?" "No, sah; it was one of these here cases that don't have much proof." "Then how could you find the man guilty?" "Wal, sah, he looked guilty, and I found him guilty."

CRUMBS OF COMFORT.—Tom: Hulloa, Bill, how's your mate Jack! Bill: Oh, 'e's dead, poor old Jack is, through catchin' a cold sweepin' up the snow. Tom: Poor chap! hi am sorry. Ah well 'e won't 'ave to sweep up no snow where 'e's gone to.

PROVIDENCE.—Lady: "Well Tibbets, and how is your son getting on?" Nurse: "Oh, he be getting on first class thank'ee mum. He told us yesterday as how he'd been and joined one 'o those 'ere burial societies. So he's provided for all right."

"GEN." JUAN NEPOMUCENA CORTINA, the freebooter of the Rio Grande, has caused great annoyance to the United States and Mexican Governments during the last twenty-five years. He was born among the Sierra Madre mountains, and is about fifty-two years of age. In the war of 1846 he was a courier, spy and bushwhacker in the Mexican service, and since that time he has been engaged in so many acts of brutality and violence that the Mexican authorities have been obliged to disown him. As long ago as 1860 Gen. Heintzleman reported to the War Department that Cortina had been a fugitive from justice for ten years. For many years he has made his headquarters at San Jose, a few miles from Brownsville, Texas.

THE VOTE ANALYZED.—The Senatorial vote on the compromise, analyzed politically and geographically, shows that 19 Republican, 26 Democratic and 2 Independent Senators voted for it, and that 15 Republican, 1 Democratic and 1 Independent Senator voted against it. Of the Democrats voting for it 19 are from the South and 7 from the North, both the Independents voting aye being from the North. Of the Republicans who voted aye two only are from the South. Of the Republicans who voted no 7 are from the South and 8 from the North. Eaton of Connecticut is the only Democrat who voted no. Cameron of Wisconsin is the one Independent who voted against the bill. So figures the Chronicle.

THE Courier-Californian says that the proprietors of the sheep at the Tejon ranch have adopted the plan of turning their flocks loose in the hills of the Tejon. It saves all care and is said to be the cheapest plan. All sheep men in the lower country are adopting the same plan. John Barker, a former resident of Stockton, has discharged his seven herders and turned his 13,000 sheep loose in the canyons and foothills of Kern river. Some sheep owners, previous to the advent of the rains, fearing the results of the possible long drought, ordered their herders to kill all the lambs as fast as they were dropped, in order to save the ewes from starvation. A great slaughter resulted among many bands.

CHARGES of libel are pending against Horatio Marteen, preferred by J. Fletcher Jordan, the colored minister of Los Angeles. It seems that Marteen has been writing letters to the Elevator, an organ of the colored people on this coast, in which he charged the divine with various irregularities. Among the rest are charges of swindling, scheming and undue familiarity with the colored sisters.

A WOMAN named Mrs. M. Grant, shot and killed John Gilroy at Bridgeport, Mendocino county, January 23. The reason assigned by the murderess is that Gilroy talked about her. She is the mother of six children. The instrument of vengeance was a double-barrelled shot-gun and the method of butchery lying in wait by the road side.

GEN. BELKNAP and his wife, who have a suite of rooms at the Arlington House, Washington, receive much attention from people who are loth to forget the hospitality extended to them by the ex-Secretary and his wife in their days of prosperity.

IT is stated that the Porte intends asking France to send military officers to Constantinople to instruct its gens d'armerie, and to England for competent financial administrators, with a view to reorganizing the Turkish finances.

THE Nevada Assembly has passed a bill making County Assessors ineligible for a second term. The popularity of an Assessor is not regarded by the Legislature of Nevada as a guarantee of impartiality in his assessment of property.

The San Diego World has discovered an Indian squaw living in the Canego rancheria, who was a little girl when the walls of the San Diego Mission Church were commenced in 1769, and is consequently about 111 years old.

IT is now said a recanvass of the votes in Florida under the direction of Gov. Drew, gives the Tilden Electors 97 majority.

SAN FRANCISCO imported $2,000,000 worth of goods last year in excess of the amount imported in 1875.

JOHN R. MCPHERSON has been chosen United States Senator by one vote over Fred. T. Frelinghuysen, the present incumbent from New Jersey.

A CHANCE FOR INVENTION.

The Eureka Sentinel suggests that there is no better field for inventive talent, nor one more certain of a rich reward, than that offered to the discoverer of a cheap and reliable concentrating process. As the mining conditions in that portion of Nevada and this region are almost identical we shall give the sum of the Sentinel's observations as suggestive to our own readers.

There are millions of tons of ore in Inyo as well as Eureka assaying from five to eight per cent. lead and five to twenty dollars say in silver and gold. It is needless to remark that here, with our present crude and costly processes, even higher grade ore than the last designated is practically of no more value than so much broken granite; yet in Europe ore containing not to exceed two per cent. lead and five dollars in precious metals is constantly being made to yield a rich return. The root of their success is simply cheap and reliable labor. True, they also have a fuller knowledge of the business, gained through experience, very complete appliances and machinery, and generally speaking a cheaper motive power than is attainable here in the immediate vicinity of our ore deposits. But as neither the requisite knowledge or the most elaborate machinery is beyond our command, the only real or material point of advantage in their favor is involved in the matter of their abundance of cheap labor; still it would be better for us that our low grade ores should ever cumber the ground than to be made of value through the European price of labor. It does seem that our inventive talent, together with the vast percentage in our favor in having such quantities of what we may call good first class low grade ores, ought to be made to more than overcome this labor disadvantage. If there were no glittering bonanzas, or ever ruling hopes of others just at hand, to monopolize the attention of all our coin and talent it would not be long till this low grade ore problem would be solved. But who is going to stop to pick up rubies when they have firm faith that, just beyond, the surface is aglow with diamonds? No one, till satisfied the diamond part is an illusion; nevertheless, there is a real bonanza in these millions of tons of ten and twenty dollar ores, now rated as waste rock.

We cannot tell how it is to be found—we are confident, though, it can and will be found, and is right now better worth the attention of both science and coin than any possible new Comstock. The object of these remarks is simply to invite attention to the matter, not to instruct. Cheap transportation, complete machinery, and capital necessarily, and all that, added to present processes would accomplish enough to satisfy reasonable demands; but the surest way to secure all these for the general and individual benefit lies in successful mining inventions, such as will give a tangible value to the class of ores here referred to. Our contemporary thinks the most promising method would be through concentration—when five tons can be concentrated into one, retaining as near as may be all minerals of value, the problem is solved perfectly. So it would be, but it is possible the same end may be attained by reduction processes yet untried or unthought of; perhaps by simple improvements in machinery now in use, same as Morse harnessed lightning when all the world knew for decades that it might be haltered, that much but nothing more by human power or knowledge. Science can do as much with low grade and intractable ores as it did with intractable lightning, and when it does will receive a no less reward.

IF onions are sliced and kept in a sick room, they will absorb all the atmospheric poison. They should be changed every hour. In the room of a small-pox patient they blister and decompose very rapidly, but will prevent the spread of the disease. Their application has also proved effectual in the case of snake-bites.

THE following remedy for diphtheria is reported to have been succesfully employed by a lady in Virginia City: Spread roasted onion on flannel, sprinkle over it salt and black and red pepper, and apply to the throat as hot as can be borne. Give inwardly, also, some black pepper and salt, either dry or in water.

THE Kern County Gazette says the story "that John G. Dawes went to sleep one night with 2,000 head of sheep and next morning woke up and found them all dead but one, turns out to be a fabrication. S. L. Cutter has received a letter from Mr. Dawes, saying he only lost twenty sheep during the entire trip."

A MOST remarkable lawsuit is now pending in Los Angeles, in which a party sues to recover damages from another who refused to loan him money.

THE President refuses to install either Puckard or Nichols. He will await the action of the law-making power.

MEXICAN depredations on the Texas border have been recommenced.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 3.....1877.

TREASURER'S WORK.—We dropped in on County Treasurer H. M. Isaacs, just as he was closing up his work of balancing accounts in readiness for his semi-annual report, and glancing over his pile of vouchers and neatly kept books, it was plain to be seen the office is no sinecure. Here, for the month of January, for instance, there were no less than 360 warrants of various denominations paid off, each of which, of course, requiring a calculation for accrued interest, an indorsement, book entries, etc., all involving work and due attention. The sum of the payments for January aggregate $34,298 98, of which $15,300 are drawn on the Expense Fund. All warrants on this fund, up to and including September last, have been paid off. The issue since that date is inconsiderable, so that we think this fund will be equal to all its obligations for the past year.

AT HIS POST.—Register R. M. Briggs got back from his trip to the other side, on Thursday. He made a somewhat shorter stay there than he anticipated, by reason of the fact that an important suit at law, in which he was counsel, was postponed until the middle of the present month. We are quite sure that the Judge's representations of the facts in relation to the resources of this region will tend greatly to awaken capital to its superior inducements. His circle of business and social associates in San Francisco includes the very class of men we would wish to become acquainted and interested here, not only in mining but other enterprises, and the Judge is just the man to give them a proper understanding of the facts. We shall have occasion to refer to some of them hereafter.

PERSONAL.—Among our visitors this week were Benjamin Russell and Wm. Barrows, of Cerro Gordo. The first named is the recently appointed "Notorious Public" for that place, and Secretary of the Union Con. Company, and as for the second everybody knows that he recently quit merchandising in Cerro Gordo and now proposes to bid this region a good bye. He will locate in San Francisce.....Dan Williams, of Darwin, is also in town, being on a sort of a passear. Daniel don't get so far away from home very often, not in this direction, anyhow.

THE PANORAMA.—The Jones Bros. gave an entertainment here last Saturday evening, which was quite well attended and fairly enjoyed by all. The entertainment in the main was a calcium light steroptican arrangement, well worth seeing. Prof. Black wound up the performance with some very good sleight-of-hand tricks, but there is not enough of novelty in such things to drive an audience, even in this wilderness, frantic with delight, so it was a good idea to make that a mere incidental part of the show.

LA CRONICA.—This highly esteemed newspaper, and the only one in the Spanish language in Southern California, three or four weeks since entered upon its sixth volume. We would cheerfully commend La Cronica to all who read, or are trying to learn to read the Spanish language. Dr. Gelcich of Lone Pine, is the agent for this county.

WAR IN LONE PINE.—Wednesday afternoon, several of the leading men were discussing the "Justice of the Peace" question of that place. It came to hard words, then to blows; ax and pick handles, knives and a Henry rifle were produced. Plenty of womens' screams, no bloodshed—the curtain fell.

IMPROVEMENTS IN LONE PINE.—Messrs. Dodge & Munzinger have had their brewery premises fenced in. Mrs. Barry has had her lot graded, on corner of Washington and Bush streets; is going to plant fruit trees. Mr. Burckhardt laid a flume under Washington street, and the street will lose its muddy appearance.

GEORGE CLEMENS, with too much lager aboard, made the attempt to cross the Sierras on the Lone Pine trail, the other day. A noble red man found him in a stupefied condition near the old mill. After getting up he left the "darned country" in disgust, via Walker's Pass.

DIED IN THE HOSPITAL.—Thomas Williams, a native of Wales, aged about 35 years, died in the County Hospital on Wednesday, 31st ultimo, from softening of the brain. He had been brought down from Cerro Gordo on the day previous.

"WAY UP THE HILL."—Those fond of the curious, sticklers for legal exactness and admirers of technical niceties, are referred to some of the exceedingly comprehensive descriptions of property, to be found in the delinquent tax list published herewith.

RETURNED.—Uncle Abe Parker got back from his extended eastern tour this week, during which he waxed stronger and fresher in appearance than ever, so it is unnecessary to ask him if he had a good time.

REGULAR MEETING.—The regular term of the Board of Supervisors begins on Monday, and at which time ye honorable county dads will have much of county finances to study out and fix up.

QUERY.—And now the qestion arises, How is County Clerk Daugherty to manage about that license business? We would offer a "suggestation" if he thought that would do any good.

ICE FOR NEXT SUMMER.—Mr. Hawn has built an ice house in Lone Pine, which he hopes to be able to fill from stock procured in the mountains to the west.

THE SMALL POX.—Shortly after the arrival of the man, a Mexican, who brought the small pox to Darwin he was visited by a young lady, a Miss Arambula, who took the disease from him, causing her death a short time ago. Miss Aarmbula, we believe, was a former resident of Lone Pine, and a much respected young lady. This is the first and only death from the contagion that has yet occurred in the county as far as we have heard, but we fear it will not be the last unless the utmost care is taken to prevent its further spread. And in this connection we will again call attention to the fact that Dr. Matthews, of the Post, is vaccinating gratuitously all who apply to him; vaccination, if not re-vaccination is a precaution no one should neglect a moment longer than necessary.

MURDER IN DARWIN.—Deputy Sheriff W. L. Moore brought in to-day a miner named——Buckingham, who is charged with killing another miner named —— Anderson. Both men were employed in the Lucky Jim mine. It appears that on the night of the 31st ultimo the men had a dispute over a game of cards at the headquarters of the Lucky Jim mine, and it culminated by Buckingham procuring a huge knife and walking up to Anderson without a word and plunging the weapon into his breast, killing him almost instantly. Buckingham was taken in charge by the Superintendent of the mine. He waived an examination, and as considerable feeling was manifested by a large number of miners toward him, he was placed in charge of Moore and shipped to the County Jail.

WILL NOT PRACTICE.—As will be seen by his card in this issue, Dr. Blair will suspend his medical practice, other than what he may be required to do as a mere matter of accommodation, until after his certificate from the State Board of Medical Examiners is received and filed. The doctor has a diploma from the Glasgow Medical College, and this, together with his certified affidavit, he will forward to the State Board at once. Dr. Blair has always been quite successful and popular in his practice here, and in that respect, the certificate of the State Board will give him no additional advantage.

THE DELINQUENT LIST.—This official display will be found at length in this issue. Quite a number have paid up since the taxes became delinquent, among these, some of our heaviest taxpayers, otherwise the list would have been decidedly the largest we have had. We would suggest that it would be much safer in regard to legal requirements if Assessors hereafter would be a little more explicit in wording each description of property assessed, than has been the rule up to this time. There are certainly many of those as given that would hardly do to "tie to" in a legal sense.

THE BLANEY FAMILY.—Through a Galveston, Texas, paper, we have an item of news that will be of interest to the friends of the Blaney family, formerly of this place. The item referred to will be found under the head of "Married," the bride being the eldest girl of the family and in her childhood days here, which was but a short time since, better known as "Puss" than Agnes Blaney. Including herself, four of the children are in Texas while four others are in San Francisco. The bride and all have many friends in this county to wish them the best this life affords.

STATISTICAL FANCIES.—The census of Inyo county has not been taken for some time—hadn't any to spare. Males predominate about 20 per cent. over the females—about 37 per cent. of both would change or assume matrimonial relations were there an opportunity presented. Within the county limits there are: School houses, 9; Churches, 1; Breweries, 5 and Saloons, 58. The deplorable scarcity of the latter may be accounted for from the fact that nearly all of the stores keep liquors for sale.

RE-APPOINTED.—Wm. Higby, who succeeds John Sedgwick as Internal Revenue Collector for the First District, including this section, was duly installed on the 24th ultimo. We do not know what changes he has made elsewhere, but for this division he has reappointed Mr. H. L. Childs, late of this establishment, and who has proved himself a most efficient and reliable officer. It is said this division has had as good if not the best Deputies in charge of any in the District.

NOT DEFUNCT.—A stranger looking over our columns this week might think advertising hotels in this county were mighty scarce, all gone in. Well, they are not, but the fact is the last one of them got knocked into pi last week, and despite our best efforts we have not been able to get them, and all the other sufferers from the same cause, on their pins again in time for this issue. But we give the delinquent tax list instead, which will be more of a novelty.

FILED THEIR CERTICATES.—The following named M. D.s have filed certificates with the County Clerk from the State Board of Medical Examiners showing their right to practice medicine under the anti-quackery law: W. Matthews, U. S. A., Camp Independence; Fred. T. Bicknell, Darwin; C. C. Wainwright, Bishop Creek.

RAILROAD MEETING.—There will be a meeting at the Court House on next Saturday evening, February 10, to which everybody is invited. The object of this meeting is in connection with railroad affairs. Come and see.

NEW GAME.—The last sensation among the sports is a sort of an exaggerated edition of seven-up, called bulldosing. Twenty-eight points can be made on one hand, or you can easily get bulldosed.

THE FRENCH RESTAURANT.—Travelers and others will find an excellent table at Levy's restaurant, this place. There is one of the best cooks in the country, there, we are told. See advertisement.

RELOCATION.—J. W. Smith, the popular saw mill man of Black Rocks, is engaged in re-locating his mill. The new site will be about nine miles nearer Independence than the old one. The saw—which by the way is one of the best in the country—will be sent below and hammered over and with new machinery will be set up immediately in a new lot of timber. The lumber will be flumed about a mile and landed on a convenient spot near an excellent wagon road. Jeemes will no doubt turn out a very superior quality of lumber, he and will be ready for the Spring trade.

LETTER LIST.—Letters addressed as follows are remaining in the Postoffice at this place, February 1st: James Jenkins; E. J. Kelley; James McDonald; Matthew Rome Penrose; A. W Pratt and J. C. Wisser.

SPLICED.—The main-top gallant mast of the flag-staff, which was decapitated at the Post during a storm, has been fixed; the splice is about 30 feet. (So the wires tell us.)

ARRIVED.—Mr Holt got back here on Thursday, and we suppose will begin work on the Rex Montis mill, as mentioned heretofore.

DAILY MAIL.—Cluggage & Co., have received orders from the Department to supply Columbus with a daily mail, commencing March 1st.

THE NUMBER.—A friend informs us there are now four patients in the County Hospital, all doing well.

THE COMPROMISE MEASURE.—It is no news to most of our readers to tell them that the National Returning Board bill is now the law of the land, having passed both Houses by decided majorities. By virtue of this bill Congress was to begin canvassing the electoral vote on the 1st instant, while the four Justices were to have met to choose the fifth on the day previous. Judge Davis positively refuses to serve. The President signed the Joint Commission bill, and supports it in a sensible message. He says it is the best guarantee against a possible civil war. The measure is universally indorsed by the people, but received its support from politicians only as a necessary expedient.

THE Bill to create the new Territory of Huron, has passed the Senate and will in all probability pass the House, as there appears to be no serious objections to it. The new Territory will contain about 70,000 square miles and 10,000 inhabitants. It is proposed to make the young but rapidly growing town of Bismarck, Capitol of the Territory. The region is spoken of as the very best for agricultural purposes in the United States.

AGRICULTURE VS. MINING.—The mining debris case, which has been on trial so long in Judge Sexton's Court, Sacramento, was finally decided in favor of plaintiff (the farming interest). This was the opening gun in a contest that is exciting great interest among farmers and miners in various portions of the State. The damages in this case were assessed at $4,000, but a stay of proceedings was granted so we presume the contest does not end here.

JUDGE DAVID DAVIS has been elected U. S. Senator from Illinois. This is an Independent victory. Judge Davis, by this election, is rendered ineligible for the fifth place among the Judges of the Electoral Commission, and the choice will probably be narrowed down to Swayne, Bradley and Hunt.

REPORTS from all parts of Kansas are to the effect that during the recent warm spell the young grasshoppers hatched, and that the subsequent storms and cold weather killed them, and the probability is that the State will be entirely rid of this pest the next season.

THE continued falling off of customs and internal revenue receipts has excited the apprehension of high officials that the Government will be compelled to buy gold to pay the May interest on the public debt.

THE House has imprisoned members of the Louisiana Returning Board because they will not produce election returns no longer in their possession or control. It looks as though the House was making an ass of itself.

THE United States Secret Service at Cincinnati has made the most notable capture of counterfeiters on record.

THE House Committee on Mines and Mining have reported unfavorably on the bill taxing the net proceeds of mines. How can it be expected otherwise, as nearly every member of both Houses was pledged in their county conventions to oppose every attempt in the Legislature to change the law. —Austin Reveille.

A MAN named Kind shot a man named Shearer in Oakland a few days since because Shearer winked at Mrs. Kind, or something of that kind. It was a case of sheer jealousy and an indication that Kind unkindly looked upon the kindness of Mrs. Kind in kinder kindling—machine broke down.—Union Democrat.

RAUM, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, indorses the action of United States Attorney Bliss in bringing suit against Tilden for his income tax.

A MARYLAND jury declared that a man had come to his death "by an unknown wagon."

Corrected Table of Distances.

We have been favored by the Post Commandant of Camp Independence, Capt. A. B. Macgowan, with the following corrected table of distances on the stage road from Camp Independence to the railroad at Mojave, by miles and tenths, to which is supplemented a general table of distances by railroad to many principal points. It will be found reliable, and well worthy of preservation for reference:

THE assertion having been made public by Judge Bronsen, that Larkin, who was recently hanged at Virginia City, was an innocent man, much feeling has been manifested against the Judge and jurors who convicted the accused. Now the other side of the story is out. S. T. Cowie, associate counsel with Bronsen in the defense of Larkin, publishes in the Enterprise a statement, in which he says: "I know from Larkin's own lips that he shot Daniel Corcoran. Had Larkin asserted his innocence upon the scaffold, no word should ever have escaped me; but as he was too truly repentant to die with a lie upon his lips, and as he expressed the kindest feeling to all men, I feel that he would desire me to speak. The dead I cannot injure; but I can prevent an injustice being done to the living—to gentlemen who have only performed a duty which I doubt not was a painful one; and I can disabuse their minds and the minds of this community of any suspicion of a doubt that an innocent man had been executed or a judicial murder committed."

CLERICAL JOKE.—Our dispatches yesterday morning included an item announcing the death at Buffalo, New York, of Rev. Dr. Lord, a Presbyterian clergyman, noted for his talent and eccentricities. It is reported of him by a Sacramento correspondent of the Record-Union that the friends of his affianced objected to his union with her; he and the lady concluded to wed without their permission. When her absence from home was noted there was found addressed to her relatives a note from her chosen husband which explained matters briefly as follows: "The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord."—Record-Union.

No less than four companies, all organized for the purpose of building canals to convey the waters of the Humboldt on to the rich agricultural lands, known as the "Big Meadows," near the sink of the Humboldt, have recently filed plats of their proposed ditches in the Recorder's office of Humboldt county. All of them seem to mean business, and have had the canals surveyed and more or less work done on them. It is stated by residents of the Meadows that thousands of acres of land will be under cultivation there in two years from date.

TOM WILLIAMS, of Nevada, said in a public address: Within three years the "bonanza" now exposed in the Consolidated and California mines alone will produce over one hundred and fifty million of dollars. At the next Centennial celebration the representative of Nevada will speak for an empire in wealth and population which will have produced minerals enough in value to equal the present national debt.

MODOC.—Total amount of bullion shipped from the Modoc for the month of January, up to the 19th instant $82,-277. The stock of the Modoc was selling on the 23d at $4 87½ @ $5, while the Con. Virginia, which shipped for 20 days in January only a little more than twice as much, was selling on the same date for $51 50@$53 75. Comment is unnecessary!—Coso Mining News.

Two enterprising coasters bestrode their sleds at the top of the Divide, and started down hill. They never stopped until they reached the Devil's Gate toll-house, two miles and a half below. —Gold Hill News.

A "BEAR" MOVEMENT.—A Virginia city dispatch of January 25 gives this: A plot to destroy the hoisting works in the C. and C. shaft was discovered Monday morning just as the engineers had changed shifts. The man who had just come on tried the water-cocks and was astonished to find no water in the lower one. He turned on the pumps at once, but was still unable to fill the boilers. It was then discovered that the blow-off cocks of the shaft-boilers had all been turned open, so that the water was blown out as fast as the pumps forced it in. The steam and water from the blow-off pipes are carried a long distance down the hill from the works, so that the engineer could not tell at first what the trouble was. Had the discovery been made but a few minutes later there would have been a terrible explosion, resulting in the destruction of the works and great loss of life. Last Friday night an attempt was made to fire the hoisting works of the Consolidated Virginia mine in a portion of the basement, where a lot of oils, tar and other combustibles are piled. One of the watchman extinguished it just after it had started, but the incendiary could not be found, though a rigid search was at once instituted. The force of watchmen around all the works of the bonanza mines has been increased by Superintendent Fair, and all are supplied with shot-guns. The belief here is that both of these attempts have been made by scoundrels in the employ of "bear" operators in San Francisco.

CARBOLIC ACID IN DIPHTHERIA.—W. H. Kempster, one of the health officers of London, writes to the Lancet as follows: "On reading Dr. Johnson's admirable paper on diphtheria in your late issues, in which he advocates local disinfectants in the treatment of that disease, I was surprised to observe that while he recommends the use of chlorine, permanganate of potash, sulphurous acid, and more especially perchloride of iron, no mention is made of carbolic acid—an agent tried by me some years ago in despair at the almost invariably fatal termination of cases treated by the agents recommended by Dr. Johnson. Since that time, by using carbolic acid, given in the form of a mixture of Acid. Carbolic. Opt. (Calvert's), one to five minims (according to age), with a drachm or two of syrup, orange and water (thus getting rid of gargles and the painful operation of swabbing the throat, the act of deglutition bringing the mendicant into contact with the fauces and other parts affected). I have lost but one patient out of some 30 or 40, in which case the air passages were affected from the first. It is well to state that in all these cases the characteristic exudation was visible, and they were not cases of ordinary cynanche." Mr. Kempster writes at a later date, that numerous cases since treated on the above plan have all recovered; in very severe cases he obtains good results by local application of No. 1 carbolic and glycerine (1 to 4) with a camel-hair brush.

TO START UP.—We are informed by Mr. Henry Sweetapple, who was in town yesterday, that a force of hands will be put upon the Mount Diablo mill on Monday next for the purpose of giving it an overhauling and putting in repair to run on ore from the Mount Diablo mine. This mill was formerly the property of Messrs. Sweetapple & Hazeltine, who worked it successfully for a number of years and made handsome fortunes out of it. The mill has five stamps, with reverberatory furnaces and the usual amalgamating appliances. It is intended to work in this little mill those ores which it is necessary to remove in the course of prospecting the mine, until sufficient development is made to justify the building of a large mill. High hopes are entertained by the Mount Diablo stockholders in this camp, and the very high grade ore which the mine has produced, together with the very flattering showing made by the recent work, seems to fully justify their great expectations.—Borax Miner, Jan. 27.

SHIP-BUILDING.—Captain Harrington of the bark Pacific Slope, which, it will be remembered, was built in San Francisco, writes from Sydney: "The Pacific Slope is all I could wish, and were I going to build another vessel, there is not one item I would be able to change for the better. I therefore look back on my ship-building operations with great satisfaction. The vessel is universally admired in this port, and is by far the finest ever registered in the Australian colonies. Ship-owners are surprised at the Pacific coast being able to turn out such a vessel and are inquiring considerably as to the cost. It is therefore probable that the building of the Pacific Slope will be attended with a good result, and show the great value of Oregon timber for ship-building.

MR. CHARLES T. PARSLOW, who played the Heathen Chinee so well in "The Two Men of Sandy Bar," has just signed a contract for a play by Messrs. Mark Twain and Bret Harte, which he will have the sole right to produce in America and Europe. The character is that of the Chinaman, as originally described by Mr. Harte in Ah Sin.

IT has come to light that Pat. Rooney, the author, actor and singer, holds the works of Shakespeare in light esteem. At Chicago, recently, Mr. Haverly met him in the lobby while "The Twelfth Night" was being played, and asked him "how he liked the comedy?" "Bad," said the great Pat, "rotten bad, it's not a marker to the 'Shaughran.'"

A WILD cat lodged in one of the tunnels on Monday last and snarled and growled at the passing overland train. The passengers next the windows were somewhat frightened, but the animal made no attempt to enter the cars through the window, and their nervousness was but momentary.—L. A. Express.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 3.....1877.

THE emancipation of Brazillian slaves is progressing in a slow but continuous manner, according to recent statistics. In the province of Goyaz the 8,903 slaves registered in 1872 had on the 31st of December, 1875, become reduced to 7,888 by 357 deaths, 222 liberations, and 436 removals. In the province of Pernambuco, during the same four years, the 106,201 slaves dimished 3,386 by deaths and 1,049 by emancipations. From September 28, 1871, to the end of December last the number of children of slaves born free under the law of 1871 was 12,312, of whom 2,802 died, leaving 9,510. In the province of San Paulo there died from April, 1872, to the end of 1875, of the 147,746 slaves registered, 8,561 died, and 3,410 were emancipated. In 111 of the 151 parishes the free born births were 18,186, of whom 6,861 had died.

"OH, you say this gentleman was about fifty-five," said Canning to a pert young man in the witness box, "and I suppose now you consider yourself to be a good judge of people's age, eh? Ah, just so. Well, now, how old should you take me to be?" "Judging by your appearance, sir," replied the witness, "I should take you to be about sixty; by your questions I should suppose you were about sixteen."

"I SAY Jim," inquired a young person of his companion, who was but a few years older than himself, "what does 'P. M.' mean after them there figures on that railway bill?" Jim responded conscious of his own wisdom, "Penny a mile, to be sure!" "Well, and A. M.?" "Oh, that means—that means," said Jim, hesitating, "that means a a'p'en'y a mile!"

AT a recent examination in one of the schools in Washington, the question was put to a lot of small boys: "Why is the Connecticut river so called?" A bright little fellow put up his hand. "Do you know, James?" "Yes, ma'am. Because it connects Vermont and New Hampshire, and cuts through Massachusetts!" was the trimphant reply.

THE abbreviation mania has reached such a hight in the Great West that a Burlington minister announced last Sunday morning that he would t. a. t. (take a text) bearing on the g. b. f. (great Brooklyn fire), and that the r. m. c. (regular monthly collection) would now be taken up b. t. d. (by the deacons). The congregation smole a smile.

"Is married preferable to a single life?" was argued at a recent meeting of a Peunsylvania debating society. Only one married man appeared for the negative, and he came down to business next day with his arm in a sling, a green patch over his eye, and a general appearance of having slept out all night in the cellar.

"TAKE something?" inquired a stranger of the crowd in a saloon, one day last week. "Don't-mind-fi-do," cried the gang in chorus, springing to their feet and advancing. "Well, then," exclaimed the stranger, breaking for the door, "take a joke." They took it.

THIS is the sort of compliment Otis D. Swan received from a New York evening paper: "His position gave him no opportunity to handle the funds of the institution, and his connection with it was marked with strict integrity."

THE bad women of Chicago are not afraid to own it. When Moody called for them to come forth, one thousand females responded. Had he called for all the blacklegs not more than half the aldermen would have been present.

THE fashion of wearing bracelets is rapidly making its way in London. The Duke of Edinburgh's own bracelet is a chain cable of gold tightly riveted around the wrist, but in some cases these manacles are loose.

IN October, 1877, electors of Colorado will vote upon the question of conferring the right of suffrage upon women, and small men have already mostly promised the head of the family which way they will vote.

CANADIAN papers complain sadly of diminution of game and fur-bearing animals for lack of adequate legislation. Even the polecat is said to be in danger of speedily becoming extinct.

ACCORDING to French statistics for 1875, one hundred and fifty-two men became lunatics through love, while the heads of only thirty-seven women were turned by the same cause.

A YOUTH was recently tried in England for breach of promise, who had written to his sweatheart 227 love letters since 1867. Those letters cost him £100, not including stationery.

"Is your master up?" asked an early visitor of a nobleman's valet. "Yes, sir," replied the valet, with great innocence; "the butler and I carried him up about 3 o'clock."

DIALOGUE between two Lowland Scotchmen, a farmer and a tradesman. The farmer takes up a fabric, and the following questions and answers ensue: "Oo?" "Ay, oo." "Ah oo?" "Ay, ah oo." "Ah ae oo?" "Ay, ah ae oo." That is: "Wool?" "Yes, wool." "All wool?" "Yes, all wool." "All one wool?" "Yes, all one wool."

As demonstrating the fact that women are fast getting their rights, an exchange says: The fair sex is gradually being made eligible to all the offices which have neither salary nor perquisites.

"YOUNG MAN," said he solemnly, "I'm sorry to see you smoking tobacco," and the young man assured him that he wasn't — that it was a Connecticut cigar.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 25.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The inhabitants of Washington are at the present time divided into two great classes, viz., the rich and the poor. Between saint and sinner, East and West, bond and free, Pagan and Christian or Heaven and earth, there was never a greater gulf than yawns between these two classes, living in this same great city, breathing the same air, spending the same hours of the time God has lent them. I purpose to write a short account of the doings and condition of both at this time. The season is quite gay already, though not as much so as is usual at this time in a Presidential or inauguration year. Few strangers are in town and many who have spent the last year here are now absent; but enough remain to fill the concert hall, lecture room, theater and opera houses to overflowing with right fashionable and richly dressed audiences and to throng the ball rooms and dinner parties that are of nightly occurrence. A club of bachelors gave a "German" one evening this week, which was attended by hundreds of wealthy people, many of the ladies being attired—so said the daily papers the next day—"in most exquisite Parisian toilettes, fashioned after Worth." Which toilettes, by the way, cost hundreds, ay, thousand, of dollars, without including the almost priceless jewels, diamonds, rubies, sapphires, etc., which accompanied the rich costumes. And these ladies "regretted so very much"—Not that there were fellow creatures dying that very night in the street from hunger, cold and exposure, and not a dozen squares away from that very ball room, O no! —that the Grand Duke Alexis had not arrived in town, that he might have been present at that German, since it was the very best opportunity the season would afford for the display of beautiful clothing, rare jewels and the fine accomplishments of their wearers. At Mrs. Grant's reception last week, that lady appeared in a magnificent costume of canary-colored silk, worn under a black silk Court train, with deep lace trimmings, high corsage and sleeves slashed to the shoulder. Mrs. Sartoris wore an elegant blue damasse trimmed with point lace, and Mrs. Fred Grant, a cream-colored, with cardinal garnishings. In these rich and costly robes they received the elite of the city, many of them as richly dressed as themselves, and sparing no pains nor money for the adornment and ornamentation of their poor bodies. It is not pleasant to turn from such bright pictures as these to such as I am now to present, but it might be better—certainly much sorrow and suffering might be alleviated—if these very persons whose dress I have been describing, would turn and take one glance at them. Never before has there been so much suffering from poverty in Washington, as this Winter. The reasons are various. To begin with, there is a greater number of poor in Washington, largely colored people, than in any other city of its size in the Union. They flocked in here during, and at the close of the war, to be taken care of, and they remain for the same reason. By nature and education inactive and without ambition, they live from hand to mouth at the best, and have no power over circumstances in a time of emergency such as the present Winter has brought upon them. The huts and shanties they occupy, thrown up in a day, as they were, and that years ago, are by no means designed for protection against such severe weather as we have seen in this region the present season. The unsettled state of the country and the attendant stagnation of business of all kinds have thrown hundreds who were willing to work, out of employment, and the District has no government of its own, hence cannot relieve the poor by taxing the wealthy. Private charity has done much; one of the latest relief movements in this direction is the starting of a soup house, which gives hot dinners to several hundreds of half-starved creatures daily. Another is a subscription, by means of which 1,500 loaves of bread are distributed among the poor each week. A person was looking up destitute families a few days since, and in a dark damp room in a darker, damper alley, he found no less than 15 human beings living in one room, shivering round a broken stove and poor fire. There were three generations represented, though the family was one; several babies among them, and upon inquiring what was their means or expectations of support, it was answered that Mrs. Brown, a sick lady over the way, had promised the old mother work by and by, and upon this nursing these fifteen were depending. An appropriation of $20,000 was made by Congress last week, to be drawn in monthly installments by the Relief Commissioners of the District, so the worst of the suffering is over for the present.

Things appear to move on smoothly at the Capitol. Both Houses are actively discussing the Compromise Bill and the prospect is that it will be adopted, giving five Senators, five Representatives and five U. S. Judges the power of deciding the Presidential question. SAXON.

How Queen Victoria Lives.

The Queen's drawing-room and bedroom are more simple than those of some New York ladies I know. The first mentioned is upholstered in pale blue satin, the walls hung here and there with a few family portraits. The books of the day, the magazines and (when her Majesty is at the castle) the newspapers are placed here. In this parlor breakfast is laid each morning for the Queen and her only unmarried daughter, the Princess Beatrice. Lunch and dinner are served in a handsome dining-room on the other side of the gallery, the most recent adornment of which are portraits of the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, the Queen being it is said, most particularly attached to her proud and imperial daughter-in-law. The bed-room, where her widowed Majesty sleeps, is hung with two shades of yellow satin, and there is little adornment to it in the way of art objects. But if it were bare of every yard of hanging, every stitch of furniture, it would still possess such a vision of loveliness over park and stream, meadow and lawn from its windows, as would recompense for the lack of any man's adornments. It is quite sufficiently provided with these, however, and is a comfortable, elegant, small and cosy bed-room.

Further on, the privileged visitor will find the rooms which were always occupied at Windsor by the Prince Consort, and have never been used since his death. The faithful servitor who points them out says that nothing has been touched in them since the fatal 14th of December, 1861, when the "blameless Prince" quitted these scenes of earthly glory to find, let us hope, even more delightful ones among celestial spheres. The Prince's hat and cane stand where he last placed them; the book he was reading is left open at the page he left off; the bed on which he slept and whereon he died stands exactly as it did when he breathed his last; an inscription on its foot records the date of his birth and of his death. To come daily into these deserted rooms and see for herself that the thoughtless hand of some servant has not disturbed any of their pious arrangements; to gaze her fill on the vacant couch, the unfinished book; even (it is said) to herself brush away any trace of dust which may have fallen within the hour upon the cherished relics of her dead husband, is a duty scrupulously performed by this exalted woman and good wife each day when she is at Windsor. It may be that it is the report of these true wifely actions—which could not degrade a woman if she were a queen of heaven instead of Empress of India—which have spread from lip to lip and formed a basis for unfounded gossip about the Queen's semi-lunacy concerning the Prince. That she causes his plate to be placed at all meals, talks to him as if he were present, and other things more shocking than these, are rumors without a grain of truth in them at this time or formerly.

Two misers, father and son, live under the same roof. The elder falls dangerously ill and proposes to call in one of the best doctors of the city. "But, father," remonstrates the pious son, "you know how expensive his visits are." "Yes, my son," replies the father, "but it is true economy after all; fancy what a mint of money it would cost to bury me in Paris."

A MURDERER who had chopped his wife to mince-meat, produced, evidently, a deep impression on his keeper who remarked on the night before the execution: "Poor devil! I can't help feeling sorry for him. So patient, so good-hearted! Why, sir, since sentence was passed upon him he has never opened his lips to blame his wife."

As a gentleman was nearly run over in a narrow street by a dray, he shouted to the driver, "Do you want to kill me?" Whereupon the intelligent driver replied, "If I had knowed you was coming this way I would have sent you a postal."

El Paso District.

The El Paso District is situated in the Desert range, on the southern end of the chain of mountains in which the rich mines of Coso, Darwin, Lookout, Panamint and other well known camps are located. The district was discovered in 1860, but the attractions of Washoe and the famous lodes of the Comstock drew the crowd of prospectors and adventurers in that direction; consequently most of the claims were abandoned. Malcom and his party have re-located some of these ledges and discovered some more, all of which, so far as they have been worked, look splendidly, and judging from the samples of ores which we were permitted to inspect, the mines are very rich. We have had some experience in quartz mining countries and do not remember of ever seeing finer or richer silver-bearing ore. The ledges vary from 4 feet to 12 feet in width and are traceable on the surface for miles. Should they hold out as well as they promise, there is no doubt that El Paso will soon become one of the most important mining camps in the State. A shaft 80 feet deep has been sunk on one of the leads —on which a tunnel is also being run— and at that depth the ledge continues to grow wider and better, thus giving evidence of the permanency of the mines. The ore is easily extracted and assays from $50 to $10,000 per ton. Lumber sells for $100 per thousand and the scarcity of timber in the immediate vicinity causes some inconvenience. There is no mill in the district yet, but a company from Los Angeles intend building one in the Spring, and as there is a considerable quantity of ore already on the dumps, it will be apt to be kept pounding pretty lively for a time and no doubt will be followed by others. The altitude of the mines is 6,000 feet above the level of the ocean, and the locality is a true desert in all the prominent features. But one lonely willow tree graces the arid waste; greasewood, sage-brush and cactus are found everywhere, and they grow large enough to make excellent fuel. Numerous springs throughout the mountain districts supply an abundance of good water. Within 25 miles of the camp there are (gold) placer diggings which prospect from two cents to a bit to the pan, but cannot be worked with profit owing to the scarcity of water. The famous Borax lake, owned and worked by the Searls Bros., is also in this vicinity. These works employ from 30 to 40 persons, and ship to San Francisco monthly 100 tons of borax, which is said to be of the purest and best quality.—San Benito Advance.

Peculiarities of Animals.

Frogs, toads and serpents never take any food but that which they are satisfied is alive.

If a bee, wasp or hornet stings, it is nearly always at the expense of its life.

Serpents are so tenacious of life that they will live six months without food.

Turtles dig holes in the sand by the sea-shore, and bury their eggs, leaving them to be hatched by the sun.

Lobsters are very pugnacious, and fight severe battles. It they lose a claw another grows out.

Naturalists say that a single swallow will devour six thousand flies a day.

A single codfish produces more than 1,000,000 eggs in one season.

Toads become torpid in Winter and hide themselves, taking no food for five or six months.

Serpents of all species shed their skins annually, like sea-crabs and lobsters.

Turtles and tortoises have their skeletons partly outside of, instead of within the body.

It is believed that crocidiles live to be hundreds of years old. The ancient Egyptians embalmed them.

In South America there is a prolific honey bee that has not been furnished with a sting.

Seals are as intelligent as dogs, and may be made to perform many tricks like them.

The head of a rattlesnake has been known to inflict a fatal wound after being separated from the body.

If the eye of a newt is put out, another eye is soon supplied by rapid growth.

Fishes have no eyelids, and necessa- sleep with their eyes open.

Alligators fall into a lethargic sleep during the Winter like a toad.

CAPTAIN MOORE submitted to our inspection this morning a specimen of coal taken from the Carson vein, near the Arroya Seco, about four miles from the city. It is a black, friable coal, with a very well defined grain such as would be presented by a decomposed piece of wood. The deposit is doubtless lignite, of the same character as the coal deposit in Mount Diablo, and if it is extensive, its location so near our city will give it immense value.—L. A. Express.

ABOUT 300 men are now at work on the Southern Pacific Railroad Company's new depot and car- shops at Los Angeles. The round-house contains stalls for sixteen engines; the shops will be fitted up with all the necessary machinery, which will be run by a large stationary engine; and there is an extensive net-work of railroad tracks, forming the necessary side-tracks, switches, Y's etc.—Santa Monica Outlook.

THERE is a business look about this little item from an Eastern paper: "One thousand one hundred workmen are employed in New Haven making cartridges for the Turks."

THE COMPROMISE.

The latest we have in reference to the proceedings of the Electoral Commission is to the 5th, the question then being in reference to the Florida vote. The Tilden counsel were contending that it was the duty of the Commission to go behind the returns of the Returning Board, while the Hayes counsel were contending just as strongly to the contrary. It is an important question independent of its bearing upon this particular election, and the Commission seem disposed to weigh all the facts with great care. Should it be decided to go back of the returns as contended for by the Democrats, it is supposed by many that the main question is virtually settled in Tilden's favor without going any further. Most people favored the bill to submit the question to a Commission believing that if so done it would be the duty of that Commission to investigate the whole election question involved, with little or no regard to purely technical restraints, or especial regard to so-called States rights. Then, as touching the immediate issues that course would be more generally satisfactory than to confine the matter to the limits contended for by the counsel for the Republicans. To reject their plan and adopt that of the Democrats may or may not be a violation of Constitutional rights of States as claimed by the Republicans; it does not seem that it could be any more so than was the submission of the main question to this Commission. The very greatest interest is manifested by politicians of all classes in Washington in the proceedings of the Commission, particularly while this Florida question is pending. If decided as desired by the Democrats, it will yet take some time to reach a conclusion, since the whole manner and matter of the election in Florida will have to be considered, and then decided on its merits without reference to the acts of any of the State officers or the Returning Board. In that case, though, the Democrats are confident they will prove a legitimate majority in the State of from 40 to 90 votes in favor of the Tilden Electors, and when that is done, as before stated, there will neccessarily be nothing more for the Commission to do, and Tilden will be President. If not so decided then comes the Louisiana and Cronin questions. The first will consume a great deal of time; the latter not so much.

THE HUMBOLDT REDUCTION WORK SWINDLE.—A short time since we reproduced an article from the Eureka Sentinel detailing how the foreman of the Humboldt Reduction Works had swindled a miner named Lockwood. In reference to that transaction, the Silver State, published at Winnemucca, denounces the story published as a lie, and demands a retraction from the Sentinel and also threatens a libel suit. In the Sentinel of the 4th instant we find an affidavit from Lockwood fully corroborating the original story in all essential points, and such being the case the threatened libel suit does not look at all dangerous. The Silver State calls on all the papers which reproduced the alleged libellous article to give the facts on the other side. No doubt they will all do it with pleasure when the facts are known to be contrary to those already given. Unless Lockwood's statements were absolutely false in the first instance, it would be a difficult matter to say anything too severe in reference to such a swindling institution as the Humboldt Reduction Works were thereby shown to be.

THE blackest cloud has frequently a silver lining. Things are not always as bad as they seem, and matters might now be in a much worse state. We have several things to be grateful for. There are not so many people in debt as formerly. Persons who were involved have taken occasion during the past few years, by carefully saving their wages or income, to clean their property of mortgage. It is a good thing to be out of debt. The larger number of people have been forced to practice economy, and they have found that they can live quite as happy as if they spent large sums on knick knacks and articles of no practical utility.

THE testimony of Maddox as to corruption in the Louisiana Returning Board grows serious. Wells' letter to Senator West is very compromising to the former.

THE treaty with Nicaragua, with reference to the ship canal has been arranged, and merely awaits the formalities of approval.

THE members of the Electoral Committee are already suffering one of the penalties of greatness. They are being talked to death.

OUR COMING STATE ELECTION.

The country has had so much of political agitation in the last ten months or so, that it would gladly take a rest, and for a short time, at least, turn its undivided attention to the bread and butter question. But there is no rest for the wicked, which means the politicians, of course—so now before one most exhausting contest is ended we are told to get ready for another. Already the hosts are marshaling for the little affray set for next September in this State. Already bad blood has been engendered in each camp, not against the other so much, but among their own respective adherents or factions, as to who or which is to lead, and thereby be sure of the first grab. This is the case particularly among the Democrats of San Francisco, where there are two or more factions contending for precedence, each claiming the right to organize and control the party. This factional contest has waxed warm. One result is that it is stirring up the Republicans and they too are getting ready even this early. This factional trouble of course will all come to an amicable conclusion in due time, and all energies be directed toward the defeat of the common enemy. While they are settling the internecine quarrels and at the same time enlisting the attention of the people in the main contest, we can see what the prizes are to be, there being no other issues worthy of immediate attention. The election next Fall is to be for members of the Legislature and county officers only. The grand prize is the election by the Legislature of a successor to Sargent in the United States Senate. Hence, the choice of members of the Legislature becomes of great party importance, and that is why the fight is being put on this early in San Francisco. The chances are decidedly in favor of the Democrats, inasmuch, if for no other reason, that they have such a preponderance of the hold-over State Senators, that branch cannot be wrested from them by any combination of circumstances. Of the twenty hold-over Senators, sixteen are Democrats. It is true one, Montgomery from Stanislaus, was elected as an Independent, but during the last Legislature he went into caucus with the Democracy, and acted with the party. Of the other hold-overs, three, Evans from San Joaquin, Flint from Santa Cruz and Hilborn from Solano, are Republicans. The remaining one, Haymond, from Sacramento, elected as an Independent, has on more than one occasion announced his intention of acting with the Republican party. The hold-over Senators may therefore be classed, 16 Democrats and 4 Republicans. The California Legislature is composed of 120 members. In a full joint convention 61 votes are required to elect. At the election in September there will be 80 Assemblymen and 20 Senators to be chosen. Supposing that Haymond will continue to act with the Republicans, that party, to be certain of electing Sargent's successor, will need to secure 57 out of the 100 Assemblymen and Senators to be elected. The Democracy however, only require 45 out of the 100. It is evident from the early preparations, that very strenuous efforts will be made both by the Republicans and Democrats to capture San Francisco. That city elects 20 Assemblymen and 3 Senators, a solid delegation on either side then will go a long way toward securing the Senatorship. The Democrats believe, and not without fair probabilities in their favor, that they can return by far the larger portion of the San Francisco delegation, and thus become masters of the Senatorial situation, with all the fat offices thereby implied, so, within their own lines, each faction feel the need of securing the controls—hence the present squabble in that city. At the late election San Francisco gave a total Republican majority of 776, but that affords little or no criterion by which to judge the result of the contest for members of the Legislature who are elected by districts, most of which are Democratic. But the Republicans on the other hand, are confident of securing a portion of the San Francisco delegation, and in that case the grand result hoped for will be determined by the rural districts. Therefore, here in Inyo, and all around, operations will be watched jealously by the central powers at San Francisco—not only watched but, in a good measure, controlled from that city as regards the choice for Assemblyman and joint Senator. Our local politicians will begin to shape their plans accordingly. Mono and Inyo elect one Assemblyman. There is nothing in the complexion of past votes of the two counties to give either party a safe guarantee for naming the successful man. Inyo, Mono, Fresno, Tulare and Kern elect one Senator jointly. The Democratic majority in this Senatorial district is very large, and therefore, in view of the party question involved in the United States Senatorship, there is little for any Republican or Independent candidate to hope for in that nomination. But it is in the power of these votes on this side of the mountains to compel a choice satisfactory to our local interests, and with that hope it is highly proper the Republicans and Independents should get ready for the war-path.

Cost of Producing Furnace Bullion in Inyo County.

A short time since, the Coso News compiled and published tables showing the actual daily expense of producing bullion by smelting in this county, as demonstrated by the operations of two leading furnaces. Following are the tables and a portion of the explanatory remarks:

NEW COSO EXPENSES FOR ONE DAY.

One Foreman	$10 00
Two Assistant Foremen	10 00
Two Engineers	10 00
One Machinist	6 00
One Blacksmith	5 50
One Helper	4 50
One Carpenter	5 50
Three Chargers	15 00
Three Smelters	15 00
Three Helpers	12 00
Two Coal Passers	9 00
Five Laborers (ore men)	20 00
One Cartman, Horse and Cart	6 50
One Night Watchman	5 00
Iron Ore, 6 tons per day used, at $16 50 per ton	99 00
Lime Rock, 14 tons per day	50 00
Charcoal, per day	396 00
Wood, 6 cords per day	66 00
Water, per day, 3,000 gal	30 00
Sundries, Oil, etc	5 00
Total expense per day	780 00
Total expenses for 17 days	13,260 00

The furnace is of fifty tons capacity, and when running well, smelts an average of 20 tons of ore per day.

DEFIANCE EXPENSES FOR 17 DAYS' RUN

Coal, 14,800 bush. at 32 cts	$4,736 00
Labor	1,564 00
Wood, 34 cords at $11	374 00
Iron Ore, 30 tons at $16 50	495 00
Water, $22 per day	374 00
Sundries at $5 per day	85 00

The furnace is of 30 tons capacity, and has smelted in the 17 days' run 550 tons of ore at an average cost per ton of $12 05.

By these figures which are very nearly correct, it will be seen that the Defiance has smelted its ores at an expense of $12 05 per ton, whereas the New Coso Company has smelted its ores at a cost of $39 per ton.

In order to present at one view all the authenticated details yet furnished relative to the cost of producing lead bullion in this county we here re-produce Superintendent M. W. Belshaw's statement for the Cerro Gordo furnaces, which he kindly furnished THE INDEPENDENT, and was first published last August. In this connection we will add that Mr. Belshaw in this same mine at Cerro Gordo inaugurated the first successful silver-lead smelting operation on the Pacific slope. This was in 1867, since which, except when interrupted for about two years by litigation, he has maintained it in successful operation constantly. This table shows the cost:

Ordinary labor	4 per day

Total running time of furnaces, 331 days; tons of lead produced, 1,325—or 64 per cent of lead assay; 90 per cent of silver values saved.

THE Virginia city papers draw a gloomy picture of the destitution prevailing there. Hundreds of men have been thrown out of employment, who throng the streets pleading for work without being able to obtain it. Many of these men are with families, who are thus deprived of support. This is attributed to the depression in the mining share market, causing slack work in the mines.

THE Pacific Railroad whales and the small fry of the lesser lobbies were all ruled off the floor of the House lately, which they resisted violently.

PIUTE ADRIFT.

CHAPTER XVI.—NIAGARA FALLS IN WINTER.

"Insects glide the golden air,
But eagles only breast the storm!"

MESSRS. EDITORS—Most all the Californians who visited the East last Summer, made hot haste to return home before Winter set in. It required the tenacity and obstinacy of a Piute to wait for Winter greens and "beautiful snows." He remained East until the beautiful had accumulated to the depth of 24 inches. Then came jingling of bells and the delightful sleigh-riding. This spinning around in a flying cutter, is enjoyment beyond description; and though the night air fiercely bites, we are still expected to pronounce the whole affair "perfectly magnificent." Piute hearing that the weather was bitter cold further East, and not knowing but what the snow might fall to a depth of 24 feet, he concluded to move West, consequently one cold, blue morning, when all the trees and branches were in a state of pure white crystalization, a lot of us found ourselves snugly stuck in a snow bank three feet deep, in Canada. However, the train conductor soon consoled us by announcing the fact that a little further on the snow was four feet deep! Just then we thought that a sleigh was a more expeditious conveyance than a locomotive, so we hired a sleigh and struck out gracefully for the great Niagara Falls. We all knew that Niagara was always considered a Summer resort, and by our going there in the dead of Winter, we concluded that the Niagara people would brand us as a crowd of escaped lunatics from Kalamazoo. When we arrived at the Niagara Hotel, the proprietor appeared and looked suspicious. However, we assured him that although we had just come from the Black Hills and had scalped many a redskin up "thar," we felt no desire just then to injure him. He then felt somewhat composed and told us rather nervously, that it was the most favorable season to see Niagara Falls in all its glory. In less than ten minutes we were all clad in oilcloth suits and oilcloth bonnets, with spurs under our feet so that we could properly steer ourselves on the ice going down a steep hill to the river bed. Thus equipped and accompanied by a negro guide we sallied forth to see the great Falls. Piute is conscious of his inability—his feeble imagery fails to depict the grand sceneries—had he the fanciful imagination of a Voltaire he might give you an interesting description of the physical marvels which here abound. Neither will he attempt a philosophical disquisition of nature's sublime creations. However, to those who have never visited Niagara, a brief sketch thereof may be interesting. The Niagara river is 33 miles long, connects lakes Erie and Ontario, and is the outlet of Lake Erie. The river forms part of the boundary line between the United States and Canada, and is the channel by which the waters of the four great Lakes flow into the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The rapids of the river are about a mile long and begin 16 miles from Lake Erie. At this point the river is 4,750 feet wide, ¼ of which is occupied by Goat Island. This island divides the cataract into two falls, the American and the Canadian. The latter is known as Horseshoe Falls, from its shape, and has twice the breadth of the American Fall. The height of the falls is 160 feet, depth of water below the Falls is 180 feet. A very grand spectacle are the innumerable icicles and huge pillars of ice, some of them 20 feet in diameter and extending from the banks to the river bed, 100 feet or more. Rooms partitioned off with beautiful ceiling and flooring of ice. Through these grand, elaborate cathedrals of ice, and also beautiful ice-castles of all sizes and fantastic shapes imaginable, we wended our way as near to the falls as possible. Here the immense volume of water tumbling down pell mell a hight of 160 feet and the beautiful rainbows forming complete circles (not semi-circles) were indeed sceneries which will not be easily obliterated from Piute's memory. Owing to the very bitter cold weather which had prevailed there, the guide told us that he had never before seen such a grand formation of ice, in every conceivable shape. The sound of the Falls varies with the wind and the condition of the atmosphere. On some occasions its roar can be distinguished as far as Lake Ontario and across its waters to Toronto, 45 miles distant. Close by it is a monotonous rumbling. The Niagara river has a total fall of 334 feet. The suspension bridge across Niagara river is a grand sight of itself. Its hight above the water is 250 feet and is supported on each bank by towers of solid rock whose centers are 800 feet apart. Twenty-eight feet below the railway track there is a carriage and foot road for pedestrians and vehicles. There are also two other bridges near Niagara. Most of those who have seen both Yosemite and Niagara, claim that the former far supercedes the latter in sublime grandeur. Still we could no more convince a Canadian into that belief than we could bump an engine off the track with a rye straw. Although the awe-inspiring Yosemite is within two or three days' horse-back ride from Owens Valley, yet very few from that section have ever visited the wonderful locality. However, they'll go 3,000 miles to see Niagara—"Distance lends enchantment to the view." An eminent writer and traveler makes the following remarks: "The gorge in the Sierras known as the Yosemite Valley is from 8 to 10 miles long and about 2 miles wide, and is enclosed by walls of solid granite varying in precipituous hight from 2,000 to 5,000 feet." For purposes of comparison let the reader remember that the Palisades of the Hudson river are but 600 feet in hight and that the falls of Niagara have a descent of only 160 feet, while there are nearly a dozen waterfalls at Yosemite that vary from 900 to 3,000 feet. The stupenduous mass of granite rises from the valley to a great hight. Although the precipices on each side are ragged and dizzy, El Capitan which is two miles broad is as bright and smooth as though it had been recently polished. Words utterly fail to give any idea of this extraordinary Valley. To paint its wonderful formation would tax the wildest imagination that ever fancifully explored into the realms of dreamland. No wonder the late Richardson remarked "See Yosemite and die." Those who have seen the Centennial Exhibition, the great Niagara and the wonderful Yosemite should now die in peace.

THE AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA.—This great work just completed by the Appletons is proving to be the grandest success of the age. The sales, which are made entirely through agents, will reach not less than 100,000 sets, or a total of $10,000,000. This work is the standard authority upon all subjects and is the epitome and ultimatum of all knowledge. It is worthy of the name of library, and should be in the home of every man of intelligence, and he who possesses and properly uses it will find it a fountain of living water his whole life through. "Specimen pages" of this work will be sent free to all our subscribers who write to the General Agents, James T. White & Co., 128 Montgomery St. San Francisco.

JOURNAL OF COMMERCE.—Painter & Co., Type Founders of San Francisco, have placed us under obligations for a copy of the Journal of Commerce, eight very large pages containing an immense amount of valuable statistical information concerning the commerce and prices current of the State for the past year, and also a large and complete map of the Pacific Coast. It is a valuable paper for reference.

BEN. HILL of Georgia has followed Blaine of Maine to the Senate, and when they meet in debate again, look out for "wah."

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10.....1877.

QUITE AN ENTERPRISE.—According to the Borax Miner, Mr. McTarnahan, the great wood contractor for the Comstock region, has in contemplation a telegraph project which, if carried out, will lead to something of value to portions if not the whole of this county and northern borders. It is this: Conditioned on securing suitable wood contracts at Belleville and Columbus, Mr. McTarnahan proposes to build a telegraph line of his own from Genoa to one or both of those points. In that event he will load his teams at Genoa with wire, insulators and poles, and with the strong force in his employ, will be able to construct the line at comparatively trifling expense above wire and instruments, and transfer his outfit to its new field of operations at the same time. Mr. McTarnahan was at Belleville last week on this business, but we are not advised as to his success in the matter of the wood contracts upon which the telegraph project is contingent.

IF you want to go housekeeping, call at Rothschild's and see their stock. *

GETTING READY FOR WORK.—Mr. Holt, of the Rex Montis, is receiving lumber and other materials with which to put the company's mill (the old Silver Sprout) in thorough repair for continuous work next Summer. The mill for the present will consist of but little else than the machinery simply—that is to say no more of a building will be erected than is absolutely necessary, until after another season's run. The machinery, however, will be of the best, and as Mr. Holt is a machinist of many years experience, there is no doubt but it will be put together in the most effective manner.

IF you want a nice hat, call at Rothschild's. *

OFFICERS INSTALLED.—The following officers of Honor (Military) Lodge No 4, I. O. G. T., were installed February 1, 1877: W. O. G., Myers; W. I. G., Shillp; W. D. M., Dowling; W. F. S., Scmidt; W. T., Nusser; W. S., G. W. Ford; W. A. S., Wm. Jones; W. V. T., Chas. O'Neil; W. C. T., C. Huntington; W. C., Hunter; W. R. H. S., J. O. Dwyer; W. L. H. S., J. Hartman; P. W. C. T., H. J. Ackley; Lodge Deputy Wm. Goodlow.

IF you want a good fence, call at Rothschild's and see the barb wire *

HOUSEWARMING.—Some thirty or thirty-five couple on Thursday night enjoyed the hospitalities of Dr. Blair and lady, at his new store and dwelling on Edwards street. The affair throughout was most creditable to the doctor's genuine liberality, and after an elegant supper at the Blaney the guests departed at a late hour well pleased with the night's fun.

IF you want some clothing suitable for the season, go to Rothschild's *

THE MEETING TO-NIGHT.—Our readers are hereby again reminded of the railroad meeting set for this evening at the Court House. A whole column might be profitably devoted to the subject involved, particularly in reference to some remarks by the Los Angeles Express, to be found in another column, touching the railroad situation, but all that will do for future reference. Meantime let us all go to-night and see what the plan is.

IF you want under garments for the children, call at Rothschild's. *

DISCOURAGED HIM.—While the camel train was passing Lone Pine, where as elsewhere it created quite a sensation, some one told George Ferrell, teamster, that the ugly brutes could pack 700 pounds each. Hearing this George felt discouraged and turned his mules out at once.

IF you want fine liquors, call at Rothschild's. *

SACRAPICED.—Justice "Bob" Peterson, the well-known, has been added to the list of late matrimonial victims. He and most estimable lady have been paying Independence a visit during the week past.

IF you want a good line of cigars and tobacco, call at Rothschild's. *

DEFERRED.—As the Board of Supervisors, for reasons mentioned elsewhere did but little business this week, and that mostly in reference to bills, we shall defer report of proceedings until next week.

IF you want some tinware, go to Rothschild's. *

RECEPTION.—One of Independence's popular reception parties was tendered Uncle Abe Parker at the Blaney House on Wednesday evening last. Everything passed of salubriously, of course.

IF you want a supply of miners tools, call at Rothschild's. *

FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—Mr. Barrows, of Cerro Gordo, is in town, en route for the Bay City. Inyo continues her contribution of successful business men to the resident population of that burg.

IF you want agricultural implements, call at Rothschild's. *

WATER.—The present is the season for sinking wells, which will become an absolute necessity during the next season.

IF you want a pair of boots, go to Rothschild's. *

INCREASING.—The number of patients in the County Hospital increased to 8 since last week.

IF you want some nice dry goods, go to Rothschild's. *

IF you want good provisions, call at Rothschild's. *

ARRESTED FOR HIGHWAY ROBBERY. On the 7th instant R. A. Paul, shotgun messenger and detective in the employ of Wells, Fargo & Co., arrested in Lone Pine a Mexican named Francisco Lugo, on charge of participating in the mail and express robbery near Mojave, when Register Briggs was one of the victims. A series of legal moves resulted. Friends of Lugo immediately attempted his release on a writ of habeas corpus. Mr. Briggs appeared and, after positively identifying Lugo and swearing out a warrant for his arrest, an examination was held before Justice Peterson, who issued a warrant ordering prisoner to be taken before the nearest Justice in Kern county. To checkmate this Paul was then arrested for falsely personating an officer, the warrant for his arrest having been sworn out by E. Diaz—upon which charge an examination was held in Lone Pine yesterday, resulting (we suppose at least) in his acquittal. On Thursday the habeas corpus motion was set for hearing by the County Judge at 3 P. M., but the prisoner's counsel failed to put in an appearance at the exact hour, and the Court remanded the prisoner to Paul's custody, who was deputized to take the prisoner to Kern county. The second of the supposed robbers was corralled at Darwin yesterday, and as the third one of the gang had been nipped previously in Kern, the Courts of that county will have occasion to provide in some way for the whole enterprising party. Circumstances connected with this matter have produced considerable feeling in certain quarters, but as we cannot undertake the details we forbear comments in that connection altogether.

THE REX MONTIS PROPERTY.—This company propose to put a large force on their mines the coming Summer, by the close of which they intend if possible to have enough done to show that they either have or have not a mine in fact. The prospects in the mine from the first down to the close of work last Fall were never more favorable or tangible in any mine on the Coast, but a fine showing for a depth of a hundred feet or so is not proof positive that the same will always continue, and realizing this fact the company are taking a very wise course in deferring the erection of costly works until they know what the requirements will be. To that end they will direct every energy next Summer. We feel confident this company will develop a mine there which will be to this section as the Northern Belle is to our neighboring portion of Nevada. We would not be in the least surprised if it turned out to be a better paying mine than the Northern Belle.

RETURNED.—Mention should have been made last week of the return from the East of Mr. John Dugan, of the Bishop Creek Flouring Mills, who "took in" the Centennial and various sights and pleasure resorts of that country, and sensibly brought back a Mrs. D. and her sister, neices of the Russell brothers. Mr. Dugan's return was somewhat hastened by the death of "Pap," or W. G. Russell, which occurred at the Morton House in San Francisco, of hemhorrhage and dropsy, as mentioned before. He was interred in the Masonic cemetery, by delegations from the various San Francisco lodges.

CAMELS.—A strange and most unusual sight, a drove of camels, interested our town on Sunday last. There were some half a hundred or more, bound for Arizona, from Churchill county, Nevada. We undertook to negotiate for a young one or two, on the basis of a ten-year note and mortgage on the print shop, but found the cost to be from $200 to $300 cash per Bactrian—which closed the proposition with a suddenness.

BIRTHDAY BALL.—The Benton Social Club are perfecting arrangements for a grand time on the 22d, as will be noted by the ball announcement elsewhere. Aside from the enjoyment of the affair the object is a most worthy one: the proceeds are to go towards liquidating the debt on the large, new school house. Ball-goers from the northern part of this county should make the 22d the occasion of a visit to Benton.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.—Owing to sickness Mr. Garretson was unable to be present at the meeting of the Board beginning last Monday. As there was considerable business of importance to come up when it was desirable to have all the members present, Messrs. Curtis and Meysan decided at Tuesday's session to adjourn to next Monday, when Mr. Garretson hopes to be able to take part.

INDICATIONS OF REFORM.—We are informed there was a stretch of twenty-four hours, all at one time, this week when no drunken Indians were to be seen on the streets at Lone Pine. Some of the more hopeful of the natives take this as an indication that reform is about to set in, while all agree that it was a mighty curious circumstance, whatever its significance.

IRRIGATING.—Mr. Rickey is announced as having entered upon the enterprise of turning the waters of Fish Slough upon the sage lands near old Owensville, on the East side of the river. It is thought that five or six hundred acres can be thus reclaimed.

NEW FIRM.—Messrs. Davis & Craytor, sussessors of the late firm of Davis & Jorgensen, appear in a new advertisement this week. Visitors from the valley to our mining metropolis should not fail to give the Darwin Brewery a call.

ON THE HILL.—Victor Beaudry, Esq., is now at Cerro Gordo, accompanied by his wife, having arrived on Tuesday last. He will remain at that point for a month or so, when his old-time friends of this region look for a visit in this direction.

JUSTICE'S COURT.—Justice Snelling's court was on Tuesday last engaged upon the trial of "Hickey" Hood, presented by the Grand Jury for killing stock. The jury failed to agree and another trial will probably be had.

THE BULLION PRODUCT.—Bullion shipments from our neighboring town of Benton for the year 1876, through Wells, Fargo & Co., amounted to $403,000—being a little more than half of the total amount of California silver shipped by express. Were it at all practicable to get at the value of Inyo's base bullion shipments, which does not pass through Wells, Fargo & Co's. hands, the statistics of bullion production of Inyo and Mono together would, we estimate, show seven-tenths of all that metal produced in this State. And the fact may as well be noted now as any other time that there is no more reason why the value of base bullion shipments should not come to the knowledge of the public as well as that of the fine bars sent by express, but such matters have always been held a dead secret in this county by every smelting company until the Modoc began work. In the matter of the cost of mining and smelting, as may be seen by tables given elsewhere this week, the mining men are nothing loth to give facts but leave us to guess the returns or profits.

BULLION SHIPMENT.—The Eclipse shipped 1,400 ounces of fine bullion last week, the result of the last clean-up, which was the most encouraging yet made.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Nelson, of the Eclipse company, got back this week from his trip to England.

"NEW GOODS."—Yes, lots of them at J. S. Rothschild's & Co's, Independence.

BENTON, Cal., Feb. 8.

MESSRS. EDITORS—This place appears quite alive with men and horses during the past week, and day by day they seem to keep on pouring in. If we may judge by present indications there promises to be a lively time hereabouts during the races. The race track has been got up in first class order and is all that could be desired. There is considerable betting on the principal events talked of and a few parties resident here are of the opinion that fully one-half of those who put up their coin will come out winner.

McCarty and another vs the Leazi Company, for failure to deliver within a reasonable time one roll of blankets, received by them in their capacity of common carriers, was an action brought to secure damages amounting to $100 and $40 as the value of detained property. Justice Cross who heard the case rendered judgment for plaintiffs; damages $40, together with restitution of the blankets. On the 2d inst. at Justice Decker's Court, a case of "The People vs John Burns," for exhibiting a deadly weapon, etc., was heard. Defendant demanded a jury trial. Prosecuting Attorney W. J. Adams appeared for the people and Messrs. Harbin, Mitchell and Almond for defense. The jury returned a verdict for defendant, there being insufficient testimony to establish a charge. Next day, the 3d inst., same vs same was heard before Justice Cross and a jury of twelve. It appears that Burns had some time after the preceding trial assaulted Justice Decker with a black-snake, alleging as his reason for acting so that Decker had tried to put up a job on him for the sake of obtaining the fees and that it was he (Decker) who trumped up the unfounded charge of the previous day, etc. In this case the jury found Burns guilty and a fine of $25 was imposed.

The Jones Bros. gave an exhibition of their panoramic views, etc., at the school house on Thursday evening last to an audience of about 70 or 80.

Dr. Fitzhugh died here last Thursday morning and was buried Friday afternoon. The old gentleman had been in delicate health for some time past but the immediate cause of death appears to have been affection of the lungs.

An effort to organize a Sabbath School at this place commenced on Sunday last. There was a very fair response. Officers and teachers pro tem were duly elected and it is to be hoped that parents and others desirous of the moral welfare of our rising generation will unite their hearty co-operation in such a movement and see to it that these committed to their charge are to be found in that place on each Sabbath day in future. A Bible class for grown persons will also be held in connection. * * *

A NEW YORK Herald Washington special says: The President does not want the date of resumption changed. The Times' Washington and other specials think the President's plan will fail. Several journals' specials announce that Judge Kelley of Pennsylvania is hostile to resumption, but that if resumption is possible at all in the near future, the President's plan is the best, comparing it with the humane man who cut his dog's tail off at once, instead of an inch a day, as others did.

A SUGGESTION, WITH AN AMENDMENT. The San Francisco Alta wants the National Capitol removed to California, on account of the extreme heat and cold of all other sections of the Union. Let the idea be carried out at once, with no demnition nonsense about it. Begin the business by the construction of $250,000,000-buildings, at say San Jose or Oakland, at the expense of the millionares of our State.

WELLS, before the Committee where he was finally allowed to testify, denies every material part of Maddox's testimony without qualification. Somebody is doing some mighty tall lying about that Louisiana business, and we suspect it wouldn't strain the conscience of either one of the above named gentlemen to do such a share as they considered requisite to meet exigencies.

A Few Serious Words.

If the people of Los Angeles do not wish to see the commerce which their geographical situation should enable them to control entirely diverted to San Francisco, they will seriously consider whether there is any way in which they can secure the building of the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad * * * A few of our energetic citizens, seeing the value of a railroad diversion in favor of Los Angeles, organized a company to build a narrow-gauge road to Owens Lake. The road was to start from Mohave, and it was necessary, in order to its success, to have a good understanding with the managers of the Southern Pacific in relation to pro rates, etc. Their proposition was at first received by agents of the company with favor, but no definite answer could be had until the managers of the company could be got together. They met a few days since, and the gentlemen who had started the new project went before them. They explained their design, and laid their plans fully before the gentlemen. To their astonishment, the President of the Southern Pacific produced maps of the very country they intended to traverse, and showed them that his company had already marked out the road, and assured them that it was their intention to build that very road as soon as they had finished the work on their main line. Not only this, but the gentlemen were assured that they would push on a branch road from Mohave to the Utah Southern, and make the connection before Senator Jones could possibly do so. Here then is a complete estoppel upon the project that was calculated to bring our city the trade of its back country. A branch of the Southern Pacific, starting from Mohave and connecting with the Utah Southern, would as effectually divest us of all hope to benefit from our interior trade as though Los Angeles were located in Kamschatka. That branch will, in obedience to the policy alluded to above, be operated in the interest of San Francisco, and Los Angeles will be left completely out of any participation in the trade it will tap and develop. How are the people of Los Angeles going to meet this state of affairs? Are they going to rest quiet and allow the opportunities of their geographical situation to be wrested from them without an effort to avert the calamity? or will they rise to the level of the emergency and try to energize and urge the construction of the only road which can secure to them a trade of vital importance to the future of their city. The Los Angeles and Independence Railroad would necessarily be operated in the interests of our city. It would be to Los Angeles what the entire Central Pacific Company's system of roads is to San Francisco. It would bring to us the trade of Inyo county and make us the commercial center of all the mining districts between the Sierra Madre and Sevier river in Utah; it would make us the terminus of a trans-continental railroad independent of all the other overland railroads; it would result in the building up of factories in our midst and of attracting to our locality a diversity of industries connected with successful mining; it would give us a bond of fate to assure us of becoming a city second, and second only, to San Francisco in wealth, commerce and population; and it would introduce a new and stable prosperity to our whole section, enlarging the possibilities of our agricultural interests and widening the channels of our domestic and foreign trade. Our people have the two possibilities before them. If they go on the apathetic principle of laissez-faire, San Francisco will get everything. If, however, they rise to the level of the occasion, vitalize and urge to successful completion the Los Angeles and Independence road, the future of our city will be confined to no narrow bounds, and we shall become a worthy but modest rival of the commercial capital of the Pacific Coast.—Los Angeles Express.

UNWORTHY OF HER OFFSPRING.—A habeas corpus case came up for hearing in the Twelfth District Court yesterday afternoon, the petitioner being Alice Stecker, who demanded from William Stecker the restoration of her daughter Alice, four years of age. It appeared from the evidence that petitioner was granted a divorce from the husband, August Stecker, two years ago, and accorded the custody of her two children, and Stecker was ordered to pay alimony at the rate of $35 a month. The former husband resides in Inyo county, and after petitioner came to this city he discontinued the alimony on the grounds of the woman's immoral habits. She finally brought up in a lodging-house on Geary street, under the name of Mrs. Elrich, and being deserted by her paramour, she was left destitute. In this plight she hunted up her former husband's cousin, William Stecker, the respondent in this case and induced him to take her two children, who were then prostrated with illness resulting from starvation and exposure, and nearly destitute of clothing. The youngest child died in spite of careful nursing and the other had hardly yet recovered. Petitioner now claimed that she had procured a situation in Marysville and was enabled to afford her offspring comfortable support. The Court did not dispute this proposition, but was somewhat in doubt on the question of moral training which the little girl was likely to receive from a mother having such lax ideas of the proprieties of life. The writ was dismissed and Alice will remain at the comfortable home of her uncle.—S. F. Chronicle.

THE United States Circuit Court in South Carolina has held that neither Hampton nor Chamberlain were legally inaugurated, and that the latter, under the Constitution, is a hold-over. The end remains to be seen.

INYO county people have projected a narrow-gauge railroad from Mohave station on the Southern Pacific, direct to the Independence part of the Panamint mines.—S. F. Alta.

Mixed. The "Brevity" man is suffering for a lesson in Inyo geography.

THERE has been another threat of a war of races in South Carolina. Observers say there is nothing in it.

Darwin Items.

We take the following from the News of the 3d:

Mr. H. W. Fortune has succeeded in purchasing for his company, the Hidalgo mine and the Portois furnace, also another furnace site for the Santa Rita Mining Company, of which he is one of the principal owners. The mine is considered one of the best in the district, there now being on the dumps several hundred tons of most excellent ore. The furnace property is good, so for as it goes, but is not of sufficient capacity, and the machinery for another one has been shipped. A contract has been let for running a tunnel for exploiting the mine and for convenient facilities. We understand that the most energetic operations are to be inaugurated at once, Mr. Fortune having gone below to consult with his co-owners relative thereto.

Dr. Joseph Lesesne, who was attending physician upon a patient who was supposed to have the small-pox, and fearing the contagion, was vaccinated, has sufficiently recovered from the effects of the varioloid superinduced thereby, to be around and ready to attend to any business in that line. His patient is also around, and not a mark of pustule is to be seen upon his face.

THE Journal of Commerce gives these totals: Yield of gold and silver on the Pacific Coast, 1876, $100,000,000, yield since 1848, over $1,700,000,000. Wheat crop, California, 1876, 22,500,000 ctls., worth $40,000,000; wool crop, California, 1876, 56,000,000 pounds, worth $9,000,000. Wine yield, 1876, 11,000,000 gallons. Quicksilver yield, 1876, 66,000 flasks.

THE Lyon County Times says that at the Leviathan mine there has been a change made. Miners will hereafter be compelled to work ten hours a day, and workmen on top will be expected to put in twelve hours for the usual $4. It is thought that a number of other mines will adopt this plan.

MATTERS at the Indian Agencies along the upper Missouri are very smooth just now. The Sioux and Cheyennes receive their blankets and their pay without grumbling, and the agent looks forward to a blissful future.

AND now the New York Sun has brought forth a Mrs. Partington who is busily engaged in mopping out the tide of compromise.

HORROR.—Panama dates of the 19th have the following concerning the civil war in Central America: A letter to the Star and Herald giving details of the recent horrible scenes at Cali, in Cauck Valley says: "General Pera who commanded the Liberals was drunk, and gave his drunken soldiers five hours freedom, during which time they gave themselves up to every excess, neither age nor sex being spared. Many Conservatives were dragged from their hiding-places and killed before the eyes of their wives and daughters, who met a worse fate before they were killed in turn. 87 houses in the center of the city were plundered; churches were robbed and murders to the number of several hundred committed. Foreigners lose from $150,000 to $200,000, in Cali, alone. In the suburbs these scenes were kept up for several days, and the country was nearly ruined. Palmira escaped the fate of Cali, by paying $20,000 ransom. The house of the Italian Consul and of an American named MacCune were plundered. Fears are entertained that a civil war will degenerate into a war of races, and the foreigners are flying.

REMOVING THE CAPITAL.—The Sonoma Democrat advocates the removal of the Capital from Sacramento to Oakland, and the Santa Cruz Sentinel quotes it with approval. The Oakland Transcript thinks the removal either to that city, San Francisco or San Jose, is a certainty at no distant day. The argument is, that the distance to reach Sacramento from the Southern portion of the State is too great, and the trip too expensive. While some of the Southern counties might favor such a removal, we are sure the whole Northern and nearly the whole of the central portion would oppose it. The present Capital city is the pride of the State. It accommodates a large portion of the people better than any other locality. It is just far enough from the metropolis to keep its officers free from the influence of the corrupt rings existing there, and we have no doubt it will remain where it is as long as the State continues one and undivided.—Nevada City Transcript.

LABOR.—We see numerous complaints in our exchanges of an overplus of working miners. At this time, with the Northern Belle Company working two 20-stamp mills at Belleville, and two mills being put in repair for operations here, a scarcity of hands is already beginning to be felt, and it is safe to say that a hundred or more additional miners could find employment in this district.—Borax Miner, Feb. 3.

A TEXAS sheep raiser says there are about 2,000,000 head of sheep on the borders of the Rio Grande, the finest sheep raising country in the world. He has imported some of these to his own ranche, and he says that in two years the clippings will net him sixty-five cents per head, which, together with the increase of stock, will yield him a handsome revenue.

THE New York Times, a stiff Republican paper, is quite certain that the Electoral compromise is "a Republican surrender." The Cincinnati Enquirer, an unyielding Democratic paper is equally confident that it is "a Democratic capitulation." What more could be said in its favor.

THE bridge for crossing the Colorado, with the Southern Pacific Railroad, at Yuma has been finished, and now lies at Oakland, ready for transportation.

The Brakesman's Story.

"Yes, sir," said the brakeman as he stood by the stove warming his numbed hands, after coming in from braking. "People think, as they sit here on their warm seats, and only hear us call out the different stations that we have a nice, soft, easy time. But we know better. Imagine yourself on a flat car all night, with the snow dashing into your face, your hands on a cold iron brake, and think if that's easy; or upon the top of a freight car, running along, the wind cutting like a knife, dark as pitch, and watching for fear you may rush suddenly under a bridge and be swept off, and perhaps left to die in the snow. Is that easy? Does that look like a soft job? To be sure, when we are transferred to passenger cars the work is nice enough, but the dangers we have to go through (for generally we have to go on freight cars first) entitles us to something better on a passenger car, and we ain't sorry when we get orders to take the head end of such a regular train.

There are very few brakemen who can't tell some never-to-be-forgotten incident connected with their life on the rail. To explain, let me tell you a story of my own experience. I remember one night, it was fearfully cold, right in the middle of Winter and snowing hard, I was brakeman in the middle of a freight train. It was running along on slow time time that night, and we were two or three miles from the station. I was standing by the brake of a flat car, trying to get warm by stamping, wishing we were at the depot, so I could go back to the caboose, out of the bitter cold, when suddenly I heard the train bumping and jumping as if a wheel had broken and I knew something was wrong. The whistle blew for brakes, and in mighty short time we had the train stopped.

"With the rest of the men I went back to see what was the matter, thinking that I might get a chance at the stove for I was nearly frozen. Going back about three hundred feet we found that one of the rails had got loose and was out of place, but, as we had been going slow, we had run over the spot safely. Our conductor looked up and seeing me, said:

"Jim, go back and signal the passenger train. She will be along in a short time now; and take this" he said, handing me a red-light lantern; "we'll go on, you can come along with the other train."

With that all hands got on board, and soon there was nothing but myself and the lantern left.

A cold gust brought me to myself with a quick turn, and then I remembered what I had to do. Holding the lantern up, I saw the light was flickering, and shaking it found it almost empty. Then I began to feel the responsibility of my position. A lamp without oil in it, the train due in ten minutes, with the chances of it being thrown off the track, and no telling how many people killed or wounded! In a case of this kind, sir, every brakeman will do his best to save human life although he sometime loses his own in the attempt, and all he gets for it is having his name in the paper and being a brave fellow.

Quicker than I tell it I made up my mind that the train must be signaled, lamp or no lamp. But how to do it was the question. If I ran ahead without a light the engineer might think I wanted to stop the train for robbery—for such things have often been done, you know—and would not only dash right on faster than ever, and maybe try to scald me as the locomotive rushed by. I tell you I felt like praying just then; but brakemen are not selected for their religious feelings, so I didn't pray much, but looked around and saw a light shining in a window some distance off. I laid down my lantern carefully on the track, made a bee line for the house and soon my knock brought a woman to the door who looked more frightened than I was at my excited appearance. It was useless to ask for sperm oil—the only sort we use—so I cried out:

"For God's sake give me some straw."

She seemed to realize the position and quickly brought a bundle. Feeling in my pocket, I found three matches and grabbing the straw, I made my way back to the track.

Laying the straw between the rails, I struck a match and shoved it into the bundles. It flickered an instant and then went out. I felt and found the straw damp.

Just then a dull, faint, rumbling came down on the wind, and I knew she was coming—the train would soon be there.

I struck the second match and it touched off the straw. A blaze, a little smoke and all was dark again, and, raising my eyes I saw the headlight of the approaching train away in the distance. But trains don't crawl, and the buzzing along the rail told me to be lively. The red light was burning but faintly; five minutes more and it would go out. For an instant I stood paralyzed, when a shrill scream from the engine brought me to my senses, and I saw that inside of two minutes more she would be there.

Seizing the lantern with one hand, I struck the last match, and bending down, laid it carefully inside the straw and then dashed forward, waving the red light. The glare from the headlight shone down the track and the engineer saw me, but did not notice the red light—the sudden waving had put it out—only screeching he came straight on. When the train was almost on me I jumped to one side and slinging the lantern over my head dashed it into the cab. The engineer saw the lamp as it broke on the floor, and seeing the red glass and battered lantern, whistled the danger signal and tried to check up.

Looking down the track, I almost screamed from excitement. The last match had found a dry spot, and the straw was blazing up bright. The train came to a stand-still. She was saved; that's all I remember.

The next I knew I was in the baggage car. They said they had found me lying by the train, in a dead faint, and—excuse me we are going to stop now."

"Stamford!" he sung out. The train stopped, and the writer went home satisfied that a brakeman's life is an exciting one.

"HUNGRY journalists are too plentiful just now by an overwhelming majority. Too many young men just escaped from the colleges desire to instruct the masses." Such is the reasoning of a San Francisco editor; and it is sound. It is undoubtedly true that the pressure of hard times is forcing many college graduates into the overcrowded ranks of journalists. Many of them would prefer medicine or the law, but cannot afford to undertake professional studies and then to wait for their practice. A special training at a professional school is not required in journalism; something can be earned at once; and when an opening in some other direction comes they can step out. The reporters' room is thus made a convenient stepping-stone to some other calling. The number of collegians who enter journalism with an earnest purpose of making it their life work is very small, while the number who wants to make a living on a newspaper while waiting for something better to turn up is altogether too large.—N. Y. Tribune.

A GOOD old colored man named Uncle Jim Hill set himself up the other day as a phrenologist, and a barber was his first subject. He placed the barber on a chair, felt of his head a long time and then remarked: "William you is too sanguine. When you lend money you expect it back. You are bilious. You want to be honest, but you hasn't the necessary character; you isn't hopeful; you is bowed down with grief the most of de time; you has an ear for music; you has de worst feet on Kentucky st.; you is de right sort of a man to wheel coal down hill for big wages." William rose up, pitched Uncle Jim over the stove and under the bed, and split a panel of the door as he went out. The aged phrenologist was at the City Hall the next evening to get advice from the police, and when advised to go out of the trade he replied: "Seems like I shall have to, for I'ze getting too aged to be frown over cook stoves."

HE was only an inquisitive little New York boy, and he said: "Ma, will all the heathens turn up when it comes resurrection time?" "Yes, my son." "And them missionaries; will those turn up?" "Certainly, my son." "Well, when them cannibal heathens what's been feedin' on missionaries gets resurrected, and them missionaries what's been eat comes round and wants to be resurrected, things is going to be worse mixed than the Presidential election, hey, ma." "It is time you were in bed, my son."

AN exchange would be pleased to hear of a social gathering that was not a "recherche affair," that was not attended by the "elite" and the "creme de la creme," where the refreshment tables did not "literally groan under the load of good things," and where the "votaries of Terpsichore" didn't "trip the light fantastic" till the "wee sma' hours."

A Sermon to Girls on Cooking.

Good advice to girls and boys is always abundant, and, we may add, a cheap article in the market, and perhaps this is one reason why it is not more frequently heeded by those most in need of it. But here is another excellent piece of advice to girls, given by a correspondent of the S. S. Times:

Cooking classes have been popular among fashionable young ladies of late years. But there is no cooking class which quite equals in its opportunity for excellent information that which you may find at home. Presuming that I am talking to a girl who has just left school, I advise you to make use of your leisure in taking lessons from your mother. There is an absolute, splendid feeling of independence in knowing how to make perfectly light and substantial bread. Then try your hand at biscuits, muffins, cornbread, toast, and all the different forms into which breadstuffs may be blended. Toast seems a simple thing enough, but it is frequently so ill made that it does not deserve the name. Gruel, a necessity of the sick room, is often a hopeless mystery to women who have the vaguest idea of how it is evolved from the raw material. After you have mastered the bread question, try meats and vegetables. Any bright girl who can comprehend an equation, or formulate a syllogism, can overcome the difficulties which beset her when learning to cook. Lucent sirups, golden cake, delicately browned bread, quivering jellies, melting creams and the whole set of material things glorified, because made for love's sake and for the good of one's dear ones, are are fit expressions for any woman. The charm of this accomplishment lies in the fact that it imparts to its owner a gratifying sense of power; it bestows on her, too, the power of blessing and resting those she loves best. Wherever the cook goes she takes her welcome along. One may tire of the sweetest singing, of the lovliest poetry, of the finest painting and of the most witty conversation, but of good cooking, never. Yet I would be sorry to have you be contented to be only a cook, only a domestic machine. That is not my meaning or intention. Be artist, poet, inventor and well-bred woman; be the most and the best that you can and add as a matter of course, ability to keep house well and do all that good housekeeping includes.

A Century's Progress.

Nor has the world been unmoved. Civilization has extended her triumphs. The islands of the sea and the inland deserts and mountains have been explored and measured. The brave mariner has battled the icebergs of the North, and the intrepid traveler has braved the heat and dangers of the tropics. The railroad has spanned the continent and tunneled the Alpine mountains. The telegraph has cabled the ocean and joined the extremities of the earth. Africa and Asia have parted their borders and permitted the Mediterranean to mingle its waters with the Indian Ocean and the "highway of the East" has been opened. Despotisms have fallen and monarchies have been remodeled. Republican ideas have spread eastward and westward. Machinery has multiplied the power of labor and inventions have added to human comfort. The advancement of science; the establishment of public schools; the endowment of universities; the enlargement of libraries and museums; the opening of hospitals; the care of orphans, the teaching of the blind to read and the dumb to speak; the education and elevation of women, giving her access to employment and profession; the myriad issues of the daily press, with its news from every quarter of the globe; the system of express and cheap postages; the furnishing of houses and streets with water and gas; the phospheric match; the electric fire and burglar alarm; the sewing machine and kindred appliances; the photograph; the spectroscope, which makes us neighbors to the stars; the partial separation of church and state; the freedom of religious worship; the multiplication of religious edifices; the establishment and growth of the Sunday school, with the system of international lessons, indoctrinating our youth with the ideas of universal brotherhood, and foreshadowing international fraternity; the emancipation of serfs, the striking of the manacles from millions of slaves; and transmuting chattels into citizens—all these are but faint outlines of the manifest triumphs of the century, which might well startle old Galileo from his slumbers to cry again, "But it does move, though!"—Bishop Simpson.

THE LAW OF HORSE HIRE.—It has been decided that when a horse or carriage is let out for hire for the purpose of performing a particular journey, the party letting warrants the carriage fit and competent for such a journey. If the hirer treats the carriage as any prudent man would do, he is not responsible for any damage that either may receive, but he must use the horse for the purpose for which he hired him. For instance, a horse hired for saddle must not be used in harness. If the hirer violates the express condition of the contract, he is liable for any damage that may occur. If the horse is stolen through the hirer's negligence, such as leaving the stable door open all night, he must answer for it; but if he is robbed by highwaymen, while traveling the usual road at usual hours, he cannot be held for damages. As these questions are frequently in dispute these decisions may be interesting.—Rural Press.

A PROPER MOVE.

The attendance at the railroad meeting last Saturday evening was sufficient in numbers and business standing to show that the people of this place fully appreciate the advantages to accrue to this section through a railroad. It, however, is not expected, nor is it the motive of action, that this particular locality will receive the cream of the anticipated and direct advantages, as compared to certain other places; on the contrary, Independence has but little hope or chance of taking anything more than a secondary place in that respect. But it knows that let the first fruits fall to what point in the county they may, the secondary place for this point, and, in co-equal proportions, every other, means something of a town or city in fact instead of mere starveling villages; that, as an inevitable, positive result to be counted upon, a railroad to this county no matter where its first and temporary teminus, implies profitable occupations, literally, for thousands of people in our surrounding mountains, and, necessarily, a thickly settled valley and thriving towns. And a thickly settled valley means churches, schools, manufactories of various kinds, and advantages in life in advance of those of the merest border civilization. Our valley will never have as a class a more intelligent, more law abiding or better citizens as a population that it now has; but notwithstanding all that our social advantages and chances of advancement for the rising generation are, as stated, but those of the merest border settlement and civilization. Instead of progressing or improving in character of population and corresponding benefits we are quite certain to go backward to some extent, unless we can have here in this little world of our own better educational and like advantages than is possible for years to come under existing conditions. To obtain such advantages our best citizens will "pull up" and go elsewhere as a duty to their families; and whether that or not there is ever present, in view of that necessity or expectation, an unsettled feeling very inimical to our best social and business interests. The remedy for all this will come through railroad benefits or not at all for many years.

The railroad we can soon have, provided we can make railroad builders, or capitalists, see thtngs in their true light. That is the principal if not the sole duty of the committee whose names and line of action will be found and sufficiently explained in the published resolutions. We have some suggestions if not information to offer, but are compelled to forego further remark now, except to add that the only subsidy this county proposes to offer any railroad is its transportion business, and to assert our firm conviction that that is or can be made to be the most munificent ever given by any county in this State, San Francisco alone excepted.

JUDGE DAVIS' friends are urging the name of Lyman Trumbull, of Illinois, as Davis' successor in the Supreme Court, while the Democrats are urging the name of Judge C. Campbell, of Louisiana. SENTENCED TO BE HANGED.—In the case of Jim Hays, at Bakersfield the Jury found him guilty of murder in the first degree, with death as the penalty. THE citizens of Bakersfield have taken steps to rid themselves of horse thieves and vagabonds invading that section of the country. A Citizens' Committee have given public notice to all such characters that their early departure is desired.

A WORTHY ENTERPRISE.

The citizens of Big Pine clearly see what the future of this country is to be, and what is necessary to be done to not only promote their own interests, but at the same time those of the whole community They also appreciate the self-evident fact that now is the time to brgin to do something. To this end they have completed a survey for an extensive irrigating canal to tap the river at a distance along the line some ten miles above Big Pine, thence to be extended as far in this direction, even to this place as circumstances demand. For this purpose they have effected a preliminary organization and incorporation, of which J. W. McMurry, J. D. Sears, Robt. Blake and Josiah Walker are Directors, and J. W. McMurry Treasurer and John Bodle Secretary. Every necessary step has been taken to perfect it as a full incorporation, under the law, save filing with the Secretary of State, which will be done in a few days. This secures the water right and right of way as provided by law, and at the same time a franchise by precedence, that will inevitably make its stock a valuable property for all time to come. The capital stock is fixed at $5,000 with shares at $1 each. It was expected that business men in this place and all along the line would gladly take hold in aid of this very important enterprise, and each take more or less of the stock. If they do not, each and all, then they are certainly blind to their own interests. While it may never be a dividend-paying stock, the general enhancement of business and its lasting nature makes it an enterprise worthy the support of every individual in the community. It is worth some assistance from every one, even though he considers the money advanced for shares of stock in no other light than as a simple donation without hope of a direct return. But there is no question or room for doubt, but every water right secured pro rata on the stock, will be worth something near its face at all times. Settlers from other parts of the State are anxious to come here and make homes. There is no scarcity of the best quality of land for them to occupy; nothing to bar their coming and future prosperity save the lack of water to make these lands available. The ownership of one hundred shares more or less in this completed canal gives such a water right for all time to come. In such a certainty what risk of loss does any merchant, blacksmith, lawyer, newspaper man or anybody else, no matter what his calling, incur in taking stock in this enterprise? None whatever, even on the investment, except through a failure to carry the undertaking to completion. We hope the business men all along the line from this place northward will give this matter due consideration. It is not an ephemeral, wild cat speculation to begin and end all in one year or ten years, or of such a nature as to cause loss to any one in any event.

RAILROAD MEETING.

A meeting of the citizens of Inyo county having been called to meet at the Court House at Independence on Feb. 10, 1877, for the purpose of taking into consideration the necessity of connecting this portion of California with the general railroad system of the State by railroad communication, a large number of citizens met in pursuance of said call. The meeting having been duly called to order, P. W. Bennett, Esq., was appointed to the Chair, and A. W. Eibeshutz Secretary. The object of the meeting having been explained by several parties present, the following resolutions were introduced by Mr. J. E. Parker, and after the same had been fully discussed were on motion unanimously adopted.

WHEREAS—The rapid augmentation of the population of Inyo, the steady development and constant increase of valuable and bullion-producing mines, and the importance of our agricultural interests have forced the conclusion upon the business men of the Coast in general, and the mine owners of this interior section in particular, that a railroad connecting us with the main lines has become a matter of the primest necessity; and,

WHEREAS—A proper agitation of the subject is called for at the present time; it is therefore

Resolved—That this meeting now proceed to the selection of a Commission to consist of seven citizens of Inyo county whose duty it shall be

First—To meet at the earliest practicable date and organize by the appointment of sub-committees and the election of a Chairman and Secretary.

Second—To thoroughly investigate all ascertainable conditions and facts bearing upon the necessity of railroad communication with the sea coast.

Third—To collect and collate such statistical matter as will show the past and present carrying trade of the county and surrounding mineral and agricultural districts, and the production of precious metals, and prepare estimates of the probable increase thereof to be brought about by the establishment of such communication.

Fourth—Open a correspondence by letter or through personal representatives with all parties or Railroad Companies who shall be deemed able to carry out the work and likely to become practically interested therein, with the view of so presenting the facts thus coming to the knowledge of the Commission as will finally secure the construction of a railroad leading to or through Inyo county.

Fifth—To continue their labors and organizations at will, and from time to time report through the county papers such progress and results as may have been effected.

Resolved—That R. M. Briggs, Esq., be and he is hereby authorized to confer with the officers of the Southern Pacific Railroad, or with any other parties that he may deem proper, as an agent of the citizens of Independence, for the purpose of carrying out the objects above proposed.

The following named persons were duly elected to compose the Committee provided for in the foregoing resolutions: Independence, R. M. Briggs, Esq., S. P. Moffat, Esq., H. L. Childs, Esq.; Lone Pine, W. J. Phillipay; Bishop Creek, S. G. Sneden; Darwin, P. Reddy, Esq.; Cerro Gordo, Ben. Russel.l

On motion, the Secretary was instructed to present a report of the proceedings to THE INYO INDEPENDENT and Coso Mining News for publication.

The meeting then adjourned, subject to the call of the Commission.

P. W. BENNETT,
Chairman.

A. W. EIBESHUTZ, Sec'y.

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State California, in and for the County of Inyo. Ellen E. Matlack, plaintiff, against Alexander C. Matlack, defendant. Action brought in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and the complaint filed in said county of Inyo, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to Alexander C. Matlack, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and to answer a complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within the county; or, if served out of this county, but in this district, within twenty days; otherwise, within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a judgment and decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony existing between said plaintiff and said defendant, and for the custody of the minor children, issue of their said marriage, as does more fully appear from said plaintiff's complaint, to which reference is hereby made.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Hon. Court for the relief prayed for in said complaint on file herein.

Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, this fifth day of September in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 17.....1877.

THE ECLIPSE.—Last week we briefly noted the fact of the return of Mr. C. S. Nelson, from England. Mr. Nelson, who is connected with the Eclipse Company, was here during last Summer, at the close of which he went back to London and submitted his report. From that and other facts within their knowledge since Capt. Eudey has been in charge of the works, the Directors came to the sensible conclusion that they had a property here worth looking after, and accordingly induced Mr. John Hulbert, one of the Directors and principal stockholders, to come out with Mr. Nelson, with a view of inaugurating work on a vastly increased scale if in his judgment, after a personal inspection, the prospects would seem to justify. During a call from the gentlemen this week Mr. Hulbert assured us that he was so well satisfied with the capacity and worth of the mine that the company would certainly at once proceed to start 100 stamps. The Eclipse mine, we may incidentally remark, is well capable of supplying a battery of that magnitude, but the ore is not all of a high grade as compared to what is generally so rated in this country. It has been demonstrated, however, that with suitable facilities the great body of the ledge can be worked with a fair margin of profit. The plan, as stated, is to supply every needed facility and appliance, which will of course involve a very heavy outly, but which the company are ready to meet when assured of a reasonable percentage on the investment. It is hardly necessary to remark that "a reasonable percentage" for London money is much less than unusually demanded by California investors. Operations like the Eclipse imply very much for the progressive interests of Inyo, independent of the direct advantage to accrue by reason of the creation of a London balance of exchange. Success implies the inauguration of many similar enterprises all along those mountains.

CALICO PARTY.—We are pleased to announce that the ladies here propose to give a calico party on the evening of the 22d, (next Thursday) at the Blaney House. The plan is simply this: Each lady is to wear a calico dress, to suit her own taste; out of the same goods she is also to prepare a necktie, enclose said necktie in an envelope and deposit the same in a basket or other receptacle at the door. Every gentleman taking a partner is, on entering, to "grab" one of these envelopes, and with the enclosed necktie as a guide and clue, seek out the lady who deposited it; finding her, he then becomes her exclusive gallant for the evening and until she is safely at her home, without regard to the one he himself brought, who, of course, will also be sure of another and perhaps better gallant of her own. Further, no gentleman, no matter how handsome or well dressed, or how good a man he is on general principles, is to touch one of these envelopes unless he takes a partner to the party. In the nature of the case, this party is sure to induce a very large attendance and plenty of amusement. Dancing and a supper will follow according to custom. It is of course incumbent that the ladies dress in calico, but the cheapest curtain is as much en regle as the finest goods made.

FORTY DAYS AND FORTY NIGHTS.—No doubt Dave Akers has a future before him, the way he carries on. Judge Snelling horoscoped it forty day's and forty night's worth on Thursday, and for that length of time, barring accidents and $40 cash, inquiring friends will find David in lodgings at the calaboose or thereabouts. The Judge was lenient, too, in view of the fact that David loves to abuse old man Keppler, who, from age, is physically of but little force. On the last occasion, on the 13th, Peter Meyer interposed in the old man's behalf, though only as peacemaker, which gave great offense to David, who thereupon battered Peter and got snatched for it with the above mentioned sequel.

RESIGNED.—Henry Isaacs, County Treasurer, has removed his office to the County Clerk's room, having resigned his clerkship with Harris & Rhine, with which firm he has been identified for eleven years, or so long it was hard to tell "which from t'other." Both socially and as a "counter jumper" he has proved himself in this lengthy service one of the most popular men in the county, and his absence from his regular place is sure to be noted by all the old customers. He, however, thought it was time for him to have a little respite, particularly as his official duty at times requires his undivided attention.

A POOR PROPHET.—It will be observed from the County Treasurer's report that the Lone Pine school district has been credited with the requisite $500, notwithstanding the argument some time since that it would not have such an amount without a heavier levy for the benefit of the general school fund.

ANOTHER BOARDER.—The county last week took in another boarder, Geo. A. Snyder, who was painful dutied by Justice McManus at Darwin to the tune of seventy-five days or equivalent in coin, for unlawful appropriation of blankets. We don't know whether the joke 's on Snyder or the county.

DIED.—Mr. Wells, of the firm of Waterman & Wells of Darwin, died at that point some time during the past week; said to have been a victim of the smallpox. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, and a man whose loss will be deeply deplored.

PASSED.—We are unavoidably compelled to forego even so much as an allusion to several matters quite worthy of attention—neither time nor space this issue.

Murder and Attempted Stage Robbery.

From Mr. H. P. Cartier, who arrived from Darwin on Thursday, we have some particulars of another of those all too frequent highway outrages on the southern route, this one, however, being marked above any of preceding ones, because accompanied by a cold blooded murder.

As the regular stage from Mojave to Darwin was ascending the "big hill," some 30 miles south of Darwin, just at daylight on Wednesday morning, two men rose up from the roadside and ordered the driver to stop. The driver was alone on his seat but another ex-driver, Jack Lloyd, traveling as a passenger, was lying asleep in the boot. The order to stop awoke Loyd, but before he had more than raised his head above the level of the foot board, or, perhaps, before he made any move at all, one of the robbers fired, sending a load of buckshot from a shot-gun directly through his head, and, as a matter of course, killing him instantly. At the report of the gun the team, a very powerful one, started on the run up the hill; to this fact Billy Balsle, the driver, is probably indebted for his life. The other robber then fired but effected nothing more by the shot than to tear the driver's coat sleeve. The fright of the team soon carried the stage beyond reach of robbery. It came directly on into Darwin bringing Lloyd's body, which was buried there that afternoon. The tongue and double-trees of the coach were literally smeared with his blood and brains, showing that his head projected somewhat beyond the point of the foot board at the moment of receiving the deadly shot. It is very generally believed that the highwaymen intended this shot for R. H. Paul, the shot-gun messenger, whose successful operations in corralling supposed stage robbers was mentioned in these columns last week. The robbers, it is further believed, had gone out from Darwin to meet the stage thinking it would have quite a large sum of money aboard, intended for disbursement in Darwin, and that Paul would be on the boot as guard. It seems, though, that he was ordered to wait for the succeeding stage, and, unless he had proved himself quicker on trigger than the murderous highwaymen, owed his life to that delay. On the other hand, it is worthy of note that Lloyd lost his life by reason of a similar delay. He was a professional stage driver, but at this time was out of employment and was en route to this point seeking a place on the northern line. At some station this side of Mojave, some friends induced him to stop over one trip, which he did, his baggage coming on through to Lone Pine. The next stage was the one marked with his blood! There was but one passenger inside, and in the nature of the case, he could see nothing of the robbers, or what was going on outside, nor could the driver in the darkness and hurry of the moment determine anything more in relation to the murderers than their number; yet, it is thought it will not be a difficult matter to bring the crime home to the real perpetrators. When that is done satisfactorily, it will be hardly worth while to put them through the inconvenience of a formal arrest. Anyway something must be done or timid people will certainly not risk themselves on a route so cursed with robbers and murderers.

TAKES THE RIGHT VIEW.—We are much pleased with the interest manifested by Mr. Hulbert, of the Eclipse, in the material and moral welfare of this community, as he is a man capable and willing of greatly forwarding both. The necessity of a railroad is so obvious to his practical views that he and his company are anxious to lend such an enterprise all the aid at their command—and under certain conditions that would be sufficient to do the work itself. Besides that, Mr. Hulbert will do no less, in proportion, toward establishing and maintaining churches in our midst. Truly, something of the kind is needed, even in a mere business point of view, to raise us above the present appearance of semi-barbarism—a fact that is remarked by nearly every stranger who comes into the country. Mr. Hulbert expects to remain in this county for one or two years, and now, if any one will lead out in either direction here referred to he will second the same to some purpose.

PEOPLE VS. AARON HOOD.—The charge in this case is for unlawfully maiming and killing certain stock. On the first trial, as stated last week, the jury failed to agree. A second trial, also before Justice Snelling, was set for yesterday. The venire of 20 jurors was exhausted and out of that number but 8 were found competent to try the case as the law requires. As the case couldn't go on with a short panel, and it appearing from the expressed convictions of Deputy Sheriff Moore that the panel could not be filled in this township, the Judge had no alternative but to transfer the case. This he did, selecting, as the nearest and most convenient, Justice Keppler's court at George's Creek.

ROAD STRAIGHTENING.—In a few days Road Overseer Connelly will begin work at John Willett's place, George's creek, to cut a road from there straight through to this place. This will be a decided improvement; the distance will be shortened about three-fourths of a mile, besides giving for the most of the way a hard gravelly road bed in place of the sand as on the present one.

FOR A HUNDRED DAYS.—Charles McAvoy, a natural born thief, possessed of an uncontrollable kleptomania, arrived at the County Jail to-day from Darwin, under sentence of 100 days for stealing a watch and chain.

MERCHANT TAILOR.—The advertisement of George Davis, the popular merchant tailor, recently of Lone Pine, will be found elsewhere. He is located in the May building, ready to fill all orders in his line.

THERE will be a series of races at Bishop Creek on the 16th and 17th proximo. Particulars next week.

BENTON, Cal., Feb. 12.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Since the last communication from Rural, so many things have occurred which are noteworthy that I hardly know which to mention first or how to make it known. However, the most important of all is that pertaining to the success of the place.

MILLS AND MINES.

The Comanche mill is next to perpetual motion; scarcely ever stopping, and every stage is ladened with the precious metal. The Diana mill is making a very successful run, and shipped last week six bars of bullion valued at $7,000, the result of 18 days run. The new shaft in the Diana mine is down nearly 400 feet, showing ore all the way down, and they have recently struck a large body of high grade ore with a better defined ledge than was ever seen in the Diana before.

BUILDING.

As another evidence of the prosperity of Benton, Mr. Hightower is building a residence which, when completed, will be an ornament to any place. Chas. Lewis has just finished his shoe shop on Centre st.; Mr. Silvar has also completed his residence and Thos. Arnold a dwelling house. Such progress, if kept up for another year or two, will be sufficient evidence that Benton and vicinity is well worthy of the notice of parties in search of some place to invest their capital where it will return them a handsome interest.

THE RACES.

The races on the Benton course are all run, also the races of some of the jockeys, for some of them run through with all their loose change and have run home with a better knowledge of and a worse opinion of any man who will run a race or keep a race horse. The first was the saddle pony race, and by far the most interesting, there being five contestants, viz. Benjamin's Dashaway, McBride's Sagebrush, Hilton's Whistle Jack, Farber's Orphan Boy and Hightower's horse. Dashaway was the "fair haired boy," the rest coming in in the order named. The second race was also interesting but less satisfactory. It was a saddle horse contest, but two old race horses were entered and admitted, and caused considerable contention. The start was decided to be unfair, and it was ordered that the race be run over the next day, although Reed's Jo Crab came out far ahead. The next day all started fair as could be expected, but Jo not being on the inside, which was claimed to be his place, struck for the inside; his rider was small and unable to control him; did as he pleased, and pulling for the inside, Hortan's Putty Head got the lead and held it to the outcome; but this, too, was declared unfair, and the race was again ordered to be re-run the next day. The heat race, the last but by no means the best, came off on Sunday; four entries, Jo Crab taking the first heat by considerable odds, Hutch's Pinto being ruled out (after the first heat, I think). On the second heat Jo flew the track, fell and broke the rider's (Ed. Kelty) collar bone, but the injury is not serious. Jo was ruled out and Murry's Brown Frank took the heat. On the next heat Frank beat Horton's Billy Kingsley and took race and money.

The contested race was yet to be run, but this time with none but saddle horses, as should have been the ruling in the first instance. John Laird's horse won it, and was conceded to be the fastest saddle horse on the course.

Then came mulitudinous scrub races, the details of which, if they could be made known, would show well for the scrub racing fraternity. But now the races are over, and all is quiet and peaceable, in so much that

A WILD CAT

Of a noble species visited Mr. Farber's hen house and killed and respectfully piled up all the poultry there was in the house. Whilst he was admiring his workmanship as a butcher, daylight came, and Mr. Farber had occasion to call at the poultry yard; he dosed his honor with a lead pill which carried instant death. His corpse was viewed by a number of citizens after which Mr. Farber proceeded to disrobe his honor, which he did in first class blacksmith style. Thus ended the career of an animal of whose former life we have no biography, but its close should prove an effectual lesson to all chicken thieves.

RURAL JACOB.

INJURED.—Meyer Cohn, of Lone Pine, got considerably hurt the other day in jumping from a buggy in rapid motion while coming in from Darwin.

PREACHING.—Rev. L. Case will hold services in the school house here tomorrow evening.

UP.—Warrants on the Expense Fund are now selling at 90 cents.

GREAT complaints are made by the stock men of Mohave county about the killing of cattle by the Wallapai Indians. The people there are all in favor of the Wallapais being placed upon a reservation. This would probably be the best thing that could be done with them, but the reservation ought to be put at some place in the Wallapai country. In a recent interview, Sherum and Wallapai Charley expressed themselves as willing to go on a reservation in their own country, but said that the Wallapais would sooner die than be taken away from there. They are said to be much better armed now than at any former period in their history, and probably it is better for all concerned that they should be placed on a good reservation in some part of Mohave county.—Arizona Enterprise.

SMELTING FURNACES.—Quite a number of gentlemen interested in smelting mines on the Pacific Coast, on Saturday visited the Pacific Iron Works to inspect a 50-ton furnace in process of completion for the New Coso Mining Co. The plans and specifications were drawn and prepared by E. N. Robinson, and it is believed combine all the best features of the different furnaces in use at Eureka, Ward, Salt Lake, Cerro Gordo and other camps where argentiferous galena is produced in large quantities. The furnace is of cast iron with a capacity of 50 tons of ore daily. It will be shipped this week, and be in running operation about the end of the present month, when with furnace No. 1 and 2, the company will have a capacity of about 100 tons per day.—S. F. Stock Exchange.

THE ASHTABULA DISASTER.—Charles Paine, Superintendent of the Lake Shore Railroad, testified that he had a list of those supposed to have been wrecked in the disaster. Some supposed missing were not on the train, and others were fraudulently claimed to have been passengers. The list contains the names of 72 adults and 8 children, supposed to have been lost, and 60 saved, some are marked doubtful. This list includes all known to have been on the train, though many bodies were not identified.

EVERY man is said to have at least one chance to acquire wealth. In the case of a newspaper man, this opportunity comes on the 29th of February every year except leap year.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 17.....1877.

IT is a fact worth noticing that when stocks are lying flat on their back the churches in Gold Hill and Virginia have larger congregations than at any other time. The motive which causes the Comstocker to turn comparatively pious reminds one of the old Scotch lady at sea in a storm, who asked the captain what the chances were. "Madam," said the seaman, solemnly, "we must trust in God." "Ech, Sirs, an' has it come to that?" cried the frightened dame.

AN editor once applied at the door of Hades for admission. "Well, sir," replied his sable majesty, "we let one of your profession in here many years ago, and he kept up such a continual row with his former delinquent subscribers, and as we have more of that class of persons here than any other, we have passed a law prohibiting the admission of editors.

A LITTLE boy was asked the other day if he knew where the wicked finally went to? He answered, "They practice law a spell here and then go to the Legislature!" It was a painful operation for the boy to sit down for a few days.

CHAPTER XVII—AMONG THE MORMONS.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Having heard considerable about the Mormons and their country—how, years ago, they had to "dicker" and trade for a living; how squash and other convenient truck used to be currency in the days of "pumpkin butter," and that a worthy man was entitled to more than one wife, etc.—Piute felt it his duty to visit this wonderful country and report thereon. He has of late been prospecting among the Saints and find them sociable, industrious, temperate and economical. The Mormons first located in Utah in 1847. The Territory was then almost a barren waste. It required great courage and heroism to establish settlements in these mountain valleys, and to cultivate sage brush lands and saleratus beds. When Salt Lake City was first settled, it is said that $1,000 could not be found among the community, and for many years money was little used. The people lived and paid for their wants by barter. Thousands of good, honest men and women suffered greatly and struggled hard for a number of years in this Territory. The following sketch, written by somebody, will give you an idea of customs in Utah, in bygone days: "A farmer wishes to purchase a pair of shoes for his wife; he consults the shoemaker, who avers his willingness to furnish the same for a load of wood. The farmer has no wood but sells a calf for a quantity of adobes, the adobes for an order on the merchant, payable in goods and the order, for a load of wood, and straightway the matron is shod. Seven water melons purchased a ticket to the theater; he paid for the tuition of his children, 75 cabbages per quarter; the dressmaker received for her services 4 squashes per day; he settled his dues in sorghum molasses; two loads of pumpkins paid his annual subscription to the newspaper; he bought a Treatise on Celestial Marriage for a load of gravel; a bottle of soothing syrup for the baby with a bushel of string beans; and the washerwoman received a certain number of red beets for a hard days' washing." However, those days have passed away, and for several years greenbacks have been as plenty in Utah as in any other portion of Uncle Sam's dominion. Utah Territory is now well known for its grazing, agricultural and mineral resources. The railroads, which of late years have been built, greatly aid to develop Utah's resources. The Transcontinental railway runs through the northern part of the Territory. The western terminus of the U. P. R. R. and the eastern terminus of the C. P. R. R. is at Ogden. Ogden is also the southern terminus of the Utah Northern Railroad, which runs through a rich farming country, Cache valley, and into Franklin, Idaho, a distance of 80 miles. Gould, Ames and others, propose to extend this road 300 miles further north, to Montana, providing the Montanians will agree to give a certain amount of bonds. This railroad is narrow track, only 3 feet wide, and does considerable business. A goodly portion of Idaho freight and passengers go this way. Ogden is also the northern terminus of the Utah Central Railroad, Salt Lake being the southern terminus. This road is wide track. The freight report for the Utah Central for 1876, received and forwarded, was 277,639,-578 pounds. Another line is the Utah Western, narrow gauge, it runs westward until it passes the southern end of Salt Lake, then southward along the western base of the Oquirsh range, and into the rich mining districts. Considerable ore and bullion is shipped over this road, one smelting works forwarded 7,000,000 pounds of ore and bullion in one year. Another line is the Utah Southern Railroad, having its northern terminus in Salt Lake City. It runs south through Provo, Spanish Fork and is gradually extending southward. The Utah Southern Company contemplate building and extending this road so that in due course of time a connection will be made with the Independence and Los Angeles Railroad. The freight report of the Utah Southern Railroad states that during 1876, the total amount of freight carried was 193,549,286 pounds. The Denver Pacific Railroad Company, it is said, will push their road westward, having an eye on Ogden as its terminus. It is evident that the time is not far distant when there will be two competing lines of railroad between the Missouri river and the Pacific Ocean. The Union Pacific as well as the Central Pacific are exorbitant in their rates of fare and freight. Passengers are charged 10 cents per mile for short distances, while the Utah railroads only charge from 4 to 5 cents. Piute rode 14 miles yesterday on the Union Pacific road and had to pay $1 50. The distance from Ogden to Salt Lake City is nearly 40 miles, and the fare is only $1 50, second class, $2 first class. Who wouldn't be a Mormon? The weather is delightful in Utah at present. Winter has been very mild so far, very little snow on the ground; sleighing played out. They have had a severe Winter in the Eastern States. A depth of 3 feet of snow was not uncommon there a few weeks ago, and they say "It's still coming." You may expect another epistle soon from Zion.

TINNAMUCKAHEE.

CHAPTER XVIII—BRIGHAMDOM.

MESSRS. EDITORS—There are many who cherish the idea that Utah is populated entirely by Mormons; that a Gentile is a scarce article, and should such a monster be caught in the Territory, the faithful saints would immediately go to work to skin and scalp him! That is a false impression. A large percentage of the population of Utah are gentiles, and a very large amount of capital has been brought in and invested here by the so-called Gentiles, to which fact should be credited the present favorable mining status of Utah. The Mormons have devoted their time, talent and energies to religion and farming, strictly in accordance with the teaching and preaching of their leader, President Young, who always opposed and prohibited their "digging holes in the ground." However, the Gentile element have of late years been probing those hills and mountains, and the results have even astonished the prophetic eyes of Bro. Brigham. During the last 20 years, thousands upon thousands of foreigners and Americans, who zealously embraced the Mormon faith, plodded their way across the mighty plains. They found it hard work to travel, many a weary Saint gave up the ghost before arriving in Zion, while a great many brave hearts surmounted the difficulties, and, by dint of perseverance and energy, they have established comfortable homes in these mountain valleys. Last week Piute strolled to the northern part of Utah and prospected several days in Cache valley. He retains a vivid recollection of a series of the Owens river valleys, such as Kern, Pleasant, Mondoboohbee and Gweenahbah valleys, but those fertile dales of yours fall into insignificance when compared with this great valley of the Mormons. Cache valley is about 500 miles long and, they say, will average 15 miles wide, with many streams of water running through it. The soil is rich and a vast amount of grain is raised; 16 years ago very few had settled in Cache valley; houses were few and far between. Now there are no less than 16 towns in the valley besides a large number of scattering farm houses. A large Mormon tabernacle costing about $60,000, has been built in one of those towns (Logan), which was "opened and dedicated to the Lord," the other Sunday. It is a magnificent stone building; your Piute friend had the pleasure of attending divine service three times one Sabbath, in this tabernacle. (Will some other day give you a sketch of their style of preaching.) Some of your readers may not be aware that Utah ships a vast amount of produce to California. Such is the fact; thousands of tons of grain, fruit and vegetables find a market in San Francisco. A commission merchant at Ogden, stated that he, himself, had shipped 30 car loads of potatoes, besides a certain amount of apples, to San Francisco this Winter. Cache valley alone, shipped one season 400 car loads, 4,000 tons or 8,000,000 pounds of wheat to San Francisco. Utah also supplies portions of Nevada, Idaho, Montana Wyoming and Nebraska. Piute has yet only visited the northern part of the Territory. The Great Salt Lake valley will deserve mention, and particularly the centre of attraction, Salt Lake City. But being at present in Cache valley, allow Piute to finish this article concerning it. Land and produce is cheap here, improved farms can be bought for from $10 to $20 per acre; with a railroad running through the valley. Flour is worth from $2 50 to $2 75 on the farm, per hundred, barley about 50 cts. per bushel, potatoes 30 cts. per bushel, beef from 4 to 5 cts. per pound, butter and cheese from 15 to 20 cts. per pound. In summer butter is often sold for 10 cts. per pound and eggs from 15 to 20 cts. per dozen. These are pretty low prices, especially when we consider that the farms are generally divided into small tracts. The Mormon religion requires the brethern to cluster together as much as possible, and they will farm it on a one or five-acre lot so as to be convenient to the ward meeting or the tabernacle. Grasshoppers have injured the crops, more or less, for a number of years. One farmer stated that they had devoured his crops for three years successively. There are many here extensively engaged in the dairy business, Piute visited one dairy ranch on the outskirts of the valley, where they milked 500 cows last Summer. We, of Owens valley, are inclined to boast of the great improvements made in Inyo and Mono during the last 12 years, and there has been considerable accomplished in that time by miners and farmers. But these enthusiastic Mormons, in conjunction with a sprinkling of apostates and Gentiles, have accomplished wonders in these localities. Their temporal achievements may be indicative of their superiority over us in the spirit world also.

TINNAMUCKAHEE.

Locating Claims for Friends.

One of our mining friends writes us and says: "Can a resident miner of any of the mining districts on this coast locate and hold a mining claim for any relation or friend, if such individual is a resident of any of the Eastern States."

There is nothing in the law preventing such action, and it used to be common enough throughout the coast. Since the passage of the law of 1872, however, this is not done so much as formerly, as now one man can take up the whole 1,500 feet for himself. Under the old law, when the discoverer could only hold 400 feet but could locate as many other people in with 200 feet apiece as he chose, they used to resort to this, get deeds back from the others and hold the ground alone. This is not necessary now.

The law simply states that locators must be citizens of the United States. There is no more reason why, when the mine is in Nevada or Utah for instance, a person living in New York or Florida could be located, than one living in California. Lots of people living in this city have claims located for them in other States and Territories. We have carefully examined the law and decisions under it and can find no reference which would prevent any one in the East being located in a mining claim here.

Of course the law is binding on all, whether residents of the mining district or not, and the annual expenditure must be made, in failure of which the mine is subject to a relocation. In case of any legal proceedings, as for instance in the case of a contest of a patent, it would, perhaps, be necessary for the owner to be in the district. Some time in 1873, the Commissioner of the Land Office rejected an adverse claim to a patent because it was not sworn to, as required by law, in the district where the land was situated. If we remember aright, it was in the case of the Dardanelles company, in Gold Hill district, Nevada, when they applied for a patent for the Bosphorus. The California company filed a protest through its President. The protest was sworn to before a Commissioner of Deeds for Nevada, but was sworn to in this city. The Commission ruled that the law required an adverse claim to be sworn to before some officer authorized to administer oath within the land district where the claims were located, and the adverse claim was accordingly rejected.

Although, as far as we know, there is nothing to prevent the practice of which our correspondent, and many others, complains, it is none the less an objectionable custom. No individual should be allowed to come out here and locate half a district for his relations who will never see the ground. One consolation is, however, that such claims are not held very long, the expenditures necessary annually cleaning out such non-residents after a year. Still, some harm may be done to actual miners by people holding such ground even a year, as it might prevent important developments. Some districts, we understand, have laws on the subject, which if they do not conflict with the United States law would, of course, stand. We do not recollect ever having heard of any legal contest on the point in question, so that it might be brought before the courts, but we feel pretty certain there is nothing in the law to prevent the practice, no matter how objectionable it may be.—Mining and Scientific Press.

POWER OF A LITTLE CHILD.—Recently two men engaged in angry dispute on the street, during which one shook his fist beneath the other's nose and appeared to have worked himself into a fever of a passion. Just then a little girl, almost an infant, who had been going by, but stopped, apparently paralyzed by the man's fury, moved quite close to him, and looking up into his face inquired: "What makes you so tross, Mister?" It was so unexpected that the man evidently felt a complete revolution of feeling. Gradually his countenance cleared, and finally was lit up with a smile as he patted the little peacemaker's head and remarked as he moved away, ignoring the other man altogether: "I guess you're right, little pet."

MR. BIGGE and Miss Small were married at Keokuk the other day. A medium-sized notice is all they can ask for.

THE NEW SENATE.—In the present Senate the Republicans have a majority of 15. In the new Senate they will not have more than 8 at the most and they may possibly not have more than 2. The election of Judge David Davis as the sucessor of Logan gives the Democrats 34 Senators to 39 Republicans. The contest in regard to 1 Senator from South Carolina and 2 from Louisiana still remains to be decided. If the action of the bodies claiming to be the Democratic Legislatures of these two States should be recognized, there would then be 37 Democrats in the upper House of Congress to 39 Republicans, had the attempt to reject the 2 Republican Senators from Colorado been successfully persevered in, and if the Democratic Legislatures of Louisiana and South Carolina were recognized as legally elected, the two parties would be equally divided in the Senate, giving the ascendancy to either the Democrats or the Republicans, according as Hendricks or Wheeler becomes Vice-President.

THE "TRUE STORY" OF THE MAY-BENNETT DUEL.—The New York World prints the following statement which seems to be current now in society circles as the true proceedings in the Bennett-May duel: It is asserted that when the seconds asked the principals if they were ready, May replied that he was not; after the seconds asking, the snap of a pistol was heard; that May's second thereupon advanced in front of Bennett and asked if it was his pistol which had been snapped; that Bennett exhibited his pistol in proof that such was not the case; that May then spoke up and said his pistol had accidently snapped; that after this the seconds adjudged to Bennett the right to fire; that Bennett leveled his pistol; took aim, and then suddenly throwing up his arm, fired in the air, whereby the duel ended with no bloodshed.

THE NEXT PRESIDENT.

As the Commission have already counted the disputed electoral votes of Florida and Louisiana for Hayes, the only remaining obstacle to that gentleman's march to the White House is Cronin's celebrated nose; but circumstances have so shaped things, the nose with the rest, it is now conceded that cannot be much of an obstacle even if interposed at all, which is doubtful. Then actual frauds, suspicions of fraud, taints of fraud and all contests to the contrary notwithstanding, there is scarce a doubt now but the next President of the United States will be Rutherford B. Hayes. Limited to purely personal grounds, political affiliations not considered, Hayes' inauguration must be satisfactory to all classes, politicians and office seekers only excepted. No man ever had a fairer opportunity to make or break a nation than has he. It is hardly necessary to add that upon his wisdom, integrity and statemanship also depends the very existence of his party. Anything like "Grantism" in certain particulars in his coming administration will be the death knell of his party. Many think a complete reorganization of both parties is inevitable in any event. There is nothing improbable in that anticipation.

To Check the Coolie Influx.—In the Senate recently Mr. Sargent submitted an amendment to that of Hamlin's providing that the whole number of passengers of Asiatic birth or descent received on board the steamers of the company to be landed at any place or places on the continent of America or neighboring islands, shall at no time exceed one passenger for every 15 registered tons, and on any violation of this provision, payment from the appropriation shall cease.

Map of the Black Hills.—A. L. Bancroft & Co., San Francisco, have just issued a map of the Black Hills region, showing the seat of the Indian war and different routes of travel to and through that country. It is compiled from military surveys and is no doubt a reliable map. We are indebted to the publishers for a copy, which we hold subject to inspection by all who desire geographical knowledge of the country embraced.

The Desert Land Law.—Some time since Senator Booth, from the Committee on Public Lands, reported favorably on the bill to extend the application of the Lassen County Desert Land Bill. It was ordered upon the calendar, but owing to the delays occasioned by the Presidential business, and the press of other more important legislation, we fear this Congress will fail to do anything with it.

John D. Lee, the Mountain Meadows murderer finds no comfort in the Supreme Court of Utah. That tribunal orders the District Court in which the death sentence had previously been pronounced, to again fix a day for the execution of Lee.

The new building at San Quentin is now finished. The Legislature appropriated $200,000 for its erection, and, strange to say, it cost only $130,000 including $30,000 worth of machinery. A new building with more cells is to be built with the surplus.

The stockholders of Wells, Fargo & Co's Express have elected the following directors for the year 1877: Lloyd Tevis, W. G. Fargo, A. H. Barney, Chas. Crocker, Leland Stanford, D. O. Mills, Oliver Eldridge, Mark Hopkins and J. B. Haggin.

Judge Morrison has decided that the firm of Parrott & Co., have no redress against Briggs & Co., the gamblers, on account of the losses of their clerk Ver Mehr.

There seems to be no "let up" about Bismarck. He has crushed Count Von Arnim, and now he is on the war-path after his son.

A total abstinence club in Lowell, Mass., has 4,000 members, including the Mayor and other representative citizens.

Stockton has about 15,000 tons of wheat in store. The total in store in San Joaquin county is estimated at 38,000 tons.

A bill has been introduced in the U. S. Senate to enable Indians to become citizens of the United States

President Grant, it is reported, has lately been speculating in bonanza stocks with good results.

The total amount of coin in circulation in this State is estimated not to exceed $20,000,000.

SWINDLES.

The New York Tribune thinks that not less than three million people in the United States have a direct personal interest in life insurance policies; that two thousand million dollars are promised by the policies, and that four hundred and twenty million dollars are now in the hands of the companies ready to meet the promises as they mature. "We do not believe," remarks the Tribune, "that this great interest is seriously endangered by the wave of distrust that has rolled over the country since the recent failure." We do not know what particular failure is here referred to, since there has been no less than four recent total failures of prominent life insurance companies. It has ever been the boast of life insurance circulars and agents that a total failure of a properly founded life insurance company was scarcely ever known; certainly none in this country that confined its operations strictly to its legitimate business. As such appears to have been the fact up to a recent date, a single exception now, as apparently premised by the Tribune, would not be sufficient to materially impair public faith in the business; but with so many all at once, the above opinion notwithstanding, public faith in the business is so shaken up it never can be regained until reassured and insured by general statutes to control operations of life offices so effectual that scoundrels cannot openly rob and defraud. As it is hardly possible to devise a law that will do that and not at the same time so hamper the honest companies as to drive them out of the business, this "wave of distrust" will not only maintain its present proportions but must spread until the entire business is ruined. And so we most sincerely hope it will be unless policy holders can have better protection than they have yet enjoyed. In neither of these recent failures has the reserve fund compelled by law been sufficient to protect any policy holder a single dollar's worth. Nor neither has the supervisory powers of the legally constituted insurance commissioners. If these leading safeguards have so signally failed in the only instances where they might have been of some avail what is there left to command confidence in the so-called most solvent companies? Their own annual statements, perhaps. The Continental, the Security, the New Jersey Mutual, and the St. Louis Mutual, the four exploded swindles, have all, right up to date of explosion, submitted the most handsome statements—assets millions above all possible liabilities, and everything so lovely! And "that some of the tears of the widow may be wiped away, and some of the cries of the fatherless may be hushed," thousands of poverty stung policy holders, in the most unselfish spirit that can actuate a husband and father, would take new courage and each set to work at once to raise the wherewith to maintain his policy in a company so worthy of condence! And to meet these ever recurring payments how much of actual present deprivation is entailed upon parents and children alike only that the latter may not die of hunger when the former are no more. Too often all alike, at times if not as a rule, go ragged and supperless that the cry of "more" of these fine institutions may be satisfied at the call. The husband and father who has made such sacrifices for the future benefit of those dependent upon him, through the Continental for instance, had no more reason, obvious to the public eye, to suspect that he was being victimized by scoundrels than has he to-day who is making by similar sacrifices his regular contributions to any of the remaining high standing companies. That office, so far as the public might know, was officered by just as conscientious and intelligent men, and exhibited just as satisfactory annual statements as the best of them. Its maw, as the writer hereof can by long years of experience bear witness, was just as insatiable as the best of them. Yet, with nothing more to indicate its true status than we have of those remaining, the Continental, like the Security and the two Mutuals above mentioned, was simply a combination of villains to literally rob widows and the fatherless of their very bread! Can any one conceive a blacker, and yet more pitiful, crime? There is no commercial business whatever so perfectly safe as that of a well established life insurance company. Failures can come, as we find to our sorrow, but they must in the nature of the business come either through management so stupid as to be absolutely criminal, or through unmitigated villainy, and punishable as the blackest and most transparent felony. Stupid men were never known to undertake the management of a life insurance company; it is above every other a business requiring brains, either to make an honest success, when it becomes a very great public blessing, or to make it a machine with which to steal the very shroud from a dead father's body that scoundrels may roll in wealth and mock the widow and orphan. How are we to tell the shroud stealers from the blessings? It cannot be done. There are others besides the Continental, the New Jersey Mutual, the St. Louis Mutual, and the Security in the former category, but how are we to select them?

An Extra Session Probable.—Senator Windom, Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, made a statement in the Senate on Thursday of the condition of the various appropriation bills, concluding with the remark that the delay in passing the Deficiency bill for public printing expenses made an extra session of Congress probable. Sargent, a member of the same Committee, gave notice that they will soon press the appropriation bills to the exclusion of all ordinary legislation, in the hope of getting through with them before the 4th of March. But, from present signs this will hardly be possible, and an extra session must be called if any appropriation bill hangs fire till that time. The Pacific Railroad Funding bill has already taken up nearly all the time of the Senate this week, and the Presidential count will occupy most of next week. From and including Monday next, there will remain of the session but thirteen working days. If in that short time all the appropriation bills get through, there will have to be a greater spirit of accord between the two houses than is now apparent. At all events, whatever may be the fate of the Funding and other railway bills in the Senate, there seems to be little prospect that any of them can be taken up and passed in the House at this session.—S. F. Chronicle, Feb. 17.

Effect of Selfish Influences. There are nearly 60,000 office-holders who have been trembling with fear lest their means of support should be taken away, and not less than ten times 60,000 expectants who hoped to get places if a change occurred, all of whom have a deep personal interest in the result. They measure the importance to the country of the inauguration of their favorite be its bearings on their own personal fortunes. The effect of these selfish influences is incalculable. Every second ward politician throughout the land either holds or expects an office. His bread and butter are directly dependent upon the result, and it is no wonder that he regards it of much less importance that the issue should be just and peaceful than that it shall secure him an office.—N. Y. Times.

A Washington dispatch of the 16th says: The bill which passed the House yesterday far the confirmation of the California School Indemnity titles is the measure recently passed by the Senate. Unanimous consent was required to take it from the Speaker's table, and after McFarland in behalf of the Public Lands Committee made that motion, Wigginton and Page displayed great activity and good management to prevent their respective party friends in various portions of the House from interposing or insisting on objections any of which would have prevented action. Lane and other members of the committee also co-operated earnestly, and stated that the committee had unanimously agreed to recommend the passage of the House bill, identical in terms.

The Chicago papers have very little to say on the decision on the Louisiana case. The Times considers it a very natural decision and regards further work of the Commission a farce. The Inter-Ocean rejoices at the result of the week's work and does not see, under the principles enunciated, how the Oregon case can longer be in doubt. The Tribune smilingly says "I told you so," and likewise regards the danger tided over and Hayes' election sure.

The Difference.—As 8 Republicans are to 7 Democrats, so would 7 Republicans be to 8 Democrats x-y plus Bradley; Davis x-y minus; or in other words, the more the more, the less the less — Result Electoral Commission which ever way the ultimate results. —Spirit of the Times.

All Sorts.

S. Fowler and others have made application to the Board of Supervisors of Tulare county for the right to take a ditch out of the south side of the Kaweah river, west of Everton pass, fifty feet wide and four feet deep. This ditch is intended to irrigate the region between Farmersville and Tulare, and is an improvement very much needed in the vicinity named.

Nearly all those ranches in the Mussel slough, Tulare county, neighborhood, which have been irrigated two seasons, are in condition to insure crops without further use of ditch water, and all the available force that can be had is now in service on such ranches as have not been previously sown; putting in wheat principally.

Tassey Stewart, of Yuba city, who tendered Secretary Chandler a bribe of $300, with the view of procuring a favorable decision regarding a land claim appealed to the Department of the Interior, has been released on bail in $1,000. His case is set for hearing in the United States Circuit Court on the 10th of March.

The Stockton Independent has the following San Joaquin Valley items: The building at Hanford, the new railroad town in Tulare county, is in lively progress. Some ten or twelve houses are already up and occupied. A number of houses have been moved from Grangeville, and more are going.

The Governor of Montana has approved the bill granting a subsidy of $700,000 for the construction of a narrow-gauge railroad from Franklin, Idaho, to Montana. The bill is to go before the people on the 16th of April next. The Territorial Legislature adjourned on the 16th.

BORN.

In Independence, February 16, 1877, to the wife of S. G. Gregg, a daughter.

DIED.

At Benton, Mono county, Cal., February 20 Willie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos Golden.

Willie had suffered twelve days of intense pain, caused by the brain fever, and his lovely little form was gently lowered into its silent grave on the evening of the 21st. But "Suffer little children to come unto me, for such is the kingdom of heaven"—a title which Willie has to his home in heaven, and which his bereaved parents and little brother and sisters can read with that solid comfort which none are blessed with or can enjoy save those who believe. Although the sorrow of the bereaved is quite beyond description, yet their confidence in the Creator enables them to give up their darling Willie to the One who gave him and bear it with Christian fortitude.

How sad a spectacle to behold, not only the bereaved relatives, but all the schoolmates of the deceased gather round to take a farewell glance at the lovely features and a kiss of good-bye forever.

Light comes no more to our Willie's eyes
When moons are filling or morn unfolds;
For his feet have struck on the path that lies
Bordering the Eden that faith beholds.

SMALL-POX.—We hear various rumors about how extensively this dread contagion is raging at Darwin. While there is good reason to believe rumor has materially exaggerated the facts, yet it is certain quite a number of cases and several deaths have occurred there from it. According to our own knowledge of this contagion there is little for anyone to dread from varioloid itself, but the un-vaccinated have every reason in the world to keep clear of it if possible. It is no less small-pox in fact to such, whether contracted from the lightest case of varioloid or the worst case of the confluent kind. General vaccination is of vast importance in this community. Should the contagion obtain a foothold among the Indians as it is extremely likely to do, it will not only sweep them off by scores, but cause its spread among the whites. In view of that probability and danger, some steps ought to be taken in every locality to (if necessary), enforce vaccination upon every Piute, large and small that can be caught. Anyone, even the Indians themselves can perform the operation as well and as successfully as the most skilled physician, provided such person has a supply of good virus. It would well pay all those who have dealings with, or any control of these Indians, to take their vaccination in hand, or for each and every locality where they center to raise by contribution or otherwise a sum sufficient to induce some suitable person or persons to put every one of them through the operation. Aside from any mere humane considerations for their welfare it will be vastly to the advantage of the whites to prevent its fatal spreading among these dusky people.

ANOTHER CANAL ENTERPRISE. — We are informed that citizens of Lone Pine are taking steps to construct a large irrigating canal by which to bring under cultivation the extensive area of rich but dry lands in that vicinity. With such a canal Lone Pine would become the center of an agricultural population that would promote its prosperity wonderfully. It is thought a canal 10 miles in length will give sufficient elevation to cover the lands in question. This river water will certainly prove far better for irrigating purposes than that now in general use, since it not only carries a large amount of vegetable matter in solution, but is also much warmer. If it does not add to the richness of the land, it will neither rob it or chill it as does the clear, and much colder mountain water in use. Lone Pine, by virtue of position with reference to markets, has special inducements to extend her farming area, which can only be done in the way now in contemplation. It is an enterprise well worth the best energies of her citizens.

CORRECT. — The Tarantula of this morning gets in a well-deserved lick at old Beuhlan and Fairchilds, the go-between Indian liquor sellers—two worthless sots whose foul carcasses disgrace the very air. Their appearance in town is invariably followed by a wild, Indian drunk—raising hell itself in the tribes and "endangering the lives and property of our citizens," as that paper in substance remarks. The remedy is to either invite them to leave or indict the well known gin-mill which sells them the liquor, under the law which makes it a misdemeanor to sell whisky to common drunkards.

ANOTHER LOCAL.—There is in contemplation a little project to run a local telegraph line from this place up to the Rex Montis mill and from thence to the Kearsarge mill and mines. It will be about ten miles long. The cost won't exceed $200, and considering the heavy grade up the mountain and the many tedious trips in the glare of a Summer sun, which otherwise would have to be made, the little line will soon pay for itself. Mr. Holt, of the Rex Montis, is in favor of it, and if the rest of the mining men on the mountain will take an interest it will soon go up.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.—In addition to that reported last issue, the Board of Supervisors, on Saturday, the 17th, transacted business as follows: Bills allowed members of the Board, mileage and services — Curtis, $36; Meysan, $31 41; Garretson, $60 80. Ordered, that the Darwin calaboose be repaired sufficiently to make it secure. Adjourned to March 26, when proposals for surrender of Inyo 1872-92 bonds, and also for taking care of county sick, are to be received.

AFFLICTED.—Mr. A. W. Eibeshutz, resident manager of the well-known business house of Rothschild & Co., starts to San Francisco on Monday next, with his family. He goes to place himself under the treatment of occulists for a nervous affection of the right eye, the sight of which is almost entirely lost.

RACING.—Elsewhere will be found an advertisement by the President of the Bishop Creek Jockey Club, announcing purse races at that point on the 16th and 17th proximo. We understand that the numerous turfites of this region are preparing for a lively contest.

COST OF TRAVELING. — Capt. MacGowan has again placed us under obligations for matters of information of value to travelers. It is a table giving cost of traveling hence to New York or any Eastern State. It will be found elsewhere in this issue.

GONE TO BANKING.—Last Saturday H. W. Woods, Esq., of Darwin, paid this place a flying visit in connection with his legal, and a proposed banking, business he is establishing at Darwin.

VACCINATION.—The public will note elsewhere the card of Dr. Matthews upon this subject, which is of immediate interest at the present time.

A DISTURBANCE.—Thursday evening late, David Akers, under sentence of 40 days' confinement in the county jail for a misdemeanor, a young Mr. Hitchcock and two or three others to us unknown, went to Levy's restaurant and started in for quite a time. David flourished his revolver and stirred his whisky with it, and all drank and got drunk and used rough language toward the barkeeper, and were having a splendid time indeed up to the moment that Uunder Sheriff Gregg stepped in and escorted David back to his lodgings. It appears that the way it came about was this: There are two or three keys that fit the lock to the calaboose where David is supposed to pass his nights, one of which he managed to get hold of and passed it out to Mr. Hitchcock in some way and by that means, while there was no one about the Sheriff's office, the latter released his chum, David. The next we know of the festive gentlemen was at the time and place above mentioned. It does not have a pretty look about it in any respect, this affair, but the only comment we shall now offer is that here is an opportunity for the officials to inquire into the rights of outsiders to connive at, aid or abet prisoners to escape from confinement. If there is not a pretty heavy penalty attached to that class of amusements, we have not rightly construed the law in relation thereto. For further particulars on this subject we invite attention to Chapter III, Penal Code, which also touches upon David's case to some extent.

A FALSE STATEMENT.—It seems that some evil disposed person or persons in Lone Pine circulated a report to the effect that John Lubkens' child was suffering from small-pox of the most malignant type and that, therefore, people should not go near his house. As a matter of course, all who believed this report gave his place of business a wide berth, that apparently being the object of the malicious person who started the report. Mr. Lubkens writes us, and refers to Dr. Colleau in corroboration, that the report is without shadow of foundation in fact. Neither his child or any member of his family has had a moment's sickness from the small-pox or any disease that could be mistaken for it, therefore the story was created out of whole cloth simply to injure him in his business.

RAILROAD TALK.—It is said prominent parties in the lower part of the county have been quite recently assured by Governor Stanford that his corporation would not entertain any proposition to aid any Inyo or other company to construct a road of any gauge from Mojave, but for the reason that it was their fixed intention to go at it themselves with their entire force as soon as their main line was completed to the Colorado or point of junction with the Texas Pacific, and that that would be not later than April. We are inclined to place some credence to this statement as it comes through reliable sources.

SPRINGLIKE—The weather is very Springlike. For some time past it has been almost like early Summer, though, yesterday, there were indications of a snow fall on the mountains. The clarion notes of the sand hill crane and wild goose are frequently heard, so it looks as if a dry Summer was right at hand. This seems to be the feeling among the peach and apricot trees, which bid fair to be soon in full bloom. Their zeal though to be in on time will pretty surely cause the most of them to come to grief before April ends the danger from frosts.

MIXED PICKLES AND SUCH.—Parties who like mixed pickles and other things in that line too numerous to mention, besides blankets, etcetera, and also like to obtain them at a bargain when that can be done, will do well to make a note of what Lieut. Wotherspoon advertises elsewhere in this issue.

COMMITTEE MEETING.—The executive committee of the Inyo Archery Club is respectfully requested to meet at the Secretary's office at 7 P. M., March 3, for the purpose of arranging the second grand semi-annual exercises.

A CALL.—We acknowledge a call from Major Bartling, of San Francisco, one of the Rex Montis owners and managers. The company are rapidly fixing for an early start on the Summer's operations.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS CHANGE.—It is generally understood that S. G. Sneden has sold his Bishop Creek merchandising business to C. F. Stoughtenborough, formerly of this place.

C. G. F. Co.—The advertisement of the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company, one of the heaviest institutions in this or any other country, will be found in our columns this week.

NEW STORES.—It is stated that the upper end of the valley is about to be supplied with two new merchandising establishments, to be located at Bishop and Big Pine.

IN CHARGE.—Under Sheriff Gregg and Jack Moore have been in charge of the Sheriff's office during Dadual's trip to Darwin and Passmore's absence at his ranch.

PAID UP.—The Modoc and New Coso mining companies paid in their delinquent taxes yesterday but under protest, as in the case of the Union Consolidated.

PAY UP.—Parties indebted to W. T. Davis for blacksmithing and wagon work will find elsewhere a notice to call and settle before the 6th of March.

GONE A GRANGING.—Messrs. George H. Hardy and W. A. Cassidy are going to farm it on the Gerrish ranches, near Camp Independence, this year.

FAST FREIGHT.—S. Zaun has established a good institution in the way of a regular fast freight wagon between Lone Pine and Mojave.

ON TRIAL.—The Hickey Hood case is in progress to-day before Justice Keppler, of George's Creek.

MEETING TO-NIGHT.—Stated meeting of Inyo Lodge, F. & A. M. to-night.

THE NEW LAWS OF KEARSARGE DISTRICT.

Pursuant to 30 days notice being given by the Recorder of the Kearsarge Mining District, in the county of Inyo, State of California, a called meeting of the persons owning mining property in said district, for the purpose of amending the laws of said district so as to make them confirm to the Act of Congress of May 10, 1872, was held at the store of J. B. Rowley, in the town of Independence, in said district, county and State, on the 1st day of February, A. D. 1877. On motion of J. H. Holt, J. W. Symmes was elected Chairman and Charles Dale Secretary. On motion, Charles Dale, H. T. Walker and A. R. Conklin were appointed a Committee of three to draft amendments to said laws and directed to report the same to the consideration of said meeting to be held at the same place, February 17, 1877. Whereupon the meeting adjourned to February 17, 1877.

At a meeting of the persons owning mining interests in said district, pursuant to adjournment, held at the store of J. B. Rowley on the 17th day of February, 1877, R. B. Snelling in the Chair, the Committee to whom was referred the drafting of amendments to the laws of said district, reported as follows:

ARTICLE I.

This district shall be known and designated as the Kearsarge Mining District, in the county of Inyo, State of California.

ARTICLE II.

The district shall include all that territory lying and being south of Big Pine creek, north of the Alabama district, east of the Sierra Nevada mountains and west of Owens river.

ARTICLE III.

All claims located in this district, whether made by one or more persons, shall not be less than twenty-five feet on each side of the middle of the vein at the surface, and may equal but not exceed 1,500 feet in length along the vein or lode, nor more than 300 feet on each side of the middle of the vein at the surface.

ARTICLE IV.

All locations shall be made by posting a notice at the point of location, which notice shall describe the location, giving the number of feet claimed along the vein and the number of feet claimed on each side of the location, and the same shall be distinctly marked by measurement on the ground, so that its boundaries can be readily traced. All notices shall contain the names of the locators, the date of the location and the name of the mine.

ARTICLE V.

Within 30 days after the discovery of any claim or lode, the locator or locators shall file with the Recorder of said district for record, a copy of said notice and pay the said Recorder the sum of $2, as a fee for recording the same.

ARTICLE VI.

A failure to comply with these requirements or any portion thereof as provided for in section 4 and 5, shall be considered an abandonment of the location.

ARTICLE IX.

The officers of this district shall be a Recorder to be elected by those who take a part in the proceedings of the meeting, and at stated elections as hereinafter provided for, and shall hold his office for the term of one year from the date of his election.

ARTICLE X.

It shall be the duty of the Recorder to keep in a suitable book or books a full and truthful record of the proceedings of all public meetings, to place on record the notices of all claims brought to him for that purpose, recording the same in the order of their date, to issue certificates of the performance of labor upon the affidavit of two interested parties, to keep on file all original papers in his office until called for, and to call meetings of election and for other purposes and business of the district, by posting notices of the same as hereinafter provided for; it shall also be the duty of the Recorder to keeps his books of office open at all times for inspection by the public; he shall also have power to appoint a deputy to act in his stead.

ARTICLE XI.

All examination of records shall be made in the presence of the Recorder or his Deputy.

ARTICLE XII.

The fees of the Recorder shall be as follows: For recording each claim he shall receive the sum of $2, and for each certificate of work done, 50 cents each.

ARTICLE XIII.

An election shall take place on the second Monday of September of each year for the purpose of electing a Recorder, and the Recorder shall call all special meetings by application of not less than ten persons owning mining interests in the district, who shall present to the Recorder their wishes in writing, and the object of their meeting shall be duly specified in said application and it shall be the duty of the Recorder in all instances to post notices containing the specified object of the meeting in three conspicuous places, at least one month previous to the time of such meeting, and of all meetings whether special or annual.

ARTICLE XIV.

The laws of this district may be changed or new ones inserted by a two-thirds vote of those present and holding claims within the limits of the district.

ARTICLE VII.

A tunnel site claim shall consist of 300 feet by location on the face of the hill, and on all lodes struck shall have one days' labor performed for each and every fifty feet of surface, and the labor shall be performed within six months from the date of location, and when so applied said claim or claims shall hold good for one year from the date of location, but if not worked within the time specified, said claim or claims shall be considered as abandoned and subject to re-location.

ARTICLE VIII.

A mill site may consist of not more than five acres and shall be indicated by a notice posted in some conspicuous place, and it shall be duly recorded the same as a mineral lode.

J. W. SYMMES,
Recorder of Kearsarge Mining District.

COOLING PREPARATIONS.—S. Zaun is doing something practical to insure cooler times in Lone Pine next Summer. He has some 15 tons of nice ice in an ice house, especially constructed for that purpose. We hope it will be more of a success than was a similar attempt here two or three years ago, the ice had all melted and disappeared from the inside of the elaborately constructed ice house before the Winter's frost had fairly vaporized from its roof. The real design of the building was for an incubater, but the poultry market was flat, so they thought it might be good to preserve ice; and so it would in some climates, between November and March.

HAS A GOOD PROSPECT.—A friend lately in from Darwin expresses the belief that in the New Coso Company's Lucky Jim mine, there is at least a million dollars' worth of ore in sight. The company is making preparations for very extensive work. Steam hoisting works are to be put on the mine, while the furnace, our informant states, is to have a capacity of 80 tons. It is said the company's expenditures in these preparations will amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars—a very indefinite statement, truly, but conveying some idea of the estimate of their operations and faith.

REMARKS.—First and Second Classes go through from Carson in six days. Third Class go through from Carson in ten days; from Omaha all classes travel on same fast time—2d and 3d classes occupy smoking cars. Unless one purchases a ticket for sleeping car it is throwing money away to buy 1st class tickets. Meals at stations to Omaha for 1st and 2d class passengers, $1; for 3d class, 50 cents; no difference in table or attention. A lunch basket, properly filled, will shorten expenses materially; all classes of passengers during Winter should take such a basket for snow-blockade emergencies. At most stopping places persons board trains to sell hot coffee, meats, fruits, etc., which they offer at reasonable rates.

MINES IN THE BASE RANGE.—The result of the present great mining trial is of peculiar interest to our citizens and readers, and of great importance to the mine owners in this district. The Base range has been troubled and vexed with a multiplicity of theories bearing on the geology of the country, and the deposition of mineral-bearing veins, and outside capital has always been very timid in investing in limestone formations ever since the subsidence of the White Pine excitement; yet the rewards for continued explorations have been just as certain, and the returns equal in value, as any other mining section on the Pacific Coast, not even excepting the Comstock. This has been peculiarly the case in the Eureka district and the developments in depth have been of a character that has astonished the early doubters. Call them what you may—pipe, segregated, fissure, or contact veins, walls, or no walls—and the fact remains that at a depth of 1,000 feet ore is found as rich and valuable as at the croppings or surface, and with every indication of a permanent character at a lower depth. We do not propose to comment on either of the rival theories now being ventilated, for decisions of the Court will not alter geological formations, but to call attention to the immense ore bodies that do exist from the surface to an unknown depth, and we think we can predicate from that fact the continued prosperity of Eureka.—Eureka Sentinel.

KEPT HIS WORD.—R. H. Paul, W. F. & Co's messenger, agreeably to his word, brought back Lugo, the Mexican whom he arrested as one of the robbers of the stage a short time ago, none of the persons he relied upon being able to identify him. In this regard, while Mr. Paul has shown by his acts that he is an efficient officer for the company employing him, he at the same time has proved to the Mexican population that he entertains nothing against them in the way of malice. It is his duty to arrest all, whether Americans or Mexicans, who commit depredations upon the highway, and he will do it.—Coso News, Feb. 17.

BEAUTIFUL PICTURES.—We have received from the Fine Art Publishing House of Geo. Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine, several pictures recently published by them. The subjects, as works of high art, deserve the highest praise. Stinson & Co. were among the pioneers in the fine art publishing business in this country, and year by year their business has grown, until at the present time it has assumed colossal proportions. A short time since they published a chromo that had a run of over 125,000 copies. The weight of them unmounted was over 9 tons. In the selection of subjects, Stinson & Co. show correct judgment of the public taste, which natural talent, aided by long experience, alone can give. They publish every description of fine works of Art, from a chromo to a photograph—from a fine crayon drawing to the most elegant steel engraving. They bring into service the skill of the most talented artists. Messrs. Stinson & Co. are at present in want of a large number of new agents, to whom they offer the most liberal inducements. We call attention to their advertisement, headed, "To the Working Class," in our advertising columns.

THE Silver Commission is at work and will present its report to Congress by the last of the month.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 24.....1877.

On Sunday last at Caliente, Thos. Whalen was shot by under Sheriff A. T. Lightner. The circumstances appear to be about as follows: The deceased, in company with another person, called at the bar in the Burns hotel, and Whalen being under the influence of liquor abused the bar-keeper with the most insulting language, and threatened to kill him if he did not do as he was bid. The bar-keeper called on the Under Sheriff to put them out, who showed them his badge and proceeded to gently show them to the door. He then closed the door and left. A short time afterward the bar-keeper sent for him, and on arriving at the hotel he found the same men standing by the bar threatening the bar-keeper. Lightner again got them out doors and then started to leave. As he did so the deceased came toward him in a threatening manner, using vile language and drawing up his coat as if to grasp a revolver. Lightner drew his weapon and fired, the shot taking effect. Whalen died the following day. The Coroner's jury found "that he came to his death from a pistol fired from the hands of A. T. Lightner, Under Sheriff of Kern county, while in the dis- of his duty as an officer."—Kern County Courier, Feb. 3d.

The Poisonous Principle of Spoiled Corn.—Professor C. Lombroso describes two poisonous principles derived from spoiled maize; an oil soluble in alcohol and an alkaloid. From these may be derived a body closely resembling strychnia, possessing all of the chemical and most of the physiological reactions of the latter alkaloid. In frogs, not only tetanic symptoms, but also those of paresis and narcosis, were induced by administration of the oil. In chickens, after prolonged administration of the oil only paresis and convulsive movements of the head, with inclination to retrogade movements, were induced. The administration to chickens of the alkaloid, on the other hand induces death in a few minutes, with previous paralysis of the limbs and chronic convulsions. Administered to locusts, fish, mice, etc., the alkaloid gives rise to symptons similar to those of strychnia poisoning. Prof. Lombroso concludes, therefore, that two distinct poisons are present in spoiled maize.

In a case that came up before the Recorder yesterday morning, his honor asked the prisoner why he did not make an affidavit against the other party for abusive and insulting language, when he was called a knock-kneed, cat-hammed, lantern-jawed, black son of a sea cook. The reply was: "You see, boss I never allows my temper to get the best of me, and I'se not got so low down yet as to go to law wid a man. If a niggah insults me, and I can't get my fumb in his eye, I jiss chaws his ear off an' dat's what I did in dis case."

A Mr. Wright, of Tulare, who is expert in the "witch hazel" method of finding water in dry places, has been regularly employed by the Southern Railroad Company to find water for them where they require it. He seems to have astonishing success, and his services are indispensable. If he can accurately locate the place where flowing artesian wells can be struck through the valley, he ought to be rewarded by a government pension.—Santa Barbara Press.

Life Insurance Companies as a rule have been shamefully managed in the United States. Investments in this way have almost come to be a by-word in California, so badly have many of them turned out. We do not doubt however, that there are sound companies; but there should be enacted stringent laws for the protection of the people. A similar rule should apply to other insurance companies.

We do not harm by looking forward to pleasure, to joy—always keeping ourselves in check, so that we do not become softened by our hopes; but we are miserable silly when we lose the gladness of the present for the possible sorrow of the future, when we anticipate pains that may never come.

The Los Angeles Herald wants to know where the S. P. R. R. will cross the Colorado river, and puts the conundrum "Yuma—or What?" After interviewing the railroad officials we answer "What?"—Semi-Tropic.

It is not work, nor sorrow, nor passing years that makes us old; it is anxiety about our work, apprehension as to our future, inconsolable sorrow for our losses. These sap the springs of life and make men old.

"I make it a point, madam, to study my own mind," said a gentleman to a lady who had exhibited some surprise at an opinion he had expressed. "I didn't suppose you understood the use of a microscope."

The father of eight daughters in Grand Haven, Michigan, has made a musical band of them, and he has bought twelve brass instruments, because he expects to add to the membership.

A Western paper, in describing an accident recently, says with much candor: "Dr. Jones was called, and under his prompt and skillful treatment the young man died on Wednesday night."

"The smallest hair," says an exchange, "casts a shadow." So it does, and especially over a boarding-house breakfast table, when one is found in a butter dish.

"George, dear, don't you think it rather extravagant of you to eat butter with that delicious jam?" "No, love—economical! Same piece of bread does for both!"

Judge: "Have you anything to offer to the Court before sentence is passed on you." Prisoner: "No, Judge, I had ten dollars, but my lawyers took that."

A Washington dispatch of the 17th gives this: The excitement among the Democrats over the evident success of Hayes is less than it would be if Tilden was a cordial favorite. Those who opposed the latter's nomination now demand an entire reorganization of the party, and claim that the party defeat has resulted entirely from his mismanaged still-hunt. Democratic denunciation of the Oregon business is becoming common. A prominent Indiana Democrat says publicly that it is infamous and ought to defeat Tilden, and that he deserves all he gets. There is strong reason for predicting that at least one Democrat on the Electoral Commission will peremptorily refuse to sustain the Cronin performance.

Rumor has it, that at the next meeting of the Racific Coast editors in San Francisco, the hotels will be supplied with foot rests, placed against the walls, about 5 feet above the floor, on which the editors can place their feet and smoke, while they tell how great a circulation they have — Contra Costa News.

It seems that the United States mints are far behind in the coinage of silver, and something has to be done to supply the amount of currency required by the nation.

PROSPECTUS.

What Pays?

It pays every manufacturer, merchant, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer or Professional Man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

It pays the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

The Scientific American, which has been published weekly for the last thirty-one years, does this, to an extent beyond that of any other publication; in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and New Discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the world; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes and improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Suggestions and Advice by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record, not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics and Science abroad.

The Scientific American has been the foremost of all Industrial publications for the past thirty-one years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress published in the world.

The practical Recipes are well worth ten times the subscription price, and for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the Scientific American useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1877.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and Several Hundred Engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3 20 cents a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars, giving Club rates, sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the Scientific American, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms. Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the Scientific American of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to parties attracted to the invention by such notice. A Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents sent free. The Scientific American Reference Book—a volume bound in cloth and gilt, containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 142 engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents. Address for the paper, or concerning patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New York. Branch office, Cor. F and 7th sts., Washington, D. C. n34:23

"The King of all publications issued for the young on either side of the Atlantic."—Southampton (England) Observer.

The third volume of this incomparable Magazine is now completed. With its 800 royal octavo pages, and its 600 illustrations, its splendid serials, its shorter stories, poems and sketches, etc., in its beautiful binding of red and gold, it is the most splendid gift book for boys and girls ever issued from the press. Price, $4; in full gilt, $5.

ST. NICHOLAS FOR 1877

Which opens with November, 1876, begins a short and very entertaining serial from the French, "The Kingdom of the Greedy," a story adapted to the Thanksgiving season. Another serial, of absorbing interest to boys, "His Own Master," by J. T. Trowbridge, author of the "Jack Hazard Stories," begins in the Christmas Holiday Number, together with "The Boys of My Boyhood," by William Cullen Bryant, Christmas stories, lively sketches, poems, pictures, etc.

During the year there will be interesting papers for boys, by William Cullen Bryant, John G. Whittier, Thomas Hughes, William Howitt, Dr. Holland, George Macdonald, Sanford B. Hunt, Frank R. Stockton and others.

There will be stories, sketches and poems of special interest to girls, by Harriet Prescott Spofford, Susan Coolidge, Sarah Winter Kellogg, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Louisa Alcott, Lucretia P. Hale, Celia Thaxter, Mary Mapes Dodge and many others. There will also be "Twelve Sky Pictures," by Prof. Proctor, the astronomer, with maps, showing "The Stars of Each Month," which will be likely to surpass in interest any series on popular science recently given to the public.

Amusement and Instruction, with Fun and Frolic, and Wit and Wisdom, will be mingled as heretofore, and ST. NICHOLAS will continue to delight the young and give pleasure to the old.

"St. Nicholas is full of the choicest things. The publication is, in all respects, the best of its kind. We have never yet seen a number that was not surprisingly good."—The Churchman, Hartford, Conn.

"There is no magazine for the young that can be said to equal this choice publication of Scribner's press. All the articles, whether in prose or rhyme, are throbbing with vitality. * * The literature and artistic illustrations are both superb."—The London Literary World.

"We wish we could point out its equal in our own periodical literature."—London Daily News.

Good News for Boys and Girls.

To meet the demand for a cheaper St. Nicholas Gift Book, the price of vols. I and II has been reduced to $3 each. The three volumes, in an elegant library case, are sold for $10 (in full gilt, $15) so that all may give their children a complete set. These volumes contain more attractive material than fifty dollars' worth of the ordinary children's books.

Subscription price, $3 a year. The three bound volumes and a subscription for the year, only $12. Subscribe with the nearest news dealer, or send money in check, or postoffice money order, or in registered letter, to

SUMMONS.

In the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State California, in and for the County of Inyo. Ellen E. Matlack, plaintiff, against Alexander C. Matlack, defendant. Action brought in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and the complaint filed in said county of Inyo, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to Alexander C. Matlack, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and to answer a complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within the county; or, if served out of this county, but in this district, within twenty days; otherwise, within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a judgment and decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony existing between said plaintiff and said defendant, and for the custody of the minor children, issue of their said marriage, as does more fully appear from said plaintiff's complaint, to which reference is hereby made.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Hon. Court for the relief prayed for in said complaint on file herein.

Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, this fifth day of September in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

CHAPTER XIX—AMONG THE MORMONS.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Salt Lake valley is very extensive. The Lake itself is 80 miles long by 50 miles wide, which only occupies a small portion of this great valley. There are many flourishing farming settlements scattered here and there through the valley. Salt Lake City is beautifully located on a bench or gradual slope from the Wasatch mountains. The streets are 8 rods wide, with a small stream of water running on each side, which serve, in the Summer to irrigate the rows of beautiful shade trees that luxuriantly grow along both sides of all the streets in the city; the favorite shade trees are locust, maple, box-elder and cottonwood. The yards and gardens are well filled with a variety of fruit trees, which in the Summer gives the city a grand appearance. The population is said to be over 30,000; the city is well supplied with water, gas and street railroads.

THE TABERNACLE.

There are two things that every visitor to this city is anxious to see, viz., Brigham Young and the Mormon Tabernacle. Piute has not yet seen the former, but to-day had the pleasure of promenading through the great tabernacle. A very high stone and adobe fence encloses a ten-acre square; inside this enclosure are the tabernacle and temple, the latter in course of erection. In shape the tabernacle is oval; being 150x250 feet; hight from floor to ceiling is 80 feet, to the roof 85 feet. The building will seat 12,000 persons, although 15,000 often crowd in. A grand feature of the tabernacle is the extraordinary large organ, which was built here by a Mr. Ridges, who still resides in the city. With the exception of the organ in the Academy of Music, Boston, this one in the tabernacle is the largest in the United States; it has 52 stops and 3,000 pipes and cost over $100,000. The temple is progressing very slowly, it is being built of huge blocks of granite; the walls are nine feet nine inches thick! According to present indications, Bro. Brigham, with all his wives, will have emigrated to the Summer land before the completion of the temple. The tabernacle is exclusively used for the preaching of the Gospel and for teaching and instructing the people in a variety of subjects, but the temple is the consecrated place to confer certain rights and privileges such as endowments, baptism for the dead, celestial marriage, etc.; performances incomprehensible to a Piute. We were informed by a prominent Mormon that these imposing edifices, with all the other public buildings, fences, etc., were built in accordance with the designs and specifications of President Young. His own residences, tithing offices and the Deseret News office are in close proximity to the temple block, and all enclosed by a massive stone wall. We concluded, after circling around, that these huge stone fences (some 12 feet high) in the heart of the city are not in fine contrast with the taste otherwise displayed in this beautiful "City of the Saints." However, they were built many years ago, when protection was probably in view more than ornamentation. Nearly opposite the private residence of Brigham Young, is a beautiful house (minus the stone fence) called "Amelia's Palace." She is the President's favorite. The architectural design differs from any of his other buildings. This lady must have humored the old gentleman into a sweet mood. This fine building proves that the President submitted to have an architectural genius of the modern school show the progressive ideas of modern art. Amelia's palace is undoubtedly the most elegant mansion in Utah. During the Winter season the Mormons hold service in the different ward-meeting houses, (the city is divided into 20 wards), but during the Summer months divine services are held every Sunday in the great tabernacle. Their style of preaching differs from most other religious denominations. Valuable instruction is frequently given how to proceed and prosper. Piute had the pleasure of attending divine service three times the other Sunday. The speakers were many and the subjects of their sermons and exhortations many more — innumerable. All "bore testimony to the good works, etc." Finally the boss preacher rose and thundered terribly; he spread himself over a wide range; he went into politics, denounced the Republican party and thought the Democrats were only a shade better, in fact, that the whole caboodle of Gentiles are ripening to destruction. The prophecies must be fulfilled; war was now inevitable and the present crisis would surely fetch it around. He then gave the boys who used tobacco a raking over, also the girls for sparking the detestable Gentiles. He finally grew hoarse, but after taking a drink of water, he concluded his remarks thus: "It's no use preaching; you know too much already. What's the use of preaching if you don't live up it? live on the square and pay your tithing. I'll warn you once more brethern and sisters, you must live up to the teaching, or you'll go to hell and be damned." Piute thought this was strong preaching, but the vast audience having often heard such remarks, felt as unconcerned and kept as cool as a lot of cucumbers. The above is no exaggeration, but a friend, blessed with a retentive memory, reports that a certain Elder's sermon contained "Advice on the culture of sorghum; upon infant baptism; upon the the best manure for cabbages; upon the wickedness of skimming milk before its sale; upon the best method of cleaning water ditches; upon bed bug poison; upon the price of real estate, upon teething in children; upon olive oil as a cure for measles; upon the ordination of the priesthood; upon worms in dried peaches; upon the character of Melchisidec; upon abstinence from plug tobacco; upon the crime of foeticide; upon chignons; upon 25-yard dresses; upon plural marriages and upon Utah's best crop of children." No Sabe. TINNAMUCKAHEE.

CHAPTER XX.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Much could be said concerning the industry, frugality, economy and perseverance of the Mormons; how waste lands and barren plains have been made to bloom like the rose; but you will not expect Piute to grapple with the religious aspects of Mormonism; no comprehende. Should you desire to permanently locate in Salt Lake City you would not be compelled, as some think, to swallow the Book of Mormon nor digest the doctrines and covenants; neither would you be insisted upon to take more than a half dozen women, although the prophet hath declared, much to the chagrin of bachelors, that seven women will hang on to man's coat tail! There are various religious denominations—Baptists, Methodists, Episcopalians and Catholics — all of which have their fine churches. Also, radicals, liberals, free thinkers, free lovers and spiritualists have their Liberty Hall, where various doctrines are promulgated. Still, all the other denominations combined with all the wandering gentiles thrown in, are only small in comparison with the great body of Mormons in this and other cities of Utah. The rulers of the Mormon church exert a great power over the multitude. The majority of the Mormon people are impressionable, and are probably more influenced by feeling than judgment. Their feelings are appealed to by the Elders; obedience to the Gospel is required, and that the priesthood they hold is by the authority of the Lord Jesus Christ. They give evidence of their faith by doing as they are told, hence, the "Kingdom of God" on earth, is being built. It is said that a bitter feeling exists against apostates, (backsliders), and that they merit the "buffettings of Satan" for denying the faith, is a Mormon interpretation. Serious charges are often made; the other day one thus expressed himself in the newspaper: "Up to 5 years ago I never ventured to walk on the side-walk after dark, I always kept to the middle of the street with my hand on my revolver; had I not done so I should certainly have been assassinated." However, those days have passed, and the silent influence of the Gentiles and the moral power of the nation has already had an effect upon the Mormons of the city which will soon be felt throughout the Territory. The discovery and development of the mines (with another railroad through to the Pacific), will largely increase the Gentile population in Utah, and their influence each year will be more powerfully felt. The Salt Lake Tribune (Gentile organ) felt like crowing a little the other day in the following strain: "Eleven cars of bullion, sixteen of ore and one of hides from Utah, passed through Omaha on the 13th; the Gentiles produced the ore and bullion, the Mormons the hides." In spite of prejudice, it must be admitted that Brigham Young is an extraordinary man, possesses wonderful executive ability and wields a great influence over his people. He is adored by the saints and a photograph of him graces almost every family album. A prayer is hardly ever offered without uttering his name, imploring the Lord "to grant and bless our leader, President Young, with strength and wisdom." His counselors are also able men, and the people have implicit faith in those leaders; hence the unity and fidelity of the Latter-day Saints. In the city there is more or less aristocracy, but the great majority of the Mormon families have plain ways of living. The tithing is still donated to the church. After a poor farmer has supported his large family, two or three wives with 15 or 20 children, and has paid his tithing and other church dues, he is seldom known to hunt up, at the end of the year, a savings bank to make a deposit. Some of the shrewd brethern are necessarily rich; although the masses are not wealthy, they are generally very honest. Bro. Brown may be seen hurrying along with his load of corn to the tithing office; he and his corn are kindly received. Bishop C. or Elder D. takes Bro. Brown by the hand and assures him that he is one of the faithful and that his reward is in heaven. Thus pleased Bro. B. returns home fully convinced that he has performed his duty and tells Sister Brown how the Elders congratulated him. They are decidedly in earnest and cherish grand confidence in the joys to come. The teachers devoutedly entreat the saints to be habitually temperate in all thing; to abstain from liquors, tobacco, tea, coffee, etc., and although all kinds of eatables and drinkables are sold in these Mormon stores, yet a great number of the humble and very pious indulge only in a cold water beverage. However, it is said that some of these very teachers are not so fastidious in taste and will smoke a fragrant Havana, and call for a champagne supper occasionally, which verifies the old saying, "Do as I bid you, but don't follow my tracks." Z. C. M. I. These letters mean Zion's Co-operative Mercantile Institution, of which there are many in the Territory. Most every little town in Utah has its "Co-op." grocery stores, butcher shops, wagon shops, etc. There is a very large "Co-op." brick building in Salt Lake City, with iron and glass front, three stories high; it is 40 feet wide and 300 feet long with all the modern improvements, steam elevator, etc. The Gentiles and apostates also have beautiful mercantile house, and also first class hotels in this city. The Walker Bros. (Gentiles) are very wealthy; own a large store and are bankers, hotel proprietors and mining operators. Their hotel is one of the best in the Territory, it is a four story brick building, has a frontage of 82 feet and a depth of 120 feet and has 132 rooms well finished and nicely furnished. This city abounds with beautiful sights for tourists and must be a delightful place in Summer. About two miles east of the city, beautifully located on an elevated bench, is Camp Douglas, established by Gen. Connor several years ago. At some other time Piute may briefly descant on the romantic scenery of Echo, Weber, American Fork, Big Cottonwood and Little Cottonwood canons. They have had a mild Winter in Utah, and for several weeks the weather has been delightful.

TINNAMUCKAHEE.

End of a Family of Brigands in Kansas.

One of the blackest of all crimes is known as the Bender tragedy of Kansas. The Bender family was resident in Montgomery county, Kansas. The family consisted of "old man" Bender, his wife, his daughter Kate and his son, a young man who is to some considerable extent acquitted in the public mind of much that is charged without distinction to his father, mother and sister. The crime of the crowd consisted of murdering from mercenary motives and burning upon their wayside premises, not fewer than nine persons, all of them travelers, and some of them citizens of at least local prominence. Though a number of "sudden disappearances" had occurred in Montgomery county, suspicion had not settled on the Benders until Dr. York, brother of A. M. York, the exposer of ex-Senator Pomeroy, had suddenly "come up missing," and when suspicion had finally fallen upon the family every member of the same simultaneously disappeared. Since their disappearance no trace of them has ever been found, notwithstanding the most diligent search and the most intricate plans and plottings of detective bureaus the country over. All of this, until within a few days, has been accepted as the essential substance of what could be discovered or explained relative to the procedure.

Very lately, however, an unexpected solution of the matter has been offered, though as yet it must not be accepted as conclusive. Facts have come to light which point very strongly to the supposition that a vigilance committee went to the Benders house, placed them in their own wagon, drawn by their own horses, and conveyed them to a secluded spot not far off, on the edge of a large pond, and there extorted a full confession from them of all their crimes, down to the smallest details. After this the Benders were never heard of, and it is more than probable their bodies were carefully concealed. It will be remembered that a few days after this a wagon was discovered near this point, to which a pair of horses were tied, which was known to be Bender's property. This was soon followed by the announcement that the home of the Benders had been deserted.

It is said, too, that Gov. Osborne was secretly apprised of all these facts, which will account for the fact that on the part of the Kansas authorities, no systematic effort has ever been made to apprehend the Benders, and stories of their capture elsewhere have only excited an incredulous smile at the State capital.—Boston Herald.

A Celestial Cure.

Tom Warren, Charley Sykes and Bill Penstone are three placer miners in California ravine. The other day they caught a Chinaman stealing grub from their cabin and concluded to teach him a lesson. So Tom produced a bottle of castor oil and told the Celestial to drink half of it. The Chinaman protested in his best "pidgen" that he had never stolen before and would never again, and begged for his life, evidently thinking the bottle contained poison.

To assure the poor fellow it was harmless, Tom took a taste himself and then told John that he knew just what made him steal; it was a disease. "Me doctor," said Tom, "me cure you, make you all right. No steal no more, be good Chinaman—drink."

The Chinaman, assured by Tom's tasting that the contents of the bottle were harmless, took the prescribed potion, and after the accompanying shudder had passed from his frame, forced a ghastly smile over his features, and reported, "Him belly good."

"Yes," said Tom, "It'll do your belly good, you bet."

The patient was kept at the cabin about half an hour, and until tremendous gripes caused him to writhe, when he was compelled to drink the other half-bottle, and then allowed to depart.

The foregoing happened just before the storm, and yesterday Tom, who informed the reporter of the occurrence, added, significantly, that the cure was effective, and that, although the cabin had been open night and day ever since, nothing had been disturbed in the premises.

He says, also, that Charley and Bill have dubbed him doctor, and he'll be dashed if he believes he'll get over it as long as he lives.—Virginia Enterprise.

WITH A POINT TO IT.

THE INDEPENDENT proprietors are making strenuous exertions to settle in full the balances against them, and hope to prompty accomplish this end through the immediate receipt of all amounts due. Let ALL parties, either at home or abroad, who are owing us make an effort in behalf of the concern and call and pay, or remit through our authorized agents. This article need not be read save by those who are so indebted, but to such it has a point to it.

PRE-EMPTION AND HOMESTEAD RIGHTS. Senate bill 1163, offered by Mr. Paddock, has passed the Senate and will no doubt pass the House. It is one of great importance to a large class of settlers. It reads as follows: Be it enacted, That when any person who has made a settlement on the public lands under the pre-emption laws shall change his filing to that for a homestead entry, the time required to perfect his title under the homestead laws shall be computed from the date of his original settlement made under the pre-emption laws.

THE Washington Evening Telegram says: Lyman Trumbull's mail now consists in great part every day of invitations to attend colored balls in every quarter of the United States, from Tallahassee to Galveston. One of them, from Illinois, came addressed to the care of Judge Clifford, President of the Electoral Commission. Some are accompanied with photographs.

ON next Monday, March 5, a Mr. Ralph Stott proposes to start his newly-invented flying machine on its first passage fromDover to Calais .He promises to perform the journey across the channel and return in the space of one hour, no matter what may be the direction of the wind or the state of the atmosphere.

GOV. TILDEN has addressed a letter to Senator Kernan, denying the imputation that his private bank account contains anything whatever that needs to be concealed, and expressing his willingness, if subpœned in the Oregon case, to appear and testify.

A DIABOLICAL plot has been discovered at San Quentin, devised by the Hop Wo prisoners to destroy their rivals by the infusion of powdered glass into their soup. The plot was discovered by the confession of one of the conspirators.

THE Mark Lane Express asserts that 500 tons of fresh American beef reach England weekly. This new branch of trade has created considerable anxiety in the English agricultural districts of Shropshire and Staffordshire.

IT is rumored that England has confidentially hinted to various governments that she might change her attitude if Armenia should become the seat of war and Turkey's territorial integrity in Asia be endangered.

GEN. GARFIELD has sued the Cleveland Plaindealer for an article charging that he attended a colored ball in New Orleans and behaved indecently. Garfield did not attend the ball.

KING KALAKAU, though not a sporting character, is doing all he can to promote the races in the Sandwich Islands. He has appointed a commission "to increase the Hawaiian race."

THE two Houses of the North Carolina Legislature adopted resolutions, by nearly a unanimous vote, indorsing Congressional aid to the Texas Pacific railway.

IT is now thought that Evarts will be selected for Secretary of State by President-elect Hayes. For the Interior Department the name of Sargent is mentioned.

THE Silver State says first class passenger travel over the Central Pacific Railroad is said to be lighter at the present than at any previous time for years.

IMMIGRATION westward over the Central Pacific Railroad is said to be reviving. A few days since one car was loaded with immigrants from North Carolina.

The organ of the Catholic party in Mexico strongly denounces the outrages recently committed on Protestants in different sections of that Republic.

THE aggregate length of the railroads in California is 1,800 miles.

THE DITCHING PROJECT.

We received a call this week from J. G. Thompson, Surveyor, at Benton, who had spent a few days at Bishop Creek in making a preliminary survey for what is known as the Ross Irrigating Canal, after which he decided to take a run down this far. This Ross canal will certainly be constructed as soon as the Desert Land Bill becomes a law, so as to make it more of an object. The canal is to have a cross section of 27 square feet—that is, a depth of three feet, by a width of six on the bottom and twelve feet at the surface. Its head will be at the extreme upper end of Bishop Creek valley, its foot as far in this direction as the supply of water will justify, skirting the foot of the hills all the way, so as to cover every acre of fertile land along its entire length, save in the few miles near the head. The projectors of this enterprise have an abundance of means within themselves to complete it, and, as before stated, will do so contingent to some extent on the passage of the aforesaid law. We do not think a canal of this size will be sufficient to drain the river, even that high up, by any means, nor that it will carry water enough to irrigate but a small part of the attainable lands, should it be projected as far as this point, say; in ordinary seasons the river will supply three or four such canals, taken out ten to twenty miles apart, and yet have enough to fill the Eclipse mill-race, which holds a right that cannot be taken away; nevertheless, those farmers at Big Pine and Lone Pine both, who contemplate similar enterprises on their own account, will do well to establish their rights to a fair proportion of the surplus water as soon as possible; not only that, but to go ahead with their projects to the utmost limit of their individual means; otherwise, some outside speculator of sufficient means will soon secure a monopoly of the water, and through it, a vast area of desirable lands, worthless enough as they now lie, but of much value when brought under cultivation by means of river water. It may be a matter of small consequence to every other than the farming interest whether this water is made a monopoly by one company from the outside, or several composed of home people; but it will make quite a difference to many of our farmers nevertheless, particularly those forehanded and enterprising enough to take hold of such an enterprise, but fail to do do it in time and with an earnest purpose. In the first place they lose the ownership and control of a right that bids fair to be of lasting value as a mere cent per cent money speculation; at the same their present farming business is brought directly in competition with that from a much larger area brought under cultivation through these canals; lastly, a total water monopoly such as is possible, will command tribute in some degree from all classes of farmers, the worst part of which can be avoided when the stockholders in the canal are themselves all resident and practical farmers, obtaining their supply of water by virtue of a stockholders' certificate instead of dead cash year after year, to some speculating monopolist. A farmer, having his own team and tools, can easily work out $1,000 assessment in such an enterprise and not necessarily interfere to a serious extent with his regular yearly work either, and eight or ten such men can complete a ten-mile canal of a capacity more than sufficient for their own use, in one year, if they would only make up their minds to "pitch in." And that proportion of ownership in such a canal and water right anywhere in this valley is worth more to each individual in solid coin than the ordinary yearly product of his farm, which, for the time being he might be compelled to neglect to some extent. But it is highly important in all such co-operative undertakings that mutual obligations should be sufficiently binding to insure certain results in given periods, whether that would be but a start for the first year or completion in full in the same time to give a chance for the beginning of returns. The risk of being left in the lurch by the easily discouraged is what deters many from entering into such co-operative schemes, no matter how promising in character.

IT is reported that Senator Cameron has paid Mrs. Oliver $1,000 for the relinquishment of the suit against him, preferring that to paying lawyers' fees.

ENGLAND is getting salmon eggs for her rivers from the Rhine, and expects to make even the Thames a fine fishing place.

MR. CREEL, of Virginia, whose wife has been insane for nine years, asks for a divorce so that he may marry again.

THERE are 2,500 Masonic lodges in the United States. The craft shows also increased vigor in India, China, Japan and even Africa.

THE grain receipts of Chicago for 1876 were 16,000,000 bushels in excess of the receipts for 1875.

ANOTHER CHAPTER.

Since our last issue another chapter has been added to the history of our country, the most important in its bearings of any in the entire hundred-year old book. It owes its importance or prominence less perhaps to the leading character of the political problems solved and precedents established, than to the fact that the past week's chapter has determined its own place in the book—whether it was to be the last in the most glorious volume ever dedicated to a free people, or the first in freedom's final downfall. It has been a doubt and a dread upon the minds of the wisest and most patriotic which of those two places this chapter would be assigned. It was not that the wise and patriotic thought then or now that it was at all essential whether the one man or the other was chosen to direct the writing of our national history for the next four years; that, to the mass, was a question of the most trifling moment; neither did they fear that the one would cause any materially blacker chapter to be written in that brief time than the other. The fear was that a manifest factious and contentious spirit of a few and but a few in reality might persist that neither should begin the task; or, if one, then both, in which event this chapter would have been the first of a new book, and the blackest American people have ever yet seen. There is no question but the same spirit which has ruined every other free people has very recently been abroad in our land; but it has been exorcised, and let us hope, for good and aye.

THE INDEPENDENT offers its congratulations, not that Rutherford B. Hayes is the chosen man, but that a peaceable choice has been made so far as we can now know, and that ere our next issue the old Ship of State will have fairly begun another voyage as promising as any that has preceded it.

All Sorts.

The President and Mrs. Grant will be the guest after March 4th till April, of Mr. and Mrs. Sartoris. They will remain in Washington until May, then go to Europe. Ulysses, Jr., goes to New York to practice law. Fred returns to Chicago. The President will give no more levees or dinners. The President will go West before sailing for Europe.

Russia has 600,000 men, or two-fifths of her army organized. About half are on the frontier, ready to begin operations. The Russian army south of the Caucasus, on the Asiatic frontier of Turkey, is in readiness for action. It numbers 115,000 men, with 35 field batteries and 250 heavy siege guns.

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company are negotiating for the purchase of the Colorado Steam Navigation Company's line of steamers, and if they can make the purchase there will be no competing line from San Francisco to Arizona.

At a mining camp near Jacksonville, Oregon, called Jackass, the miners are burning the cabins of the Chinese and driving them out of that section. Most of them have fled to Jacksonville.

The Victoria bridge across the St. Lawrence is more than a foot shorter in Winter than in Summer, and if provision were not made for the change something would have to break.

The people of Eureka are putting up their coin for the erection of a Methodist church. For a town the age of Eureka it is entitled to credit for its liberality in that direction.

The Arizona Miner says that it is now a settled fact that the Southern Pacific Railroad will cross the Colorado river fifteen miles above Fort Yuma.

Says an exchange: "Any family man who says he is too poor to take a newspaper should be indicted for obtaining a family on false pretences."

John Bemis, who stole $3,600 from an express company at Syracuse, N. Y., last November, has been captured at Santa Fe, New Mexico.

What is the difference between a postage stamp and a schoolmarm? One sticks with a lick and the other licks with a stick.

Cardinal Cullen has refused to allow the remains of John O'Mahoney to lie in state in the Cathedral at Dublin.

The treaty between Spain and the United States regarding extradition has now been ratified by both Governments.

The Idaho Legislature would not entertain any proposition to subsidize a railroad entering that Territory.

A decree has been published in Madrid permitting the return of Carlist refugees.

Oregon has 27,166 legal votes.

THE Pacific Life says two British regiments, the 20th and 97th are by courtesy of our Government to be sent overland from New York to San Francisco, en route to Esquimalt, Vancouver's Island, and, very properly urges the California Guards to turn out on their arrival at the ferry landing and give them an escort through the streets of San Francisco, to be followed by a ball in their honor, the proceeds to go to the British Benevolent Society.

THE Interior Department has received a certificate of the completion of a fifty-mile section of the Southern Pacific Railroad of California in the Yuma division, and two sections of 50 miles for the Tulare division. The Commissioners report that the road will probably cross the Colorado river into Arizona about the middle of March.

Editorial Comments of the Eastern Press Upon the Political Situation.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.

The Herald regards the Presidential election as virtually decided, if the electoral law is carried out in good faith and the completion of the count is not obstructed by dilatory action on the part of the Democrats in the House. It does not think Speaker Randall will consent to such desperate measures. He will not consent to see the future prospects of the Democrats utterly wrecked by egregious acts of bad faith, which would create alarm and kindle indignation among the business classes of the whole country.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.

The Bulletin and World are bitterly denouncing the result of the Electoral Commission, and say that all good citizens long for peace and restoration of confidence, but do not expect them from Hayes' administration.

The Sun is silent on the subject, except through its Washington correspondent, who narrates Democratic follies, which it claims lost the Presidency.

A Herald Washington special says: Respectable Democrats, though deeply offended, and criticise the Commission's decision in Florida and Louisiana causes, are not discontented with the Oregon result. A prominent and influential Democrat says that when the Oregon case arose, Tilden ought to have declared at once in a public letter, that Cronin was undoubtedly the elector by law but he was bound for Hayes, because he was a representative and agent only of a majority of the Oregon voters. If Tilden had done this, he would stand better to-day. The same correspondent adds that sensible, responsible men of both sides sit down to the fact that Hayes is the next President. They see that all attempts at delay now are wrong and a grave blunder for the Democratic party.

NEW YORK, Feb, 24.

The World's Washington special says: Word was sent to Hayes from the inside of the Commission concerning the results on the vote on Oregon two hours before its was publicly known.

DULL TIMES.—Perhaps at no time since the excitement of 1869, when people flocked from all parts of the coast to this vicinity, were times so dull here as at present. Our people should, however, remember that we are not alone in this respect. Nearly every town in the State is suffering more or less from like causes with ourselves. What avails it that we have rich mines all around us, so long as capital, so distrustful in these times, refuses to lend a hand in developing our mineral resources. The decline in the stock market, which commenced six months ago, and which seems to have hardly touched bottom yet, is being heavily felt here, as indeed it is all over the coast. But, we think, that in time this will prove beneficial to the outside districts of this State. Capital must soon see the folly of exhausting its strength on the barren and worthless locations around the Comstock and turn its attention elsewhere. If a tithe of the money and labor expended on the wildcat mines around Virginia, where a ton of ore never was and never will be found, were invested in this and other meritorious districts in Eastern Nevada, we would have prosperous times all over the State and stock panics would be unknown.—White Pine News.

MR. ZACHARIAH CHANDLER knows a good thing when he sees it. He has put up in his office a recent cartoon, representing him as holding a big elephant, labeled, "The Republican Party," by the tail, as it was falling through a bridge into the chasm it was crossing. Those who study the illustrated papers will recollect that the sturdy Secretary, bestriding the chasm with a colossal foot planted on either brink, stood gripping the tail of the elephant with both hands, while a bottle was within easy reaching distance. Says the Secretary, "That's the best cartoon that was ever published. I called the President's attention it, and convinced him from my position and grip that, unless those rocks crumbled, I would certainly land the elephant. But the thing that bothers me;" he continued, "is to understand how in the world I could let go my grip long enough to get at the bottle."

THERE is said to be a small but adroit lobby at work in Washington on a scheme to get through another subsidy for the hopelessly rotten Pacific Mail Steamship Company, on the ground that the China and Japan mails could not be carried without it. Congressmen should understand that this subsidy, if granted, would be simply the robbery of the United States Treasury to that amount. There is no need for giving a dollar to get these mails carried. In fact, a better organized company is already offering to carry them over this precise route, merely for the ocean postage. Legislation at Washington has been sufficiently disgraced by Pacific Mail corruption already, and he would be a pretty bold Congressman who should favor this last scheme.—N. Y. Tribune.

A BATTLE IN A GRAVEYARD.—Considerable excitement has been caused recently at Rising Sun, Indiana, by the robbery of graves by resurrectionists, and the citizens have made efforts to prevent such occurrences. The body of a little girl was buried yesterday and her friends hired two men to watch the grave. Mayor Gillespie sent two men to watch the grave, not knowing of the action of the girl's relatives. Each party mistook the others for body-snatchers and opened fire upon each other. Henry Summers of the Mayor's party was slightly and Joseph Jones of the other party was dangerously wounded, the latter receiving a whole load of shot in his side.—Cincinnati Dispatch, Feb. 14.

"YES," said he, speaking of the Electoral Commission, "Its just like pedro. The Democrats make high, low, pedro, that's seven — and the Republicans make high, low, pedro and the game, that's eight." "But," interrupted a listener, "you have overlooked the knave." "No I haven't. Sammy's the knave, an' he's left out."

SENSIBLE Democrats admit that their only appeal from the decision of the Electoral Commission is to the people at the next election.

THE Lowell Courier thinks managers of a dance should be called floor-ists, their duty being to arrange places for the wall-flowers.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

BY VIRTUE OF AN EXECUTION ISSUED OUT of the District Court of the Seventeenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Los Angeles, in the suit of J. G. Harwood, plaintiff, against Cerro Gordo Water and Mining Company, defendant, upon a judgment rendered in said Court on the 5th day of February, A. D. 1877, for the sum of $1,447 97-100 in gold coin of the United States, besides costs amounting to the sum of $10 10-100, duly attested the 8th day of February, A. D. 1877, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of $1,458 07-100 in gold coin of the United States, besides accruing costs and interest, I have levied upon all the right, title and interest of the said defendant in and to the following described real property, to-wit:

That certain piece or parcel of land, situated, lying and being about one-fourth of a mile northwest of the town of Cerro Gordo, in the county of Inyo, State of California, upon which is erected the water-tanks and dwelling house belonging to the Cerro Gordo Water and Mining Company, together with all the improvements thereon erected and all the appurtenances thereunto belonging, with the house and water-tanks erected on said piece or parcel of land. Also, that certain town lot in the town of Cerro Gordo, county of Inyo, State of California, upon which is erected the stable and cabin belonging to the Cerro Gordo Water and Mining Company, together with all the buildings and improvements thereon erected and the appurtenances thereunto belonging. Also, about twelve miles of water ditch and pipes, together with the pumps, boilers, machinery and all the appurtenances belonging to or in anywise appertaining to said water ditch and pipes—all of which is situated in the county of Inyo, State of California, and known as the property of the Cerro Gordo Water and Mining Company.

Notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 24th day of March, A. D. 1877, between the hours of 9 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M., to-wit: at the hour of 1 o'clock P. M. of that day, in front of the Court House, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, I will sell all the right, title and interest of the said defendant, the Cerro Gordo Water and Mining Company, in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy said judgment and all costs, at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, for cash in hand in gold coin of the United States.

SMALL-POX. — It is frequently remarked that "something ought to be done to prevent the threatened spread of small-pox through the valley." It has been suggested that this could best be done by a strict quarantine. No doubt that plan would be quite effectual but it is not practicable. There is neither authority or means to enforce an effective quarantine. We would entertain no fears of the disease becoming epidemic through the valley were it not for the Indians. Should they become infected and remain in the valley, (both fair probabilities) there are but few whites indeed who can avoid exposure. In view of this, it is certainly important that something should be done to protect the Indians themselves. Should any member of the tribe become infected the others should be impressed with a proper sense of the risk they incur by general intercourse. In any event they should be subjected to vaccination. It is doubtful if they will willingly submit to that simple operation unless they are given to understand, 1st, its necessity and object, and 2d that it is a matter of "law." This is a matter for the consideration of the Board of Supervisors, and we hope they will be prepared to act at the meeting set for the 26th of this month. Were the Board to authorize qualified parties at different localities to vaccinate all Indians in consideration of a fee, say 25 cents per head, payable out of county funds, one of two things would happen—most, if not all the Piutes would get vaccinated, or be frightened off into the mountains. The official sanction is of quite as much importance in an undertaking of this sort as the matter of fees. There are those who would attend to it without regard to pay, but lacking any legal authority or command, are deterred from doing anything in the premises of an effectual nature. We think there is no question but the Board will be fully justified in law and public sentiment in undertaking a sanitary measure of such a general importance as this appears to be. A "yellow flag ordinance" ought, at the same time be passed, even though it amounted to nothing more in effect than an official request.

WANTS TO BE SCRATCHED.—Capt. Joe Bowers paid a visit to the Post this week for two purposes—First, to secure his pension with which to obtain much needed food for his band living over at Deep Spring valley, and, second, to get a medicine man to go over there and "scratch" (vaccinate) each and all of his band. The Captain has heard that small-pox exists in the lower part of the county, and fully appreciates the fact that if it gets among his Indians "may be so, all heap murio, sure, purty quick." He also fully understands that the white doctor's scratching medicine will lessen its danger and is desirous the Post Commandant should send one over there to "heap scratch im." Accordingly Lieut. Wotherspoon, with a detachment and train loaded with supplies for Capt. Joe, was to start over this morning, and while there the Lieut. will play medicine man and vaccinate every Piute, big and little, he can lay his hands on. The Lieut. does this less as a duty than through a human feeling that does him credit. It seems that Captain Joe's band were all sick with the measles during pine nut season and on that account were unable to secure a supply of that all-important staple in Piute provender. By reason of this his tribe are suffering for food, and Captain Joe himself is reduced to a mere shadow of his former self.

MORE STAMPS.—Mr. Nelson informs us that the Eclipse will start 10 additional stamps next Monday, making 30 in all. Capt. Eudey and Mr. Hulbert have gone to San Francisco to procure additional machinery and to perfect other arrangements, to add batteries as fast as possible until at least 100 stamps are in operation in the mill. To keep this, or even half the number supplied with ore, will, no doubt, require the substitution of steam in place of horse power on the tramway, and it is quite likely the first locomotive to puff in Inyo county will be found on that three mile railroad at the Eclipse.

IN BLOOM.—Peach and apricot trees are now nearly all in full blossom. Their precocity is causing some solicitude. It would be contrary to all precedent if there are not some frosts during the present and ensuing months, sufficient to kill much of this budding fruit. However, we have known the blooms to pass almost unscathed through April weather cold enough to freeze ice a half an inch thick and it is very probable they may do as well this season.

EXTRACTED.—Friend Billy Matlack, blacksmith, received a triangular piece of steel nearly a quarter of an inch long in his wrist about 5 years since. This remained undisturbed until the other day, when, after undergoing two operations, Billy was relieved of the sliver, it being taken from the palm of his hand.

WILL TAKE THE FIELD. — Assessor Dillon will take the field in the line of his official duty next Monday. It may be contraband of war to give notice of where he will make the first onslaught, still people in the upper end of the county might as well get ready to swear —to their lists.

LETTER LIST.—Letters addressed as follows are now (March 1st,) lying unclaimed in the Independence Postoffice: Wm. Gardner; F. P. Kelley; James McCann; Patrick Reynolds: J. H. Richards, 2; E. C. Thompson and Wm. F. Welch.

HOSPITAL CONTRACT.—The attention of parties desiring to bid for the Hospital contract for the ensuing year is directed to the official advertisement inviting proposals, to be found in this issue.

THD CALICO DANCE.—The neck tie party which came off last week, mention of which was inadvertently omitted in last issue, was a success. In the lottery drawing only one or two succeeded in finding their affinities; the rest were mixed worse than printers' pi. There was, however, a little ballot-box stuffing or something to the same effect, that smacked strongly of fraud, through which one or two were "counted out" that shouldn't have been. The next time such a circumstance occurs there will be an unanimous vote for a commission of fifteen, more or less, who shall have power to go behind the returns and see that no "jilty man escapes;" also, to read him a lecture of fifteen minutes' duration, the burden of which shall be, the need of self-abrogation on all social occasions of a public nature.

FULLY ORGANIZED. — James S. Mooney, formerly of Mono county, and well known to most of our readers, writes us that they have a well organized Jockey Club at Columbus, Mr. Mooney, President. He claims "the finest mile track in the State." Commencing on the 7th instant there will be five days' (running) racing, in which some of the best blooded horses in Nevada and in this State will participate; for purses of $1,300. Inyo sporting men and all others are cordially invited to attend. All who do so, feeling an interest in that kind of sport, (and who does not?) will doubtless find this occasion more attractive than any similar one that has yet occurred on this side of the mountains.

NOT THE LARGEST.—For last issue we clipped a current item in reference to a barn in Merced county, 50x100 feet in size, which was referred to as being the largest in the State. In reality we were satisfied at the time there was no truth in the claim, but gave it for what it was worth. Now comes Mr. R. A Stewart, of Bishop, in a note stating that this county has a much larger one, viz, that built by Tim Lewis, which is 64x124 feet, having a storage capacity of 120 tons of hay, room for 80 animals and covering half an acre of ground. That Merced paper must either correct its figures in relation to the size of its barn, or stop blowing about a mere hen house.

"BAD COLDS."—It is quite superfluous to use the prefix "bad" in speaking of colds, because, so far as our individual experience goes there never was a good cold, and it's nonsense to make the distinction even by implication. They are all bad without qualification, but it does seem to the writer hereof that the one that has muddled his particular head for the past several days was the worst of the lot. It does not help the matter in the least to know that a large proportion of our best citizens and citizenesses are enjoying a similar blessing—to the party who gets paid so much per dozen for washing the handkerchiefs.

CREDITABLE. — Mr. Wetherill did a very creditable thing while passing through here on his return to Benton. The matter is fully explained in Dr. Matthews' communication elsewhere in these columns, to which we invite attention, particularly in reference to the doctor's proposition. It is to be hoped that all who are so situated as to accomplish anything at all in the desired direction will use their best endeavors to present as many subjects as possible for him to operate upon at the stated time.

EARTHQUAKES. — Speaking of earthquakes, we are reminded that some two weeks ago there were five or more distinct and some of them pretty severe quakes, at Bishop Creek, but so far as can be ascertained entirely local in character. It is a well established fact that even earthquakes can be entirely sectional in this valley, sometimes the total area affected not exceeding 5 miles square. It is also noticeable that other localities are never particularly jealous of those enjoying these specially local stirs.

DELINQUENT TAX SALE.—At the delinquent tax sale last Monday, the State became the owner of 82 pieces of property, on which there was an aggregate assessment, costs not included, of $5,-302 87. At the same time private parties bid in 15 pieces on which the aggregate assessment, costs not included, was $284 95. The larger portion of that purchased by the State is abandoned mining claims and Panamint town property, and, at this time, not worth the cost of the certificate.

A NEW ENTERPRISE.—Mr. Zaun, of Lone Pine, and one of our most enterprising business men is about inaugurating a project of considerable interest to parties of bibulous habits. This is by means of his fast freight line, to regularly supply this section with fresh Los Angeles beer which is claimed to be the very best made. He will establish a depot for its sale at Lone Pine.

COMING EVENTS—St. Patrick's Day and the anniversary of our big earthquake of March 26, 1872. The first named occurs on Saturday, two weeks hence, and will probably be celebrated by shaking the fut; the other on the succeeding Monday but one, which should be kept as Blue Monday, and and earnest prayers that Mother Earth does not take to shaking again on her own account.

THERE is another way of getting THE INYO INDEPENDENT to read besides sponging it from your neighbors. Just do as they do—call on an agent, pay bim $5 and the paper will be forwarded directly to you for the period of one year. The chances are two to one that this means you.

CLEARED.—The jury in the Aaron Hood case, tried last Saturday, found the defendant "not guilty." They might have added a request for him not to it any more, though.

COURT.—The regular term of the County Court begins on Monday next, at which time the Crand Jury will also hold a session.

Vaccination and Re-Vaccination.

[COMMUNICATED.]

Dr. Jenner, the discoverer of vaccination, has been a great benefactor to the race; but the ignorance which prevails in many minds with regard to the efficacy of re-vaccination, robs him of the full measure of his great achievement. It is contended by some that re-vaccination is of no effect because it is uncertain when to re-vaccinate, and dangerous, because of the dread of introducing foreign diseases into the blood with the virus. The Boston Medical and Surgical Journal republishes portions of the report made by Dr. J. White, to the Boston Sanitary Association in 1861, and published by the Legislature, in connection with papers by Drs. John and Robert Ware and Dr. W. Cheever, which are well calculated to correct the ignorance, allay the fears and promote the confidence of the public in the beneficial results of vaccination and re-vaccination, without the dread that has clouded so many minds. It may be asked what is the criterion for a perfect re-vaccination. how do we know that the system has shown itself susceptible to the influence of small-pox? What do we mean by the operation being a success or failure? These questions may be best answered by quoting Dr. Gregory, who has determined the following laws from large experience in re-vaccination, he says:

First—In many cases, especially if the interval from the primary to the secondary vaccination has not exceeded five years, the skin appears completely insensible to the vaccine matter.

Second—At intervals exceeding ten years the virus irritates locally, in three, or at farthest, four days from the insertion, an areola of irregular shape appears around a minute, itching, acuminated and angry visicle, a scab forms on the eighth day, which soon falls off, leaving no permanent cicatrix.

Third—In other cases a vesicle forms more gradually and without either local or constitutional irritation; a slight areola succeeds and the vesicle yields on the seventh day a considerable quantity of thin lympth, but this lympth is incapable of propagating the disease.

Fourth—In this set of cases the second vaccination runs a perfectly regular course. A circular areola forms on the eighth day and the lympth propagates a genuine cow-pox.

Successful cases then, are those capable of standing the test of the fourth class, that is, those capable of propagating themselves. Of course, we find every shade of difference in individual cases, from the slight redness, showing that the system has felt the influence of the virus, and without which the experiment counts as nothing, up to the well marked phenomena such as we witness upon an infant. This is the test used in the Prussian army, for they always use lymph derived from vesicles of re-vaccination, instead of resorting to that taken from children, or primary vesicles, as is the custom among us. Past experience has consequently led practitioners to be more strongly convinced that for the vaccination of adults lymph taken from adults is to be preferred to that taken from children, as it produces more powerful reaction and more strongly developed postule. Still another question arises, how often or at what age shall re-vaccination be performed? The earlier in life we vaccinate the first time, the better. That it cannot be too early is proved by the fact that children are born into the world with the eruption of small-pox, and we have seen how great a proportion of deaths from the disease occurs in infants. We have seen, too, that the body being once fully protected in childhood, enjoys, in the majority of cases, immunity from this disease, up to the age of 10 or 12. It would be advisable to repeat the operation before or by the 14th or 15th year, and again at the age of 25. After this, man seems to acquire more and more immunity by some natural process as he grows older, so that the operation need not be again repeated, except when the person is exposed in some extraordinary degree. Notice the following directions:

First—To submit to vaccination all individuals who have been vaccinated even when they have had varioloid.

Second—To repeat the vaccination 10 or 12 years after the first vaccination.

Third—If this re-vaccination does not prove successful, it will be necessary to repeat it from year to year until complete success shall follow.

Fourth — Should the re-vaccination prove entirely successful, the disposition to contract small-pox ought to be for many years subsequently, excessively feeble; but notwithstanding this condition of the system, that is, an individual successfully re-vaccinated. a proper exercise of prudence would require, after ten or twelve years, a second re-vaccination. The protective power of vaccination is absolutely the same today as it was in the time of Jenner. There is no sufficient evidence to show that the vaccine virus now in use has degenerated in any way since the days of Jenner, or that there is any necessity to resort to the cow for a fresh supply. The operation of vaccination and re-vaccination is perfectly safe in itself, and the opinion that diseases may be introduced into the system when properly performed is entirely erroneous and should be eradicated from the public mind. J. D. BLAIR, M. D.

Vaccination of the Indians.

CAMP INDEPENDENCE, March 1.

MESSRS EDITORS—I wish to announce through the columns of your paper that I will vaccinate gratuitously all Indians who present themselves to me for vaccination on Monday, March 5, at 10 o'clock A. M., at Camp Independence. I trust that all persons who hire Indians or who are in any way interested in preserving their lives from small-pox, will explain to the Indians the nature and utility of vaccination and urge them to come to me or bring them to me on the appointed day. Mr. W. W. Wetherill, of Benton, has with praiseworthy generosity placed in my hands the sum of $25 to defray the expenses of this undertaking.

W. MATTHEWS, M. D.

SAD INTELLIGENCE.—Under this head the Coso News of Saturday last gives at length the particulars of the demise on the 19th ultimo of James M. Corbit, book keeper and cashier of the Surprise Valley Mill and Water Company at Panamint. The story in brief is that Mr. Corbit was suffering from acute neuralgia, and through a mistake in the quantity of medicine he should take died from the effects of an over-dose of morphine. He had sent to Dr. Bicknell at Darwin for relief. The Doctor could not go to Panamint, but sent the proper medicine. To avoid risk in the size of a dose the Doctor made up sample packages in separate papers, with particular specifications, and also sent a larger quantity in one package for Mr. Corbit to similarly divide up. Capt. Messic was satisfied that the deceased had, by mistake and with no suicidal intent, taken that in the large package soon after taking one of the small ones, thus causing his own death in a few hours thereafter. That is the substance of the verdict by the Coroner's Jury. Deceased was a young man of about 26 years, and a native of Pennsylvania.

ROBBED.—A gentlemen from Darwin reports the continuance of highway robberies in the southern part of the county. Of two recently committed near Darwin, Jerome Childs was the victim of one, on the night of the 27th ultimo. He was robbed at a point some 14 miles north of Darwin, it is thought by a portion of the same disciples of Joaquin who were concerned in the late stage robberies. Mr. Childs was knocked senseless by a blow on the back of the head, and then relieved of some $460. After regaining his senses and powers to some extent, he managed with great difficulty to reach a station, where at last accounts he was lying in a very critical condition.

SAD.—In the death of Mrs. John B. White, which took place last Tuesday morning, this community and her numerous friends and relatives sustain a most sad bereavement; but how far greater it is to her grief-stricken husband and motherless boy? Who can measure their loss? None, not even those who have seen death's shadow cross their own thresholds, unless, indeed, that shadow fell upon a loving mother in the midst of dependent children. We can but say that the bereaved ones have the most heartfelt sympathy of all who know them.

WORK STOPPED.—The contractors engaged upon the Kearsarge tunnel found, after several months' trial, that they were getting too much work for the money, and were forced to throw up the job. It is in exceedingly hard granite, which can only be worked with reasonable success by means of a Burleigh drill; otherwise there is but little chance to reach the ore body through this tunnel in time to supply the mill until late next season, if then.

SOCIAL.—In spite of the storm quite a number of the young people gathered at the Blaney House last night and enjoyed one of those delightful impromptu affairs—dancing until a late hour while the wind howled madly out doors. Noticeable among the many were Miss Lewis, of Bishop, and Miss Bartling of San Francisco.

Darwin Items.

We take the following from the News of last Saturday:

The cross-cut in the Defiance from main incline on the 184-foot level has been extended 90 feet, and the distance yet to be run to strike the third vein is about 100 feet. On the level and north from the main tunnel, ore is being taken out at the rate of 12 tons per day. The third vein, now being worked on contract, is looking well and yielding considerable quantities of galena ore. The steam hoisting works were started last Saturday afternoon and are working well, taking waste rock from the 184-foot level. The furnaces will be started about the 10th proximo, and Mr. Gorman expects to make an extended run.

Since the death of Mr. Wells and three of the Arambula family, the small-pox seems to have entirely disappeared. Out of six cases four proved fatal. We have interviewed the physicians and they do not know of any cases in town at present. It is well, however, to use every precaution, as it is liable to reappear, perhaps with greater violence than ever.

John Pattie, Deputy Sheriff, returned from the coal camps yesterday, having gone out to levy an attachment on the teams, coal-pits and wood of John LaMountain, on behalf of the Modoc Mining Company for the sum of $22,000.

Constable Welch, R. H. Paul and Billy Balch got in last evening from a long and tedious hunt after the murderers of Lloyd. They saw some signs but no robbers. They started out too late and the trail was too old.

REWARD.—Wells, Fargo & Co. offer a reward of $500, and the Governor another of $300 for the arrest and conviction of each of the murderers of Jack Lloyd, committed the 13th instant at the time of the attempted stage robbery south of Darwin.

MEXICO is taking a rest. A telegram states that the roads to the interior are opened, mail and telegraph are being established, commerce is reviving and a general feeling of thankfulness prevails at the restoration of peace and order.

CROCKER and Bancroft, representing the two largest printing and publishing houses in California, are prominent in the lobby of the Nevada Legislature. They havea deep interest in the abolishment of the office of State Printer.

JOHN D. LEE, of Mountain Meadows massacre notoriety, has written a minute statement of the affair and delivered it to the District Attorney.

MADRI GRAS.—A Memphis paper of February 13 says: During the entire day Main and other prominent streets were filled with maskers and spectators and the entire city was given up to the reign of the merry monarch, who at 3 o'clock traversed Main-st. with his royal retinue. The crowning glory was the gorgeous pageant of the Memphi at night, the darkness which overhung the city serving to highten the effect of the brilliant parti-colored lights, which displayed in all their grandeur the magnificent costumes, drapery and architecture of the characters and scenes represented, Main-st being brilliantly illuminated by means of calcium lights and chemical fires. After the pageant a series of tableaus were given at the new Memphis theater, after which a grand ball was given to the guests of the Memphi. Balls were also given at Exposition Hall, Opera House and numerous other halls. It is estimated that from 20,000 to 25,000 strangers were present.

A QUEENSLAND diver last year succeeded in recovering a box containing $45,000 in gold from a wreck which was haunted by sharks, attracted there by the corpses of the crew. The Colonial Admiralty of Court awarded him about $15,000 as salvage, but the owners of the gold appealed against the award as excessive. The Judicial Committee to which the case was referred dismissed the appeal, and the daring diver obtained his money.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, MARCH 3.....1877.

A HOT GAME OF "FREEZE-OUT."—A bad story comes from Deadwood about an old Denverite—D. Tom Smith. The writer says Tom has been behaving beastly for some time past, threatening to kill his wife and several other people in town. Recently, on a certain evening, he went into a saloon where the Mayor, City Marshal and two others were engaged in a game of "freeze-out." He pulled off his coat, took a corner from which he could cover the players and barkeeper, and then "pulled his gun," cocked it and held it at present upon whoever made a motion to rise or change his position. He told them he came in there for murder and meant murder, but they might go on with the game. The game did go on with a great deal of solemnity. The writer says, "It was probably the most solemn game of freeze-out ever played in the Hills." No one of the five present wanted to be a martyr. But the City Marshal kept working his chair around, and at last ducked his head and made a spring for D. Tom. At that instant the latter "turned loose" his battery. The shot passed through the crown of the Marshal's hat, out throught the side, through the rim, twice through the back of his coat, crossed the table and struck the Marshal's late partner square in the forehead, between the eyes, where it split in two, and one-half traversed the skull in each direction, finally stopping near the temples on either side. But the Marshal got Tom before he had time to pull again, and now he has gone to Yankton for confinement and trial. The man he shot is getting well. If he had been killed they say Tom would have died rather suddenly.—Denver (Col.) News.

THE ISTHMUS CANAL.—The latest rumors concerning the isthmus canal are not favorable to its speedy construction. It has been reported that the government of Nicaragua has given a franchise to Harry Meiggs, the railway builder, and that he has gained it merely to cut off the enterprise from other hands and not to accomplish the work himself. Another report denying the foregoing, states that the government of Nicaragua is determined to make the canal a source of profit for all time and will levy such restrictive taxes upon it that no one will undertake the project. If Nicaragua undertakes any such policy as that it will be standing directly in her own light so far as success and development are concerned. It is to be regretted that a little sunshine country on the isthmus should so conduct itself as to stand in the way of a work which will be of advantage to all the world. We are not lawyers, but we cannot see why some sort of an international congress could not condemn the route and then lay it open for public benefit. But the matter is not settled yet. We only give the prevailing rumors.—Ex.

A GALLANT OLD GENTLEMAN.—Not long ago, as an elderly couple were out walking, a lady on the opposite side of the street tripped and fell down. The old gentleman rushed across the street, raised his hat and offered to assist her in any possible way. His wife followed him across at a slow pace, and witnessing his devotion to the stranger, she got mad and shook her fist at him. "It's all right—it's all right" he whispered. "Yes," she hotly exclaimed, "here an unknown woman stubs her toe, and you plow across the street to eat her up with kindness. The other day when I fell down stairs, you stood, and laughed and chuckled and tickled your ribs and wanted to know if I was practicing for a circus!"

DID NOT WANT TO STRAIN IT.—Dan Immel has bought a new shot-gun, a breach-loading, snap-action, wire-twist Parker, and Dan is very proud of his acquisition. Bragging on its shooting qualities, the other day, he proclaimed the fact that he could kill a sagehen at a distance of 125 yards. "Bet you the drinks for the crowd you can't do it," said Luther Clark. Dan cogitated for a moment and replied: "I can, sure, Luther, but I don't want to strain the gun."—Eureka Sentinel.

Contested Land Cases prosecuted before the U. S. General Land Office and Department of the Interior. Private Land Claims, Mining and Preemption Claims, and Homestead Cases attended to. Land Scrip in 40, 80, and 160 acre pieces for sale. This Scrip is assignable, and can be located in the name of purchaser upon any Government land subject to private entry, at $1 25 per acre. It is of equal value with Bounty Land Warrants. Send stamp to Gilmore & Co., for pamphlet of Instruction.

Arrears of Pay and Bounty.

Officers, Soldiers and Sailors of the late war, or their heirs, are in many cases, entitled to money from the Government of which they have no knowledge. Write full history of service, and state amount of pay and bounty received. Enclose stamp to Gilmore & Co., and a full reply, after examination, will be given you free.

Pensions.

All Officers, Soldiers, and Sailors wounded, ruptured, or injured in the late war, however slightly, can obtain a pension by addressing Gilmore & Co.

Cases prosecuted by Gilmore & Co., before the Supreme Court of the United States, the Court of Claims, and the Southern Claims Commission.

Each department of our business is conducted in a separate bureau, under charge of the same experienced parties employed by the old firm. Prompt attention to all business entrusted to Gilmore & Co. is thus secured. We desire to win success by deserving it.

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State California, in and for the County of Inyo. Ellen E. Matlack, plaintiff, against Alexander C. Matlack, defendant. Action brought in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and the complaint filed in said county of Inyo, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to Alexander C. Matlack, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and to answer a complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within the county; or, if served out of this county, but in this district, within twenty days; otherwise, within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a judgment and decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony existing between said plaintiff and said defendant, and for the custody of the minor children, issue of their said marriage, as does more fully appear from said plaintiff's complaint, to which reference is hereby made.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Hon. Court for the relief prayed for in said complaint on file herein.

Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, this fifth day of September in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six. [SEAL.]

CHAPTER XXI—THE PRESS OF UTAH.

MESSRS. EDITORS—There are several newspapers published in Utah. The recognized church organ is the Daily News. The Daily Herald is a livelier sheet and caters to the tastes of the progressive Mormons. There are several weeklies, one of which is the Woman's Exponent, in whose columns the "female roosters" flourish their feathers and advocate celestial marriage (polygamy.) The Salt Lake Tribune is the leading organ of the Gentiles, and is well patronized by the so-called "outside element." It is a live paper, bold in its denunciation of Mormon theocracy; an uncompromising foe—stings to the quick—wages continual war on "old polygs" and church irregularities. The Tribune is, and has been for years published in the very heart of the city, surrounded by thousands of zealous and fanatic Mormons, still it hurls, daily, bombshells into the ranks of the saints. Allow an extract or two from its columns to show its pungent style of handling without gloves the most prominent characters of Utah. Under the head of "Misappropriation," it says: "The Mormon Bishops of Salt Lake city are paid about $53,000 per year for their services to the church and Kingdom of God. After the Prophet and the One-Eyed Pirate get their whacks at the tithing, the Bishops are given a show, and the above named amount is their aggregate salary, besides the stealings. If this amount were expended towards establishing free schools in this city, instead of being paid out to a score of fat, saucy and lazy Bishops for the support of their harems, would it not result in more positive benefit to the people? It is a well-known fact, that of the 20 Mormon Bishops in Salt Lake city, not one of them can utter a sentence in the English language grammatically, and yet these fellows are paid $53,000 a year by Brigham's followers to teach the people, while a free school is a thing unknown among them. If the Mormon people knew enough they would quietly cease paying tithing for the support of these lecherous priests, and spend their money in educating their children. Free schools would follow an intelligent exercise of the elective franchise, but when, Oh!' Lord, will the Mormon people become intelligent?" A few weeks ago the new temple at St. George, in the southern part of Utah was opened and "dedicated to the Lord." A lady of that place sent a glowing description of the proceedings to the Woman's Exponent. Among other things she stated "That which the people had so longed for and hoped for transpired; President Young arose in the power of the Holy Ghost and addressed the multitude. His exhortations were powerful and impressive; the house seemed filled with a heavenly host, and the President's face shone with the light of the Holy Ghost." The Salt Lake Tribune commenting on the above made the following remarks: "One of Brigham's daughters, of the squash-head variety, writes to the Woman's Exponent of that heavenly transaction — the dedication of her daddy's temple at St. George — in phrases which are perfectly transcendant for piety. * * * But that angelic daughter don't tell us how the "President" hammered on the floor with his cane and cursed and swore because the boys spat tobacco juice thereon; nor does she give us an account of the exact moment when the Holy Ghost got hold of the old bilk. It must have been when he poured forth his vials of wrath upon the Gentiles for digging holes in the ground so near to his southern capital. Without seeming to be profane, we would like to wager a plug hat against a carrot, and give the carrot back if we win, that if ever the genuine Holy Ghost does get a hold on Brigham it will shake his old bones quite out of his skin." Of course the News (church organ) pronounces the Tribune a "vile sheet," and a fierce set-to is indulged in most every day. Even its enemies however, must concede that the Tribune displays indomitable pluck and ability. It is claimed that Brigham Young strongly opposes free schools, and consequently prefers to see the rising generation grow in ignorance. When we consider that, as the Tribune alleges, "a free school is a thing unknown among the Mormons," it is evident that the Tribune occupies strong premises for its bitter attacks.

After a few weeks experience among the Mormons, Piute bears testimony to their kindness and courtesy, and he is under especial obligations for hospitality extended to him by particular intelligent Mormon friends. Travelers wishing to visit Salt Lake City should not labor under the false impression that the Mormons will treat them harshly—no danger of being massacred or cut up for mince meat. All places of attraction may be visited unmolested and the necessary information politely given. Neither do the Mormons thrust their institutions and practices into the faces of travelers.

TINNAMUCKAHEE.

Josh Billings Insures His Life.

I kum tew the conclusion, lately, that life was so unsartin that the only way for me tew stand a fair chance with uther folks waz to git my life insured, and so I kalled on the agent of the "Garden Angel Life Insurance Co.," and answered the following questions what wuz put tew me over a pair of gold specks, by a slick little round gray head, and az pretty a little belly on him az eny man ever owned:

QUESTIONS.

1. Are yu mail or femail? if so, please state how long yu have bin so.
2. Are yu subject to fits, and if so, du yu hav more then one at a time?
3. What is yure precise fighting weight?
4. Did yu ever hav eny ancestors, and if so, how menny, and of what sex?
5. What is yure legal opinion of the constitutionality of the ten commandments?
6. Du yu ever hav eny nightmares?
7. Are yu married or single or are yu a bachelor?
8. Du yu beleav in a future state? if so, state it.
9. What are yure private sentiments about a rush of rats to the hed; can it be did successfully?
10. Hav yu ever committed suicide, and if so, how did it afect yu?

After answering the above questions like a man in the confirmatif, the slick little fat old fellow, with the gold spectacles on, ced i wuz insured for life, and probably would remain so for a term of years. I thanked him and smiled one of my most pensive smiles.

A CURIOUS MEMENTO OF WAR.—A gentleman of this city a day or two ago, while walking over the battle-ground of the Crater, picked up a curious and interesting relic of that famous and hotly contested field. It was two minie balls flattened and imbedded in each other. One of them was a Federal and the other a Confederate ball, and on being fired from opposite directions, they had struck squarely against each other, and became imbedded one in the other, forming as it were a ring of lead, with the balls projecting on either side, and retaining sufficient traces to distinguish the side to which they belonged.—Petersburg Index.

THE authorship of the aphoristic witticism, "Invincible in Peace; Invisible in War," has generally been ascribed to the Hon. Ben Hill, who recently applied it on the floor of Congress, to the present day. The merit of it belongs, however, to the late Capt. George H. Derby, better known as "John Phœnix," who, while in San Francisco, was invited to a public dinner of the State militia, and who could not repress his love for satire, but gave on call for a toast: "The California Militia—Invincible in Peace; Invisible in War."

JUSTICE CLIFFORD is 74 years old, a native of Maine and has been 19 years on the Supreme Bench. Justice Strong is 60, a Pennsylvanian by birth, and was appointed in 1871. Justice Miller is 61, a native of Kentucky, and has been on the bench since 1862. Justice Field was born in Massachusetts, is 61 years old and was appointed by Lincoln in 1863. Justice Bradley is from New Jersey, nearly 64 years old and was appointed in March, 1870.

MANY years ago a well-to-do farmer left Hawesville, Kentucky, to better his fortunes in the West. He had nearly passed from the memory of all. The hearts of his friends beat with joy when they heard that a postal-card had been received, saying that if he had not lost his citizenship he would like to be admitted to the poor-house.

"I HAD nine children to support and it kept me busy," said Smith to Jones, as they met; "but one of the girls got married. Now I have—" "Eight?" interrupted Jones. "No, ten—counting the son-in-law," said Smith with a sigh which might have been heard afar off.

ONE-THIRD of the population of North Carolina are said to be illiterate.

Poor Ways of Doing.

We can well remember when a bucket of water was kept in every school-room, and there was an almost continuous stream of idle and restless pupils to and from it, the teacher being annoyed at least as many times a day as he had scholars, with the cry, "May I get a drink?" In well conducted schools that is now done away with, and all the drinking is done at the recesses, neither teacher or pupils ever think of drinking between times. Teachers who still follow the old way, please try the new, and see if it don't work a hundred per cent. better.

And, too, we have a vivid recollection when most teachers either had a rod on the desk or in some conspicuous position, as if to keep the youngsters ever under the dread of it. Now, the best teachers somparatively seldom use one and never keep it in sight. Quick-tempered school-marms especially should abstain from keeping such an article about the premises, so that their wrath may subside to a sensible temperature while some boy goes out to get a switch. We do not advocate the entire abolition of corporeal punishment, but assert that where much of it is necessary in a school, the teacher is more to blame than the scholars. Four-fifths of any school will obey a kind, firm and reasonable teacher without any such resort to force.

Teachers, throw away your relics of a semi-civilized age, study the natures of your pupils, get acquainted with the peculiarities of their government at home, treat them as reasonable beings; strive to gain their confidence and esteem, and in most cases it will work like a charm. When you find a pupil who will not be restrained by those kindly influences, if he be too large to punish, excuse him from school, otherwise bring him to terms positively by whatever means seem necessary.—Tulare Times.

THE JEWS' EXEMPTION FROM EPIDEMICS.—In the case of the London small-pox epidemic the remarkable fact has been noticed that only one case of this frightful disease has engaged the attention of the medical officer of the Jewish Board of Guardians. The same exemption from epidemic disease has been noticed among the Jews of all countries, and is attributable to their mode of living. It is an interesting question in a sanitary point of view to what extent mortality from such diseases may be limited to pork eaters. Bilious disease is largely attributable, it is well known, to the use of pork. But Jews not only reject pork from their dietary, but they also, under their religious laws, exercise extraordinary care to secure the meat of animals that are in a perfectly sound and healthy condition when killed. In our Washington markets, for instance, they deal only with certain butchers, who provide them with meat from animals selected and killed under the conditions of Jewish rules.—Washington Star.

ACCORDING to the Engineer, discussion has been resumed on the project to make an artificial sea of Central Africa, and thus convert the desert into a means of communication between the different parts of the Continent. A French engineer, Captain Rondair, has made a survey of the locality, and has made a report to the Academy of Science, pronouncing in favor of the utility of the work. The objections of the Academy having been removed, there is some prospect that the work will be undertaken.

CONSIDERABLE interest has been manfested to know often the 4th of March has occurred on Sunday during this century. It come on Sunday in 1810, 1821, 1827, 1838, 1849, 1855 and 1866, and this present year; it will also fall on that day in 1883 and 1894. It was our Presidential Inauguration Day twice previous to this year, viz., in 1821 and 1849, but will not so occur again this century.

IN a moment of inspirational eloquence, a Pennsylvania minister exclaimed from his pulpit, "What is riches? Thank God I'm poor, and I pray he may ever keep me so!" Taking him at his word, and wishing to demonstrate the efficacy of prayer, the deacons met together the same week and reduced the pastor's salary from $900 to $600 per year.

"GENTLEMEN," remarked a Kansas horse thief to a Vigilance Committee, just before the aerial dancing began, "Fun's fun, but I object to this practical choking." But they capital punished him just the same.

AN Englishman, lately imprisoned for beating his wife, said, as he was locked up: "I've one comfort, anyhow; and that is, that I'm not sent to jail for doing a mean thing."

THE merchants of San Francisco are aroused on the subject of failures in the interior. It seems that between 60 and 70 have been reported since January. A large meeting of the merchants of the Bay City was held yesterday with a view of taking steps to protect themselves. We have no doubt that many of the interior failures are caused by the tenacity with which the merchants of San Francisco cling to gold while nothing but silver is in circulation in the interior. Every man doing business here is compelled to pay from 5 to 7 per cent. for gold to meet his San Francisco liabilities. If there were a disposition on the part of the San Francisco merchants to help their correspondents in the interior, they would take steps to prevent the tremendous shave silver has to suffer in this State on account of the unconscionable action of the money brokers of that city.

THE POLITICAL NEWS.

The leading item, of course, relates to the Presidency. On the 5th Hayes and Wheeler were inaugurated in due form and pageantry. The oath of office was administered by Chief Justice Waite. Everything passed off peacefully and well. Hayes' inaugural speech is a temperate, re-assuring and well-considered document. It reiterates the same policy promised in his letter of acceptance. The House, before adjourning sine die, passed, by an unanimous vote a resolution in commendation of Speaker Randall's fairness and ability in the administration of his office. At the extra session of the Senate Ferry was re-elected President pro tem. The Army Appropriation, and other important bills having failed to become laws, it is considered certain that President Hayes will call an extra session of Congress, to meet very soon. The House passed a resolution asserting that Tilden was the lawfully elected President of the United States, the judgment of the Commission to the contrary notwithstanding. The National Democratic Committee issue a formal manifesto to that effect, but couched in the strongest language. What good results are expected from the manifesto is not clear; its tendency is to keep alive the animosities and excitements that have agitated the country quite enough already. Hewitt has resigned the Chairmanship of the National Committee. There are various rumors as to the formation of Hayes' Cabinet, but nothing definite is yet known, unless it is that Sherman will be Secretary of the Treasury and Evarts Secretary of State. It is said Schurz will have a place in the Cabinet also, probably Secretary of the Interior. The old Cabinet have all tendered their resignations, but none of these will be accepted until the new ones are nominated and confirmed, which may not be for a week or so yet.

THE DESERT LAND LAW.

The Desert Land Law bill, after passing the House, was called up in the Senate where it received three amendments, and passed. With these amendments it then again passed the House and was signed by President Grant, and is now a law in full force and effect. It is substantially the same as the original bill save in one particular, being an amendment by Sargent to this effect: Any one taking up 640 acres of desert land as allowed by this law, must pay in 25 cents per acre at the time of the filing, the remaining $1 to be paid at the end of the three years or on issue of the patent. This is a very good amendment and necessary as an evidence of good faith on the part of the claimant. Another of these amendments limits the whole amount of land obtainable by any one person to one section, strictly. Now, all who desire to avail themselves of this law can proceed. The course to be pursued is precisely the same as in making an ordinary pre-emption, except in the matter of the advance payment of the 25 cents per acre; that is, to file a declaration in the local United States Land Office of intention to reclaim by irrigation certain designated lands as provided by this law, approved March 28, 1877.

STAGE ROBBERIES.—The fact that scarce a day passes but what in some portion of the State there occurs a highway robbery, frequently accompanied with real or attempted murder, is at last beginning to excite some alarm. Notwithstanding the rewards offered for their apprehension, not one in twenty of the perpetrators are ever detected or punished. Our next set of law-makers will do a wise thing to take the matter earnestly in hand. For instance, California can for a time well afford to maintain a State constabulary force at an expense of twenty or even fifty thousand dollars a year, the duty of which would be to ferret out highwaymen and secure their conviction. Then amend the law so as to make the crime punishable by imprisonment at hard labor for life or not less than twenty years.

THE Utah Southern Railroad is at present completed to Nephi, about 120 miles from Salt Lake City. As the distance from Salt Lake to Los Angeles is about 650 miles, there is a gap of 520 miles to be closed to give the Union Pacific an outlet at Santa Monica.

THE Senate has confirmed the President's nomination of Paul Morrill as Surveyor of the port of San Francisco—a position next to that of Collector.

THE Democratic candidates for the United States Senate as far as heard from are Ryland of San Jose, Farley, Irwin, Bryant and J. Campbell Shorb.

STILL HAS HOPES.

The Los Angeles Express is still firm in the belief that the Los Angeles and Independence railroad will soon be pushed to completion. The chances for this are almost exclusively contingent upon the will of the Union Pacific company, where again it is no doubt greatly dependent upon the result of pending Congressional action as to the amount that company and the Central Pacific will finally be compelled to repay Government, interest and principal on those second mortgage bonds; the amount involved foots up to many millions; if these companies succeed in inducing Government to forego its rightful claims against them, as is probable, both companies will feel greatly encouraged to go ahead and expend at least a portion of these millions in further extensions and expansions of their far reaching monopolies; otherwise they will feel too poor to do more than maintain their present lines and vantage ground; they, in any event, will always feel constrained to keep funds enough on hand with which to kill off all competitive roads. It is as much their business to do this with respect to each other as it is with all outsiders. Unless Congress relieves their biting poverty by a further present of these pending millions the Union, if not both, will hardly feel rich enough to strike out on an independent, much less, an antagonistic line. Jay Gould, or the Union Pacific, without these millions as a reserve fund, dare not just yet challenge a fight in dead earnest with his present yoke-fellow, Stanford, or the Central Pacific. That, in our opinion, is the main, if not the only reason why Jones and Gould are not at work crowding the Union Pacific and Los Angeles roads through to a junction at this very time. It is true Gould is engaged in a bitter fight with eastern roads to secure a clear track from the Atlantic seaboard to Omaha and a port on the Pacific. This last he is bound to have sooner or later, but for the reason already stated, will be content to reach it over Central Pacific iron for awhile. Should he succeed against those eastern roads he may feel himself strong enough to strike out on his own hook independent of Stanford, and without waiting for Congress to make him that present, which it is bound to do as soon as partial decency will allow. In either event it will not be long before he will lock horns with Stanford in the effort to secure a Pacific port of his own either at the mouth of the Columbia or at Los Angeles. It is of vital importance to his schemes that he should succeed in this; it is no less so to Stanford's that he shouldn't. Knowing full well that if he joins forces with Jones, as he (Gould) is very desirous of doing, and aims for Los Angeles, which suits his interests altogether better than the Columbia, then comes the tug of war—a regular anaconda fight in which one or the other is pretty sure to be swallowed up body and breeches. Gould is not troubled with scruples of any sort except such as are founded on discretion exclusively—he would gobble his dear yoke-fellow, Stanford, with just as much gusto as he ever did any of those Wall street operators, or anybody else—but, as things now stand, he feels that the other party is the one who would do the gobbling. Hence Gould is very gingerly in preparing to start across the desert with Jones. He is preparing, we feel as sure as does the Express, but it is uncertain when he will start in in earnest.

It would be an immeasurable comfort to Gould and Jones and the whole of Southern Caliornia as well, if Los Angeles had as much business foresight as she has of discretion, as much energy as she has of climate and of money in bank. But that would be a vain hope if any such was ever entertained. Jones knows that to his cost, and has, no doubt, told Gould. Between gapes Los Angeles has waked up enough to observe that the anaconda has already one fold clear around her, and discretion tells her to lie quiet and not irritate the monster or she may have to squeal. She daren't even beckon to Gould and Jones to come to the rescue for fear the fold will contract; if she would Gould and Jones would gladly go. But it is exertion enough for Los Angeles capital to lie in such shade as it has and hold its mouth open for any chance plum that may drop into it. If it wasn't for these facts and climate there is never a doubt but Jones' road would have been pretty well on its way to Southern Utah by this time, and the City of the Angels would soon be less transcendant, perhaps, but far more a city of real flesh and blood and busy life. As indicated by her short sighted policy, or lack of energy rather than of means, the most appropriate lines for her future singing are entitled, "What might have been." We believe that it lay in the power of Los Angeles to have insured the completion of this competitive road, so full of promise not only to herself and this inland region, but the entire coast. Though her own life as it were was involved she literally did not raise a hand to help herself—and, we fear, never will.

No matter what the Southern or Central Pacific may or may not do about running a branch line through this section, no portion of it can ever hope for anything like the same degree of prosperity that would come of this competitive line, the fate of which is so essentially contingent upon the successful issue of Jay Gould's schemes of questionable honesty. We shall take occasion soon to point out the probable difference the completion of this Los Angeles road would make in our favor—that is, what a loss it may be to this country that that city with all her vast natural advantages of position, etc., is so lamentably deficient in real, live, go-ahead men among her men of means, those who could, but wouldn't.

THAT RAILROAD COMMITTEE.

We do not hear that that Committee on Inyo railroads are doing much in the way of carrying out the purposes of the meeting at which they were appointed. We are well aware of the fact that it requires considerable time to reach the results contemplated in the creation of this Committee; it is also possible more has been done than we are aware of; and it is also quite possible that nothing whatever has been attempted. It was something of a disappointment that Register Briggs could not go to San Francisco, as anticipated in his appointment, as a delegate from this meeting to the railroad magnates, but certainly no blame attaches to him by reason of that fact. Now, the question is whether this Committee are going to give it up so, or go ahead and collate all the statistics attainable relating to the object in view? Perhaps they conclude that nothing the people can do will affect the intention of the railroad builders one way or the other. Perhaps they conclude that the railroad company (the Southern Pacific) is in a position to know the present carrying business of the county almost to a ton, and therefore, that it is useles to tell them what they already know. There is no doubt but this last supposition is correct so far as it applies to all that part of the freighting business of the county coming via Mojave. The freight lists at that place will give the figures of the freighting business of the southern portion of the county very nearly complete. It is also true that that list embraces the larger portion of the carrying trade of the entire county at this time. It may also be that the company deduce from these figures conclusions satisfactory to themselves as to whether or not the business of the county will justify the cost of building the road. In fact, we are told that the freight agents at Mojave say, that fully one-fourth of all the incoming freight for this county consists of supplies for the freighting teams themselves, and taking this fact with the others, the company may think there is nothing in the proposed enterprise for them. The business of the Committee is to disabuse railroad men, whether of the Southern Pacific or the Los Angeles and Independence road of the notion that the existing carrying business of the county affords any just criterion for that of the future. That the Mojave freight books do not include even the existing business of this section by a very large percentage. That with a road reaching no further north even than the foot of the lake, the trade of all this country for a hundred miles or more to the north and eastward, would be diverted to this road. That, within easy reach of a terminus anywhere in this valley are, literally, scores of undeveloped mining districts, all containing countless mineral deposits, and many just as rich, just as promising in every way save in being, under present conditions, somewhat more inconvenient of access, as the best of the bare half dozen on which alone the actual business of the county is at present figured up. That the business that will fall to this southern road is not to come from Inyo county, or more strictly, from Cerro Gordo and Darwin alone, but from two or three others in this State and Nevada, scarcely if any less promising. That, whether there should be a continuous line through to the Central Pacific, or but a branch as proposed, this terminus or some point in this valley must for all time to come be the centering and distributing point for an immense range of mining country to the eastward, which business now cuts no figure at all in freight transactions on the southern, or but little on any road. In short, a general statement of the mining and geographical facts pertinent to this railroad proposition cannot fail to interest those railroad people, and something of that kind if nothing more should be undertaken by this Committee immediately. In the elegant parlance of the street gamin, "Keep hollerin' if you don't sell a clam." We have the "clams" to sell and there are people who are anxious to buy, but don't certainly know where to look for them—therefore, let the Committee do some of the "hollerin'" that they may know where to look.

THE Louisiana Returning Board has been discharged from custody.

THE PACIFIC MAIL SUBSIDY.—The Chicago Tribune's Washington special says the Senate struck out the two appropriations for ocean steamship subsidies under somewhat peculiar circumstances. Senator Booth, the anti-monopolist, chanced to be temporarily in the presiding officer's chair. When the Conference Committee's report came up, an opponent of the subsidy called for the ayes and noes. A presiding officer more favorable to the subsidy schemes might easily have recognized other persons. Booth, however, recognized the mover and quickly put the question, which brought the Senate face to face with a direct vote on the subsidy scheme. Republican Senators did not dare vote for it, and many who had voted for it in the earlier stages of the bill changed their votes on this independent motion—notable among them was Cragin, of New Hampshire, candidate for a Cabinet position under Hayes.

EARLY BIRDS.—In several counties of the State political papers have begun nominating candidates for the various county offices, but more particularly for the State Legislature. With a United States Senator to choose, the contest over the legislative ticket will be an earnest one, and it is likely that the best men on both sides will be trotted out all over the State. In this district a Senator must be chosen to succeed Tipton Linsey, but the man will almost certainly be a stranger to this side of the mountains, since the populous counties of Tulare and Kern have but one Assemblyman between them, and one or the other will claim and probably elect the Senator for the District, which is composed of Fresno, Kern, Tulare, Inyo and Mono—about as large a territory as comprises the divisions of Uncle Sam's dominion known as the Eastern and Middle States.

NEVADA.—The financial affairs of the Silver State are in a condition far from encouraging; the treasury not being so plethoric of coin by $300,000 as it would have been had not the Governor vetoed the compromise bill fixed up by the bullion tax paying interests. The Legislature failed to pass it over his objections, and then stepped down and out at the date provided for in the Constitution. But the suits for the collection of the contested bullion tax are to go on, and we cannot help thinking that old Broadhorns was right about it. Either the people have the right to make the rich Bonanzas contribute a due share of the expenses of the government or else they have absolutely no right whatever in that direction—a point which the Courts may as well decide now as any time.

DR. ERASMUS WILSON, an eminent London physician, has taken on himself the charges of conveying the obelisk known as Cleopatra's Needle from Alexandria to London. He has made the necessary arrangements with Mr. Dickson, a well-known civil engineer, at an estimated cost of $50,000. The obelisk will be surrounded with a water-tight and air-tight casing of boiler plates, will have a wooden keel and an iron deck and will be towed through the Mediterranean by a powerful steamer.

THE Commissioner of the General Land Office has decided, and the Secretary of the Interior has affirmed his decision, that the unbroken line of the Government has been to exclude salt springs from sale to individuals as agricultural and mineral land and to grant them to the State for the use of the State. Hence individuals cannot acquire pre-emption or homestead rights to Government land upon which salt springs are located.

A GOOD deal is being published about dividing the State, but we have yet to see the first sensible reason advanced in favor of such a move.

Defective Entries.

The following bill has been reported favorably by the House Judiciary Committee of Congress, and placed on the calendar:

It provides, That in all cases where an entry has been or may be made by any person other than corporations, in good faith, at the proper land office, of any tract of land subject to entry, which may be informal, irregular, defective or void, and whenever such entry shall be canceled, the person or persons having made such entry, their heir, devisees or assigns shall have the first and preferable right to make an entry of, and procure a patent for such lands within one year after cancellation as herein required; but nothing here shall divest any right heretofore acquired.

Whenever any entry or patent shall be canceled, the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall give notice thereof by mail, if practicable, to the person claiming the land under such entry, or, if it be impracticable to ascertain the name and postoffice address of such person, then notice shall be given by publication in such manner as such Commissioner may deem proper.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office shall have power to prescribe all proper rules and regulations to carry this act into effect.

Opinions of the Press on the Inaugural.

CHICAGO, March 5.—The Inter-Ocean says the inaugural gives promise of firmness, prudence and broad statemanship.

The Tribune says the address is the solemn declaration of an earnest, honest man, who has given his assurance to the country that he intends to make war against the whole system of machine politics.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The Sun says that if Mr. Hayes keeps his word regarding the tenure of office clause in his inaugural, he will follow what he thinks was the design of the founders of the Constitution.

The Herald says President Hayes' formal declaration of his intentions is so wise and satisfactory that it is difficult to point to any particular in which it could be improved.

The Tribune says the address with which President Hayes begins his official career as the Chief Executive of the United States will give fresh impetus to a revival of hope and cheerfulness throughout the country.

Other leading papers say it consists of meaningless platitudes and glittering generalities calculated to dupe and deceive.

BIG PUMPING-ENGINE.—We are some on pumping-engines here on the Comstock, where rivers of water are raised daily from a depth of 1,000 to 2,000 feet or over, but the dimensions of the engine described below are simply immense. The largest pumping-engines on the Comstock are at the Combination shaft and the Overman. These are compound vertical engines, direct-acting, with initial cylinders 32 inches in diameter and 10 feet 10 inches stroke, and the expansion cylinder 65 inches in diameter and 8 feet stroke. Yet we only call these engines, including both cylinders, 700-horse power, and fail to see where the engine described below gets its 3,200-horse power.

The following description thereof is taken from an Eastern exchange: "An enormous pump has been placed in one of the Pennsylvania metal establishments, it being 3,200-horse power—probably the largest pump, therefore, in the country, if not in the world. It is a vertical condensing-engine, 10 feet stroke, with a cylinder of cast iron 110 inches in diameter, the total weight of the cylinder with its head and bottom, being 40 tons. The piston-rod is fastened to the cross-head by a steel nut, weighing 1,100 pounds. There are two fly-wheels, each 35 feet in diameter, and each of them weighing 92 tons. It gives a motion to four plungers and four lift-pumps, raising 17,000 gallons of water per minute, from a depth of 220 feet."—Virginia Enterprise.

THE Pages in the Kansas Legislature are all girls. At least, so says the "personal intelligence" man of the New York Herald. SATURDAY, MARCH 10.....1877.

THE GRAND JURY.—The venire for 24 Grand Jurors was returned last Monday, at which time the following persons answered to their names: W. A. Rose, Thos. Webb, Peter Bennett, E. M. Goodale, T. McKeown, W. McLaren, John Broder, J. T. Walker, E. C. Drullinger, W. P. Spaulding, G. W. Reynolds, J. W. Clausen, Jas. Shepherd, Horace Bellows, R. Terrill, T. J. Goodale, W. W. Owens, K. S. Crumley, Jos. Eudey and John Schulte. The last two were excused for reasons shown, and the remaining 18 were duly sworn. A venire for three additional jurors, out of which to select one to complete the panel, was issued and returned at 1 o'clock P. M., with the following names: V. Pinchard, Lafe Gill and O. I. Mairs. The ballot drawn for one out of these three fell to the lot of Lafe Gill, who thereby became the nineteenth man in this Commission upon the criminal affairs of Inyo county. The Court appointed Peter Bennett, Foreman, or Chief Justice of said Commission, and it at once procceeded to business.

FOR HIS HEALTH. — David Love, whose naturally bright prospects in life were so cruelly blasted by an attack of paralysis some three years since, started a day or two ago on a journey to the lower part of Los Angeles county in the hope of benefitting his crippled condition by virtue of some mineral waters there. Dave has a pretty hard row to hoe, and it is to be hoped all who can will lend him a helping hand on his wearisome journey, for which he is very poorly provided indeed.

DIED AT THE ASYLUM.—Through a private letter from Dr. Shurtleff of the Stockton Insane Asylum, we have the news of the death, on the 31 instant of A. G. Cook, formerly of this place. The immediate cause of death was paralysis, though the unfortunate man never regained his mental faculties; in fact, the doctor writes, grew worse in that respect up to the hour of his death. Deceased was a native of England and about 38 years of age. He leaves four small children resident here.

ON THE RAMPAGE.—The Lone Pine hoodlums are attaining considerable notoriety. They have become so obstreperous that some efforts are being made to suppress them somewhat. It is to be hoped they will hold themselves in a little until some proposed extensions to the county jail will insure them better accommodations than would now be possible, should any of them want to sojourn in tnat institution awhile.

COUNTY COURT. — Besides matters connected with and that may arise from the proceedings of the Grand Jury, Judge Hannah has but two cases to adjudge this time: S. A. Densmore vs. K. S. Crumley, on appeal from Justices' Court, set for next Monday, and W. Primio, plaintiff and respondent, vs. T. Volkert, defendant and appellant, set for March 25.

WE TREMBLE.—THE INDEPENDENT has a case of libel, with heavy damages, in prospecto. Old Fairchilds, one of the peddlers of whisky to Indians, says that he is not a common drunkard—that a quart of whisky, loaded with red pepper and some other condiments to give it tone, lasts him for three days.

A GOOD IDEA.—Some of our business men have given the new INDEPENDENT job office a carte blanche to supply them with everything needful and convenient in the shape of printed forms and stationery. The idea is a most excellent one, and the parties express themselves well satisfied with the result.

SCHOOL MONEY APPORTIONMENT. There will be apportioned and subject to order next Monday, $2,418 70, State school money, and $872 37 from the county. All told it is likely to be a tight squeeze to raise the full amount of $500 for each district before the close of the present fiscal year

QUITE AN IMPROVEMENT.—The duck pond just north of the Blaney House and forming part of the Court House square, has been filled in with good soil and set out with a dozen or so of quite large trees, all of which constitute a most decided improvement.

SCATTERED AROUND.—The Grand Jury has caused quite a scattering of the Sheriff and his deputies this week, one having gone to Darwin, another to points intermediate and a third to Bishop, leaving Deputy J. J. Moore to look after the office and county boarders.

ANOTHER STEAMER.—We are informed that the Inyo Wood, Coal and Lumber Company have ordered the machinery for another steamer for Owens Lake, to be used in connection with the transportation business of the company.

WHAT MONO GETS.—The amount due from Inyo to Mono county, on account of migratory stock taxes collected in the past year is $680 47, which amount has been duly forwarded by our County Treasurer.

NOT REPORTED.—Senator Booth's bill to allow settlers on Camp Independence military reservation to pre-empt their lands was not reported back by the Committee, and therefore did not become a law.

CRIME.—The fact that the County Jail is full and two of the inmates are under indictment for murder in the first degree, is a condition of affairs which would excite comment in some countries.

WHO WANTS IT?—Some Granger man is offered a chance to obtain a good hay press on reasonable terms. See J. R. Turner's advertisement in this issue.

NEW POSTMASTER.—We observe that John Stewart has been appointed Postmaster at Lone Pine, vice, Mrs. Eames, got married.

A DISTRESSING ACCIDENT.—Yesterday morning about 11 o'clock John Veil, a well-known mining foreman, met with an accident through the explosion of a giant powder blast which it is thought has completely destroyed his eyes. Mr. Veil and T. W. Hill were working in the Rex Montis tunnel and had put in a "shot" of giant at the bottom of a short cross drift. For some reason the blast failed, and Mr. Veil proceeded to dig out the tamping and powder. Supposing that the powder had been destroyed by being frozen he apprehended no danger from an explosion. He had began to scoop out the powder, and had his head directly over the hole, when the cap in the powder was struck and the blast exploded. The rocks did not fly, but the terrible burst of flame struck him directly upon the eyes, nose and forehead, inflicting the injuries stated. Hill was knocked down by the explosion but escaped uninjured. Veil was stunned but for a few seconds, but soon spoke and was able to reach the cabin with the assistance of his fellow miners. Dr. Matthews was called and went as soon as possible to attend him. Mr. Veil is an old "boss" miner of long experience, and that the terrible accident, almost worse than death, should have occurred in the manner it did is very strange indeed. He was for some years in the mines of Cerro Gordo, but lately from Lone Pine, where he has a wife and son.

INDIAN VACCINATION.—Pursuant to notice, Dr. Matthews vaccinated all the Indians who came forward on Monday. With the exception of Mr. A. N. Bell, none of the citizens having influence with the Piutes troubled themselves in the least to get them "scratched." Mr. Bell brought up 26, and since then a few of the Indians came in on their own account to undergo the operation, making about 30 in all who responded at the appointed time. The doctor, however, made a trip up the country chiefly on this business, during which he operated upon some 40 more. He now issues a poster naming place and dates when and where he will attend to gratuitously vaccinate all the Piutes that will come or may be brought to him for that purpose. The doctor is entitled to commendation for his energy and persistence in the matter, and those people having Indians in their employ, but do not raise a hand to aid in this matter, are not entitled to any commendation at all; on the contrary, a slight attack of varioloid on their own persons would be a very suitable reminder for them.

THE NUMBER.—We have had various rumors as to the number of small-pox cases that have occurred in Darwin, and as usual some of them much exaggerated. Mr. S. A. Densmore, who knows, tells us that the total is but eleven from the first case down to the present, including deaths and light cases of varioloid. This is a much better showing than has generally been expected, but notwithstanding all that, the efforts to induce a general vaccination and revaccination should not be relaxed in the least. The disease prevails to some extent in every portion of the State, and is liable to make its appearance in this valley at any time, and from the north as likely as from the opposite direction.

DEAD.—A letter from Ellisville, Illinois, received by Postmaster Rowley a week or two since, written by a sister of the deceased, announces the demise at that place of Ezra H. Vandecar, who will be remembered by our citizens as once District Attorney and a well-known resident of Inyo. He had been at that point since November last, his death occurring on the 8th of February. In times gone by Judge Vandecar was a very prominent citizen and official of Placer and other counties of this State, but of late years his mental powers preceded the physical in giving way to the Destroyer.

THE SEVENTEENTH OF IRELAND.—The Benton people are preparing for a grand ball, to take place on the eve of St. Patrick's Day, and that with the races to begin that day at Columbus, constitutes all the proposed celebrations for the occasion that we hear of. Speaking of celebrations, why wouldn't it be worth an effort to get up a grand masquerade ball at this place next Fourth of July? A novelty of that sort, properly conducted, would afford more amusement than any practicable thing yet proposed.

BED-ROCK PRICES.—As set forth in their advertisement, it will be seen that Messrs. C. & M. Cohn, the wide-awake advertising firm of Lone Pine, have made such great reduction in the prices of their goods as must attract custom from all parts of the valley. It is hardly necessary to add that unless dealers elsewhere take a step in the same direction the Lone Pine firm will certainly get a very considerable portion of their trade. Business is business, and cash is cash to poor folks.

CHANGE IN PURSE.—We are requested to state that the purse for the saddle-horse race at Columbus, single dash of half a mile, fixed at $150, has been raised to $250. This is the race for the third day. We are also led to infer from the note received that it was thought the posters for these races had been issued from this office. No such posters or advertisement for the Columbus races has been issued or ordered from this office.

BADLY USED.—Old Constitution has learned that ye noble red man is a being not to be fooled with. For failing to supply one of his old customers with whisky the other day, he was knocked down with a club and badly beaten over the head. The pity is that the principal in the infernal business, instead of one of his half idiot agents, had not received the punishment.

FOUND DEAD.—A dead Mexican was found near the road some 10 miles this side of Darwin last Monday morning. The bullet holes indicated that he had died a very natural death if the presumption is correct that he was one of the two who robbed Jerome Childs.

REPORT OF THE GRAND JURY.

In the County Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, at its March term, A. D. 1877: To the above named Court.

We, the Grand Jurors, empaneled in the above named Court at its March term, A. D. 1877, report as follows:

1. We have found a true bill for murder against John Buckingham.

2. We have found five indictments for other felonies.

3. We have investigated a charge against Henry Levy for selling intoxicating liquors to one Nicholas Bielen, a common drunkard. We direct the District Attorney to prosecute the said Henry Levy in the Justice's Court for said crime.

4. We have examined into a charge against R. L. Peterson, Justice of the Peace of the Third Township, Inyo county, for failure to pay over to the County Treasurer moneys received by him for Justice's fees in his Court. We find him delinquent for small sums in several cases, and direct the District Attorney to make demand on him to pay over to the County Treasurer such sums: and if he fails to do so promptly to prosecute suits against him.

5. We find that Charles Meysan, Supervisor of Third District, County of Inyo, at the November term of said Board, A. D. 1876, demanded and received six dollars and forty cents more than he was entitled to for mileage as such Supervisor. We direct the District Attorney to make demand on the said Charles Meysan to pay over to the County Treasurer the said sum, and if he fails to do so promptly to prosecute a suit against him.

6. We find that D. B. Curtis, Supervisor for Second District, County of Inyo, at the November term of said Board, A. D. 1876, demanded and received six dollars more than he was entitled to for mileage as such Supervisor. We direct the District Attorney to make demand on the said D. B. Curtis to pay over to the County Treasurer said sum, and if he fail to do so, promptly to prosecute a suit against him.

7. We find that J. L. Garretson, Supervisor for First District, County of Inyo, at the November term of said Board, demanded and received eighteen dollars and eighty cents more than he was entitled to as such Supervisor. We direct the District Attorney to make demand on said J. L. Garretson to pay over to the County Treasurer the said sum, and if he fail to do so promptly to prosecute a suit against him.

8. The evidence of criminal intent of the said R. L. Peterson, Charles Meysan, D. B. Curtis and J. L. Garretson not being satisfactory to us. we bring no criminal charge against them.

We have examined the County Hospital and find that patients say they are well cared for, but that the building used as s hospital is entirely unsuited for such purposes.

10. We have examined the County Jail; it is as well kept and cared for as its crowded condition will permit.

12. We have examined into all matters that have came before us and acted upon them; and our business being completed, we ask to be discharged.

11. We have examined the charge against C. A Walters for misappropriation of school money in Milton school district and ignore the charge.

PETER BENNETT,
Foreman.

POSTPONED.—We are authorized to say that the Bishop Creek races, advertised to come off on the 16th and 17th will be postponed until the 30th and 31st of this month. The reason for this is that many of the horses designed to take part in these races have gone to Columbus for the races there, begining on the 17th. See advertisement.

PAID IN.—Something over $12,000 of licenses and delinquent taxes were paid in last week, of which $4,923 61 were apportioned to the Expense Fund. That fund is now only some $2,500 in arrears for the current year.

MORE OF IT.—About sun-down on Thursday last a couple of buck Indians occupied the streets and the attention of an observant crowd for an hour, while they "clawed and fit" with much gusto. Drunk as usual.

TRAMPS. — The Darwin News announces the advent into Inyo of a gang of tramps and thieves which have been forced to leave the towns to the southward. Our citizens must be on their guard.

BUSINESS.—Should our patrons happen to run across our Junior sloshing around the lower portion of the county, the fact that he means business can be depended upon.

PRECAUTION. — Mexican boys, who have constantly visited the houses where there was small-pox, are daily going to every house in town peddling fruits, etc., and it would be well for all to compel them to keep away, for a short time at least. We have not a single case in town at present, but that is no reason why every precaution should not be taken to prevent the spread of the disease, either by those exposed from the few cases we have had or persons coming in from other places. — Coso News, Mar. 3.

JAMES HAYES maintains a calm and impertubarable exterior, but those who have observed him closely, say that, while the surface is unruffled, there is evidently an undertow bearing his spirits downward as he approaches the terrible day. He has only four weeks more to live.—Kern County Gazette, March 3.

BEFORE the lapse of many years there will be seen perchance an occasional youth answering to the name of Samuel J.; but the cities, streets and urban vales and plains will echo and re-echo to the frequent call of youthful comrades: "Hi, Ruty! halloa, Hayesy!"—Carson Tribune.

A MAN who advertises himself as a temperance bootmaker is notorious for making tight boots.

COMPELLED TO DISGORGE. — Judge Hoffman has rendered a decree in the suit of George E. Long, assignee, etc., vs. D. Freeman, E. F. Spence and Wm. Temple, of Los Angeles. It is ordered that the assignment made on January 13, 1876, by Temple & Workman as partners, and F. P. F. Temple and Wm. Workman as individuals, to the defendants, D. Freeman and E. F. Spence, is, as against the complainant, illegal and void. It is further ordered that Freeman and E. F. Spence do immediately transfer to George D. Long all the property of the co-partnership of Temple & Workman, and all the individual property as well; also, that Freeman and Spence shall pay over to the complainant all the rents, issues, etc., that they may have received from the property; also, assign to him all payments obtained by them as trustees, and make a full accounting to the United States District Court of their transactions in connection with the estate.

CUBAN COMMENTS ON CUBAN SLAVERY. A Havana paper, the Voz de Cuba, referring to President Grant's Message and his statement that Cuba is the only land in which slavery now exists, says: While slavery on a larger scale exists in Brazil, the Spanish law of gradual abolition will result in ending slavery earlier in Cuba than in Brazil. If the foreign government insists that slavery be abolished in Brazil, while it exists in Cuba, then let the Spanish law be exchanged for the Brazilian one, thus doing away with the fault-finding and pretexts of other nations, compelling them to blame Brazil when blaming Cuba. Whether under Spanish or Brazilian law, we shall have to pass through a transformation of the gravest importance. Nobody ignores this, yet nobody takes provisionary steps. We cannot understand this indifference, on the solution of which the future of the island largely depends.

DIED OF HIS WOUNDS.—The stage robber Carlow died of his wounds Thursday night. Eugene Blair, the messenger who shot him, was with him to the time of his death, endeavoring to get information from him concerning the robbery. Carlow was game to the last and refused to speak a word implicaitng any one. He said that had the stage been on time they would have fixed him (Blair) and also told the driver that his time would soon come. The supposition is that there were more than two men engaged in the robbery, and the stage being behind time a part of the gang had gone down to the other road, leaving Carlow and Crawford on the lookout on the usually traveled road.—Eureka Sentinel, Mar. 3.

STOLEN TREASURE RECOVERED.—The Silver State says: In October, 1875, the stage was robbed between Boise City and Umatilla, Oregon. Two men named Maxon and Berry were convicted of robbery and sentenced to the penitentiary for 10 years each. Since their imprisonment they confessed their guilt and told where the treasure was hidden. Last week Col. Page, Wells, Fargo & Co's agent, and Maxon, father of one of the prisoners, proceeded to the place indicated, and found a gold bar, two bags of gold dust and a yeast powder can containing gold notes and greenbacks, the total value of which amounted to some $4,000.

THE prospects for sheep and cattle owners in this valley, and probably throughout the valley portions of the State, are truly deplorable. Had our sheep and stock men turned one-half of their stock into ditches and alfalfa during the past two seasons they would have been forearmed against such a dry season. Those farmers who can get in large fields of alfalfa this season need have no fears that it will not prove as good as any investment they can make in the way of a crop, taking two or three seasons together.—Visalia Delta.

THE London Times says: An association has been formed in Edinburgh for the purpose of purchasing and slaughtering cattle in the United States and Canada, and for also purchasing farm and dairy produce to sell in Edinburgh and other parts of Great Britain.

A NEW YORK Herald reporter has interviewed Tilden. The latter said Hewitt did not represent him. He (Tilden) was opposed to the Electoral Commission. He believed he was cheated out of the Presidency.

SOLOMON said there was nothing new under the sun, and yet here is Alexander Stephens, who has just escaped death by a hair's breadth in a protracted wrestle with pneumonia. Precious little Solomon pneu about it.

The military police force being organized at Constantinople by Col. Baker will number 60,000 men. Foreign officers will be employed.

PLOWING TABLE.—As a matter of interest we print the following table, which indicates the distance traveled by a horse in plowing an acre:

Breadth of furrow slice.	Space traveled in plowing an acre.
7 inches	14¼ miles
8 "	12¼ "
9 "	11 "
10 "	9 9-10 "
11 "	9 "
12 "	8¼ "
20 "	4 9-10 "
24 "	4 "

From this table can be seen the gain in the labor account with a crop which comes from the use of a broad furrow in plowing. If we call 16 miles a day the day's work for the horses we plow but 1⅓ acres a day by making a 9-inch furrow; nearly 2 acres by making a 12-inch furrow, and when a gang-plow is used, which plows a 24-inch furrow, the acreage is increased to nearly 4.

The use of an improved plow, which turns a broad furrow and pulverizes, is therefore an economy on land suited to its use, and there is great gain from the use of a gang-plow under circumstances where it is applicable.—Scientific Farmer.

POISONS.—For any poison, the most speedy, certain and most frequently efficacious remedy in the world, if immediately taken, is a heaping teaspoonful of ground mustard, stirred rapidly in a glass of cold water and drank down at a draft, causing instantaneous vomiting. As soon as the vomiting ceases, swallow two tablespoonfuls or more of sweet oil, or any other mild oil. If no ground mustard is at hand, drink a teacupful or more of sweet oil or any other pure mild oil, melted hog's lard, melted butter, train oil, cod liver oil, any of which protect the coats of the stomach from the disorganizing effects of the poison; and, to a certain extent, by filling up the pores of the stomach (the mouths of the absorbents) prevent the poison being taken up in the circulation of the blood. Persons bitten by rattlesnakes have drank oil freely and recovered. These are things to be done while a physician is being sent for.

HOW TO PACK BUTTER.—A recent number of the California Patron contains the following instructions, which cannot be too generally circulated for the benefit of butter makers and consumers: In packing butter in bulk, care should be used in having your firkin well saturated with strong, hot brine; this course will prevent the wood from extracting the salt from the butter, and thereby loosening its keeping qualities. Before you commence, and while you are packing your butter, put a quart of strong, pure brine in your firkin, then if you fail to pack your butter solid, the space will be filled with brine instead of air, which soon becomes vitiated and spoils the butter. When the firkin is filled it should be immediately headed up and strong brine poured through the hole at the top to fill up the space between the butter and head of the firkin.

WORTH KNOWING.—We are assured that one pound of green copperas, dissolved in one quart of water and poured down a water-closet, will effectually concentrate and destroy the foulest smells. On board ships and steamboats, about hotels and other public places, there is nothing so nice to purify the air. Simple green copperas, dissolved in anything under the bed, will render a hospital, or other place for the sick, free from unpleasant smells. In fish-markets, slaughter houses, sinks and wherever there are offensive gases, dissolve copperas and sprinkle it about, and in a few days the smell will pass away. If a cat, rat or mouse dies about the house and sends forth an offensive gas, place some dissolved copperas in an open vessel near the place where the nuisance is, and it will purify the atmosphere.

DIPTHERIA.—The following is claimed to be a certain cure for diptheria: A physician says, that in one thousand cases in which it has been tried, not a single patient has been lost. The treatment consists in simply swabbing the back of the mouth and throat with a wash made thus: Table salt, two drams; black pepper, golden seal, nitrate of potash, alum, one dram each. Mix and pulverize; put it into a teacup, which half fill with boiling water; stir well and then fill up with good vinegar. Use every half hour; one, two and four hours, as recovery progresses. The patient may swallow a little each time. Apply an ounce each of spirits of turpentine, sweet oil, aqua ammonia, mixed, to the whole of the throat and to the breast-bone every four hours, keeping flannel to the part.

CLEANING SILK.—The following mode of cleaning silk garments, says the Manufacturers Review, has been successfully tested. The garment must first be ripped and dusted. Have a large flat board; over it spread an old sheet. Take half a cup of ox gall, half a cup of ammonia and half a pint tepid soft water. Sponge the silk with this on both sides, especially the soiled spots. Having finished sponging, roll it round on a stick like a broom handle, being careful not to have any wrinkles. Silk thus washed and thoroughly dried, needs no ironing and has a luster like new silk. Not only silk, but merino, barege or any woolen goods may be thus treated with the best results.

THE inhabitants of Sullivan's Island, off the coast of South Carolina, recently fished hundreds of dressed chickens and ducks out of the surf in excellent eatable condition. It appears the poultry was thrown overboard from the befogged steamer Planter.

AN Irish Major recently declared in a Dublin debating society that "he was no mere political tyro, but came to the bar of public opinion armed with experience acquired in three hemispheres."

TEN editors and printers are in the United States Senate, but then that's better than being in jail.

PROPOSALS FOR THE CARE OF THE INDIGENT SICK OF INYO COUNTY.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT SEALED proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of said county, at the office of the County Clerk, until 12 o'clock M. of Monday, the 26th day of March, 1877, to contract for the care of said indigent sick, for the term of one year, from May 1st, 1877, to May 1st, 1878.

Said bids to designate the amount for which parties contracting will care for said indigent sick, on the basis of an average of four (4) patients each day throughout the year, and to include all medicines, medical attendance, nursing, board and lodging and washing; and said medical attendance to be given by a physician having the qualifications prescribed by law; said bids to include the burial and funeral expenses of any indigent sick person or persons who may die while under such care. Said contractor to care for all the indigent sick of said county properly admitted to the contractor's care; and said bids to designate the price per head at which all excess of patients over the average of four each day throughout the year will be cared for; said excess of patients to be paid for by extra allowance upon presentation of bills duly sworn to, at the regular meetings of said Board. The person or persons to whom such contract may be awarded, shall give a good and sufficient bond in double the amount of such contract price for the faithful performance of said contract.

The care and management of said indigent sick by such contractor shall be at any and all times subject to the inspection of said Board of Supervisors, or any member thereof, or by any person appointed by said Board for such purpose.

Said proposals must be indorsed, "Proposals for the Care of the Indigent Sick;" and the same will be opened between the hours of 1 o'clock and 4 o'clock P. M. of said 26th day of March, 1877; and the right is reserved by said Board to reject any or all bids.

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo. Ellen E. Mattack, plaintiff, against Alexander C. Mattack, defendant. Action brought in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and the complaint filed in said county of Inyo, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to Alexander C. Mattack, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and to answer a complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within the county; or, if served out of this county, but in this district, within twenty days; otherwise, within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a judgment and decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony existing between said plaintiff and said defendant, and for the custody of the minor children, issue of their said marriage, as does more fully appear from said plaintiff's complaint, to which reference is hereby made.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Hon. Court for the relief prayed for in said complaint on file herein.

Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, this fifth day of September in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

[SEAL.] W. B. DAUGHERTY,

PROBATE NOTICE.

IN THE PROBATE COURT OF THE STATE OF California, in and for the County of Inyo. In the matter of the Estate of J. W. Allyn, deceased. It appearing to the Judge of said Court, by the petition this day presented and filed by A. Wayland, the Administrator of the estate of J. W. Allyn, deceased, praying for an order of sale of real estate that it is necessary to sell the whole of the real estate to pay the debts outstanding against the deceased and the debts, expenses and charges of the administration; it is therefore ordered, by the Judge of said Court, that all persons interested in the said estate of said deceased appear before the said Probate Court on Wednesday, the 11th day of April, A. D. 1877, at 10 o'clock A. M. of said day, at the Court Room of said Probate Court, at the town of Independence, Inyo county, State of California, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the said Administrator to sell all of the real estate of said deceased, as shall be necessary.

And that a copy of this order be published at least four successive weeks in THE INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper printed and published in said county.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

BY VIRTUE OF AN EXECUTION ISSUED OUT of the District Court of the Twelfth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the city and county of San Francisco, in the suit of Egbert Judson, Mortimer W. Belshaw and Reni Nadeau, plaintiffs, against Defiance Mining Company, defendant, upon a judgment rendered in said Court on the 30th day of January, A. D. 1877, for the sum of Thirteen thousand Eight Hundred and Twenty-six 35-100 Dollars in gold coin of the United States, besides costs amounting to the sum of Nine 75-100 Dollars, duly attested the Fifth day of February, A. D. 1877, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of $13 836 10-100 in gold coin of the United States, besides accruing costs and interest, I have levied upon all the right, title and interest of the said defendent in and to the following described real property, to-wit:

That certain mining ground and mine or lode known as the Defiance mine, together with the hoisting works thereon erected and the blacksmith shop and all the machinery and appurtenances belonging to or in anywise appertaining to said Defiance mine; all of the above described property being situated in the Coso mining district, about one mile northeasterly from the town of Darwin, in the county of Inyo, State of California. Also, the boarding house and premises situated on or near the said Defiance mine, said house being known as the Defiance Company's boarding house. PIUTE ADRIFT.

CHAPTER XXII.—AMONG THE MORMONS.

MESSRS. EDITORS—After sojourning awhile in the City of the Saints and its suburbs, Piute struck south. The Utah Southern Railroad runs nearly due south from Salt Lake city. As we slowly leave the city limits we pass cultivated fields, gardens and innumerable orchards. It is a grand ride through the wide, extensive Salt Lake valley; on either side is a high range of mountains; east of the valley are the Wahsatch and west are the towering peaks of the Oquirrh range. There are flourishing farming settlements all along until you strike Bingham Junction, which is 12 miles from Salt Lake city. There are smelting works in operation here. A narrow gauge called the Bingham and Camp Floyd Railroad runs from the Utah Southern to the mines in Bingham Cañon; this narrow gauge is 22 miles long and is doing a fine business. One mile south of Bingham Junction is Sandy. There are extensive smelting works here and a narrow gauge railroad called the Wahsatch and Jordan Valley Railroad intersects the Utah Southern. This road runs east to the Wahsatch range and up Little Cottonwood cañon; while the Bingham road runs west to the Oquirrh range, which proves there are valuable mines in both ranges. The Wahsatch and Jordan Valley Railroad is 18 miles long, following Little Cottonwood cañon, wherein lies the celebrated Emma mine and other mines. Big Cottonwood cañon is north of Little Cottonwood and they claim that a "mountain of silver" lies between them. The ore is transported from these cañons over the narrow gauge railroads to the valley and is reduced at Bingham, Sandy and other places. Winter is not a favorable season to visit these wild cañons, particularly the Bingham and Little Cottonwood districts. Snow falls to an immense depth. The mining town of Alta in Little Cottonwood district is said to be 13,000 feet above sea level. However, the snow is unusually light this year in the mountains. The farmers entertains doubt as to their having a sufficiency of water next Summer for irrigating purposes; irrigation is extensively used through all these valleys to insure good crops. Leaving Sandy we pass over a desert country, although to the right, in the vicinity of Jordan river the country is pretty well settled. After passing Draperville and South Willow creek we go up hill, and the scenery behind us is very grand. Looking from the end of the car, the great Salt Lake valley is in fair view. Sandy and other smelting camps, with immense volumes of smoke belching forth from the furnaces, towns, villages, farms, also, Salt Lake city, the great Lake and the mountains beyond is a magnificent spectacle. After passing through a deep cut we emerge into the valley of Lake Utah and consequently lose sight of the great Salt Lake valley panorama. Still being on high ground, running along the eastern base of the Wahsatch range, we have a fair view of Lake Utah valley with its beautiful lake, villages, settlements, the river Jordan and fenced in on the east, west and south with snow-clad mountains thousands of feet in hight. Lake Utah is a large body of water and is 500 feet higher than Salt Lake; it is fresh water and abundance of fish sport there. The river Jordan connects Lake Utah and Salt Lake. American Fork is 34 miles south of the City of the Saints and is a large flourishing farming settlement. This, like most all other farming settlements in Utah, is under Mormon rule. The fat, almighty Bishops, with Counselors and a large collection of wives and children are here as well as elsewhere, dictating and looking after the tithing. Last Sunday Piute attended church in this place; the large building was crowded. Being a few minutes late, every seat was taken. However, Piute was kindly ushered on, on, on, until he reached the preachers' stand, where they comfortably seated him at the big Bishop's elbow, and other church dignitaries. The preaching did not affect Piute, but he gazed in amazement at the large throng of children which were present. One venerable brother there, 73 years old, had 4 wives and 32 children circling around him! A narrow gauge railroad 16 miles long runs from American Fork through the cañon to Deer Creek. Mines have been developed there, but at present they are not extensively worked. This railroad has the steepest grade in the United States; the total ascent in elevation is nearly 5,000 feet, the average being 360 feet to the mile. American Fork cañon is a wonderful cañon; for grandeur and sublime rock sceneries it is claimed that this cañon far surpasses Echo, Weber or Humboldt canons. Canon Kingsley declares it the rival of Yosemite. After penning the above concerning the railroad, I picked up a paper and found the following in it: "The American Fork Cañon Railroad was built to facilitate the carrying of the ores; and just as the road was completed, and upward of $500,000 spent, the "pocket" gave out. At present the mine is said to yield with lead, only about 35 ounces per ton of silver." Provo is 48 miles from Salt Lake city; it is a large town and an excellent grain and fruit country. The town has nearly 6,000 inhabitants. Springville is 53 miles from Salt Lake city; the town lies near the mountains; they propose building a narrow gauge railroad to the coal fields in Strawberry valley some 60 miles east. Extensive coal fields have been discovered in San Pete valley; this coal possesses coking qualities. At present considerable coke is shipped from Pittsburg, Pennsylvania. In a few yers coal and coke will be imported from these fields to Mono and Inyo. At a little place called Wales, in San Pete valley, coking ovens have been erected and coke is now hauled in wagons to Springville, a distance of 60 miles. Iron ore is shipped from Payson to the different smelters for fluxing purposes; it is called brown hemitite and carries 60 to 64 per cent. of iron. York is the present terminus of the Utah Southern Railroad, distance 75 miles from Salt Lake city.

TINNAMUCKAHEE.

A Materialized Hole.

Take a sheet of stiff writing paper and fold it into a tube an inch in diameter. Apply it to the right eye and look steadily through it, focusing the eye on any convenient object; keep the left eye open. Now place the left hand, held palm upwards, edgeways against the side of the tube, and about an inch or two above its lower end. The astonishing effect will be produced of a hole, apparently the size of the cross section of the tube, made through the left hand. This is the hole in which we propose to materialize another and smaller hole. As we need a genuine aperture, and it would be inconvenient to make one in the left hand, let a sheet of white paper be substituted therefor and similarly held. Just at the part of the paper where the hole equaling in diameter the orifice of the tube appears, make an opening a quarter of an inch in diameter. Now stare intently into the tube; and the second hole, defined by its difference of illumination, will be seen floating in the first hole, and yet both will be transparent. The illusion, for of course it is one of those odd pranks our binocular vision plays upon us, is certainly one of the most curious ever devised. Besides, here is the actual hole clearly visible, and yet there is no solid body to be seen to define its edges. It is not a mere spot of light, because if a page of print be regarded, the lines within the boundaries of the little hole will not coincide at all with those surrounding it and extending to the edges of the large apparent aperture. Each eye obviously transmits an entirely different impression to the brain, and that organ, unable to disentangle them, lands us in the palpable absurdity of a materialized hole.

"STOP, stop! my dear," exclaimed Mrs. A., "don't burn those old papers, I want them for Fanny and Bobby to make lighters of this evening." "Ah, yes," replied her obedient spouse, "a penny saved is as good as a penny earned; and now I think of it, why not take my old love letters? First rate things to kindle a flame, you know." "Oh, yes, excellent," rejoined Mrs. A., "I am sure they are dry enough."

AFTER the battle of Chattanooga the surgeons made several incisions in the leg of a soldier who had been wounded in the knee by a musket ball. Out of patience at last, the soldier exclaimed: "Why are you carving me up so?" "We are trying to find the ball," answered a surgeon. "Why didn't you ask for the ball in the first place?" indignantly cried the the soldier; "here it is in my pocket!"

HISTORY repeats itself. Hassler, the defaulting Carlisle bank cashier, hanged himself on the same rafter on which his predecessor, Beetem, who was also a defaulter, hanged himself 14 years ago. Next!

WHEN a dog barks at night in Japan the owner is arrested and sentenced to work a year for the neighbors that were disturbed. The dogs get off easier, being simply killed.

WORRY, wearies and wears out more than work. Anger creates disease.

Good Nature.

Men and women receive in this life much of what they deserve. It is like a looking-glass, this big world; grin and smile at it and it will smile back; scowl and it scowls. It is but a confession of one's unpleasantness at home if we air our grievances. The nice people are not "nice," without a great deal of trouble on their part. That pleasant fellow who always cheers his acquaintances, and who carries an atmosphere of good nature around with him, is probably a hero in his way, and most likely a good-natured philosopher, who takes a good deal of trouble to be what he is. The amiable sister, who never complains, has shown in little things as much bravery as if she had won the Victoria cross. On the other hand, those young persons who have always a budget of miseries to pour in the very sympathetic ears of their friends, and who are totally—if they are to be believed—unappreciated at home will be found, if looked into, not so amiable as they might be. Mr. Tom Pinch, who had never thought of himself, found even the gross hypocrite, Pecksniff, a good and kindly creature; while Martin Chuzzlewit, who took care to sit in the very front of the fire, and liked to be read asleep by Tom, discovered every one to be selfish. Depend upon it, if we try to think more of others than we do of ourselves, we shall seldom have a grievance. We may also be assured that, if we dwell upon our own sweet selves and our own merits, we shall doubtless believe those merits to be so great we shall find the world will always supply an immense and ever-increasing grievance by being blind to them.

Regulating Freights and Fares.

Five or six cases known as the Granger cases, were decided in the Supreme Court on the 1st instant. Chief Justice Waite read the decisions. They lay down the broad principle that State Legislatures have the right to regulate the rates of freights and fare on railroads and that Congress has no power to do so. Railroads are not strictly private property so long as they are devoted to public use, and the power which may regulate ferry and hack rates may also control railroad corporations. One of the cases, from Illinois, settles the principle that the same power may be exercised by the Legislature over the charges or grain warehouses and elevators; another from Wisconsin determines that a railroad entirely within the State may thus be controlled; a third decides that a consolidated railroad running from one State to another is subject to the control of the two States respectively. There were other points determined all in the same direction. Judge Field read a dissenting opinion. These decisions will prove of vast importance to all of the Western as well as to the Pacific States.

IN the course of a sketch of Mr. Abram S. Hewitt, a writer in the Philadelphia Times says: "He and his brother worked their way through college together in an original and highly fraternal manner. The brother had an occupation in which he could earn enough to support them both, so it was agreed, as both were equally thirsting for knowledge, that the brother should stick to his business and that the brother Abram should enter Columbia College and impart to him every evening all he had learned during the day. They kept up this system with incredible industry and self-denial, and were both graduated at the same place."

THE Bakersfield Courier, in speaking of two of the parties engaged in the late robberies on the west side of Tulare lake, says: "The Sotello family is a precious set. It is said there are five brothers in all, every one of whom is a graduate of the higher crimes. It is said one of them is serving out a term in the State Prison now, another is in jail in Los Angeles, while the three at large have perpetrated crimes sufficient to hang them if they are ever caught."

BOSTON has only one fault to find with Moody, and that is that his "unculchawed mannahs and bawbawous vuhbal enunciation seem to be rathaw exaggahrated than modified by contact with a highah culchaw." And Mr. Moody says that he likes Boston good enough, but they talk the worst English there he ever heard.

A MILITARY force of 60,000, with foreign officers, has been organized in Turkey by Col. Valentine Baker who was formerly imprisoned in England for attempting to ravish a young woman on a railroad train.

SENSIBLE. — Under the new postal law you are permitted to write your name, preceded by the worn "from," on the margin of the newspaper you send to your friend.

A Wisconsin paper says: The Board of education has resolved to erect a building large enough to accommodate 500 students three stories high.

THEY had a Welch concert in Utica N. Y. the other night, and when the choir sang "Yr Arglwydid ywyf Mugail," the enthusyladdgsm was intense.

The N. Y. Commercial Advertiser thinks Moody can't be hampered with rules of grammar when he sees so many of his fellow creatures parsing away.

OF the five wives of a Brooklynite, four were named Mary Ann. The fellow appears to have been a Mary-Ann man.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, MARCH 17.....1877.

ITALY is making great preparations for a representation at the Paris Exposition of 1878. Two hundred tons of statuary belonging to the Government will be sent, by way of decoration for the Italian section, besides numerous paintings and other ornaments. Manufactures will be represented to a greater extent than ever before. During the Expositions of 1851 and 1855 Italy was still divided into several States; during those of 1862 and 1867, she was torn by political divisions. At the time of the Vienna Exposition she was suffering from a commercial crisis, and Philadelphia, being a distant point, did not receive the attention that a greater proximity would have commanded. In 1878, all past short-comings are to be atoned for.

TO BE SHOT.—John D. Lee is to suffer death by being shot next Friday, March 23. It seems that Utah laws give condemned culprits the right to choose between the rope and bullet, and Lee chose the latter. His statement of Mormon villainies, particularly with reference to the Mountain Meadows massacre, for which he is to suffer death, is about ready for publication, and will possess great interest. There is no doubt but that Lee was simply a passive tool for the leading Mormons in that unparalleled crime, and others too, perhaps. The church abandoned him utterly.

THE NEW CABINET.—The President has called about him strong men as his advisers. The following is the new Cabinet: Secretary of State, Wm. M. Evarts, of New York; Secretary of the Treasury, John Sherman, of Ohio; Secretary of War, George W. McCrary, of Iowa; Secretary of the Navy, Richard M. Thompson, of Indiana; Attorney-General, Charles Devens, of Massachusetts; Postmaster-General, David M. Key, of Tennessee; Secretary ot the Interior, Carl Schurz, of Missouri.

SAN FRANCISCO has just inaugurated a new enterprise—the first of its kind on this side of the Rocky mountains—in the establishment of the Women's Pioneer Hotel. It is to be managed in the interest of women, and by a lady of experience and the highest respectability. Board ranges from $5 to $7 per week, the lodging from $1 to $1 50 per day.

FOUND GUILTY.—Fred Gillette, after being arrested, examined and discharged so many times for that stage robbery down below here last Fall, has at last been found guilty of the offense, and will now serve a term in the Penitentiary. His last trial took place in Judge Colby's County Court at Bakersfield. Gillette made a full confession.

THE bridge built by the Southern Pacific company across the north end of Tulare Lake, is more than a mile in length. It is supported by cedar piling driven 10 or 12 feet into the mud, and the track is some 8 or 10 feet above the water.

HARRINGTON THE MURDERER.—This morning before 8 o'clock, James Harrington, under sentence of death for the murder of a man in Virginia City, made an attempt to escape from jail, as he was about to be removed from the old jail to the new one. Some confederates had managed to hand the murderer a pistol, and he fired three shots at Deputy Sheriff Kersch, while that officer was letting him out. Mr. Kersch was shot in the groin and left leg. Mr. Carpenter, City Jailor, came up at the time and shot Harrington under the left ear, planting the felon and then secured him. Although seriously wounded the Sheriff is not considered in danger, and the murderous villain will live long enough to swing from the gallows tree. "Born to hang, can't be drowned." Carson Tribune, Mar. 6.

THE great achievement of the Maine Legislators during their brief session was the prohibition of the sale of sweet cider. Two years ago the advocates of extreme prohibitory measures succeeded in putting domestic wines, such as currant, gooseberry and that made from the juice of the rhubarb plant, on the tabooed list. There does not seem to be much left for them to do now in the way of legislation, unless they tackle buttermilk and tea.

LISTEN to the frontier poet: Sitting Bull, Sitting Bull, where is your hole; you strongly resemble the unseen North Pole; expeditions we send for you time and again, who come back without and sorely complain. For the sea paleocrystic, so distant, so mystic, resembles you not, since there it is cold, but you make it quite hot—for our folks.

A NUMBER of gentlemen residents of the Pacific Coast, have formed a company with a capital of $10,000,000, gold coin, to get out lumber in Alaska for ship-building and general stealing purposes.

ENGLISH railway corporations are employing women as clerks at the stations. Their experience in making trains and switches probably suggested the experiment.

HOSPITAL MATTERS.

Petitions, numerously signed, from Darwin and surrounding camps are to be presented to the next Board of Supervisors praying the establishment of a branch hospital at that place. The News, editorially referring to the matter, points out that it would be a very great convenience to all of those camps, and, at the same time, cheaper to the county than to pay transportation to Lone Pine; that it should be so done because common humanity demands that the really sick should be saved the suffering and danger incurred by them in being hauled over that long and dusty road to the hospital at Lone Pine. The petitions ask that the couuty should purchase or lease a suitable building at Darwin and fit it up for hospital purposes. Nothing is said about the appointment of a physician to take charge.

It is altogether likely the Board and taxpayers generally will be quite willing to accede to this request to some extent —probably the appointment of a physician to take full charge of and provide all necessary accommodations for indigent sick persons applying for such relief, but in all cases where the nature of the disease or condition of the patient will safely permit, to send him to the County Hospital, wherever that may be. This, save in the last particular, is all the county has ever done for its indigent sick at any time—hire a doctor to dose them and give them just such feed and lodging as he saw fit or could command. And as for the matter of transfer, it is without doubt the choice of nine-tenths of men taken sick in any of our mining camps to have the benefit of the change to the valley air, green foliage and living waters. But for this and the supposed superior sanitary advantages of the valley over most if not all the mining camps the hospital could be located in a reasonably suitable mining town without a word of objection from valley people proper, to whom it is a source of never ending expense without a shadow of return, if we except its limited patronage and the saving to individuals who, otherwise, would be burdened with the helpless sick that would naturally resort to the valley when in broken health and able to do so. The number of hospital beneficiaries from the valley's inhabitants proper is too limited in fact to make an element in the question at issue. By reason of this difference with respect to the mining districts it would be far cheaper to reverse the order and pay transportation on the indigent sick from the valley to a hospital at Darwin, for instance, than as it is. The hospital has found location in the valley, not alone that it might be more central to all the surrounding mines, not at all for the special benefit of the valley people, but because it was supposed to be better suited there to the wishes and needs of miners themselves who oftenest had need of its benefits. If that is an error in regard to their wishes in the matter there will now be a chance to correct it, as we will presently point out.

As for the question of taxation the greater share falls upon mining towns only as individuals there donate from their private purses in aid of the moneyless sick more frequently than valley people have to do. After that the latter certainly take their full share of the burden; if the riddance is the gauge of benefits received, then the greater burden falls upon the valley people. But the benefits from the hospital tax is purely negative so far as any community or taxpayer is concerned, those reaping the fruits being those who as a rule pay no taxes. Its return is but the same as from any other charity. The point is not to make this or any other charity unduly burdensome, either by direct taxation or by enforced private donations. The latter is the kind that gives rise to these petitions and entitles them to consideration. The plan they propose will answer that particular end, but at a greatly increased cost in the aggregate upon the public without corresponding benefits. We think it can be done cheaper, quite as effectually and more equitably in either one of two ways. One of these, as being the most feasible, we have already alluded to; the other, presently.

We do not see how a branch hospital on the proposed plan can be maintained any cheaper than the main establishment. This, for the last year, cost but a few dollars less than $5,000, while the average of its beneficiaries did not exceed five—showing the heaviest proportionate tax for charitable purposes of any county in the State; to now proceed to about double that would be rather steep. The county does not own so much as an old blanket in the way of a hospital outfit. It probably never will, since it refused to purchase a good and well fitted hospital building, splendidly located in a sanitary point of view, all at half price. Our County Hospital is a peripatetic institution—in one place one year, somewhere else the next, much as pleases the whims of the bidder who will agree to fit up a shebang to accommodate it a few months for the fewest dollars. A week from next Monday the Board will meet to determine its abiding place for the succeeding year, which, to some extent is contingent upon the shebang question. It being an adjourned meeting these petitions will also be subject to action. Now Darwin has some firstrate doctors; let them put in a reasonable bid, and locate the peripatetic institution there for a year. This county don't need two or more public hospitals to take care of five or even ten patients, and if the one will suit them there better than elsewhere there it will go if Darwin bids as low for it as other places. Our other plan we have alrerdy mentioned in the outset. The question, though, rests with the Supervisors and bidders, and we submit it.

All Sorts.

The San Diego Union has advices from Maricopa Wells, Arizona, that the people at that station fear an attack from the Pima Indians, who are exasperated over the rumor that two Indians lately arrested have been hung by a mob in Phœnix. OUR NEVADA CORRESPONDENCE.

BODIE, MONO CO., Cal., March 12.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Inasmuch as we have no paper published in our county, I take the liberty of addressing this to you, and, if you feel so disposed, please give it place in your valuable paper. In the flush days of Aurora this camp was favorably known, but as Aurora died out so died Bodie. But a few, such as Judge Bechtel, the Dutch boys and Judge McClinton still stuck to their claims, and at present the prospects are that they will be handsomely rewarded for their pluck and faith. The Syndicate mine in early days was worked to a profit by a New York company, but they finally struck bottom in the mine, and allowed the mill and all their other property to be sold for taxes. The present owners took hold of it, and in a short time found the ledge again and are now going down on it. It is expected that they will soon start up their mill on the ore taken out of this mine. The Bullion mine, owned in San Francisco, was prospected last Summer and Winter to such an extent as to warrant the erection of a 20-stamp mill; the work of building it has commenced and will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible. The contract for building the mill has been let to parties from San Francisco, who are now on the ground and at work. This mine has been worked for the last two years; the first year by Essington & Lockburn, they reducing the ore in an arastra, and for their year's work realized $37,000; they then sold it to the present company for $75,000. The present company purchased it about a year since and have been working more to prospect the mine than to extract ore. However, they took out several hundred tons of ore and had it reduced at the Syndicate mill. There are many other locations being prospected of which I shall speak more fully at some other time; but all the claims are looking well and have plenty of good ore. We also have quite a town started here; we have already two stores, and considerable preparations for numerous whisky mills and hash houses. Lively times are expected here next Summer, and as is usual in mining camps of any note, jumping of ranches, town lots and watching mining claims that might be jumped, has commenced. Scalping knives and six-shooters are kept in order in case they might be needed.

I find that Columbus and Belleville have a better prospect than ever before, several new companies having lately started there. The Northern Belle mine has proved to be one of the best mines in the State of Nevada. At a depth of 1,000 feet having every indication of permanency, proves conclusively that all the silver bearing quartz is not in Storey county. Every stage to Columbus is loaded down with passengers. The travel has increased to such an extent that Messrs. Tuller & Clugage have put on a daily line of coaches from Aurora to Columbus. McTanahan is building a new road from Carson to Belleville via Hinds', at the head of Mason valley and south end of Walker lake: it is claimed that it will shorten the distance about 50 miles.

Parties in the interest of the Silver Peak company are out at the Peak making the necessary preparations for patenting their mines perparatory to starting up their works, which will be done this coming Summer. They intend building a railroad (narrow gauge) from the mines to the mill, the distance being some 8 miles; the wood will also be hauled by rail. The prospects for Mono county, Cal., and Esmeralda county, Nevada, have certainly never been as good as they are at present. MAX.

NEW PATENTS.—Through Dewey & Co., Patent Agents, San Francisco, we receive the following list of U. S. patents, granted to Pacific Coast inventors, viz:

187,830. J. Douglass, La Grange, Cal., quilting attachment for sewing machines. 187,846. R. M. Gruwell and C. Newhouse, Stockton, Cal., spring bed-bottom. 187,904, Samuel Putnam, Emigrant Gap, Cal., machine for re-sawing lumber. 187,912, J. W. Rundle, S. F., curry comb. 187,931. J. C. H. Stut, S. F., valve gear for steam engines. 187,947. S. H. Wheeler, S. F., valve gear for steam engines.

ALL the late officers of the Continental Life Insurance Company, of New York, are to be indicted, including S. U. Hammond, who has already convicted himself by his own testimony, and if our Grand Jury does its duty, H. H. Blake will share the same fate. If the time has come when rogues and thieves, claiming high respectability, are to be permitted to carry on a regular systematic game of thievery, unmolested by the authorities, then our laws are a failure and the courts a farce.—Coast Review.

THE Omaha Herald now regards the project of a railroad to the Black Hills as having matured into a certainty. The Union Pacific Railroad Company promise to build it, and have already ordered three routes surveyed; work to commence as soon as the weather will permit. The three points on the Union Pacific line which are contemplated as the starting point for the Black Hills road are North Platte, Sidney and Cheyenne. The choice is considered to lie between the two former.

DEFIANCE. — During the past week fair bodies of good ore have been struck in the Defiance. A larger amount now lies on the furnace dumps than ever before. Coal has been arriving since Wednesday evening last, and but a few days will be required to deliver a sufficient amount on which to commence, after which there is every probability that the old Defiance will start in for a continuous and successful run and a new lease of life.—Coso News.

A GALLANT Minnesota editor offers his paper at half price—to widows.

ONE of the three Mexicans that were engaged in the robbery of Mr. Lobdell, on the west side of the lake, was captured in Kern county, and is now in the Visalia jail. His name is given as Francisco Romero. The robbers were so hotly pursued by the officers of Kern county that they succeeded in capturing the stolen horses, and the two Mexicans being on foot have been so hotly pressed that their capture may be heard of at almost any moment. They had at last accounts been traced into the Tehachepi mountains, where they murdered a man named Reig, and then made their way to Barrel Springs, a favorite rendezvous of Vasquez and his gang. Mr. Lobdell returned to Visalia, Thursday, with his horses and will immediately commence preparations for the active prosecution of the party captured. P. S.—Later news than the foregoing gives information that the thieves have gone toward Los Angeles, and that one of the officers in pursuit had shot and wounded Santous Sotello. The officer had left his horse behind him, and so was unable to take advantage of the wounded condition of the thief, who was on horseback.—Visalia Delta.

THE MONTEREY TAX DEFALCATION.—A dispatch from Salinas city, dated the 2d, says: The Grand Jury have found three indictments against M. A. Castro, Tax Collector—one for perjury and two for failing to pay over $2,000 and $10,000 respectively. He has given bail in all cases. The case of J. W. Rumsey, Deputy Tax Collector, will come up Monday next for trial. In the cases of M. A. Castro, J. W. R. Parker and W. M. R. Parker, the Grand Jury strongly recommend that they be transferred to the next Grand Jury, that justice may be done the parties charged as well as the community at large. The charge against M. A. Castro, above referred to, is the one for embezzlement found against him in the Justice's Court. The Grand Jury have found 17 true bills and ignored 8. They were discharged this morning at 11 o'clock.

VALLEJO, California, boasts of a Justice of the Peace who runs a Justice Court in one room and a whisky shop in another. The quality of the whisky dispensed is superior to that of the justice, and both are said to be a little crooked.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, MARCH 17.....1877.

GENERAL MENTION.—Returning too late in the week to permit of an extended account of what he saw in our neighboring towns of Lone Pine and Cerro Gordo, our Lokleitems must perforce be content for the present with a mere mention of affairs thereabouts in a general way. In the first named, the all-absorbing topic is the projected irrigating canal, a report of which is given elsewhere. The "Hoodlum" business also receives a due share of attention, but as, after two trials before the local Justice, the case is to be transferred to Independence so as to get the benefit of an unbiased jury, we will forego all statement of facts in relation thereto until an "intelligent jury" shall have passed judgment thereon. A curious outgrowth of the affair—and one at which the general public will not growl by any means—is a remarkable reduction in the selling price of all kinds of general merchandise. In Cerro Gordo the prevailing complaint is a cry of dull times, proceeding from various causes; but the business of the camp progresses steadily enough, under the influence of a regular disbursement of about $30,000 per month by the Union Con. Company. Mention of their mining and smelting operations will be made next week. Of other operations up there on the hill, by pretty much the same old crowd of ancient, gray-headed hoodlums, we will also forego for the present. Meanwhile, should you want to know about it, "ask Uncle Johnny."

A TASK.—Owing to the great altitude of the tunnel wherein John Veil received his hurt, and its inaccessibility at this season of the year, it was a work of the greatest difficulty for medical aid to reach him, and subsequently to carry him down the tremendous steeps and through the snow drifts. Dr. Matthews was eight hours in climbing over the five miles of rugged trail to reach him. Mr. Holt of the Rex Montis, did all that an energetic man could do to overcome the difficulties, in affording the disabled man relief, and to bring him down to better quarters. On Sunday following the accident, which occurred on Friday, it took ten men all day to open the trail and carry him down on a stretcher. After starting down, four men carrying the stretcher at a time, the party reached the mill in two hours and a half, and without accident or serious inconvenience to the wounded man. Then he was transported to the Post in a wagon, which caused the most suffering. The Masons, of which order Veil is a member, aided in the matter fraternally and to some purpose.

CERRO GORDO BRASS BAND. — They have as good and as strong a brass band up at Cerro Gordo now as any country town can boast of; their instruments are of the best, and leadership, too, we should say, since Wm. Hoskin, known to many of our readers, is boss. It is a permanent organization. Following is the roster: Wm. Hoskin, (1) Eb cornet; Jos. Hoskins, J. M. Obando, Lee Abbott, (3) Bb cornets; B. Russell, John Bone, (2) Eb altos; W. E. Goodman, (1) Bb tenor; Richard Reynolds, (1) Bb baritone; F. M. Drake, (1) Bb bass; John Sampson, (1) Eb contra bass; John Hoskin, (1) bass drum—11 pieces.

CHEERING.—"Max," our correspondent at the once famous camp of Bodie, Mono county, gives some facts as to the prospects and operations in that section that will be noted with pleasurable surprise by the old timers and others who have been thinking Bodie was simply one of the numerous "has beens." And in speaking of similar matters relating to the neighboring county of Esmeralda, Nevada, whereof Max knows as well as any one, his observations are no less cheering, if not so surprising because of the facts being more generally known.

VEIL'S CONDITION.—John Veil, the victim of the terrible accident mentioned last week, is at the Post in care of Dr Matthews and is doing quite well, all considered, hoping against hope that he may yet recover his sight at least partially. The eyeballs were not destroyed but so terribly burnt that it is not deemed hardly possible he can ever distinguish light from darkness again by their aid. Contrary to the first report, he will not lose his arm.

UNDER INDICTMENT.—As will be seen in the County Court proceedings elsewhere, Assessor Dillon is held to answer for embezzling county funds while acting in his official capacity. The charge is much worse on its face than in reality. It is manifest that Dillon did not embezzle a single dollar in fact, at least, in the particular transaction for which he is held to answer. The facts will be given after a hearing by the jury is had.

LOS ANGELES BEER.—The bibulous of Independence were treated to a sample keg of Zaun's beer, from the New York brewery, Los Angeles, which aforesaid keg was furnished to THE INDEPENDENT office by that gentleman. Mr. Zaun's "ad." will be found elsewhere, giving rates, etc. The article is pronounced by all to be of A 1 quality.

PRESENT THEM.—Holders of the warrants advertised for payment in this issue should present them at once, and get their coin and put it where it will do some good. After these there are only $2,000 more required to take up the last outstanding warrant on the Expense Fund.

GATHERING THEM IN.—Dr. Matthews has been doing quite a fair business in the way of vaccinating the Indians. Up to the close of last week he had "scratched" upwards of 200.

CROWDED OUT.—An interesting Benton letter received to-day; too late for this week.

THE MAP MAKERS.—We have it that our chronic Inyo-Mono map makers and county seat disposers, have got out their compasses, quadrants and things with which to construct a new map for these two counties and perhaps two or three others down south here at the same time. The plan is a cheap one—merely the reversion of the Big Pine-Bishop Creek section back to Mono and the re-location of a couple of county seats one or both in mining towns as far away from permanent agricultural centers as possible. The object is to make an even division of the permanent rural with the nomadic mining populations so that the officers in both county capitals can always have a reliable juror and tax reserve in case of emergencies. It is eminently a sensible move to thus divide up our wide (?) agricultural domain between mining centers, because thence, in truth, comes the sinews of war, and thence should come dictations for their local management in matters for the public good—no danger of court house rings in mining towns like there is in bucolic county seats where the hatchets that need grinding are always much duller if not so numerous! Oh, no. The big mining incorporations have enough to do to attend to their own affairs without troubling about those of the county, which, no doubt, they will always refer to rural control, assessments and all. Nature designed, as these map makers know by innate reason, that every mining county should have a bucolic fag end for municipal purposes, and this valley fairly divided will give two such each a very fair apology for one. As it will only cost about $50,000, evenly apportioned in taxation (therefore not hard on our map makers), to perfect the new map as outlined let the work go on by all means. We would be the very last to mar its execution if we could, because it bears on its face (also, its back) evidences of such statesmanship and unselfish public policy as to entitle it to real sympathy, same as a deformed calf from a full blood short-horn. Seriously, if we are to have these regular bi-ennial agitations to unbalance individual and public affairs and values, wouldn't it be a far more promising novelty to try to map out distinct mineral and agricultural county lines? If that should be the desire of the former interest the latter would not object, neither does it urge.

AN EXPLANATION.—Some time last year the Trustees of Milton School District levied and collected pursuant to law a district school tax. Much of this was paid in in labor and material for the school house in course of erection, and was probably just as acceptable as the cash. Coming in that shape, however, together with donations in kind, and more particularly through ignornorance of the law's requirements on the part of the Trustees themselves, has been the principal if not the sole cause of putting an unjust stigma upon one of our best citizens and most earnest supporters of schools in the county, C. A. Walters, who has never spared neither his own gratuitous labor or means to forward the school interest in his district. The tax should have been paid into the County Treasury to the credit of the district and paid out on warrants. For the reasons stated it was not so done, and hence came the inquiry by the Grand Jury, which body on examining the Trustees' accounts and vouchers saw that instead of there having been any embezzlement of said funds the account was just the other way, and so dismissed the charge.

HAD A ROUGH TIME.—What with the measles, which carried of nearly half, and exceedingly short rations, Captain Joe Bowers' small band of Indians over at Deep Spring valley have been having a sorry time of it indeed. Lieut. Wotherspoon's relief party was received with manifestations of true gladness. Mrs. Joe herself had become so reduced by starvation she was just on the eve of a final departure for Winnedumeh's kingdom, and would have been there ere this but for the kindly ministrations of Mrs. Beasely who supplied her and the band with necessaries after they removed down to the vicinity of the Beasely ranch. Previously the band had been living at the extreme upper end of the valley, and it was while there that the measles were so fatal. The Lieutenant vaccinated the entire band, thirty-two in number.

MORE OF THE CROOKED.—This morning, Deputy Internal Revenue Collector Childs seized a barrel of liquor he found on a Los Angeles wagon. Prior to the seizure, Deputy Sheriff Gregg collected the county license for selling whisky. Rough on the dealer, to pay for a good license to sell something he is not allowed to sell. Those Los Angeles fellows have a bad habit of sending out crooked whisky—must be getting rich by defrauding the Government.

PATENTED. — United States patents have just been issued, through this Land Office, for the Ygnacio mine at Cerro Gordo, the Hudson River mine in Kern county, and Bullion mine in Bodie, Mono county—and now neither jumpers nor yearly assessments, nor litigants will molest or make their owners afraid any more.

IMPROVING.— Dr. Colleau, County Physician, has added several new rooms to his hospital, enabling him to afford accommodations to a greater number of private patients in addition to those in charge of the county.

NEW HOTEL.—The old Orleans Hotel property, Lone Pine, recently purchased from the Loomis brothers by Mrs. Stewart, is to undergo a complete remodeling and renamed as the Whitney House.

MORE GOODS.—C. & M. Cohn, of Lone Pine, give a brief announcement of the arrival of a large quantity of new goods, which they propose to dispose of at "panic prices."

SEE TO IT.—Parties liable to pay special Internal Revenue taxes had better heed what the advertisement in this issue has to say on the subject.

IMPORTANT letters for Mr. P. F. Mackey at this office. Where are you?

THE NEW SAW-MILL.—Our reporter, anxious for a little respite from his arduous duties of eating three meals per day, stole quietly out of town and hied away o'er the perfumed sagebrush plain where the undaunted jackass alone roameth, and sought out Jim Smith's new saw-mill site. Through Harry Wright's generosity the best saddle at the Taboose was brought into requisition and the ascent commenced. The trail leading to the new location is an easy grade and a horse will pack his rider all the way up without showing any signs of fatigue. It is the only accessible route at present and over it the saw-mill, blacksmith shop, caravansary, ox yokes and all the paraphernalia necessary for the manufacture of sawdust and lumber were "toted" on the backs of mules. The new site is located on the margin of as fine a body of timber as can be found south of Truckee, in quality and abundance. From the mill leading down through a rugged cañon will be constructed a V shaped flume for running down lumber, wood, etc., and at the mouth of which will be the yard; from the yard it is an easy matter to build a splendid wagon road for about one mile to connect with the county road at a place known as Denton's or the sheep ranch. From Independence to the lumber yard it is only about 8½ miles, and the round trip can be easily made in a day. The flume will probably be a little over one mile in length, but it will be so nearly straight that timbers of long lengths can be scooted down, and as it rests on a rock foundation, breaks are not liable to occur. We were pleased with the enterprise and doubt not its success, and from the rapid manner in which a full crew were surveying for water pipes, laying foundations, etc., the saw will revolve by the 1st of April and by the 1st of May the yard will be supplied for the large trade anticipated this season. The beautiful scenery and splendid view obtained from rocky eminences, the delicious fragrance and solitude among the giant pines and firs would seem to make it a more fit retreat for the muses than a lumber factory attended with the blasphemous yells of the bull-whackers and the pitch-pine screech of an ungreased saw. "Ye crags and peaks, I'm with you once again!"—that is what Jim Smith said when he sat down on a rock and emptied the sand out of his boot as we climbed the mountain, and we doubt not but he is with his old time customers, too, when his fine quality of lumber shall have advertised for itself.

THE DEAD MEXICAN.—Last Saturday's Coso News gives the particulars relating to the dead Mexican referred to in these columns as having been found dead some ten miles this side of Darwin, and presumed to have been one of the two engaged in the late robbery. The facts ascertained in a personal investigation by the editor of the News show satisfactorily that he was not one of the robbers, and that there was no reason to suppose that he came to his death by violence, but from an attack of heart disease to which it was shown, he had been subject for years. His name was Cruz Sainz, aged about 53 years, and but recently from Belmont, Nevada, and at the time of his death was out in the hills with his team on a hunting expedition, with other Mexicans. Justice McManus, being notified of the finding of the dead body, simply ordered parties to bring the body to town, which was done. The Justice then took a look at it, and seeing no marks of violence, strangely enough decided that it was not necessary to hold a formal inquest, so no legal investigation was had in relation to the matter at all.

PREPARING FOR BUSINESS.—An organization, with the title of the "Owens River and Lone Pine Irrigation Company," has been effected at Lone Pine for the purpose of carrying out the enterprise indicated by the title, and to which reference has been made in these columns heretofore. The articles of agreement upon which an incorporation is to be effected, name J. G. Dodge, John Lucas, John H. Dodge, W. J. Phillippay and R. Vandyke as the Trustees for the first three months, with full powers to do all that may be necessary to perfect the incorporation and inaugurate the work. The capital stock is $20,000, divided into 4,000 shares at $5 each. The point at which the river is to be tapped, line, size, etc., of the proposed canal remain yet to be definitely fixed. There is no question but this will be a good enterprise for all concerned if put through in proper shape, according to programme, and the indications are that it will be.

MUNICIPAL REPORTS —San Francisco Municipal Reports—for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1876—is the title of quite a little volume mailed to the Supervisors of Inyo county. It is nicely bound, with Inyo County lettered in gold leaf on the cover. Its reports are exhaustive and it contains also numerous architectural cuts, surveys, plans, etc., with a splendid engraving of prominent buildings and a perspective view of the city. It was turned out by the Scientific Press job office.

PERSONAL.—Register Briggs, who has been on a trip to the other side, is expected home early next week.....A. W. Eibeshutz, of Rothschild & Co., who was detained in San Francisco by sickness, is expected home in a few days.....Seth Sneden, of Bishop, was here on a visit during the week.....District Attorney Bennet is off on a trip to Darwin.

TAILORING.—Geo. Davis, the merchant tailor is doing a very satisfactory business in his new shop in May's building, and the new stock just received displays a fine selection of cassimere, doeskin and diagonal ribbed fancy goods, at prices as low, and in some cases lower than in San Francisco.

THE ECLIPSE. — Ten more stamps, making forty in all, were to be in operation at the Eclipse mill this week or in a few days. Two automatic ore feeders have been purchased and will be put in in a short time.

COUNTY COURT.

TUESDAY, March 13.

The People vs. Peter Smith. An indictment having been found by the Grand Jury against Peter Smith, for the crime of grand larceny, the case came up for trial; Judge A. R. Conklin appeared in behalf of the defendant, and the people were represented by District Attorney Bennett. By agreement, time was extended for entering plea until Friday, March 16.

The People vs. James F. Dillon. An indictment having been found by the Grand Jury against County Assessor J. F. Dillon, charging him with the crime of embezzlement, by a public officer being a felony, and a bench warrant having been issued for his arrest upon the order of this Court and returned, served and filed, defendant being present and represented by his counsel A. R. Conklin, Esq. Defendant was duly informed of the charge against him, and through his counsel asked until Wednesday, March 14, to plead to said indictment.

WEDNESDAY, March 14.

S. A. Densmore vs. K. S. Crumley. This case which was appealed from the Justice Court was tried by a jury composed of the following persons: Thos. Boyce, Jo Fernbach, A. Parker, John Broder and O. I. Mairs. P. W. Bennett, Esq., appeared for defendant Crumley, and A. R. Conklin, Esq., for plaintiff Densmore. Case was argued and jury retired and after deliberating some time failed to agree and were discharged.

A CARD.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—We wish, through your columns, to convey some idea of the reward the School Trustees of Miltyn District have received for their diligence in building a school house and untiring efforts to maintain schools.

One or two malicious individuals made complaint to the late Grand Jury that the said Trustees had misappropriated [embezzled] school money of the district. We assert here that the Trustees' books and vouchers clearly showed that the said district was and is still in debt to C. A. Walters, one of said Trustees, in the sum of $34 00.

For ten years Milton School district paid rents for a school building, the rents amounting to a sum sufficient to have built a school house. Thinking that system to be poor economy the present Board resolved upon having a school building that should belong to the district. In this, by taxation and through donations, and great expenditure of their own time and energies, they have been successful, and the district now, through their efforts, has an excellent school house of its own. But a portion of the tax has not been paid in to this day.

But as our terms will soon expire we will then give others a chance to make money by handling the district school funds.

C. A. WALTERS,
JAMES MALONE,
Trustees.

Milton School District, March 15, 1877.

A Remarkable Fact.

We have more than once heard of the wonderful properties of the waters of Deep Spring Valley lake, but, until the present, not with sufficiency of detail to give the story full credence. Lieut. Wotherspoon, Co. D. 12th U. S. Infantry, in command of the relief party for Captain Joe's Indians, passed several days last week in the valley and bears witness to the literal truth of the remarkable phenomena. These are, that at certain times the ducks, which visit the lake in great numbers, become so loaded down with crystalizations of borax, salt, or some similar substance, that they are utterly unable to fly, and while in this condition become an easy prey to the Indians, who wade into the water and pick them up in their hands. In fact, this substance often collects upon the birds' bill in such weight as to actually drag their heads under water and drown them. As asserted by Mr. Beasely and family, who have lived near the lake for years, the ducks are often loaded with several pounds weight of this substance — not less than ten pounds in some instances. During the first stages the crystals are quite evenly disposed over all the birds' feathers above water, sticking them together as firmly as if glued. Then it accumulates in bunches or strings forming drags or rafts with which the bird can swim but slowly, if at all; and if formed from the bill or head, soon causes its death by drowning.

The crystalization always takes place in the night time and entirely disappears after a few hours exposure to the morning sun, or in the fresh water springs on the border of the lake. The conditions necessary to produce the crystals in this manner are no less remarkable. It occurs during the Spring months only, and only on clear nights with a north wind; never on cloudy nights or with the wind from any other quarter than the north. The lake, which is about a mile and a quarter in length and perhaps a mile in width, is not over three feet in depth at the deepest. Strong winds, no matter from what direction, agitate its waters to the bottom, giving them a milky or yellowish cast. If this effect was produced by the dessicating north winds exclusively, it might afford some clue to the cause of the excessive crystalization at such times, but it is not; other winds stir the gases from the bottom quite as much or more than that.

During the Lieutenant's stay in the valley the wind one night was from the north but the sky was overcast; as foretold by Captain Joe, no ducks were caught next morning. The following night the wind was from the same point, but there were no clouds. On such occasions the Indians spend the entire night in singing and in their peculiar incantations, in full faith that they truly insure an abundant harvest of ducks in the early morning. Their faith was fully realized on this occasion, for, before the sun's rays had touched the acrid waters, Captain Joe and his band had caught scores of the hapless birds. There is one part of their incantations in which there is obvious virtue: A detail, each with a torch or firebrand, is stationed in or near the fresh water springs on the edge of the lake, and while singing, dancing and doing other necessary things to propitiate the Great Medicine, at the same time keep the ducks away from the fresh water, where, otherwise they would be perfectly safe from these rafts of crystals. The principal supply of the lake is from two immense and bottomless pools or artesian waters located quite close to its edge. The valley itself is entirely surrounded with high mountains, its soil, and general characteristics being nothing unusual to the country. But the Indians say no other lake within their knowledge ever affects ducks as does this, notwithstanding there are many others whose waters are even more impregnated with salt, borax, etc., in solution, than this appears to be. The Lieutenant brought over a quantity of the crystals, which he will submit for scientific analysis, together with a statement of the effects produced on the birds as here outlined.

The scientists will have something to puzzle their brains for some time we think before they educe a perfectly satisfactory explanation of the phenomena, all the facts considered.

Insect Destroyers.

The swallow, swift and night-hawk are the guardians of the atmosphere. They check the increase of insects that would otherwise overload it. Woodpeckers, creepers and chickadees are the guardians of the trunks of trees. Warblers and fly-catchers protect the foliage, Blackbirds, thrushes, crows and larks protect the surface of the soil. Snipe and woodcock, the soil and under the surface. Each tribe has its respective duties to perform in the economy of nature; and it is an undoubted fact that if the birds were all swept off from the earth, man could not live upon it, vegetation would wither and die, insects would soon become so numerous that no living thing could withstand their attacks. The wholesale destruction occasioned by the grasshoppers, which lately devastated the West, is undoubtedly caused by the thinning out of the birds, such as grouse, prairie-hens, etc., which feed upon them. The great and inestimable service done to the farmer, gardener and florist by the birds, is only becoming known by sad experience. Spare the birds and save your fruit; the little quantities of corn and fruit taken by them is more than compensated by the vast quantities of grubs and insects that they devour, than the little harm they do by the few grains of corn pulled up.

BEAUTIFY YOUR FARM.—It is a great mistake to suppose that money spent in reasonably improving a place is thrown away. It may be doubted whether there is any more direct way of increasing its pecuniary value. Certainly its market value will depend very much upon its outward appearance. Tasteful and well painted buildings, well arranged gardens with neat fences, shade trees properly disposed, good farm fences and cleanly kept fields will set off a farm to gieat advantage, and make an amazing difference when it comes to be sold. And if it be not sold these things will add wonderfully to the enjoyment of its possessor, if he be not blind to everything but the dollar. Every man, too, owes it to the community in whioh he is living, to contribute to the general reputation and public enjoyment by making his surroundings as attractive as possible. A measure of time and expense should be devoted by every one to the making his farm and his home more beautiful year by year.

DRILLING WHEAT.—When a man tells me he is not able to buy a drill, I give him this illustration: Mr. A. puts in 10 acres of wheat every year. Three years ago he bought a drill of me. Before that he sowed two and a half bushels to the acre; since, he has used but one bushel and a half per acre. Thus in three years he has saved, on seed alone, 30 bushels; calling it $1 per bushel, a very moderate estimate, he has saved $30. He has secured a much better yield by drilling. The first year he put his gain over broadcast sowing at 25 bushels; the second year, 30 bushels, and this year, 10 bushels. He gets these figures by comparing his present crops by past ones, and with his neighbors' crops that were sown broadcast. Here is a gain in three years of $65. Adding to this $30 saved in seed, and we have $95 gain in three years—$15 more than the drill cost him, and it is good for twenty years' work. Don't that pay?—Cor. Ohio Farmer.

CELERY AS A NERVINE.—No succulent is placed on the family board more generally acceptable than celery. In salads it is particularly acceptable; extensively as it has been used, it is doubtful if many people conceded to it curative virtues; it has been said that men, and women too, who, from various causes had become so much afflicted with nervousness that when they stretched out their hands they shook like leaves on windy days; and by a daily moderate use of the blanched foot stalks of the celery leaves as a salad, they become as strong as other people; it is said that it is good for palpitation of the heart. —Hall's Land Journal.

CURE FOR CATARRH.—Five parts of carbolic acid, six of aqua ammonia, ten of distilled water and fifteen of alcohol, mixed together in a wide-mouthed bottle half filled with cotton or asbestos, and snuffed up from time to time from the bottle. The prescription can be inhaled through the mouth, as well as through the nose, by pouring a few drops on porous paper, and holding it in the hollow of the hand before the face with eyes closed.

"Well, my dear," said our good pastor, at Sunday school, to a tow-headed urchin, "I am glad to hear you are getting to be a better boy." "Why, sir," said little Joe, looking up with a grave earnestness, "gosh, I ain't been sick."

She said it was a very bright idea. He said he knew a brighter one, and when she asked him what it was, he answered, "Your eye, dear." There was silence for a moment, then she laid her head on the rim of his ear and wept.

TO OBTAIN A GOOD NIGHT'S SLEEP. Sponge the entire length of the spine with hot water for 10 or 15 minutes; this will reduce the circulation, quiet the nervous system and induce sleep better than any drug.

EXCELLENT EYE WASH.—Three or five grains of alum dissolved in half a pint of water, and applied to the eyes whenever they are weak or inflamed.

Lady to waiter: "Don't put that ice into the goblet with your fingers." Waiter: "Lor, ma'am, I dont mind. My hands are very warm."

In Africa a breed of sober-minded dogs without tails has been discovered. There isn't a wag among them.

It is said the loss of stock in Texas from snow and cold will amount to millions of dollars.

PROPOSALS FOR THE CARE OF THE INDIGENT SICK OF INYO COUNTY.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT SEALED proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of said county, at the office of the County Clerk, until 12 o'clock M. of Monday, the 26th day of March, 1877, to contract for the care of said indigent sick, for the term of one year, from May 1st, 1877, to May 1st, 1878.

Said bids to designate the amount for which parties contracting will care for said indigent sick, on the basis of an average of four (4) patients each day throughout the year, and to include all medicines, medical attendance, nursing, board and lodging and washing; and said medical attendance to be given by a physician having the qualifications prescribed by law; said bids to include the burial and funeral expenses of any indigent sick person or persons who may die while under such care. Said contractor to care for all the indigent sick of said county properly admitted to the contractor's care; and said bids to designate the price per head at which all excess of patients over the average of four each day throughout the year will be cared for; said excess of patients to be paid for by extra allowance upon presentation of bills duly sworn to, at the regular meetings of said Board. The person or persons to whom such contract may be awarded, shall give a good and sufficient bond in double the amount of such contract price for the faithful performance of said contract.

The care and management of said indigent sick by such contractor shall be at any and all times subject to the inspection of said Board of Supervisors, or any member thereof, or by any person appointed by said Board for such purpose.

Said proposals must be indorsed, "Proposals for the Care of the Indigent Sick;" and the same will be opened between the hours of 1 o'clock and 4 o'clock P. M. of said 26th day of March, 1877; and the right is reserved by said Board to reject any or all bids.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

BY VIRTUE OF AN EXECUTION ISSUED OUT of the District Court of the Seventeenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Los Angeles, in the suit of J. G. Harwood, plaintiff, against Cerro Gordo Water and Mining Company, defendant, upon a judgment rendered in said Court on the 5th day of February, A. D. 1877, for the sum of $1,447 97-100 in gold coin of the United States, besides costs amounting to the sum of $10 10-100, duly attested the 8th day of February, A. D. 1877, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of $1,458 07-100 in gold coin of the United States, besides accruing costs and interest, I have levied upon all the right, title and interest of the said defendant in and to the following described real property, to-wit:

That certain piece or parcel of land, situated, lying and being about one-fourth of a mile northwest of the town of Cerro Gordo, in the county of Inyo, State of California, upon which is erected the water-tanks and dwelling house belonging to the Cerro Gordo Water and Mining Company, together with all the improvements thereon erected and all the appurtenances thereunto belonging, with the house and water-tanks erected on said piece or parcel of land. Also, that certain town lot in the town of Cerro Gordo, county of Inyo, State of California, upon which is erected the stable and cabin belonging to the Cerro Gordo Water and Mining Company, together with all the buildings and improvements thereon erected and the appurtenances thereunto belonging. Also, about twelve miles of water ditch and pipes, together with the pumps, boilers, machinery and all the appurtenances belonging to or in anywise appertaining to said water ditch and pipes—all of which is situated in the county of Inyo, State of California, and known as the property of the Cerro Gordo Water and Mining Company.

Notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 24th day of March, A. D. 1877, between the hours of 9 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M., to-wit: at the hour of 1 o'clock P. M. of that day, in front of the Court House, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, I will sell all the right, title and interest of the said defendant, the Cerro Gordo Water and Mining Company, in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy said judgment and all costs, at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, for cash in hand in gold coin of the United States.

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State California, in and for the County of Inyo. Ellen E. Matlack, plaintiff, against Alexander C. Matlack, defendant. Action brought in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and the complaint filed in said county of Inyo, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to Alexander C. Matlack, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and to answer a complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within the county; or, if served out of this county, but in this district, within twenty days; otherwise, within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a judgment and decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony existing between said plaintiff and said defendant, and for the custody of the minor children, issue of their said marriage, as does more fully appear from said plaintiff's complaint, to which reference is hereby made.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Hon. Court for the relief prayed for in said complaint on file herein.

Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, this fifth day of September in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

[SEAL] W. B. DAUGHERTY,

PROBATE NOTICE.

IN THE PROBATE COURT OF THE STATE OF California, in and for the County of Inyo. In the matter of the Estate of J. W. Allyn, deceased. It appearing to the Judge of said Court, by the petition this day presented and filed by A. Wayland, the Administrator of the estate of J. W. Allyn, deceased, praying for an order of sale of real estate that it is necessary to sell the whole of the real estate to pay the debts outstanding against the deceased and the debts, expenses and charges of the administration; it is therefore ordered, by the Judge of said Court, that all persons interested in the said estate of said deceased appear before the said Probate Court on Wednesday, the 11th day of April, A. D. 1877, at 10 o'clock A. M. of said day, at the Court Room of said Probate Court, at the town of Independence, Inyo county, State of California, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the said Administrator to sell all of the real estate of said deceased, as shall be necessary.

And that a copy of this order be published at least four successive weeks in THE INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper printed and published in said county.

PIUTE ADRIFT.

CHAPTER XXIV—AMONG THE MORMONS.

MESSRS. EDITORS—For several months Piute has been imitating the gyratory movements of a grasshopper—hopping from one corn field to another. The other day he suddenly dropped in on an INYO INDEPENDENT wherein he discovered the statement that "Cache Valley was 500 miles long;" 50, if you please. He wondered why the "devil" didn't make it 5,000, and extend it beyond the North Pole. A cipher is naught: so the much worried newspaper man, being used to discrepancies, never considers an exaggerated naught very naughty. However, should a wayward correspondent have a word to say on Judgment Day in the next world he would earnestly implore the Court, when pronouncing sentence for documentary crookedness, to impose at least one-half his allotted punishment upon the printer.

Piute is still a good Mormon. A great many of his dusky brethren join the church at present. This wonderful conversion and baptism of the Lamanites (Indians) fulfills the prophecy. We are now assured by later "Profits" that the dawn of the millenium is at hand—coming. Those beloved Lamanites are not supposed to give any intelligent reason for joining our church, no more than the millions of pale faces who join this and other churches. But we are expected to sustain the priesthood; love Bro. Brigham and the Bishops; pay tithing and other church dues, ask no questions, and "be saved." That's all. Easy enough for any non compos mentis. Piute being fickle minded, was led estray the other Sunday, and strolled to the Liberal Institute in Salt Lake City. This large hall was crowded with "cussed Gentiles," and Mormon apostates, who gave vent to their feelings and expressed views strangely antagonistic to the Mormon faith. They met that Sunday in said Liberal Institute to participate in the memorial service to the memory of the late Amasa M. Lyman, who had been one of the Twelve Apostles; but several years ago Mr. Lyman renounced Mormonism, became more liberal in his views. A few months ago this once distinguished Mormon died, and as a tribute of respect and affection for his memory, several of the leading merchants of Salt Lake City delivered eloquent eulogies. The speakers were H. W. Lawrence, E. L. T. Harrison, W. S. Godbe and others, all of whom had once been prominent Mormons.

With your kind permission, Messrs. Eds., here are a few brief extracts from their speeches, which may be interesting to your readers in contradistinction to our Mormon creed.

Mr. Harrison said: "It might be a matter of surprise to some that Mr. Lyman should ever have joined the Mormon church, but when he did so it was a highly charged reservoir of spiritual sentiment, universalism, philisophical and charitable. It believed in present revelations, it is true, but it was revelations open, like the rays of the sun, to all, and filtered through no priestly brain. Principles such as these had enlisted Mr. Lyman's sympathies and labors for over thirty years." Referring to Mr. Lyman's denial of the doctrine of atonement, Mr. Harrison said that as far back as eighteen years, he had discovered that Amasa Lyman was thinking beyond his creed, and running into danger. He had been incautious enough in later years to state that he believed more in a Saviour who saved by his example, and his high moral principles, than he did in one who saved by his death. Brigham ordered him to recant, but he refused. In consequence he was excommunicated from the priesthood, and was insultingly told to "go home, close his mouth, and dig for his bread."

From that time Mr. Lyman was made to feel the bitterness of Brigham Young's displeasure, but he continued to devote himself wholly to the cause of Utah's emancipation. The speaker closed by saying that in Mr. Lyman's later years, it had been his pride to say that he once believed in a religious system which claimed to be the special favorite of heaven but now belonged to the great church of humanity, which was co-extensive with all human souls under the sun; a church which acknowledged no partisan God; a church was yearly sending up its millions into that great reservoir of life—the immortal spirit world. There, where the combined intelligence of all ages, nations, climes and tongues are found. There, where the garnered wisdom of many thousand years sheds its light upon the student of eternal science.

"In this higher department of the church of humanity, Amasa Lyman humbly stands to-day—within the entering portals of that infinite domain. He will find no priesthood there, such as men talk about in this world, but he will find a priesthood of intellect and of morals. Its apostles are the higher priests of science and art; the revolutionists of thought; the reformers and the patriots of the ages."

Mr. W. S. Godbe said that Amasa Lyman, from his boyhood, was a leading apostle of Mormonism, not of the despotic system that to-day holds the people of Utah in its iron grasp, but of the religion full of life and freshness, and fraught with blessedness for all nations; a Mormonism that was spiritually progressive and breathed a spirit of fraternity that touched the hearts and fed the souls of thousands.

Mr. Eli B. Kelsey said that for himself he was not ashamed of having been a Mormon. He had separated from the Mormon church because he found that under the impress of Brigham Young all that was grand and life-giving in the system had been crushed out of it, and it had been degraded into an unmitigated priestly despotism.

The old saying that "the agitation of thought was the beginning of wisdom," had proven true in his case. But in order to think freely and fully he had found it necessary to tear down every creed and barrier in the way of his investigations. * * It appeared to him that there were certain classes who would need for thousands of years to come a devil with a barbed fork, backed up by a brimstone lake. Aided on the other hand by their conceptions of a good God provided with a never failing sugar-teat as a reward for good behavior. The ranks of those who need no such incentives to virtue were rapidly increasing. Priestcraft should perish, bigotry sheath its knife, and error hide its hoary head in shame.

Exquisite melody was rendered, and especially, "Where the roses never wither." TINNAMUCKAHEE.

A Woman Still.

A young woman, with draggled dress and a flushed face, with her hair loose over her shoulders and a hard look in her eyes, followed a burly officer into the Central station just as the clock was on the stroke of midnight.

"What's the matter here?" queried the Lieutenant, as the ill-mated couple came trooping in.

"Same old charge," said the officer; "she's been raising Cain around the hay market."

"You bet your boots I have," said the girl, with a hoarse laugh that showed there was whisky behind it, "I just give them as they sent."

They were leading her into the recording room, when she stopped at the door opening into the Captain's office.

"Whose kid is that," she asked.

"That? Oh, one that was picked up on the street—lost by somebody."

"Lost, is he. Well, I've found him. Let me alone, will you!"

She pulled away from the officer, and in a moment was on the lounge with the child in her arms, the painted cheek pressed close to the tear stains left on the little fellows face when he had cried himself to sleep. Her hair hung in a veil before them, and hid the guilty and innocent alike from sight.

"I had one like you once," she murmured, after the hush of a moment, "but he died. That was so long ago that I thought I had forgotten it—there has been so much happening since—so much I wish to God had never happened!"

A moment later she looked up—as sober as a mother by the hearthstone.

"May I take him in the cell with me?" she asked in a low and gentle voice.

They said she might, and the poor, forsaken woman sat down on the stone bench with the sleeping child held close to her bosom. The tears that fell from her eyes were as balm to her bruised heart, and the little one lifted her soul to purer hights than it had known for many, many weary days in the past. —Cleveland Leader.

"THEY must have a very feeble constitution in Congress," said Mrs. Partington, "if they haven't got power enough among 'em to count a few votes. Why, Isaac would do it in five minutes by simple admonition."

"THAT is the only wedding trip I shall probably ever take," said an old bachelor, as he stumbled over a bride's train.

The Marshal de Richelieu.

Taine, in his Ancien Régime, makes frequent allusions to the Marshal de Richelieu, who, indeed, in any study of the eighteenth century—so fully does he personify it—can scarcely be ignored. One of the least balanced and most notorious characters in French history, he played, without any extraordinary ability, so prominent a part in important events that it is impossible to separate them from him, or him from them. He was a man particularly qualified to confound moral theories, and to italicize the most ironical passages in the interminable volumes of Fortune. Possessed of unquestionable talent for many things, and garnished with a number of showy virtues, he seems to have rejoiced in abusing the one and contradicting the other. Looked at from one side, he was a fearless soldier, a clever statesman, a generous friend, an accomplished gentleman, a brilliant wit; looked at from the other side, he was a skulking fellow, a political blunderer, an embodiment of perfidy, a heartless profligate, a trifling egotist. All opposites appear to have centered in him. Hero and knave, leader and fawner, inspirer and betrayer, prince and pander, academician and ignoramus, he was a glittering ambiguity whose acts contravened his words, and whose words misinterpreted his acts. Certain parts of his life read like Bourdaloue, Pascal, or Bossuet; certain other parts like the poems of Dorat, the romances of Laclos, or the fables of Grécourt.

From the very first, Richelieu's career was a splendid satire on the fitness of things—a remarkable violation of all rational probabilities. Where he failed, he should have succeeded. He seems not to have paid the penalty usually exacted by offended Nature or outraged Justice. His days flowed on as smoothly and shiningly when he was guilty of baseness and supreme turpitude, as when he crowned himself with laurels, and merited, in this instance, genuine esteem. Fortune clung to him and caressed him when he had forfeited every right to her favor. No wonder he spoke of her as a woman who, having loved him once, loved him still, and whose devotion he could not tire by continued disloyalty and shameful misbehavior. He literally received according to undeserving. His career, a varied and pictorial record of happy accidents and inverted ethics, arrests attention by its memorable peculiarity and its representative character. He belonged essentially to his age, and his age belonged essentially to him: they informed and moulded one another. He expressed the elegant frivolity of his time, its fondness for intrigue, its unscrupulous gallantry, its mocking temper, its unflagging gayety, its moral skepticism, and all the polished and perfumed dissipation which enabled it, by the last refining upon social art, to restrain if not subjugate the natural instinct.—Appleton's Journal for April.

A Temperance Lecture.

The Sacramento Bee says that Calvin B. McDonald is an inmate of the Sierra County Almshouse. Twenty years ago this man McDonald was esteemed one of the most brilliant men in California. He bore the esteem and good will of all classes of society. He was married to a beautiful and brilliant woman, and all the wonderful opportunities of the California of old—the Golden Land—seemed within his grasp. He had but one enemy in the world, and that was in his own breast. He loved strong drink. He could not resist this enemy. It took from him his reputation, his home, his wife, his pride and his self-respect. Long ago he published a brilhant little paper in Downieville. Scrapbooks all over the coast still contain the pen-pictures that he painted in its columns.

Now, after trying the great world and proving himself a failure, as though the spells which the hills and the pines of old wrought upon him, he has found his way back to the spot where, long ago, he was a favorite, and where his early literary triumphs were recorded, and has become a pensioner upon the people. It is a pitiable case, but not an uncommon one. This whole coast is strewn with these wrecks. We meet them every day. Still young in years, but trembling, blear-eyed, lost. They still tell of their hopes, but we know they no longer believe themselves. They tell of the boisterous old days, and yet, while they speak, we know they loathe the dreadful memory, for it brings back the memory of wasted youth, and the ghosts of dead self-promises rise up to reproach them. They shudderingly turn from the apparitions which their own souls awaken, and what was and is their bane is their only comforter, for that will bring forgetfulness for a little while at least. These are the wrecks that are lett. Of the countless thousands who have been cut down in their prime by this destroyer, who has kept the record? They are in every burial place on the coast in dozens and hundreds. We pity them alive and dead, but the injury does not stop with them. It extends to their homes, to their wives and children, and the heaviest burdens ever borne back from this coast to friends in the East have been the stories of reproach and sorrow and shame that loved ones here have perpetrated upon loved ones far away through this one vice of drinking. It comes to men with promises and smiles; it leaves them only despair, decrepitude and shame.—Virginia Enterprise.

J. E. PARKER. P. A. CHALFANT.

SATURDAY, MARCH 31.....1877.

DOES NOT LOOK WELL.—According to statements published in the Los Angeles Express Congressman Wigginton is engaged in a very dirty transaction in reference to filling the vacancy in the West Point cadetship, which he is entitled to fill for this Congressional district. He gave due notice that he would nominate the candidate passing the best examination before the Commission appointed for the purpose. There were four competitors examined whose respective average percentages in the several required studies were: Hicks, 85; Little, 52; Peck, 91; Mosher, 44. The Commission, for some unknown reason, reported in favor of this boy who got but 44, the lowest on the on the entire list, and not half as high as the two highest. To be in keeping with the Commission, Wigginton didn't appoint Mr. Mosher with his 44, nor Peck with his 91, but gave it to Hicks with his 85, and, as alleged, for no other reason than that the latter happened to be the son of the County Clerk of Merced, Wigginton's own county, and backed by a political influence our Congressman was not in a position to ignore. The paper above referred to says: "We confess that the whole thing has a mysterious aspect to us. Why was Mosher declared the best boy with only 44 marks? And if he was put aside, how does it come that Hicks was switched in to the exclusion of Peck, with his 91 innings?"

THE VERY FASTEST.—A friend, who is well posted in such matters, furnishes us the following as the fastest race-horse time recorded in any portion of the world up to December 30, 1876, for a race less than a mile: "On the 25th of July, 1874, in a running race of half a mile at Saratoga, Olitipa, a two-year old, carrying 97 pounds, went through in 47¾ seconds." There used to be a horse in this State of considerable local celebrity, known as "Hudspeth's Colt," which ran a quarter of a mile, it was claimed, in 21½ seconds; but there is no authenticated record of any such remarkable performance, and we are not obliged to believe it if not so inclined. As many old sporting Californians, however, know to their sorrow, that "Colt" was what they would designate as a "lightning striker." Sometime in 1853 or thereabouts this horse was painted up and rung in on the Stockton sports in a half mile race against the Stockton favorite. No note was made of the time made, notwithstanding many thousands of dollars were staked on the issue. Result: The Stocktonites were ruined; the "Colt" kept right on from the end of the track and forever disappeared from California view.

THE opening paper in Appleton's Journal for April is on the Austrian Arctic Expedition, derived from Julius Payer's "New Lands within the Arctic Circle." The article is illustrated with fifteen excellent engravings, depicting the scenes and incidents of the expedition. The other articles of the number are of notable variety: an excellent short story of New York life, by Thos. Dunn English; one by the late young Albert F. Webster, the last production from his pen, bearing the title of "The Owner of Lara;" a third, entitled "The Nest," a Russian Easter story. There is an entertaining sketch under the title of "A Hero of the Old Régime," which describes the remarkable career of the Marshal de Richelieu, an extract from which will be found on the first page of this issue of THE INDEPENDENT; a paper by Geo. C. Eggleston, on "Phases of Russian Life," giving many interesting facts, and a continuation of the very attractive story of "Cherry Ripe," and many other good things in keeping with the high literary character of this beautiful monthly.

IT is stated in Washington dispatches of the 20th that the Interior Department will immediately issue an important order providing for the better protection of timber on the public domain. The present system of intrusting its care and detection of depredators to local land officers will be abolished, and the Department will send out specially qualified agents to detect and report to the Department of Justice for the prompt punishment of all persons cutting timber on public lands without authority of the Government.

BRIGHAM YOUNG has telegraphed to the New York Herald denying all complicity in the Mountain Meadows massacre. Certainly. That settles it.

THE partisans of Diaz in Mexico are said to be rapidly deserting his standard, and there is talk of recalling Lerdo.

THE health of the Pope is improving, but he has lost the use of his legs and has to be carried about in a chair.

JUSTICE AT LAST.

On the 23d instant John D. Lee, the Mormon butcher in chief, met a most richly deserved death at the hands of Justice. He was led out and shot to death like a dog on the very spot where, twenty-three years before, he had directed and with his own hands aided in the most dastardly outrage that has ever cursed American soil—not that the number of the victims, many as there were, have not been equalled in other butcheries of innocents, but never at the hands of so-called civilized beings in the interest of religion, nor never at any time, or by any hands, savage or civilized, under such circumstances of such utter brutality and cowardly bad faith. In those particulars the murder of that brave band of starving emigrants, one hundred and thirty-four unsuspecting men, women and children, has no parallel in the history of this continent since Cortez did similar murders in the name of civilization, or of religion. "Men," says the elaborate account we find in the Record-Union, "that had proved themselves fiends, had yet to prove themselves brutes. Two years ago the writer of this heard the whole story of what transpired." [When Lee and an Indian cut the throats of two young girls behind some bushes whither they had fled]. "Their pure young bosoms could not quiver 'neath the plunge of the cold steel blade, nor their white throats crimson before the knife's keen edge until they had suffered the torments of a thousand deaths at the hands of their brutal captors. Sick women too ill to leave the corral were driven to the scene of slaughter, butchered and stripped. Lee is said to have shot a young girl who was clinging to his son. Jim Pearce was shot by his own father while trying to protect a young girl kneeling at his feet." There yet lives in a Mormon town one George Adair who laughs and compels his hearers to laugh as he imitates again and again the fluffy sound of crushing bones and half ejaculated cries of mortal pain and terror he himself had caused while crushing the skulls of those babes and children against wagon wheels. And near at hand still live many others who at the same did other things in kind to "build up Zion!" And above all still lives the arch fiend of all, Brigham Young, who, all his protestations to the contrary notwithstanding and without shadow of reasonable question, authorized these creatures to go forth and slay and despoil in the name of "the Lord's chosen people," and thereby secure their own "celestial reward!" This same Brigham yet revels in the possessions of those murdered people; so does Delegate Hooper, sitting in the Halls of Congress. Brigham still lives to betray to death the henchman who but did his bidding, and that his own polluted carcase may yet awhile offend the air. Does the few drops of black blood from the heart of his creature, Lee, stifle the cry for justice against him that rises from that blood-dyed valley? In so far as the black blood of this one murderer will obliterate the crimson stain from six score of his human victims that far and no further is that cry answered, or ever can be while yet lives the man who ordered the black deed, then to say: "John, I feel first rate; I asked the Lord if it was all right for that deed to be done, to take away the vision of the deed from my mind, and the Lord did so, and I feel first rate!" And "John" was shot to death for doing what the Lord said was all right, yet the Lord's lightnings hold John's adviser scatheless!

With the Mormon religion per se we have no quarrel, save and except in regard to those prominent and offensive features it is continually thrusting in the face of liberty, equal rights, and the moral and statutory laws of the land and of the age. With these trifling (?) exceptions it may be, and probably is so far as we know or care, as good and as well founded, as many others by which mankind are being carried over the shortest through line to heaven. It is with these we have to do, also the leading frauds who are responsible for them, and the absolute enslavement beyond the rights of simple religious freedom of the thousands of infatuated beings in their hands, whom they teach to kill and rob that they themselves may live and prosper. Without doubt many of those murderers struck what they thought to be a righteous blow for the Lord's sake; no doubt, that all, Lee included, did so because they well knew the fearful penalty their disobedience would entail upon themselves. Said one of these fanatical wretches as he deliberately shot two men: "Lord, my God, receive their spirits, for it is for the Kingdom of Heaven's sake we do this!"

What a blessing is an absolutely free government! Still more, what a blessing for us all the order of India Thugs did not find a home in our free country which would also have guaranteed them full rights to exercise conscientious belief as it does to such as did this wholesale murder for a "celestial reward," as taught them by their priesthood. True, as individuals, they would have been held liable to punishment; as a body or order, never. England, less free, we assume, struck the order itself from existence, priesthood and all. The Thug did dark murders, not from malice or for lucre, but in a religious belief that each victim raised him a step higher in his promised heaven: precisely the same incentive Brigham Young held out to Lee and his band of Thugs—a celestial reward for innocent blood they were to shed. Such teachings and deeds are blacker than the blackest or the Thugs inasmuch as the latter took life for the reward they expected for blood only, while this newer and more enlightened order slew for filthy lucre's sake as well.

The Desert Land Law—Department Instructions to Local Land Offices.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., March 12, 1877.

Register and Receiver, U. S. Land Office: GENTLEMEN—The following is the text of an Act of Congress approved March 3, 1877, and entitled "An Act to provide for the sale of desert lands in certain States and Territories:"

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That it shall be lawful for any citizen of the United States, or any person of requisite age "who may be entitled to become a citizen, and who has filed his declaration to become such," and upon payment of twenty-five cents per acre, to file a declaration, under oath with the Register and the Receiver of the land district in which any desert land is situated, that he intends to reclaim a tract of desert land, not exceeding one section, by conducting water upon the same within the period of three years thereafter: provided, however, that the right to the use of water by the person so conducting the same on or to any tract of desert land of six hundred and forty acres shall depend upon bona fide prior appropriation; and such right shall not exceed the amount of water actually appropriated and necessarily used for the purpose of irrigation and reclamation; and all surplus water over and above such actual appropriation and use; together with the waters of all lakes, rivers, and other sources of water supply upon the public lands and not navigable, shall remain and be held free for the appropriation and use of the public for irrigation, mining and manufacturing purposes subject to existing rights. Said declaration shall describe particularly said section of land if surveyed, and if unsurveyed shall describe the same as nearly as possible without a survey. At any time within the period of three years after filing said declaration, upon making satisfactory proof to the Register and Receiver of the reclamation of said tract of land in the manner aforesaid, and upon the payment to the Receiver of the additional sum of one dollar per acre for a tract of land not exceeding six hundred and forty acres to any one person, a patent for the same shall be issued to him: provided, that no person shall be permitted to enter more than one tract of land, and not to exceed six hundred and forty acres, which shall be in compact form.

SECTION 2. That all lands exclusive of timber lands and mineral lands which will not, without irrigation, produce some agricultural crop, shall be deemed desert lands within the meaning of this act, which fact shall be ascertained by proof of two or more credible witnesses under oath, whose affidavits shall be filed in the land office in which said tract of land may be situated.

SECTION 2. That this act shall only apply to and take effect in the States of the States of California, Oregon and Nevada, and the Territories of Washington, Idaho, Montana, Utah, Wyoming, Arizona, New Mexico and Dakota, and the determination of what may be considered desert land shall be subject to the decision and regulation of the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

The declaration specified in the first section of the act to be filed with the Register and Receiver must be under oath, and may be executed before either the Register or Receiver, or the clerk of any court of record having a seal. It must set forth that the applicant is a citizen of the United States, or that he has declared his intention to become such, in which case a duly-certified copy of his declaration of intentions to become a citizen must be presented and filed. It must also be set up that the applicant has made no other declaration for desert lands under the provisions of this act, and that he intends to reclaim the tract of land applied, not exceeding one section, by conducting water thereon within three years from the date of his declaration. The declaration must also contain a description of the land applied for, by legal subdivisions if surveyed, or, if unsurveyed, as nearly as possible without a survey by giving with as much clearness and precision as possible the locality of the tract with reference to known and conspicuous landmarks or the established lines of survey, so as to admit of its being thereafter readily identified when the lines of survey come to be extended.

As preliminary to the filing of such declaration, it must be satisfactorily shown that the land therein described is desert land as defined in the second section of the act. To this end you will require the testimony of at least two disinterested and creditable witnesses, whose testimony you will reduce to writing in the usual manner: or the evidence may be furnished in the form of affidavits executed before the clerk of any court of record having a seal, the credibility of the witnesses to be certified by said clerk. The witnesses must clearly state their acquaintance with the premises, and the facts as to the condition and situation of the land upon which they base their judgment. You are particularly enjoined to exercise great care as to the sufficiency of the proof upon this point in each case. After this proof has been made to your satisfaction, the Receiver will receive from the applicant the sum of twenty-five cents per acre for the land applied for; the Register will receive and file his declaration, and you will jointly issue, in duplicate, a certificate in the following form:

No. — UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,

It is hereby certified that under the provisions of the Act of Congress approved March 3, 1877, entitled "An Act to provide for the sale of desert lands in certain States and Territories," ——— ——— has this day filed in this Office his declaration of intentions to reclaim the following described tract of land, viz: ——— that he has proven to our satisfaction that the said tract of land is desert land as defined in the second section of said act, and that he has paid to the Receiver the sum of———dollars, being at the rate of twenty-five cents per acre for the land above described.

It is, therefore, further certified, that if within three years from the date hereof the said ——— ———, or his assignee or legal representative, shall satisfactorily prove that the said land has been reclaimed by carrying water thereon, and shall pay to the Receiver the additional sum of one dollar per acre for the land above described, he or they shall be entitled to receive a patent therefor under the provisions of the said act.

——— ———, Receiver.

You will deliver one copy of this certificate to the applicant, retaining the other copy with the declaration and proof. You will number the certificates in the order of their issue. The Register will keep a record of the certificates issued, showing the number, date, amount paid, name of applicant, and description of land applied for in each case, and, in addition, he will note the same upon his plats and records as in cases of ordinary entry. At the end of each month he will, with his regular returns, forward to this Office an abstract of the declarations filed and certificates issued under this act during the month, accompanying the same with the declarations and proofs filed and the retained copy of certificate in each case. The Receiver will also account for the money received under this act in the usual form. At any time within three years after the date of filing the declaration and the issue of certificate the proper party may make satisfactory proof of having conducted water upon the land applied for. This proof must consist of the testimony of at least two disinterested and credible witnesses, who must appear in person before the Register and Receiver. They must declare that they have personal knowledge of the condition of the land applied for, and of the facts to which they testify; and their testimony must be reduced to writing in the usual manner. You will also require the party to present and surrender the duplicate certificate issued when the declaration was filed. When this is done, and the final proof made to your satisfaction, the Receiver will receive the additional payment of one dollar per acre, receipting therefor in duplicate in the usual manner, but indorsing upon the face of the receipt a reference to this act. The Register will also issue a final certificate of purchase in the ordinary form of cash certificates, indorsing also upon the face of this certificate a reference to this act. You will give to these final certificates and receipts a special series of numbers, and will make separate abstracts of same at the end of each month, sending up the final certificates, receipts and proofs as in cases of ordinary pre-emption entries.

In cases where declarations shall be filed under this act for unsurveyed lands, you will immediately forward copies of the declarations to the Surveyor General.

You will acknowledge receipt of this Circular. Very respectfully,

J. A. WILLIAMS,
Commissioner.

Decisions of Interest to Miners.

The Secretary of the Interior has recently made some mining decisions, of which the Scientific Press the following astract:

In the absence of fraud, an application of two or more joint owners of the claim is valid.

The act of an attorney in the legitimate prosecution and adjudication of cases is the act of the claimant himself.

Commissioner's decisions, that no necessity exists for his further suspension of proceedings, by reason of abandonment of surface ground concerning which adverse claim was filed and suit commenced, overruled; held, that as surface ground may be only an incident of the suit, to issue the patent would be an evasion of the law, which directs that the case be finally adjudicated in the Courts, or the adverse claim waived.

A second suit, begun after expiration of publication, cannot bar issue of patent.

The title being contested, Commissioner's suspension of application until the applicant establishes a right of possession, approved.

An appeal from Commissioner to Secretary can be taken only by a contestant—who files an adverse claim. Such an appeal cannot be taken by a protestant—who did not file an adverse claim, but who objects to the grant of a patent. Case of McGarrahan vs. Boston quicksilver mine cited and approved.

Confession of judgment by defendant in the suit (who is applicant for patent), ends the suit. The applicant then may abandon surface ground in dispute and receive patent for all that part of the mine to which he is legally entitled.

THE Board of Army Engineers ordered to examine the Washington monument foundation have ordered work on the monument to cease. The foundation has already settled 8¾ inches and will admit of no more weight. This confirms the report of Supervising Architect Mullet.

THE Virginia Consolidated Mining Company has levied an assessment of six cents per share. Don't tremble, boys. This is not our bonanza mine, but one situated in Kearsarge district, Inyo county, Cal.—Carson Tribune.

Just you never mind, partner. That six cents per share will defray the expenses of procuring United States patents to several of the mines of the Virginia Con. Company—a kind of title not at present attached to the Con. Virginia; here the ghost of Sutro stalks not abroad. The name ante-dates your bonanza anyhow.

WE stated last week that V. A. Gregg, Esq., had been admitted to practice in the District Court. We should have said that he had been enrolled as an attorney of the Court, or something of that sort. Mr. Gregg is an attorney of several years' experience and of high standing. He has been located at Independence, Inyo county, but we are pleased to learn that he seriously contemplates locating among us.—Sumner Gazette, March 24.

FULL.—The Aurora stage leaves three times a week loaded down with passengers and express matter. There must be a good many idle men in Esmeralda.—Carson Tribune.

MINING ON THE HILL.—Aside from the operations on the Union Con. mines at Cerro Gordo, there has for a long time been but little work prosecuted upon many of the other prominent mines at that point, for the obvious reason "there is nothing in it." The miner's only show of realizing on the ore produced is through sale to the only party now operating reduction works on Cerro Gordo ores—the Union Company; and it is authentically stated that the charges for reduction at the furnace, or rather the price paid for ore per ton, amounts to exactly one-half its assay value in all cases—whether that be $40 per ton or $400. Throughout the district, however, there are numerous well-known mines capable of producing in the aggregate rich ore sufficient to supply at least one sett of reduction works, and probably several, were they once properly developed. At a late convention of the mine-owners of the district, stringent local laws were adopted which give force to the United States statutes in regard to making proper and legal locations, and as to the annual assessment work required to hold claims. The result is a yearly expenditure which is steadily developing a large number of claims, and in most cases proving them to be valuable property. The primest necessity of the mining interest of Inyo, to-day and hereafter, railroad or no railroad, is a reduction establishment on the lake capable of working any and all kinds of ore, on the plan of a custom mill. Such a concern would pay, and if honestly managed need never lie idle. Among the outside mines now being worked at Cerro Gordo are the old Osceola and Crowning Glory, on the Belmont side, relocated by Kit Johnson and others, who have struck new bodies of rich ore. The San Lucas, belonging mainly to Rafael Diaz, is working a small force. The Ygnacio, the property of Greenley, Rotshchild, et al, now under patent, has been cleared of accumulated waste and made ready for systematic work. The ground adjoining the Union on the south, the property of J. R. Hughes, is undergoing the patenting process. Abe Leyda owns a stretch of patented ground covering the famous Buena Vista, the mother ledge of the hill, the vast croppings of which are plainly visible from the valley. A little further to the south is the San Benita, belonging principally to L. Lasky. It is one of the earliest and richest of the lead locations, the galena of which assays well in gold. Speaking of the presence of the latter metal in Cerro Gordo, there is an old waste dump on ground now covered by the Union title, out of which it is estimated that there has been picked gold nuggets to the value of $25,000. Some of these specimens were magnificent, one of which graced California's exhibit at the Centennial.

LITTLE FISHES.—The thousands of little mountain trout, varying from three to eighteen inches in length, to be seen in all the creeks, which were stocked in the first place at the cost of $1 per fish by a few citizens of Independence and vicinity, is encouraging; nevertheless, in order to make their presence more encouraging, and that there may finally be enough for all, it is to be hoped that the persistent ichthyophagists who were in nowise concerned in the piscatory enterprise will give the hook and line a rest, for at least another year. The first parties have some rights in the matter. But the worst thing we have heard of in this connection was the operation of some migratory sheep men last Summer, who captured hundreds of the fish by means of turning the creeks—the perpetrators escaping punishment. In Kearsarge creek, however, it matters not how soon they are caught, as in all probability they will be killed anyway when the mills begin to operate. Clear Creek, we believe, was the only one which had not been stocked, until the other day, when Mr. Connelly carefully put into it about 250, some of which were quite large. The trout does remarkably well in the streams debouching into this valley, as is already proven. Some minnows transplanted three years ago are now larger than any fish to be found in their native stream, King's river.

OFFICERS, TAKE NOTICE.—According to the provisions of the statutes of 1869-70, page 81, all township and county officers and Notaries Public are required to file with the County Clerk, before the 1st of July and the 1st of January in each year, a sworn statement of the business transacted by them during the six months preceding the dates mentioned, and that officer is required to transmit a copy of the same to the Secretary of State. In times past this law has been vastly more honored in the breach than in the observance, but now Secretary Beck has sent notices to the different County Clerks in the State, calling their attention to the law, and requesting them to cause its observance, if possible. Interested officials of Inyo had better take note of this, from the fact that the County Clerk has a list of about 22 different officers who have in all probability never given the matter a thought.

STAGE MATTERS.—Hamilton and Cluggage, managers and principal owners of the Southern and Northern stage lines, respectively, were in town during the week in conference on mail and stage matters. It is certainly to be hoped that arrangements for through connections have been effected, as the present utter lack of system is disastrous to the whole county's busines. All interests would be better subserved by making this point the junction or terminus of both roads. The existing contracts run until July, 1878, but an increase to daily service must be had on the Southern road before that time.

REV. L. CASE will preach at the school house to-morrow, at the usual hour.

HOSPITAL MATTERS.—Our neighbor, the Darwin News, thinks we, in our allusions to the branch hospital proposition, treat it altogether too much as a matter of dollars and cents, to the exclusion of the demands of humanity. We answer, that but for the humane considerations alone there would be no need to say anything about it. How best to fulfil our individual and public obligations to the claims of humanity to the best advantage and in the most equitable manner with the means at command is the question before us, the humanity obligation being sufficiently obvious to need but little more than mere reference. And, take high humanitarian grounds as we please, this whole pending question as a public one, remains to be considered in a purely dollar and cents point of view—that is, how to put our money "where it will do the most good." And in the determination of that question, if left to our disposal, the fact that this place or that paid more general taxes than any one or all the others combined, would form no part of the consideration whatever, although the fact that a large proportion of such taxes do come from the Darwin section has been repeatedly put forward as a leading point in favor of the establishment of a division of the public charitable fund in its favor. In fairness it cannot be alleged that THE INDEPENDENT ever viewed this matter from such a narrow dollar and cents stand point as that. We do not mean that the tax argument has no weight, or at least should not be mentioned; our meaning is that, other circumstances demanding it—to wit: the existence in that or any other locality of proper subjects for public charity—it is decidedly a county or public duty to devote the public funds for their relief, and at the same time, that of citizens on whom such would otherwise be an undue burden, without any regard whatever to the amount of revenue paid by that locality specially In short, the public does not care one straw whether their charitable fund is used to relieve this person or that, or in what locality, whether tax paying in large amounts or small, that he is found, always provided that he is relieved in due proportion to the means at hand without entailing neglect and greater suffering upon some other unfortunate equally deserving. In that view, and with a due appreciation of the real situation as regards Darwin and surroundings, we can say that we are just as strongly in favor of devoting a full share of the hospital fund to the immediate benefit of the needy in that section as our neighbor of the News himself. It is only a question of how it can best be done, but one in other hands than ours to decide. We are only responsible for our own views, let the solution be as it may. But as a matter of duty we shall next week present some suggestions touching the entire question. Lack of time forbids any further reference to the matter at all in this issue, except to direct attention to the proceedings of the Board of Supervisors, wherein it will be seen that action upon bids is deferred to the 12th proximo, when it is hoped a full Board will be present; otherwise there is likely to be a dead lock.

WATER.—As elsewhere in the valley, the water question continues to agitate the Lone Pine mind. In connection with the big ditch project, however, a schism seems to have arisen between the advocates of a seven and those of a twenty-mile canal, the probable result being the accomplishment of nothing. If the citizens of that place cannot for once in its history agree upon one single point, and one so all-important as this, it will soon be found that there is really no occasion for a town there at all. Act out a little sense, gentlemen; go ahead, organize your company, all unite in subscriptions to the stock—the instalments to be paid in labor or cash; then at the general stockholders' meeting elect permanent Directors (to serve one year), determine on the plan and go ahead. Let the minority abide the result; the investment will pay them big in any event—will pay dividends to your heirs and assigns forever. Gobble a section each of the best paying land in the world; make a united effort; build up your town; get out of debt and get rich, you idiots! Selah.

SAD.—In the proper place will be seen full confirmation of the sorrowful tidings briefly referred to last week—the death of little Belle Eibeshutz, who fell victim to that most remorseless agent of the destroyer, the diphtheria. Surely language cannot portray the grief of the bereaved parents, nor will the last sight of her tiny hand ever fade from the father's memory, as in life it waved him a last adieu from the wharf.

DESERT LAND LAW.—As a guide for attorneys and others, we publish the amended desert land land law complete, together with the department instructions to the local offices. The article covers the whole business, rendering it unnecessary to apply at the land office for a copy of the instructions; besides, they are not to be had. Parties interested will file this number away.

BEHIND HAND.—THE INDEPENDENT concern is forced to beg the indulgence of some of its patrons for an unusual delay in filling numerous orders for job-work, of which there happens to be a rush crowded upon a smaller force than it generally has. However, the greater portion of it will be completed and shipped during the coming week.

THE GOLDEN HOUSE.—This hotel card will be noted in the present issue. It is the boss hotel of Benton, at the present time presided over by Mrs. Golden; Tom is now at Camp Independence under the treatment of Dr. Matthews for a bronchial affection.

MINING SHARES.—A chance to buy 1,000 shares of Union Con. mining stock is offered. We may hereafter attempt to show wherein the speculation would undoubtedly be a good one.

SUBSISTENCE CONTRACTS.—Local bids are invited for the supplying of subsistence stores at Camp Independence. Bids receivable at the Post only. See advertisement.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

MONDAY, March 26.

Board met pursuant to adjournment. Present—D. B. Curtis, Chairman, and Charles Meysan.

In the matter of the application of N. T. Piper for the refunding of taxes, and it having been officially determined that the property was not in this county, it was ordered that the sum of $229 79 be so refunded. Warrant drawn and paid, out of unapportioned property tax money.

Wells, Fargo & Co. submitted a bid for the surrender of county bonds to cover the amount on hand, at par, with accrued interest, which was accepted.

The following bids were received for the care of indigent sick:

Dr. P. G Gelcich, $3,000 per year, on the basis of an average of four patients per day, and $1 50 per day for each one in excess.

Margaret Lewis, $2,480 per year, and $1 30 each per day for excess.

Dr. L. Colleau, $3,600 per year, and $1 50 per day.

Ordered that all matters relating to County Hospital and indigent sick be deferred until March 27.

Application of C. J. Barber in relation to the Wild Rose & Lookout Toll Road passed till next regular meeting.

A number of bills were received and laid over until next regular meeting.

Reports of the Sheriff and the County Clerk received and accepted.

TUESDAY, March 27.

Resignation of Paul W. Bennet, District Attorney, received and accepted.

Upon application, the County Treasurer was awarded the room adjoining the County Judge's chamber, for an office.

Petition received for the appointment of R. B. Snelling as District Attorney, vice P. W. Bennett, resigned; and the said R. B. Snelling was so appointed, to fill the unexpired term.

Resignation of R. B. Snelling as Justice of the Peace for Second Township received and accepted.

WEDNESDAY, March 28.

A consideration of the hospital matter was had, and the subject finally laid over to a special meeting to be held April 12, when the petition for a branch hospital at Darwin will be acted upon, with a full Board.

In the matter of the alleged overdrawn mileage, as charged by the late Grand Jury, the Board adopted a resolution to the effect that on the 13th day of November, 1876 (the meeting at which such overcharge was alleged to have been made), they were required by law to meet and canvass the Presidential vote; hence the charge was legal and just. But upon further investigation, the Board concluded to "disgorge" the amount of $6 each on account of a meeting held in February, at which that amount of mileage had been drawn.

Ordered that the Clerk of the Board procure from Bancroft & Co. two setts of Hittel's codes, for the District Attorney and Assessor.

Ordered that the District Attorney be authorized and required to commence an action in the next term of the District Court to recover the deficiency, as shown by the Auditor's books, in the accounts of the Assessor, if the same shall not be fully satisfied before.

The follows bills were allowed, and warrants ordered drawn upon the Expense Fund: Harmon & Paris, material and repairs for the Darwin calaboose, $200; Y. C. Benites, interpreting, $3; O. I. Mairs, hauling trees for Court House Yard, $45; R. B. Snelling, Justice of the Peace, $6; D. B. Curtis, Supervisor, $18; C. Meysan, Supervisor, $17. On the Road Fund—John Knipple, bill of $460 for work on road, reduced to $100 and allowed.

Adjourned.

Hon. John A. Hannah, Judge.

In the case of the People vs. J. F. Dillon, County Assessor, the following jurors were empanneled on Friday, March 23: W. H. Lambert, W. A. Baker, Joseph Le Cyr, J. G. Bond, J. B. Chamberlain, James H. Cook, W. K. Miller, E. H. Marr, Thos. Volkert, O. I. Mairs, John Alexander and G. W. Brady. The prosecution was represented by Deputy District Attorney Moffat, and P. Reddy appeared for the defense. Court was occupied with the case until Tuesday, March 27, when it was submitted to the jury, who returned a verdict of not guilty.

WEDNESDAY, March 28.

The People vs. Isaac Hitchcock. Jr. Pursuant to an indictment having been found against Isaac Hitchcock, Jr., by the Grand Jury, and a bench warrant issued for his arrest, the case came up for trial. Defendant was represented by his counsel, P. Reddy, and the People by District Attorney Snelling. Indictment against defendant was for assisting a prisoner to escape. He was duly arraigned, and before pleading his counsel moved to set aside the indictment on the ground that the officer summoning the additional Grand Jurors was a principal witness for the people. Motion sustained.

People vs. Peter Smith; trial set for Monday, April 30.

T. Volkert vs. N. Primo; action on appeal from Justice's Court of Fourth Township, wherein damages were claimed for detention of property which had been replevined. Tried before a jury of three—A. W. Robinson, Geo. L. Drake and G. W. Brady. Damages were found for plaintiff for $100 and costs.

Court adjourned until Monday, April 30.

PASSED.—Like the Courts and other honorable bodies we wot of, we are for good and sufficient cause compelled to "pass for the term" (i. e., this issue) a number of items of both local and general interest. Hope it wiil not be always thus.

GETTING BETTER.—A Camp Independence dispatch announces that Viel and Smith are both slowly improving.

FROSTY.—The last two nights were quite frosty, and very likely nipped something.

THE CLOSE OF SCHOOL.—We witnessed the closing exercises of Miss Whitcomb's six months' term of school here last Monday, and have no hesitation in repeating that the evidences of advancement of her pupils fully demonstrate her capabilities as a teacher. Age for age, and number against number, we think she might take this school and safely challenge a contest with any in the county in reading, arithmetic, spelling grammar, geography, history and declamation, the latter down to the "littlest Johnny" of the lot. But let it be understood, her oldest scholar has not had personal cognizance of to exceed twelve Summers and perhaps not that many Winters, while in aggregate avoirdupois old Dan'l Lambert would come very near tipping the entire lot. There wasn't one but acquitted herself or himself in a manner indicating a fair understanding of the subject in hand, as well as the meaning of the words used to convey their ideas; and that we accept as evidence of the right principle of teaching, let the degree of advancement shown be less or more. We shall not undertake special mention: first, because it is a matter of doubtful propriety in cases where all are too young to be fair subjects for criticism or comparison; second, "where all did so well it would be invidious," etc.; third, it would become monotonous; fourthly and primarily, we haven't the time, though an abundance of space.

THE DISTRICT ATTORNEYSHIP.—The resignation of District Attorney Bennett right in the midst of an important trial in which, by virtue of his office, he was prosecutor, was something of a surprise and the cause of considerable comment. As a matter of fact he was confined to his house by sickness, and not being able to be present to attend to his duties in person, or to defend his motives for bringing the action in question, and which counsel for defense, Mr. Reddy, had denounced in very bitter terms, he probably thought it was altogether too thankless a position to be worth holding on to. That is merely a surmise. Here we will remark that considerable of general interest transpired in connection with Court matters, this week, but our knowledge of them is almost, if not entirely at second hands, and by no means complete, therefore we shall attempt no account of them, which, from absolute necessity would have to be too brief to be satisfactory to parties or ourselves. Judge Snelling was immediately appointed to the vacancy, and entered upon his duties, and for which he is eminently well qualified when he gives himself a fair show.

SO ORDERED.—That polite little hint from the Grand Jury induced the County Dads to overhaul their books and see what the trouble was. They found that the Grand Jury was open to presentation, too, in having alleged the steal at the wrong time, there being no steal on the occasion specified. But they also discovered there had been an error in estimating mileage due them on a previous occasion, so, like Zaccheus, they resolved to "come down," and disgorge unanimously.

U. S. PAYMASTER ARRIVED.—Major Broadhead and clerk arrived at the Post to-day on his round of duty as Paymaster. He informs us that he was unavoidably detained at San Diego, and also at Mojave, which latter place he describes as a most delightful(?)retreat. This is the same officer who. with his clerk, was attacked by robbers near Camp Gaston not many months since, at which time both were wounded, the clerk mortally.

IN FULL BLAST.—Both furnaces of the Defiance at Darwin started up this week, and are in successful operation together, for the first time for many weeks. We are also assured that the prospects in the mine were never more encouraging or substantial at any period since the it was opened. The total depth attained below the croppings is very nearly 400 feet, the lowest point being the principal source of the present ore supply.

BLACKSMITHING.—Teamsters and horsemen will be interested in the fact that W. T. Davis, late of Independence, has become proprietor of the shop and business of Harvey & Grandchamp of Lone Pine—the dissolution of which firm is also announced in our advertising columns. Davis will sustain the shop's reputation for good work and thorough knowledge of the business.

A LOSS.—It will be noted from an advertisement in this paper that Capt. Eudey is no longer the manager of the Eclipse mill and mine. The retiring manager has earned the reputation of being almost unequalled in practical efficiency in his profession, and we should think think the company could ill spare his services.

ANOTHER.—There was another of those attractive little dances at the Blaney last night. Can't say what set 'em going this time, though we can say there was one nice man there, but modesty forbids the mention of his name.

WORK WELL.—Mr. Nelson, of the Eclipse, informs us that the patent ore feeders work so effectively that one will be put in to every battery, making six additional ones, eight in all, five stamps for each.

A SAD CASE.—During the past few months the scourge of diptheria has created a void in many a home, and carried mourning to many a family around Jackson, but it is now our painful duty to chronicle a death peculiarly sad. About six weeks ago, when R. M. Briggs was on a previous visit to his family in Jackson, he brought with him from Independence, Inyo county, a little girl named Emma B. Martin, aged 11 years. She was the only surviving child, and her parents, anxious to give her a liberal educatian, were consoled on sending her 400 miles from home to seek it, with the reflection that in the family of Mr. Briggs she would find all the sympathies and comforts of a second home. On arriving here the diptheria epidemic broke out, necessitating the closing of the schools. Early last week Mr. Briggs again appeared here on a visit, intending to remain but a few days, and owing to the mortality among children hereabouts, it was thought advisable that the child should return with him to her home in Inyo. On Thursday she had everything packed up in readiness to start the following morning. But a cruel fate had ordered it otherwise. The decree had gone forth that in a land of strangers she was to sicken and die, and find a grave far away from the home of her childhood and friends. That evening the fell disease seized her in its most virulent form, and after a few days of agony, she breathed her last on Tuesday, exclaiming with her parting breath, "Tell my mother that I am dying." At the commencement of the sickness the parents were telegraphed for, but ere they had time to reach here their only daughter had passed through life's fitful fever and slept well in the city of the dead.—Amador Ledger, March 24.

SHORT EXAMINATION.—At the last meeting of the Board of Examiners of candidates for teacherships, a verdant looking youth came before that august body for a certificate. A sly old boy, a member of the Board, eyed him sharply for a few moments, and then asked, abruptly, "Do you know how to cure the itch?" This was a question the canidate had not expected, but after a little thought the young man trembling-ejaculated, "Brimstone and grease!"

"Yes, yes," said Captain T., "you'll do. That is the principal thing you will be required to know."

And he wrote him a certificate and dismissed him without another word.

"WELL, there's something in that," as the man said when he tried to put on his boot with a kitten in it.

PROSPECTUS.

What Pays?

IT PAYS EVERY MANUFACTURER, MERCHANT, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer or Professional Man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has been published weekly for the last thirty-one years, does this, to an extent beyond that of any other publication; in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and New Discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes and improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Suggestions and Advice by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repository of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record, not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics and Science abroad.

The Scientific American has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past thirty-one years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress published in the world.

The practical Recipes are well worth ten times the subscription price, and for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1877.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and Several Hundred Engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3 20 cents a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars, giving Club rates, sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms, Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to parties attracted to the invention by such notice. A Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents sent free. The Scientific American Reference Book—a volume bound in cloth and gilt, containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 142 engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents. Address for the paper, or concerning patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New York. Branch office, Cor. F and 7th sts., Washington, D. C. n34213

"The King of all publications issued for the young on either side of the Atlantic."—Southampton (England) Observer.

THE THIRD VOLUME OF THIS INCOMPARABLE Magazine is now completed. With its 800 royal octavo pages, and its 600 illustrations, its splendid serials, its shorter stories poems and sketches, etc., in its beautiful binding of red and gold, it is the most splendid gift book for boys and girls ever issued from the press. Price, $4; in full gilt, $5.

ST. NICHOLAS FOR 1877

Which opens with November, 1876, begins a short and very entertaining serial from the French, "The Kingdom of the Greedy," a story adapted to the Thanksgiving season. Another serial, of absorbing interest to boys, "His Own Master," by J. T. Trowbridge, author of the "Jack Hazard Stories," begins in the Christmas Holiday Number, together with "The Boys of My Boyhood," by William Cullen Bryant, Christmas stories, lively sketches, poems, pictures, etc.

During the year there will be interesting papers for boys, by William Cullen Bryant, John G. Whittier, Thomas Hughes, William Howitt, Dr. Holland, George Macdonald, Sanford B. Hunt, Frank R. Stockton and others.

There will be stories, sketches and poems of special interest to girls, by Harriet Prescott Spofford, Susan Coolidge, Sarah Winter Kellogg, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Louisa Alcott, Lucretia P. Hale, Celia Thaxter, Mary Mapes Dodge and many others. There will also be "Twelve Sky Pictures," by Prof. Proctor, the astronomer, with maps, showing "The Stars of Each Month," which will be likely to surpass in interest any series on popular science recently given to the public.

AMUSEMENT and INSTRUCTION, with FUN and FROLIC, and WIT and WISDOM, will be mingled as heretofore, and ST. NICHOLAS will continue to delight the young and give pleasure to the old.

"ST. NICHOLAS is full of the choicest things. The publication is, in all respects, the best of its kind. We have never yet seen a number that was not surprisingly good"—The Churchman, Hartford, Conn.

"There is no magazine for the young that can be said to equal this choice publication of Scribner's press. All the articles, whether in prose or rhyme, are throbbing with vitality. * * The literature and artistic illustrations are both superb."—The London Literary World.

"We wish we could point out its equal in our own periodical literature"—London Daily News.

Good News for Boys and Girls.

To meet the demand for a cheaper ST. NICHOLAS Gift-Book, the price of vols. I and II has been reduced to $3 each. The three volumes, in an elegant library case, are sold for $10 (in full gilt, $15) so that all may give their children a complete set. These volumes contain more attractive material than fifty dollars' worth of the ordinary children's books.

Subscription price, $3 a year. The three bound volumes and a subscription for this year, only $12. Subscribe with the nearest news dealer, or send money in check, or postoffice money order, or in registered letter, to

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo. Ellen E. Matlack, plaintiff, against Alexander C. Matlack, defendant. Action brought in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and the complaint filed in said county of Inyo, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to Alexander C. Matlack, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and to answer a complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within the county; or, if served out of this county, but in this district, within twenty days; otherwise, within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a judgment and decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony existing between said plaintiff and said defendant, and for the custody of the minor children, issue of their said marriage, as does more fully appear from said plaintiff's complaint, to which reference is hereby made.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Hon. Court for the relief prayed for in said complaint on file herein.

Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, this fifth day of September in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

[SEAL.] W. B. DAUGHERTY,
n348m2* Clerk.

PROBATE NOTICE.

IN THE PROBATE COURT OF THE STATE OF California, in and for the County of Inyo. In the matter of the Estate of J. W. Allyn, deceased. It appearing to the Judge of said Court, by the petition this day presented and filed by A. Wayland, the Administrator of the estate of J. W. CHAPTER XIV—AMONG THE MORMONS.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The latest sensation in Utah is the execution of John D. Lee, the chief butcher of the Mountain Meadow massacre. He was shot yesterday at 1 P. M.

Most of your readers are conversant with the facts connected with that terrible tragedy, perpetrated over twenty years ago. It is generally conceded that the foul deed was committed under Brigham Young's instructions; he, however, stoutly denies the accusation. The Mormon church organs declare that the Prophet was not connected in any way with the affair; that he will sob and shed bitter tears whenever the Mountain Meadows massacre is mentioned. Brigham Young was at that time (1857) Governor of Utah. Why did he not punish the perpetrators if he did not sanction the foul plot? No effort was ever made by Brigham with that object; it is alleged that Lee, the chief butcher, has for years been quite a favorite with him until lately, when policy compelled him to relinquish his hold.

This case has been in the Courts for many years. Even in 1859 Judge Cradlebaugh (well known since in Nevada, but now dead), held Court in Provo, and charged the Grand Jury to make diligent inquiry into the massacre at the Mountain Meadows. "It has been claimed," said his Honor, "that this offense was committed by Indians, but there is evidence that others were engaged in it besides." But, in those days, the dictation of the priesthood was law. The aforesaid Grand Jury, being nearly if not quite all Mormons, would not find indictments, consequently the Judge had to finally succumb, and entered the following protest in the Clerk's book:

"A most willing inclination has been manifested to prosecute Indians and other persons not Mormons, for their offenses, while Mormon murderers and thieves are allowed to go unpunished. This Court determined, as its action shows, that it did not intend to be used by this community for its protection alone, but that it will do justice to all, or do nothing. Not being able to do the former, the Court now adjourns without a day."

For a number of years after the incoming of the Mormons, Utah Territory was practically outside the jurisdiction of the United States Government. In this remote wilderness the most terrible crimes were perpetrated, and the credulous followers, who, under wise and statesmanlike direction, would have been almost a model community, under the false teachings they received were turned into a band of outlaws. It is said that not less than six hundred persons have fallen victims to this "Zion," and John D. Lee is the first and only one brought to punishment. One of the assassins, Samuel McMurdy, while engaged with Lee and others in the slaughter at the Meadows, offered the following blasphemous prayer: "O Lord, receive their spirits, for it is for Thy sake we do this!"

The increase of Gentiles, the execution of United States law, and the utterances of a free press, have produced a great change in this New Jerusalem, so the Saints are becoming more moderately vindictive in these latter days.

Lee prefered to be shot than hanged by the neck. At 10:30 on the day of execution his coffin was placed 25 feet in front of a corral formed by three wagons, behind which were five men armed with needle guns. Lee was brought forward and seated on the coffin. United States Marshal Nelson then read the order of the District Court for his execution, after which the Marshal asked Lee if he had anything to say. Lee arose, his countenance exhibiting no trace of fear or any other emotion, and stated that he was not afraid to die. He regretted that he was compelled to leave his wives (three) and children (40 boys, don't how many girls) unprotected. He believed he was made the victim to suffer for the sins of others. He said that Brigham Young was leading the people astray. While sitting on his coffin his picture was taken by Mr. Fennimore. Lee requested the artist to send his photograph to each of his wives. He then continued:

"I have but little to say this morning. I feel that I am on the brink of eternity, and the solemnities of eternity should rest upon my mind at present. I have made out a manuscript and an abridged history of my life. This is to be published, sir. I have given my views and feelings with regard to all these things. I feel resigned to my fate. I feel as calm as a Summer morning. I have done nothing designedly wrong. My conscience is clear before God and man, and I am ready to meet my Redeemer. The most I regret is parting with my family. I used my utmost endeavors to save this people. I would have given worlds, were it at my command, to have avoided that calamity. But I could not. I am sacrificed to satisfy feelings, and I am used to gratify parties, but I am ready to die. I have no fear. Death has no terror. No particle of mercy have I asked of this Court, or of officials to spare my life. I do not fear death. I shall never go to a worse place than I am now in. I am a true believer in the gospel of Jesus Christ. I do not believe everything that is now practiced and taught by Brigham Young. I do not agree with him. I believe he is leading the people astray, but I believe in the gospel as it was taught in its purity by Joseph Smith, in former days. I have my reasons for saying this. I used to make this man's will my pleasure, and did so for thirty years. See now what I have come to this day. I have been sacrificed in a cowardly and dastardly manner. I did everything in my power to save all the emigrants, but I am the one that must suffer. Having said this I feel resigned. I ask the Lord, my God, to extend His mercy to me, and receive my spirit. My labors are done."

When he had finished his speech he sat on the lid of his coffin, apparently perfectly composed, and faced the executioners without a quiver. He told the boys not to mangle his legs, but to "aim well for his heart." He desired to be shot sitting on his coffin. The Marshal bade him farewell, and stepping back, gave the awful command, "make ready; aim; fire!" Five deadly missiles went forth in an instant, penetrating his body in and about the heart. He fell back on his coffin, and never moved afterwards. His remains were sent to one of his wives, Rachel, at Panguitch. None of his family were present. Lee was sixty-five years old, and was born at Kaskasia, Randolph county, Illinois.

During his confinement in prison he was visited by several prominent ladies, one day; they asked him why he did not divulge the facts of the Mountain Meadow massacre. He replied: "I prefer to die a brave man than to be a traitor. In going into the Mormon church we take an oath of fidelity to stand by each other to the death. I was only a cat's paw in the hands of other men. You ask me why I do not tell who were the authors and instigators of the massacre. I will only say now that it would have cost any man his life at that time to do anything contrary to the will of Brigham Young or Daniel H. Wells."

One of the ladies said: "Mr. Lee, it has been stated that when it was announced to Brigham that the whole company of emigrants had been massacred he wept like a child. Is that so? You were present, and can tell the truth."

With a contemptuous sneer, Lee answered: "Oh, yes! I could tell you something that would astonish you about that weeping and wailing if I had a mind to."

Lee was executed at Monument Point, Mountain Meadows, the identical spot where, twenty years ago, he committed his great crime.

It is now rumored that Burton, the murderer of the Morrisites, will probably atone for that bloody deed on the Weber. TINNAMUCKAHEE.

LEE'S SWORD.—When Lee surrendered his army to Grant the latter declined to take his sword, adding to the magnanimity by voluntarily inserting in the terms of capitulation an exemption of "the side-arms of all the officers and their private baggage." As a matter of fact, of which we have had authoritative information, General Lee came to the spot designated for the meeting of the two chieftans, wearing a splendid testimonial sword that had been presented to him, and doubtless intended that the weapon should become the historic emblem of the Lost Cause at the National Capital. General Grant prevented this by gracefully waiving the surrender of the sword of his vanquished foe, and, hastily penciling the terms he demanded, passed the memorandum to Lee, who became visibly affected with emotion on perceiving the generosity with which all the officers of his command were to be treated by their conqueror.—Bangor (Maine) Whig.

IT is positively stated that Tweed and Sweeney will be released and will testify in the ring suits.

Some Notions.

"Misther Crawford sent me here to get a dimmercrat," said Pat. "A what?" exclaimed the astonished shopkeeper. "A dimmercrat, I tell yez." "Now, wasn't it a demijohn he sent you to get?" "It's fooling wid me, you are. Isn't it all the same thing whether you call it a dimmercat or a demijohn? It's something to howld bad whisky in anyhow."

Miss Fanny Hayes, the daughter of President Hayes, who will occupy such a prominent place in Washington society for the next four years, is said to be a very pretty brunette, of medium height and a very fine figure, and about 19 years of age. She is very bright and intelligent, a good conversationalist, and will make a decided sensation in society.

A lady, whose cook went to a wake, was given notice by her a fortnight afterward that she was going to be married. "Who to?" asked the mistress. "Plase, mum, to the husband of the corpse." "Why, does he love you?" "Oh, yes, mum; he said I was the light of the funeral."

Eminent statisticians have calculated that the amount of ingenuity and labor expended by impecunious topers in getting free drinks would, if devoted to any honorable or useful pursuit, pay off the national debt in a little less than six years and eight months.

"Well, Sambo, how do you like your new place?" "Berry well, massa." "What did you you have for breakfast, this morning?" "Why, you see, Misses biled three eggs for herself, and gave me de brof."

The report of the Congressional committee on the Ashtabula disaster strongly reflects on the management of the road. The committee also submit a bill providing for the proper construction of bridges.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, APRIL 7.....1877.

THE CHICO MURDERERS.—Thirteen men, including those directly implicated in the murder of the defenseless Chinamen at Chico, are in the law's clutches in Butte county, for active participation in the outrages perpetrated at the hands of the Order of Caucasians. Through the full confessions of the murders the whole diabolical plottings and crimes are laid bare. As to their final punishment the only question seems to be as to whether the county can possibly furnish a sufficient number of unbiased jurymen to try the cases. For the honor of California it would be well that the State should take an active hand in the matter, and see that the murderous outlaws are prosecuted unto a deserved death.

SOUTH CAROLINA.—The President has determined upon the withdrawal of federal troops from South Carolina, which action amounts to a virtual recognition of the Hampton government, and seems to be so accepted by Chamberlain and his adherents. Let this move be followed by what appears to be an extreme probability in the Louisiana case—the final recognition of Nichols—and President Hayes will have succeeded in earning Southern gratitude and Democratic plaudits at the expense of his position in the Republican party.

The Cabinet, at a meeting, March 26, agreed to two points: First, to maintain the statu quo in South Carolina and Louisiana, so far as the generaal condition of the government ls concerned, until a Commission can investigate and report as to the proper course in those States; second, to call an extra session of Congress Monday, June 4th.

EXECUTED.—Jim Hays was executed at Bakersfield on Friday last, March 30. The particulars of the hanging scene, nor the account of his lawless and criminal career, do not make the most profitable reading. Suffice it to say that in his case equal and exact justice has been done, and the world relieved of a bad man.

SETTLED AT LAST.—After months of tribulation, our Supreme Court has finally settled that little matter of one vote between Wigginton and Pacheco, the latter being declared the Congressman elect. This is the third time in Pacheco's career where a majority of a single vote has given him a high position.

COLORADO has a substitute for the Grand Jury system. A Judge and two Justices of the Peace in each county meet twenty days before the regular term of the Court, hear testimony for and against accused persons, and order their trial or discharge as the evidence may seem to call for.

THE INDIGENT SICK.

How best to provide for the indigent sick has always been one of the most difficult matters in county legislation. The disposition of the County Hospital fund has caused more trouble and remark than that of all the others combined, although it is less than one-twelfth of the whole. So far two different systems have been tried. Prior to 1874 the charges were on the per capita and per diem system; since, on the fixed salary plan. During the first, a great calamity occurred, causing an unusually large number of applications for hospital benefits, and a corresponding increase in the cost, and one that was considerably in excess of the apportionment for that year. This caused a little more clamor than usual for better management, and the present plan was adopted. Whether for better or worse, is no matter now. Under both the cost has constantly exceeded the the apportionment to the fund, although that apportionment has always been up to the utmost limit allowed by the general law of the State, approved April, 1855. That limit is 25 cents for every $100 of real and personal property—¼ of 1 per cent. The Supervisors have power to enlarge the hospital fund thus produced except by the levy of a poll tax, a plan that has not yet been deemed necessary to adopt. At the present time the hospital fund is $12,300 in debt, or over two years in arrears. Its warrants are at 40 per cent. discount.

From these premises, and in view of the constantly increasing demands upon the fund, it is certainly clear enough that this whole question as a public one is to be looked at from a dollar and cents stand point if it is made to satisfy the demands of humanity. It must be used with due regard to its limited powers, or to a very material extent it must soon fail of its object almost entirely. A, and possibly B and C, sick paupers, may be given all the attention and comforts their helpless condition demands, while, from lack of means all the rest, clear through the alphabet, are of necessity turned away, though their needs may be no less than those of the others. Such injustice will occur in proportion to the cash value of hospital warrants. Theoretically, the number of indigent sick this county can now care for is but sixty in each hundred; as yet, in practice, it is equal to all demands upon its charities in this way, but without due care, or a resort to a special poll tax (the only alternative), it will be but a short time before hospital warrants will be so nearly valueless as to be equal to the proper care of but a very small proportion of the applicants for its bounty, and yet the tax burden be not lightened in the least.

In view of these facts and probabilities the question is, whether our limited means will better and in more cases satisfy the demands of humanity if divided between two or more hospitals or expended mainly upon one? We should say, the one; but we do not mean to say that that one can or should satisfy all reasonable demands under existing conditions in this county, nor that our means are so limited nothing more could or should be done. We say that every possible provision should be made for the welfare of the indigent sick wherever found, but, except in extreme cases, it is not too much to ask that they go to the point where they can be cared for best with the means at command. By far the larger number of cases treated at public expense are reduced to indigency through chronic or lingering diseases not so severe or painful in character as to make their transportation some distance to a hospital an unreasonable thing. It is very rare that a man who can be "restored" to his labor by a few days' medical care, and at a small cost, can rightfully be a public charge. There are exceptions now and then in both classes, also victims of accidents, etc., who are not only legitimately public charges, but to whom removal to a distant place for treatment would be cruel and often fatal. The county can and should provide for these exceptional cases without reference to the fact that there is a hospital with open doors miles away—so far away to them it might as well not exist at all. But our present object is less to point out plans than to show some of the difficulties attending the whole matter. Among these are certain abuses of public charity.

Bummers have at times wheedled agents out of transportation and hospital permits, saved traveling expenses, and secured a few days more or less of rest, board and lodging at the public expense—the physician in charge, whatever his professional opinion in case of such applications at first, not feeling at liberty to go behind the permit, and reject on sight. It would save much imposition in this and other ways and expense, too, to fee a practitioner in every place where one is to be found to take cognizance of every application and dispose of it as his professional knowledge and honor might dictate. It has happened, too, before the present permit ordinance was promulgated, that boarding house keepers, finding themselves "stuck" for the board of a disabled boarder have made the county pay the same—rightfully enough, perhaps, in some cases, but opening wide the door to abuses nevertheless. Others again have smoked their pipes around the County Hospital for weeks, seeking relief from some partially disabling disorder, and afterwards it turned out that they were possessed of considerable sums of their own money during the time. We also read that it is quite a common dodge for the genus tramp to resort to country hospitals for a few days board and recuperation. All these and others of a similar nature that may be mentioned are not only an imposition upon the taxpaying public, but work a positive injustice in the end upon the really needy. We have referred to them as matters to be looked to in the disposition of hospital awards, and also to point out what we believe to be the best and perhaps the only safeguard against such impositions, and at the same time to extend the benefits of our crippled charity fund to the utmost.

First, a resident physician in every district, where there is one to, have full authority to take such action in regard to the care of the indigent sick in his district as his judgment dictates, touching the merits of the applicant as defined by statute, and necessities with regard to treatment at home or at the County Hospital, said physician to submit a report in detail to the County Physician, or the Board of Supervisors, at the end of every month.

Second, the County Physician to submit a similar report for every month, said report, as well as the preceding, to give names of patients, together with all the usual details.

Third, and most important in checking fraud, a report of the whole to be published every month or every quarter at the furthest, in two newspapers in the county, precisely as is made obligatory in the Infirmary Act, page 758 California Statues, except in the number of publications.

We consider these publications important for various reasons. We have already taken more space in regard to these matters than we can well afford, and are compelledto pass without comment sevearal points that might otherwisebe worthy of mention.

THAT CADETSHIP.—We are glad to note that the facts in the case, as set forth by his private secretary and the telegraph company, completely exonorate Congressman Wigginton from blame in the matter of the cadetship appointment referred to in our last. A fatal mistake was made and the boy Mosher lost the appointment he had fairly won by an irretrievable blunder. The Commission appointed by Mr. Wigginton to examinine the candidates selected, after a fair trial, young Mosher, and sent a dispatch to Hon. P. D. Wigginton, at Washington, to that effect, by the A. & P. Telegraph Company. The agent of the Company at Washington consulted the directory of 1877, and found that Mr. Wigginton resided at the Ebbitt House, and the message was handed to the clerk of that establishment, who pigeon-holed it. Mr. Wigginton, however, had removed from that hotel, and the message did not reach him until the 5th of March, and then by a mere accident. In the meantime he was compelled to make an appointment before the expiration of his term, at midnight on the night of the 3d. He waited till half an hour before that time, when, receiving no word from the Commission, he appointed the boy Hicks. Had the Commission addressed their message to the House of Representatives, it would have reached its destination in time. Young Mosher ought to go and mash that chuckle-headed hotel clerk and then get into West Point by virtue of a Presidential appointment.

THE ARGANAUT.—This is the title of a new venture on the sea of journalism just launched by two of the wittiest and ablest writers of this State. It is purely literary in character, and is bound to be a success—provided, it keeps faith with the country press, which is not the rule nor the desire apparently of the generality of such new claimants for country patronage. "Please notice and x." produces chilling results in the course of numerous and very regular failures in regard to the receipt of the promised quid pro quo for the aforesaid notice. However, in this instance, the Arganaut makes no such demand, and therein shows that it is deserving. If succeeding numbers sustain the very high character of the first it will be a pleasure to note the fact.

MONEY continues very plentiful in San Francisco, and bankers and capitalists are pressed to find legitimate and profitable fields for its employment.

OUR MONO LETTER.

BENTON, Cal., April 5.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The present Winter, in its mildness, has never been surpassed in the annals of Mono county; but now comes an Iowa zephyr almost destroying the majestic sagebrush, and filling the air with a cloud of small articles, such as cord wood, lumber and hay, with occasionally a small grain of sand, winding up with rain, hail, snow, first class thunder, and a few nights of No. 1 January weather which completely "roasted" all vegetation. But such are the peculiarities of Benton as an agricultural country.

MILLS AND MINES.

The Comanche and Indian Queen mills have started on the war path, with a full force; the miners are turning out ore without limit. They have struck plenty of water in the Comanche, quite sufficient to cause considerable trouble, and run both the Kerick and Comanche hoisting works. The Diana started last Monday, with an abundance of ore at the mill and in sight at the mine. The prospects are good for a lively Summer's run.

Rumor says that the water is failing very fast at Belleville, and that already the Company has refused to supply private families, hotels and other public resorts. Unless water can be obtained from some new source, at least one of the mills will be compelled to shut down.

POLITICAL.

The Reps and Dems are discussing the merits of their respective Congressional candidates; now the question arises, who will be most likely to represent Inyo and Mono in the next Legislature? The Benton Republicans talk of Albert Mack, of Benton, R. M. Briggs, of Independence, who seems to be the favorite of his own party and also quite a number of Democrats, and M. J. McManus, of Darwin. The Democrats talk of the Hon. J. C. Mitchell and Doc. Rankin, of Benton, and Andy Dell, of Bishop Creek. The first named is rather their choice, as he is likewise of the sorcheaded Republicans.

MARRIED.

At Benton, on the evening of March 24, Mr. W. B. Harbin to Mrs. C. P. Laird. The nuptual ceremonies were performed at the house of the contracting parties by Judge R. Decker. 'Twas the Judge's maiden effort at the knotty business, and I have reason to believe the Judge had his remarks to the happy couple well committed and eloquently arranged, but when he came to the part which runs "cleave to her and forsake all others," he said "forsake her and cleave to all others." Then the Judge discovered his error and remarked that as they were both aware of what he meant, he would pronounce them man and wife. As there were "no cards," there were no one present but Mr. and Mrs. Wales to witness the proceedings, but R. Jake gazed upon them from the sky-light.

THE CLIMAX CAPPED.

Wednesday, the 27th of March was the day upon which the people of Benton took a vote to see whether we would pay the balance due on our school house, or let the contractor take it with $1,150 already paid up. Strange to say, the people of Benton, professing to be civilized, voted the tax down with an overwhelming majority. Men with large families, and men without families who pay no tax, voted against the tax. The consequences must be that next year we will be without a school house, or without a school, as there is not enough money in the treasury to the credit of this district to support a school the required time, and it is not likely that such christianized, civilized, enlightened citizens as the people of Benton are, will give a cent to support a school.

PERSONAL.

Jas. Wales has rented Harbin's boarding house. M. Abernethy has returned from San Francisco. Miss Adams, of San José, arrived on the evening of the 1st, on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Howell. Thos. Golden returned last evening. Mrs. Lynch has removed from the hotel in Partzwick to her residence in Benton. The County Assessor is the daily fear of mining superintendents now. Poor fellows; they have the sympathy of

RURAL JACOB.

INTERESTING LAND DECISION.—A late Washington dispatch says that proceedings of interest to all settlers within the twenty-mile limit of the California and Oregon railroads have just occurred at the General Land Office. Some years ago, while in the House of Representatives, Sargent procured the passage of a law dedicating exclusively to homestead and pre-emption purposes all lands in California within railroad limits whenever they shall be restored to the body of public lands, they being, when thus restored to the public domain prior to the enactment of this law, subject to private entry and liable to be bought in quantities without settlement. Sargent recently received letters stating that this law was being disregarded and that homestead and pre-emption settlers were having their lands taken away from them for the benefit of private entry purchasers. He at once called the attention of the General Land Office to this condition of things, and the result is that all such entries are suspended, with the exception of two, which have been patented, and the Register has been called upon for an explanation of his action in allowing them. As soon as an official reply is received these entries will be canceled, and the party to whom the patents were issued be required to surrender them. The plain provisions of the law have been obviously overlooked in both the local and General Land Offices.

As an entertaining study phrenology stands at the head.

ALL SORTS.

Oakey Hall's disappearance still agitates the public mind, but no trace can be discovered as to his whereabouts. The popular theory, and one now most generally accepted, is that he fled to Europe to avoid the threatening disclosures of his associates in ring frauds.

AMONG the latest candidates for public favor in the newspaper line is Parson Fitzgerald's Home Newspaper and Educational Journal, which, as shown by the first number, is all that its long name implies—a home newspaper and educational journal in fact, and as such, one that we can most cordially recommend. It is beautifully printed on Miller & Richard's clear cut Scotch type, is in no degree partisan or sectarian in sentiment, and therefore suited for old eyes and young, for Jew and Gentile, Republican and Democrat, and an exceptionably good paper for all, amusing as well as instructive. Subscription, $4 a year; office, 509 Clay street, San Francisco.

A WARNING.—An accident occurred in Ward district, Nevada, the other day, which may serve as a warning to other miners. The Miner says that an employé in the Defiance mine, named Halver Olsen, placed a can of water upon the forge of the blacksmith shop for the purpose of thawing out some giant powder caps. The water in the can had previously been used for the purpose of thawing out cartridges, and the nitro-glycerine in the powder, in the process of thawing, had mixed with the water. Olsen began blowing the fire to warm the water, when suddenly an explosion took place, shattering the can to fragments. Olsen received the full charge in his body, from his head to his hips. His face and chin are frightfully cut, and his hand and arm blown to pieces. Portions of the can entered near the seventh rib, one in the groin, and a piece, two inches long, below the umbilicus. He carried a heavy silver watch in his pocket, which, perhaps, was the means of saving his life, as a piece struck the watch, taking out a piece as large as an acorn. Several pieces from an inch to an inch and a half in length were taken from his body. It is supposed that pieces are still in the man's legs, stomach and lungs. The end of the shop was blown out, also the forge. Mr. Olsen had five cartridges in his pocket, but, fortunately, they did not explode.

Cutting a swell—lancing a boil.

BODIE.—Joe Lupton has been to Bodie; returned Tuesday; reports these particulars, as follows, namely, to-wit: Bullion the principal mine; got hoisting works up and shaft down about 400 feet; ledge from 3 to 6 feet wide; claim that the rock will average $100 per ton in gold; free milling ore; have part of the machinery on the ground for a 20-stamp mill; are grading for the same. Linn of San Francisco has the contract for building the mill. Seneca M. and M. Company—Have a mill up and expect to commence running in a week. Sinking on the mine at the present time. Red Cloud—Belongs to Lee, Rickey and Taylor; down 40 or 50 feet; got good milling ore; some stratas assay as high as $500 per ton; commenced work taking out ore last Monday; expect to have it worked at the Seneca mill. Several other ledges; names forgotten; mostly blind ledges; can get a gold prospect almost anywhere on top of the ground. Building a road from Bodie to Bridgeport, 20 miles; can then get lumber. Bodie is a pretty place, situated one thousand feet higher [?] than Aurora, one of the most elevated places on the Coast; 12 miles from Aurora; about 150 population. Wood has just completed a hotel; good prospects for a lively camp this Summer; considerable prospecting being done; livery stable not quite completed; fine saloon just finished, etc., etc. Mr. Bryant keeps the principal store in town. Lupton expects to pay for his lodgings on his next visit.—Carson Valley News, March 30.

It is confidently stated by a gentleman at Washington in Hampton's interest that the Cabinet are unanimous against sending a commission to South Carolina and that a majority have expressed themselves in favor of withdrawfng the troops from any direct support of the Chamberlain government. This is understood to be all that Hampton asks.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE AT PRIVATE SALE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT IN PURSUANCE of an order of the Probate Court of the county of Inyo, State of California, made on the Twenty-third day of February, A. D. 1877, in the matter of the estate of Francisco Gonzales, deceased, the undersigned, the Administrator of said estate, will sell at private sale, to the highest bidder, for cash in gold coin of the United States, and subject to confirmation by said Probate Court, on or after Monday, the Twenty-third day of April, A. D. 1877, all the right, title, interest and estate of the said Francisco Gonzales, deceased, in and to that certain mine, lode or vein situate in the Cerro Gordo Mining District, county of Inyo, state of California, and commonly known and designated as the "Hidalgo Mine"—said interest consisting of an undivided interest of two hundred feet in said mine.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF SALE.

Cash, in gold coin of the United States. Deed at the expense of the purchaser. Bids or offers may be made at any time after the first publication of this notice and before the making of the sale. All bids must be in writing and left at the drug store of J. D. Blair, in the town of Independence in said county, or delivered to the undersigned personally.

J. D. BLAIR,

Administrator of the Estate of Francisco Gonzales, deceased.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, APRIL 7.....1877

THE CHARGE AGAINST DILLON.—The main facts of the transaction for which Assessor Dillon was held to answer may be thus briefly summed up: In his collections on personal property assessments and poll taxes at Darwin last Spring, there being but little coin in circulation there, he found it necessary to accept paper or nothing. He got the coin for all orders except some $900, for which he finally received a Defiance Company check. He held the orders for some time while they were convertible into coin, for which the prosecution sought to establish criminal negligence; but upon presentation at San Francisco the check was protested. After duly debiting himself with the amount he passed several monthly settlements expecting that each week would see it paid, and thus effect a full settlement in accordance with his own books. As he still holds the check, representing the whole sum of the delinquency, the charge of embezzlement with criminal intent is an absurdity, and hence the verdict of acquittal. Of course a civil action for its recovery would lie, but even that is hardly necessary on the part of the county, as the officer's actions clear through denote his intention of accounting for every dollar of it. The check in question was issued by Mr. Reddy as Superintendent of the Defiance Company, not upon his individual responsibility. Nevertheless, during the course of the trial he voluntarily pledged himself before the Court that that check, which had caused the whole trouble, should be paid to the last dollar—so that neither Dillon nor his bondsmen will eventually lose anything.

THE ALABAMA DISTRICT. — Jimmy Sharp has for some months been prosecuting work on one of his small gold seams in the Alabama hills, and as a result exhibits numerous small specimens of the ore. The strata is about one-half of an inch in thickness, about one-third of which is gold—judging from the beautiful specimens. Sharp proposes to stay with it. Thos. Holland has also been operating at another point in the district, where he has sunk a 75-foot shaft, from the bottom of which drifts have been run both ways for the gravel deposits. We have seen many heavy gold nuggets taken from the gulches, and from all reports the place would pay immensely if water could be had for heavy hydraulic operations, which is not improbable.

APRIL FOOLING. — Sunday last the town's hoodlum element succeeded in perpetrating many April-fool jokes, the victims being called upon to fill bottles without bottoms, smoke explosive cigars and all that sort of thing. One oversight, however, is blameable to this institution—inasmuch as we failed to extensively advertise that railroad meeting which was to have been held on the 1st, for the purpose of receiving the really "surprising" report of that wonderful Commission. They are doing so much (?) that our citizens might as well begin to put up for expenses now as any other time.

REPORT YOURSELVES, GENTLEMEN.—At the time of closing business with a late INDEPENDENT agent at Benton (McFadden), there were quite a number of Benton and Montgomery subscriptions remaining unpaid, a list of which he afterwards forwarded. This, however, has somehow been mislaid, and we take this method of calling upon those who know that their paper has not been paid for to either so inform this office or else call upon our regular agent at Benton, Mr. E. R. Miner.

OUR INDIAN POPULATION.—The correct Indian census of the county shows their numbers to be: Men, 220; women, 282; boys, 141; girls, 133—making a total of 776. These figures may be relied upon as being as near correct as is possible in the nature of the case, being from counts made by Capt. MacGowan and Drs. Matthews and Wainright, while vaccinating them.

FENCING —J. S. Rothschild & Co. are in receipt of a large new lot of the celebrated Glidden's steel-barb fence wire, which they are disposing of at the reduced rate of 22½ cents per pound. At this rate a rod of two-wire fence costs exactly 51 cents, excluding posts and labor—the whole amounting to about one-fifth the cost of an ordinary fence.

STORMY.—The weather has been quite stormy this week, during which more rain fell in this part of the valley, if not all through it, than the previous sum total for the entire Winter. A large quantity of snow was also deposited on both ranges of mountains. Both the rain and snow will prove of vast benefit to our agricultural interests.

SICK.—Letters received last week state that Register Briggs, at his home in Amador county, was lying quite low under an attack of typhus fever, which unpleasant fact accounts for his protracted absence from his post. We much hope he may get through all right.

GOING AHEAD.—A. W. Eibeshutz has received instructions from the Kearsarge Company to let a contract for further work upon the tunnel, and will shortly visit the mine to determine upon the how and wherefore of it.

REX MONTIS DISBURSEMENTS.— This company, though merely preparing for work as it were, will disburse on the 10th instant something over $3,000 for labor and sundries for last month.

QUARTERMASTER'S SUPPLIES. — Consult our advertising columns for notification of a chance to bid on furnishing supplies of fuel, forage and straw for Camp Independence.

ARCHERY.—Are you fixing up the bows and things and getting ready for the coming archery contest?

THE OWENS LAKE, DARWIN AND PANAMINT TOLL ROAD.—At the May session of the Board of Supervisors toll rates for the above named road will have to again be fixed. Doubtless the motion for a reduction will be renewed. Before it comes up for action the parties who contributed the money for its construction should, by all means, agree on a plan of action. Before suggesting any plan of action we will remark: Citizens of this place, Georges Creek and Lone Pine, the first named principally, contributed considerable sums each, $4,000 in all, to be applied in the construction of a road to Panamint, then a market of considerable promise for valley products. Under the really creditable supervision of John Shepherd, one of the chief contributors, the first donation was made to hold out to fairly open the road clear through. So much road was never before built in the county for the money. Soon after, Darwin began to loom up, and being off the line, about 25 miles of the most expensive portion (for the distance) of the road was abandoned, and a new route was adopted. This involved additional expense. There being no one willing to put up, Harris & Rhine and the Shepherds did it and completed this new road through. Up to this time and after, or for over six months, it was a free road, open to all. But people damned it freely because there was a crook or two in it. No donations were any more to be had to fix it and stop the profanity, so it was it resolved to see what virtue there was in tolls, every cent above gate expenses to be applied in improving the road. That's how it came to be a toll road. This worked pretty well until the present road law came into force when people inside of Darwin begin to observe they couldn't get out, and people outside that they couldn't get in without a doucer to Uncle Johnny; also, that that part from the Lake hadn't cost much, anyway. It was voted a swindle that ought to be suppressed. Meantime (two years ago nearly) the copartners (THE INDEPENDENT firm being one) made an assignment in trust to John Shepherd, who was to apply every dollar above gate expenses in improving the road, including Shepherd's Cañon. That year, counting cost of necessary improvements, in the cañon mostly, it didn't pay expenses by $1,700. This money was paid wholly by himself and Harris & Rhine. They were getting rich right along, it will be noticed. Shepherd then persuaded his long-time gate-keeper, Uncle Johnny Fleming, to take the road from the Lake to Darwin, keep it in repair and pocket every cent he took in. Soon after came a cloud burst in the long cañon, and Uncle Johnny wanted some pecuniary help from the "company," or he would be loser or have to quit. He was induced, or decided of his own accord, to go ahead without the help, and put the road in traveling condition again. This he did at a cost to himself of about $1,000. Since then this portion of the Owens Lake, Darwin and Panamint toll road has paid the gate-keeper very well, and if segregated from the other end, is, no doubt, valuable property. But the co-partnera are out every shilling of their investments, first and last, over $6,000 in all, about half by the two parties above named—Harris & Rhine and the Messrs. Shepherds. But all though are tolerably well reconciled to the inevitable, only they hate to have the liberal people call them names; it isn't quite right, because most of them did the best they could, with no thought of wounding anybody's feelings with their donations. Now, the question is, what is to be done with that road? Will the county buy it at any price whatever? Will anybody? If not, will the co-pards be allowed to throw it up, toll-gates and all, without being held for damages? If not, why not? Being a party in interest we have a delicacy in saying the county ought by all means fix its own price and have a through route of its own; but we have none in saying here is a road for sale mighty cheap; also, if not sold, tolls won't bear any reduction.

INSANE.—Frank Terrill, a young man aged about seventeen, after due examination by Drs. Matthews and Colleau, has been adjudged insane. His family reside at Darwin, from whence he was brought last week by his mother to be subjected to this inquiry and consigned to the asylum, having become so violent that it was no longer safe to keep him at home. The unfortunate youth has always been subject to insane spells, but heretofore in a mild form. He was sent on his way to Stockton yesterday, in charge of Lieut. Wotherspoon and Sargeant Fischer of Co. D, who were going to San Francisco.

LETTERS.—There are letters remaining uncalled for in the Independence postoffice for the following parties: Gilbert Benoit, George Cigler, Robert Compton, V. M. Conner, J. W. Dodds, Morgan Fogarty, Harry Gilmore, J. Gringer, J. A. Hoose, Fred Hennings, Thos. H. Kittleson, John Lamontaine (2), Thos. W. Lynch (3), John McDonald, Robert Pratt, James Sherwin, Grace Somerville, A. J. Stough (2), E. C. Thompson, B. H. Templeton, Mary Webster, George Zigler.

PERSONAL. — Miss Whitcomb, late school teacher in this place, started on Saturday for a fortnight's visit at Darwin. On the following day Mr. Reddy returned to his responsible mining duties at the same place; he will be here to look after his law business at the May term of the District Court, included in which is the defense in the Boyd-Mackey murder case....Lieut. Wotherspoon started yesterday on a ten day's leave to San Francisco, where Sergt. Fischer also goes on a transfer.

WHERE OPENED.—To avoid possible mistakes, and also to correct one, we will state that bids to furnish Commissary stores, as per advertisement, are to be opened at San Francisco only, while those for Quartermaster's supplies are to be opened at the Post only.

WILL REMAIN.—Capt. Eudey, late manager at the Eclipse, does not propose to quit our country yet by any means; he has too high an opinion of its mineral resources, including some undeveloped claims of his own.

LOOKS BETTER—The Court House begins to look as if somebody lived there, since the yard is now well filled with trees and is inclosed with a very handsome and substantial fence. The posts of this fence are solid, 8-inch square redwood, capped and well finished; pickets round, two inches in diameter, and of Oregon fir; double gates, "cut bias," nicely moulded and very substantial—all to be painted white. Good job. H. P. Cartier is the engineer in charge.

A NEW HAY PRESS.—There is now en route to the valley a new style hay press, which the inventor and patentee, W. A. Greenley, is prepared to go his alsea on. With three men and a horse it is calculated to bale from 12 to 18 tons per day, depending upon the nature of the hay. As a matter of course, a working test of the new machine is looked forward to with considerable interest by the host of friends of the ex-Sheriff.

"RICHARD'S HIMSELF AGAIN."—During the (almost) seven years' existence of this paper the last two or three issues of it have been the only ones without an advertisement of the Pioneer blacksmith shop, Independence. So, recognizing the good sense of his former course, Uncle Abe Parker again flies his colors to the breeze. His new shop is the largest and best appointed one in Inyo.

THE WHITNEY HOUSE.—Such is now the designation of what was formerly the Orleans Hotel, Lone Pine—the new name coming from one of the appellations of the big mountain which faces that town. The proprietress, ably assisted by Mr. John Stewart, is rapidly establishing for the Whitney a reputation second to none of our valley hotels. See the advertisement.

SHERIFF'S SALE. — Deputy Sheriff Moore sold at public auction to-day eight packages of liquors, consisting of wines and brandy, aggregating about 200 gallons. It netted $90. The goods were the uncrooked of a lot which was seized by the Revenue Collector one year since. The execution was issued in Los Angeles.

NOTARIES APPOINTED,—Gov. Irwin has just re-appointed Geo. C. Alexander as a Notary Public, to reside at Bishop Creek, this county, and commissioned Walter J. Adams, Notary, to reside at Benton, Mono county. The people at Benton ought to have Walter J. to come back, so as not to disappoint the Gov. on the residence part.

SNOWED IN.—The miners up at the Rex Montis mine are having an elegant time of it up there by themselves, the late snow storm having effectually cut off communication, so that Manager Holt can't maintain his "holt" on them or get up there to molest or make 'em get up and go to work.

BEER.—Mr. Zaun has disposed of his team and quit the business of supplying Lone Pine with Los Angeles beer. The town is well supplied with a good article of home production, from the Germania and the new Centennial breweries, both of which are very complete establishments.

BENTON BULLION.—During the present week Wells, Fargo & Co.'s office at Benton has shipped to New York bullion to the value of $14,500.

LAW CARD.—Attention is directed to the law card of Messrs. Bennett & Moffat, Independence—a new firm and a reliable one.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY.—R. B. Snelling's law card will be found among the "new ads." this week.

NEW P. M.—C. F. Stoutenborough is now the duly commissioned Postmaster at Bishop Creek.

DARWIN.—The following items are condensed from the Mining News of last week:

We think we are safe in saying that before the Summer wanes Darwin will be about the livliest mining camp on the Pacific Coast. There are more mines now being worked and more furnaces in operation than ever before, and strong probabilities that several new companies will have commenced operations within the next two or three months. There are three of the New Coso Company's furnaces, two of the Defiance and two of the Modoc now running, and the Santa Rita will be in operation by the 15th proximo, so we are informed by Mr. Fortune, and if the Hidalgo mine continues to turn out ore as it is now doing it will be found necessary to construct the other larger one, the water-jacket and machinery for which have already been purchased.

The Modoc ore bodies are constantly increasing in quantity and quality. Both furnaces are in successful operation, and turning out an average of 220 to 230 bars of bullion per day.

On the 23d and 24th instant the production of bullion by the New Coso furnaces for 48 hours amounted to 338 bars, valued at $6,084.

Up to the 24th instant the Modoc shipped bullion for the month of March to the value of $56,383.

MR. J. LOUIS BEAUDRY, brother of the Messrs. Prudent and Victor Beaudry, of this city, was elected Mayor of Montreal, Canada, on the 1st of March, by one of the largest majorities ever known in that city. We translate the following from the Noaveau Monde of that city: "The Hon. J. L. Beaudry has achieved one of the most brilliant victories known to the annals of our city. He has beaten his adversary, Mr. Ferdinand David, by a majority of 1,967 votes. Our new Mayor has a right to be proud of his success, because the work of yesterday is a convincing proof of the high esteem in which he is held by his fellow citizens, and of their confidence in his ability, experience and integrity."—Los Angeles Express.

THE Sutro Tunnel is now in 16,400 feet, and the face of the header is developing streaks of quartz.—Carson Tribune.

PROSPECTUS.

What Pays?

IT PAYS EVERY MANUFACTURER, MERCHANT, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer or Professional Man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has been published weekly for the last thirty-one years, does this, to an extent beyond that of any other publication; in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and New Discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes and improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Suggestions and Advice by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record, not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but a so of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics and Science abroad.

The Scientific American has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past thirty-one years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress published in the world.

The practical Recipes are well worth ten times the subscription price, and for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1877.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and Several Hundred Engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3 20 cents a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars, giving Club rates, sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms, Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to parties attracted to the invention by such notice. A Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents sent free. The Scientific American Reference Book—a volume bound in cloth and gilt, containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 142 engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents. Address for the paper, or concerning patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New York. Branch office, Cor. F and 7th sts., Washington, D. C. n342t3

"The King of all publications issued for the young on either side of the Atlantic."—Southampton (England) Observer.

THE THIRD VOLUME OF THIS INCOMPARABLE Magazine is now completed. With its 800 royal octavo pages, and its 600 illustrations, its splendid serials, its shorter stories, poems and sketches, etc., in its beautiful binding of red and gold, it is the most splendid gift book for boys and girls ever issued from the press. Price, $4; in full gilt, $5.

ST. NICHOLAS FOR 1877

Which opens with November, 1876, begins a short and very entertaining serial from the French, "The Kingdom of the Greedy," a story adapted to the Thanksgiving season. Another serial, of absorbing interest to boys, "His Own Master," by J. T. Trowbridge, author of the "Jack Hazard Stories," begins in the Christmas Holiday Number, together with "The Boys of My Boyhood," by William Cullen Bryant, Christmas stories, lively sketches, poems, pictures, etc.

During the year there will be interesting papers for boys, by William Cullen Bryant, John G. Whittier, Thomas Hughes, William Howitt, Dr. Holland, George Macdonald, Sanford B. Huat, Frank R. Stockton and others.

There will be stories, sketches and poems of special interest to girls, by Harriet Prescott Spofford, Susan Coolidge, Sarah Winter Kellogg, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Louisa Alcott, Lucretia P. Hale, Celia Thaxter, Mary Mapes Dodge and many others. There will also be "Twelve Sky Pictures," by Prof. Proctor, the astronomer, with maps, showing "The Stars of Each Month," which will be likely to surpass in interest any series on popular science recently given to the public.

AMUSEMENT and INSTRUCTION, with FUN and FROLIC, and WIT and WISDOM, will be mingled as heretofore, and ST. NICHOLAS will continue to delight the young and give pleasure to the old.

"ST. NICHOLAS is full of the choicest things. The publication is, in all respects, the best of its kind. We have never yet seen a number that was not surprisingly good"—The Churchman, Hartford, Conn.

"There is no magazine for the young that can be said to equal this choice publication of Scribner's press. All the articles, whether in prose or rhyme, are throbbing with vitality. * * The literature and artistic illustrations are both superb."—The London Literary World.

"We wish we could point out its equal in our own periodical literature."—London Daily News.

Good News for Boys and Girls.

To meet the demand for a cheaper ST. NICHOLAS Gift-Book, the price of vols. I and II has been reduced to $3 each. The three volumes, in an elegant library case, are sold for $10 (in full gilt, $15) so that all may give their children a complete set. These volumes contain more attractive material than fifty dollars' worth of the ordinary children's books.

Subscription price, $3 a year. The three bound volumes and a subscription for this year, only $12. Subscribe with the nearest news dealer, or send money in check, or postoffice money order, or in registered letter, to

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo. Allen E. Matlack, plaintiff, against Alexander C. Matlack, defendant. Action brought in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and the complaint filed in said county of Inyo, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to Alexander C. Matlack, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and to answer a complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within the county; or, if served out of this county, but in this district, within twenty days; otherwise, within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a judgment and decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony existing between said plaintiff and said defendant, and for the custody of the minor children, issue of their said marriage, as does more fully appear from said plaintiff's complaint, to which reference is hereby made.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Hon. Court for the relief prayed for in said complaint on file herein.

Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, this fifth day of September in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

[SEAL.]

WM. B. DAUGHERTY,

PROBATE NOTICE.

IN THE PROBATE COURT OF THE STATE OF California, in and for the County of Inyo. In the matter of the Estate of J. W. Allyn, deceased. It appearing to the Judge of said Court, by the petition this day presented and filed by A. Wayland, the Administrator of the estate of J. W. Allyn, deceased, praying for an order of sale of real estate, that it is necessary to sell the whole of the real estate to pay the debts outstanding against the deceased and the debts, expenses and charges of the administration; it is therefore ordered, by the Judge of said Court, that all persons interested in the said estate of said deceased appear before the said Probate Court on Wednesday, the 18th day of April, A. D. 1877, at 10 o'clock A. M. of said day, at the Court Room of said Probate Court, at the town of Independence, Inyo county, State of California, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the said Administrator to sell all of the real estate of said deceased, as shall be necessary.

And that a copy of this order be published at least four successive weeks in THE INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper printed and published in said county.

JOHN A. HANNAH,
Probate Judge.

PIUTE ADRIFT.

CHAPTER XXVI—STILL AMONG THE MORMONS.

MESSRS. EDITORS—We have had a mild Winter in Zion. This Spring is a month earlier than any previous one, so says that veritable "oldest inhabitant" of Utah. There was six inches of snow on the ground during the middle of April, last year; but this year the farmers have been plowing since the middle of March. The Winter having been so mild, fears are entertained of the grasshopper ravages; some of the young roosters are already hopping around. The snow is light on the mountains, which prognosticates a scarcity of water for irrigating purposes.

Piute was peramulating the other day when he espied a brother Mormon plowing—breaking sod with one span of horses, without a coulter nor a wheel attached to the plow. The horses evinced good "bottom," and so did he, which was proven by his wriggling, twisting and pushing at the plow handles. Had he been thus operating in any other country he would have been arrested for cruelty to himself and animals. Piute ventured to accost him:

"Hard work, brother."

"Purty d— tough," he replied. (The brethren don't mean any harm by either swearing or praying; Bro. Brigham, sometimes, curses and swears like a mule driver.)

"Why don't you put on more team, brother?"

"Ain't got any more," said he; "unless I put in them heifers of mine," pointing toward the small huts where his three wives lived. (A polygamist frequently terms his wives "heifers.")

"This is rich soil, brother."

"Purty d— rich."

"How many bushels of grain will this yield to the acre?"

"Well, dunno; I have been farming that piece joining for the fast seven years, and only got half a crop every other year—one year the grasshoppers take all the crop, the next year they only take one-half."

"Pretty hard country to make a living in, ain't it?"

Then he planted himself on the plow-beam, jerked off his hat and wiped his sweating brow, while the trembling horses had a rest.

"Yes," said he, "pretty tough old country. I have been in this Territory about twenty years."

"And you are rich by this time?"

"Not by a long shot," he replied.

"Have you a large family?"

"Tolable; three wives, but only eighteen children—twenty-two of us all told."

"Have you an extensive farm?"

"Yes, purty fair; about twenty acres."

"And you have only realized an average of about six bushels per acre per season?"

"That is all."

"How do you manage to support such a large family brother?"

"Well," said he, "I have got mighty darned good women; we have a few sheep and a spinning wheel; a few cows and lots of chickens, and we raise squash. When the grasshoppers are so thick the hens gobble up an awful lot of 'em, which makes 'em lay bully; and we get from ten to fifteen cents a dozen for eggs. We get about twenty cents a pound for butter."

"Do you or any of the family use tea, coffee, sugar, etc.?"

"Not a bit. We keep the word of wisdom; we use cold water."

"Do you pay tithing?"

"You bet I do. We hand over to the Bishop a tenth of the wool, eggs, butter and grain. President Young says that we should all help to build up the kingdom of God. Even if we can deceive the President, we cannot deceive God; He sees it all."

"Do you think God needs your donations—do you suppose He gets your eggs and butter?"

"We take our tithing to the Bishop and get his receipt. Come over to the house and I'll show you lots of receipts. I am no sardine. I pay my tithing like a man, you bet."

"Don't you think that God is unmerciful and cruel in sending or permitting the grasshopper, most every year, to eat up and destroy your crops?"

"Well," said he, "it is purty hard, but then the Bible tells us that the Lord chastises his chosen people. Our Elders and Bishops say so, too; and that we must submit to the Lord's will. I am a firm believer in the Bible, and I am going to sustain the priesthood. The Bible, Book of Mormons, and Doctrine and Covenants are the best books in the world. A man will be saved if he follow them; if he don't he'll go to hell a popping. I don't read much, but my wife reads the Bible. It is a Bible that my dear old grandmother gave me."

"I suppose it is a very old book."

"Purty dang old," said he. "Git up, boys!" And so we parted, both in good faith.

It is astonishing what amount of faith and confidence the Mormons have in the "Priesthood." Should the leaders preach that the dear brethren should contribute all their produce to the "Church," and that the brethren and sisters must subsist entirely on grasshoppers during a specified term, there are many so fanatical as to devoutly try the experiment.

In traveling through the Mormon settlements a person is astonished to learn on what a small patch of ground a large family will derive sustenance. A great many Danes, Swedes and Norwegians are Mormons, who, having formed habits of industry and economy in their own countries, find it essentially necessary to exercise the same in Utah.

THE EXECUTION OF LEE

has created some consternation in the Mormon ranks. Lee in his confession implicated Brigham Young and others high in church authority. Those honest Mormons who are exempt from the emoluments of fat office—who are not fortunate enough to have a finger in the church pie—and who possess ability to exercise their own judgment, begin to think that there is, and has been, something rotten in "Holy Zion."

BRIGHAM'S SCHEME.

This week the Spring Conference convenes. Heretofore the April and October conferences were held in the Tabernacle, Salt Lake City. But this April President Young thinks it advisable to convene at St. George, which is over 200 miles south of Salt Lake. A great many of the saints are bitterly opposed to this movement. They think that Brigham Young, being that he is now an old man, about 78, is desirous of retiring and to install his son, "Fat Briggy" in the Presidency.

Being that St. George is an "out of the way" place, only a few, comparatively, will be present; hence Brigham and his clique may be able without much opposition to elevate the "fat boy" to the throne, thus perpetuating the Young family at the head of the Church.

One report says: It is whispered amongst the Saints that Apostle John Taylor and others of the metropolitan clergy have gone down to St. George to foil Brigham's little scheme of succession. It has been exceedingly trying to the temper of those holy men to put up with their master's perversity, his gross blunders, his greed and his shameful unfairness. But they have submitted because their holy religion enjoins the spirit of "oneness." The majority of the Saints think there are worthy men—men who have suffered and almost died for Mormonism, whose claim to the Presidency, after Brigham's demise, should not be ignored.

There is likely to be music at the Conference; but Bishops and Apostles cannot make headway against the "Lord's anointed."

TINNAMUCKAHEE.

A LAWSUIT over a meteor is an event undoubtedly without a parallel in the history of jurisprudence. Two years ago a large meteor went splurging around over Iowa, and finally burst to pieces in Iowa county. A man named Maas found one of the pieces, weighing some 75 pounds, in a road he was traveling over and took it home, only to be soon notified that it didn't belong to him but to a society which owns the lands through which the road ran. He refused to give it up, and the society brought suit. Maas claimed that it was his by right of discovery, but the society insisted that it had fallen on their land and belonged to the realty by accretion from natural causes, and the Court sustained the view. The society will present the chunk to the Iowa State University, and it will go into history as the meteor that there was a lawsuit over.—Iowa paper.

"WHY don,t you wear a 'hush,' ma?" asked a little boy. "A hush! what is that, my dear? I never heard of such a thing." "Why, yes you have, ma. I asked Aunt Mary what made her back stick out so, and she said, 'hush, my dear.' So you know what hush is."

A WITTY writer has observed, with truth, that every man is, in a sense, three different men. In the first place he is the man he thinks himself to be; in the second place he is the man other persons think him to be; and finally, he is the man that he really is.

Diphtheria.

Following is an abstract from quite a lengthy article we find in the Record-Union, of April 4, being a translation from a German paper of note, the Westlische Post, of St. Louis, from its European correspondence:

The little book, "The Sure Cure for Diphtheria," dedicated to the meeting of Professors of Natural Science, held at Hamburg in September, 1876, by Karl Moritz Hofft, is written by a practical physician, who, having been for the last thirty-three years practicing his profession, has attained a vast amount of experience, and in whose care his fellow-citizens willingly confide their health and life. To that class of physicians who lay more weight on the sure effects than on the question "why," belongs also the author of this book, and I believe, therefore, that I render a service not only to the German doctors, but especially also to our countrymen in America, who often live isolated on their farms, and at a great distance from medical assistance, if I give herewith its contents and by that show how easy and rapidly help is found against the terrible epidemic "diphtheria," might our physicians confidently apply this system of remedy, and at the same time our newspapers give extended publications among their respective circles of readers to the directions given below, and the epidemic will soon cease to spread anxiety, sorrow and despair in so many families. It is a curious fact that in spite of all the progress and achievements in medical science, notwithstanding that the sanitary police, whose efforts show its beneficial influence more now than ever before, and that sanitary rules are much more observed everywhere, that nevertheless four epidemics of the most dangerous character could develop themselves almost at the same time in almost the whole of Eurspe, and in a part of America, and have become almost stationery since the last five or six years.

To the small pox epidemic, scarlet epidemic and tyhoid epidemic, has added itself the epidemic diphtheria, of which medical reports make no mention for the last three hundred years. * *

Hofft, who, with his method, has treated with success and cured many hundreds of diptheria cases, before all, rejects all internal medicines, every physic or emetic acts just destroyingly. * * Before all, brushes are necessary, rather thickly haired and rather soft, attached to a long, stout piece of wood, and about the size of a thick pen-holder. Of such brushes several should be kept in store. The same with the necessary medicine, of which physicians of large practice should keep on hand larger quantities dissolved, and careful parents would do well also to have both brushes and medicines ready in the house, as both of them are not easily destroyed.

Sixty grams acidum tannicum are to be dissolved in 120 grams of hot water, and to this solution 10 grams chlorate of potash is added, and thus a remedy is at hand with which one can at any time, sure of victory, confront any diphtheria. A little of it is poured into a small dish, the brush soaked in it, and then with a quick movement of the hand, gliding along on the tongue, conducted to the throat, where it is turned around on its axle rather forcibly right and left, then withdrawn, rinsed and cleaned in a glass of water, and then dried. The same application is repeated three to six times, according to the existence of more or less slime and groups of germs. It is well if the back of the head of the child is held steady by the parents, and with very obstreperous children it is often necessary to keep the mouth open by pieces of cork or wood wedged between the side teeth. This brushing with tannin is performed daily three times, morning, noon and evening, and best by the physician himself. At the intervals sensible children are left to cleanse mouth and throat by gargling with water or a solution of chlorate of potash, one well filled teaspoonful to a big cup of water, while with children under four years, a cleaning of the throat and mouth is effected with another brush soaked in the solution of chlorate of potash. Besides this parents or attendants must brush the the mouth every hour with a solution of four grams borax in thirty grams raspberry syrup (in case of necessity sugar syrup will answer also, nine ounces to five ounces of water, dissolved at a moderate heat without cooking and filtered) and the children, from whom the bitter taste after the application of the tannin is thereby taken, will soon call this syrup a "a heavenly syrup." Thus far, Hofft, who pronounces the firm conviction that the local process is the primary and origin of diphtheria, and that only in this wise a cure takes place within a few days without the much dreaded signs of paralysis appearing.

For non-residing physicians, especially for our far apart living farmers, I would add, that it is of the greatest importance to recognize the dangerous sickness right at the commencement to be able to give prompt relief. The most common symptoms at the beginning are: swelling of the glands of the lower jaw and the glands of the ear.

Slight fever movements, pains in swallowing, stiff neck, hoarseness, observable changes in the expression, obstructed breathing, croup-like cough. Where these symptoms, or only some of them show themselves, the mouth of the throat is to be examined, which can be done by pressing the root of the tongue down with the mouth wide open, and in good light.

Are the glands observed to be swollen, and these as well as the tonsils, the soft palate and the rear mouth hole covered with a white, thickish skin of slime, does the child at times feel pains on pressing on the tonsils and lower jaw, then there is well founded cause to proceed at once to the brushing and to continue the same until all of these symptoms have disappeared.

Once more! no internal medicine; is there inactivity of the bowels, small injections of from two to four ounces of cold water repeated a few times will be sufficient.

For overheated skin the surest remedy will be the wrapping up in cold wet cloth and then into a woolen blanket, which is often freshly renewed until the skin has regained its natural warmth, and the patient is feeling easier. * *

NOTE.—Do not forget that diphtheria is a sickness contagious in the highest degree; that the patient has, therefore, to be isolated from all the other members of the family, and that only his nurses ought to be allowed to be around him; that the brushes must not be used for any other child, but are better burnt; one ought to guard himself against the expectoration, and even from the exhalance of the sick. The room must be disinfected, washed and cleaned with soluted carbolic acid; in short, not too much precaution can be taken to prevent the house from becoming a seat of epidemic. H. B.

SATURDAY, APRIL 14.....1877.

MEXICO.—Latest Mexican dates state that the dissensions between President Diaz and Gen. Mendez are beyond settlement. During the absence of Diaz, Mendez had charge of the government and sent 1,000 Enfield rifles and several batteries into Sierra Puebla for his followers. Diaz ordered the return of the rifles and Mendez refused. Mendez charges the President with bad faith in the election of the Supreme Court. Diaz' friends have been defeated in the election of a committee of scrutiny on the fifty seats contested in Congress. The restoration of the constitution and the return of ex-President Lerdo is openly demanded. A pronunciamento against Diaz has been issued in Chihuahuahua.

THE Arizona papers are warning laboring men to keep away from that Territory, there being already large numbers of them there who are unable to get employment. Such advice comes in very appropriately at the present time. "The Arizona excitement is all well enough for temporary purposes," remarks the Eureka Sentinel, "but, while there are undoubtedly some good mines in that country, there is more mineral wealth to-day in one county in Nevada than there is in all the mining districts of Arizona combined." And it would not be exaggerating facts much to say that there is relatively as many idle men in Nevada.

THERE is great tribulation in the San Francisco Mint. Under orders from Washington 27 employés were recently abruptly informed that their services were no longer needed. Of the 27 discharged 14 were ladies employed in the adjusting department, and the remainder were men employed in the different departments. Those whose services were retained were informed that their salaries had been reduced from 20 to 30 per cent., according to the nature of their duties.

THE members of the Council of Nine, arrested for supposed complicity in the recent massacre of Chinese at Chico, have been discharged, the evidence against them not being sufficiently strong to justify their further detention. At a meeting of the Workingmen's Association the society disbanded, after passing a vote of censure upon the aforesaid Council.

A MAN named Jansen, residing at Dixon, Cal., poisoned himself, wife and child nearly to death by accidentally mixing strychnine instead of saleratus into the bread, which he undertook to make up while his wife was milking. Nothing like a man making himself useful.

OF the total treasure exports of $4,408,000 last month from San Francisco, $3,126,281 was in gold coin, and the next largest article was $406,000 in trade dollars. The total in March, 1876, was $5,811,000, of which $2,647,000 was in gold coin.

FORGOT to mention the fact that the "hoss editor" of the San Francisco Spirit of the Times is a candidate for United States Senator. Boruck's cheek is sublime; but Boruck is the Republican Bismarck of California. Marcus down for that.

THE Governor has offered a reward of $500 for the detection of the supposed murderers of the Maher brothers, who mysteriously disappeared from the mountains back of Porterville, Tulare county, where they had gone with sheep.

REFORM.—Secretary Schurz has promulgated an order looking to the establishment of a Board of Inquiry, for the purpose of inquiring into appointments, promotions and removals in connection with the civil service department of the Government.

MEXICO is preparing to flop again. The oldest adherents of Diaz denounce him and a spirit of revolt has spread throughout the army. The troops of one State have pronounced for Lerdo, and a general outbreak is expected.

S. B. MCLEE, a colored man who was formerly Secretary of State of Florida, and a member of the Returning Board last Fall, has been appointed by the President, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of New Mexico.

THE sentences of twenty-two more convicts at San Quentin have been commuted by the Governor for terms ranging from six to two months, for services rendered during the construction of the new building.

THE Carson Tribune, which steals from the Virginia Enterprise, is the best paper from which we steal.

REGARDING A RAILROAD.

If Inyo and Los Angeles do not soon enjoy the advantages of direct railroad communication it will not be the fault of the Los Angeles Express. That paper never loses an opportunity to present in the strongest light the great error on the part of Los Angeles capital in permitting this splendid chance to pass unimproved.

It has been shown, and may be accepted as a self-evident fact, that the proposed road need extend no further than to the foot of Owens Lake to command the entire freight business, not alone of the whole of Inyo, but that of almost this entire inland region; that, as surely as that trade always seeks the cheapest channel, will that business, immense as it may be made to be, conduce to the direct benefit of the city and county of Los Angeles; that, to insure such a result it will not of necessity require a paid up capital exceeding half a million of dollars, and perhaps much less than that—in no event a sum beyond the command of individual capitalist in that city, and a mere bagatelle for their combined abilities.

It is truly a wonder that those men should hang back as they do in this matter. It may be explained in one of two ways: Having waxed wealthy through judicious investments in Spanish grants, flocks, herds, loans at two per cent., and other similar sure and safe methods, by which, with advancing years, such habits of absolute "safety" have been formed they think it almost criminal to even contemplate an investment out of the usual safety line. Next, in addition to the usual risks supposed to attend railroad investments, there is this as touching this one in particular: That it, like every other competing enterprise, would soon be swamped by the big monopoly, Stanford & Co.

That there is some danger of that is a fact that need not be ignored; but, at the same time, it certainly is not a danger so formidable local independent capital dare not face it. Let Los Angeles or local capital build this road in the face of Stanford's threat that "he would commence six month after, and have his road there first," what then? Why, that city has its own road, against which no other can compete and live on its earnings; let its own road fall into whose hands it may, the trade produced and commanded by the road will still and forever fall to the advantage of its seaport terminus, and would of itself be ample compensation for the original investment though the latter should prove a total loss. But, in view of reasonable probabilities, nothing but the stupidest management would entail so much as a dollar's loss in the actual investment, no matter how determined or powerful the swamping effort. Such a road, having an existence in fact, can never go begging for a buyer at cost, if no more. It is not possible for the Central Pacific ever to put it beyond the power of this road to dictate something like, if not quite, its own terms, let come what may. It covers or rather is intended to cover the only unappropriated outlet to the Pacific yet open to an eastern connection, south of the Columbia river. To the all powerful Atlantic corporation now seeking such an outlet this identical right of way is of the greatest moment. Should that corporation, which controls the Union Pacific, permit this chance to slip they are not only forever barred from a Pacific terminus of their own, but their existing lines will, to a material degree, be subject to the dictation of Stanford, from and after the day his southern line connects with the Texas Pacific. On the other hand, Stanford's design of becoming the railroad dictator of all this wide country from the Mississippi to the Pacific, needs but the control of this very route to become an absolute realization. But it is by no means essential to the realization of his design that he should build any more road on this line than is required to hold possession of one important pass. With that in his control he is master, a title that neither Sidney Dillon, nor Tom Scott, with all Wall street at their backs, dare dispute. And yet without that control he can never be king, never be more than one railroad President among the many, capable of infinite good for the country at large, at the worst capable of no great harm. To him and his designs this road is a standing menace; as such, let the worst come to the worst, it can as certainly name its own price as that the Union Pacific remains a distinct corporation. It is hard to say to which, Dillon or Stanford, this Los Angeles and Independence railroad franchise is the more vitally important. But it is not hard to see that it is the key, beyond question, to the entire railroad future of this State, not to say of the whole coast. It is not hard to see that if Stanford gets that key in his hands before the road is completed that no such road will be completed until it suits his convenience, and that that may be years hence. It is not hard to see that, without the occupancy of every foot of the ground through to Santa Monica, the possession of this key is of no value to the Union Pacific, and that, therefore, that company, after throwing down the glove to the Central, would be compelled to occupy it at the earliest possible moment. Then, in view of these patent facts, Los Angeles, with certain preliminary precautions, can go ahead with this work, and put their last dollar in it if need be, with a positive assurance of getting every cent back with interest, despite the whole power of the Central Pacific. And, let the ownership finally rest where it may, that city will have attained the all important object in view—a railroad to its back country.

Immediate action is needed, or the present franchise, liberal and advantageous as it is, will be lost, and cannot be regained without a costly contest if at all.

"BUSTED."—The failure of Isaac Friedlander, the famous grain and land operator, was announced in San Francisco last week. Mr. Friedlander is reported as stating that if he can collect the amounts due him his unsecured indebtedness will be about $600,000, as nearly as he can judge from the present condition of affairs. His indebtedness is entirely local and affects but a few persons or firms, all of whom can stand it, with, perhaps, the exception of one or two in the interior. He attributes his failure, to some extent, to losses on charters, he having, early tn the season, chartered vessels at comparatively high figures, which he was subsequently obliged to recharter at much lower rates; but the greatest weight under which he labored was the condition of his affairs in the San Joaquin valley. He had purchased large tracts there which he subsequently sold to poor farmers, who paid down a small portion of the purchase money. Bad crops prevented a continuance of their payments, and he advanced means to enable them to seed their ground and continue business. Last year a portion was repaid him, but the gloomy prospects for the present season in that section of the country convinced him that it was useless to struggle any longer. The matter created great surprise and called forth much sympathy in San Francisco.

SENATORIAL ASPIRANTS.—As the time for holding the primaries and county conventions approaches aspirants for Senatorial honors begin to loom up. This Senatorial district embraces the counties of Mono, Inyo, Kern, Tulare and Fresno, and we learn that the following named gentlemen are mentioned as likely to be candidates before the Democratic joint Senatorial convention: C. G. Sayle, H. C. Dalton, R. Holmes and J. D. Collins of Fresno; J. W. Freeman and T. J. Keyes of Kern; Thomas Fowler and Alfred Daggett of Tulare. So far we have heard of no Republican candidates for this position, nor are the returns in from Mono and Inyo.—Visalia Delta.

Returns may be considered in from this side of the mountains, neighbor; nothing wanted from here. In the nature of the case all outsiders may as well be counted out on the Senatorial business, as in all probability the two party candidates will come from the counties of Tulare and Kern, which have but one joint Assemblyman. The Democrats will compromise on the nomination of an Assemblyman from one and a Senator from the other; the Republicans will do the same thing, very likely with their candidates vice versa. The votes of we outside heathen will finally decide the contest, but will not figure much in the matter of nominations.

SEVEN of the Chico murderers have been indicted for murder. Quite a number of the gang not directly concerned in the murders, were turned loose and at last accounts were swaggering around threatening to make it warm for the witnesses and others. Among those indicted were two for the murder of whitemen. It is doubtful if any of the miscreants get their dues unless their friends attempt to carry things with such a high hand as to force the Vigilantes to take the field, of which there appears to some danger.

THE MULE.—The Carson Appeal gravely perpetrates the following remarkable dissertation on the mule and a suit at law in which that animal conspicuously figured:

The mule is a perversion, an intractable involvment and a stubborn and relentless finality. He is the offspring of an unnatural alliance, an ultimatum and a result. In one sense of the term, he is an invention. He is the end and he is also the beginning of his line. On one side an ass, on the other a degraded horse, he is without any respectability of birth, as he is without any family connections which look to the future. He is without pride in this world or hope in the next. What wonder his contact is demoralizing and his association disastrous? We have alluded, in a brief, discursive way, to the so-called mule case, with which our District Court has so long been plagued. It involved title, debt, tort, fraud, replevin, equity, forcible entry and detainer, trespass and the rights of man, beast and property. Also costs, in a very serious degree—something over a hundred dollars a day, we believe. Yesterday this celebrated case found its way into the hands of the jury. They had heard the evidence; they had listened to the soft, seductive accents of the language of Andalusia and Castile, as it came filtered through the mellow accents ahd lisping intonations of a great multitude of muleteers and gentlemen of the vaquero variety; they had been relieved of the monotony of their confinement by the brisk interpretations of little Joe Lopez and the more sedate translations of French Aleck; they had been duly impressed by his Honor with the gravity of the law of the case and the occasion; they had listened to the arguments of counsel and learned of the possibility of an upheaving eloquence inspired by the windings and turnings, and goings and comings, the feeding and corralings of a train of pack mules. Yesterday this favored jury were left alone with this great case in hands. After they had brought in a verdict Lum Davis might have been seen jubilant, his face wreathed in smiles, happy and filled with pride and exultation. He was heard to say that the jury had decided the case and that their deliberations had occupied but a few short moments. It would be too much to attempt to explain what is decided.

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo. R. A. Loomis, plaintiff, vs. C. L. Jackson, defendant. Action brought in the District Court the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo and the Complaint filed in said County of Inyo, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to C. L. Jackson, defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the District Court of the 16th Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, and, to answer the Complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or, if served out of this county, but within this district, then within twenty days; otherwise within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said Complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court for the foreclosure of a certain mortgage, described in the said Complaint, and executed by the said defendant to the said plaintiff on the 12th day of May, A. D. 1874, to secure the payment of a certain promissory note for the sum of Twenty-two Hundred Dollars in United States gold coin, with interest at 1½ per cent. per month, and the further sum of Four Hundred Dollars in like gold coin, with interest, for moneys paid out on a certain other mortgage set forth in said Complaint, that the premises conveyed by said mortgage may be sold, and the proceeds applied to the payment of said promissory note and interest, and said sum of $400 advanced, with interest thereon, and for costs of suit and attorney's fees, fully set forth in said Complaint on file herein, and in case said proceeds are not sufficient to pay the same, then to obtain an execution against said defendant for the balance remaining due, and also that the said defendant and all persons claiming by, through or under him may be barred and foreclosed of all right, title, claim, lien, equity of redemption, and interest, in and to said mortgaged premises, and for other and further relief, as will more fully appear by reference to the Complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the said Complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, this Twelfth day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, APRIL 14.....1877

COUNTY LITIGATION.—M. W. Belshaw has filed a complaint in the Clerk's office in an action entitled "Union Consolidated Mining Company vs. Thomas Passmore, Tax Collector." The action comes up in the May term of the District Court, and is brought to recover from the county and State the sum of $5,827, alleged to have been paid in excess of what is claimed to have been the real amount of taxes which should have been collected upon the actual valuation of plaintiff's property as was proven before the Board of Equalization. It is alleged in the complaint that the total value of the real estate (mines) of plaintiff was proven to be only $6,840, whereas the Assessor's valuation was $231,000. The Board of Equalization made a reduction of $30,000 on this estimate, leaving total valuation of real and personal property on which taxes were collected at $220,000. The amount paid in was $6,600, whereas the Company allege that $773 is all that should have been paid upon a correct valuation, leaving a balance of $5,827 sued for, as stated.

THE HOSPITAL CONTRACT.—As will be noted by our regular report of the proceedings of the special meeting of the Board of Supervisors, that body by a majority vote have awarded the hospital contract for the ensuing year to Mrs. Margaret Lewis of Camp Independence, who was the lowest bidder. As the matter stands we question the policy of this action; THE INDEPENDENT has always favored Lone Pine as the proper location of the county hospital, and more especially so should the county be unable, from lack of means, to make some hospital provisions for Darwin and adjacent camps, which will now be more of a necessity than ever. Our objection to the hospital and location finally selected, however, is by no means based upon the notion that the county sick will not be well cared for by Mrs. Lewis and Dr. Matthews—there can be no question upon that score.

AT HIS POST.—Register Briggs got back on Tuesday, having had to leave a sick bed and start some days in advance of the time when his physician said it would be safe for him to do so. His official duties, however, impelled him to take the risk; happily he came through without detriment. He paints a gloomy picture of the prospects on the other side, more particularly with reference to the innumerable homes desolated, many of them utterly, by that fell scourge, malignant diphtheria, whose stride of death no mortal hand could stay. He says further that, compared with that section, the people of this region can hardly realize how much they have to be thankful for, not only as regards general superiority of health, but in matters of homes and business, both present and prospective.

FILED.—Articles of incorporation of the Big Pine Irrigating Canal Company were filed this week in the Clerk's office, and previously with the Secretary of State. The company have made two surveys, upon the shorter one of which, being fully within the financial reach of the incorporators alone, work is to begin at once. We shall have occasion to refer to the proposed operations more at length soon, and will then add some details of interest.

MINING EXCITEMENT.—Quite an excitement is said to have been created last week by the discovery of a large ledge of unusually rich quartz, locacted near the summit of the lofty peak in the Inyo range, nearly opposite Alabama Hills. From accounts there is good reason to believe the reported discovery will prove of material importance, but we are not in possession of data sufficient to warrant a statement in detail.

DOUBTFUL.—One of the "lies about town" is to the effect that on last Saturday night our "hoodlum element" held a regular Finnegan's wake, or a real sociable Lannigan's ball arrangement at a residence near the Post. Must be some mistake, as only two or three broken heads were visible the next morning.

TRANSPORTATION CONTRACT.—Government contracts are to be let for the transportation of 30 tons of freight from San Francisco to Camp Independence, from July 1, 1877, to June 30, 1878. The bids are to be opened in San Francisco May 15, but we are not yet in receipt of the official advertisement.

ON A TOUR.—Paul Bennett, Esq., started early this week on a trip northward, intending to attend the District Court at Bridgeport. His health is not good by any means, and the hope of relief in that respect is part of the consideration.

ARCHERY MEETING.—Members of the Inyo Archery Club are notified and requested to be present at an important meeting to be held at the Headquarters club rooms to-morrow night. All ye big and little shootists should attend.

MACHINERY ARRIVED.—Considerable new machinery is to be put in the Rex Montis mill, among the rest, quite a heavy boiler to furnish steam for the pans, which was sent up to the mill two or three days since.

A NEW BENTON FIRM.—Dan Ashley and Joe Hutchins are the present most popular proprietors and engineers of the Pioneer saloon, Benton. They purchased from G. W. Cross, who has gone to the Bay.

DISTRICT COURT.—Judge Reed will begin a regular term of Court at Bridgeport, Mono county, on Monday next. The next term for this county commences Monday, May 7.

A WARNING.—If the Coso Mining News cannot champion its own locality without deliberately misrepresenting the views of this paper it had better quit.

THE LONE PINE IRRIGATING CANAL.—We are pleased to be able to state that leading and competent parties in Lone Pine and vicinity are taking hold of the above mentioned enterprise in dead earnest, and we have every reason to think it will in due time be carried to completion. Surveyor Joe Seeley has made the preliminary survey, and is expecting immediate orders to begin to set his grade stakes, this order being withheld only to await notice of the filing of the articles of incorporation in the office of the Secretary of State. All the preliminary work up to that point and something beyond, has been done, though no books for general stock subscriptions have yet been opened, or will be, perhaps, for a few weeks. As now determined, the head of the canal will be in close proximity to the old San Carlos mill, nearly opposite this locality; thence to Lone Pine on a line from which the canal need vary but slightly it is but a little less than 18 miles, giving an elevation of 80 feet, allowing a grade of a foot to the mile on the canal. The claim is for 16,000 inches of water, though the actual capacity of the proposed canal will be only two-thirds that amount, cubic measure. This will be sufficient to irrigate something like 5,000 acres, which amount is available, much of it as good as the country can produce. It is not expected that the canal will be carried through full size (3x25 feet) at the first, nor until circumstances demand it. No enterprise yet set on foot in this county gives higher promise of profit and lasting good than these irrigating canals, this one in general scope in particular. They are of a class to fully entitle them to claim liberal aid from every business interest in the valley. So well satisfied are we of this fact, and also of its value as a permanent investment, but marketable at any moment after completion of the work, that we propose to take stock in each to the full extent of our financial abilities—not less than $250 in each, to begin with. That isn't much toward the sum total, but amply sufficent for the work after a fair portion of other business interests do as much in proportion to benefits that must respectively accrue.

SWINDLERS.—Those Eastman Bros., who went through here a few months ago bilking people at all points with a sort of a photographic establishment, turn out to be swindlers of no mean pretensions, one of them at least. That one, after swindling his brother out of everything, and others to some extent, finally got $250 of I. N. Townsley, pawned his establishment, then at Tehachepi, and left for parts unknown. On this account Mr. Townsley, a book agent well and favorably known to many of our readers, has been prevented from getting back here to deliver books at the appointed time, the 1st instant. He is now in Bakersfield, but will make his obligations good in the matter of books in due time. Meantime, let all who have those artistic Eastman Bro. pictures cherish them, for they may never look on their likes again—never, no, never. Even our old dog, Rowdy, feels sad when he looks on his own picture, taken by those artistic bilks.

AN ITEM SPOILED.—There was a huge item spoiled (though sufficiently sensational as it is) this morning by the timely discovery of a fire which raged for a few minutes about 11 o'clock at the Blaney House. It got started somehow in the kitchen, and soon got under headway enough to make its subjection a matter of considerable difficulty. A few moments more, with the wind prevailing to-day, the town of Independence would have gone up and Inyo county been minus a Court House. It is now in order to revive the discussion about providing some protection against fire, and then let the matter drop as usual. Let's talk sense: THE INDEPENDENT concern—absolutely the least interested of any—goes $100 for an engine, hose and cisterns. Who chips? Don't all speak at once, gentlemen.

PRINTING MATERIAL.—This office is going to keep up, or a little ahead, of the times in the matter of printing material or bust in the effort; accordingly, in a few days we will be in receipt of as fine an assortment of new job type, inks and stationery as there is made—and if freight agent Sam Cowles don't have it here on time, we think of declaring a vacancy in the Collectorship of the C. G. F. Co., an office that ought to be abolished anyway.

VISITORS.—Boss M. W. Belshaw and Secretary Ben. Russell, of the Union Con., at Cerro Gordo, were here in relation to company affairs, this week, some of which, as the sequel will show, having an important bearing on county finances.

CHANGE OF BASE.—Ex-Sheriff Jack Moore has sold his residence in this place to our infantile friend, G. W. Brady, and with his family, has located at Big Pine, in the stimulant dispensing business.

LAND.—Might seem a little funny, to a man up a tree, to note the fact that "all that Owens river swamp land" will be legitimately gobbled under the Desert Land Law. Oh, Josiah!

LAID UP.—Deputy Sheriff W. L. Moore is bedfast, wrestling with the effects of a pretty severe cold. He thinks he will pull through all right in a few days, and no doubt he will.

TO THE MOUNTAINS.—Deputy Internal Revenue Collector Childs has ganged awa' to the mountings of Heapsodam, to wit, at Jim Smith's sawmill, but will not tarry long this time.

LAND ENTRIES.—John Broder made the first deposit in this Land Office for a section of land under the desert land law, and J. W. McMurry the second, and last to date.

WHO?—Apropos of the Blaney House fire this morning, who proposes to help pay for that extra hose ordered by the Rothschild firm for their force pump?

BENTON BILLION.—The Comanche Company, at Benton, has shipped bullion to the value of $8,347 during the present week.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

THURSDAY, April 12.

Full Board present—Garretson, Meysan and Curtis, Chairman.

Board met pursuant to adjournment to consider bids and other matters relating to the care of the indigent sick for the coming year.

The following preamble and resolution was offered by Supervisor Meysan, viz.:

WHEREAS, In the matter of the petition from the citizens of Darwin asking for a branch hospital in that locality, considering that proposals for the care of the indigent sick of Inyo county have been published, and that the people of the county at large had the privilege to send in bids for the same without any restrictions in regard to locality, and that the people of Darwin and vicinity had the same privilege as any other competitors;

Resolved, That only the bids received according to publication and opened on the 26th day of March, 1877, shall be considered by the Board.

Adopted.

In the matter of the acceptance of the bid of Margaret Lewis, the lowest bidder for the said hospital contract, the Board considered the same and heard arguments from John Alexander in behalf of Dr. P. G. Gelcich's bid and from A. R. Conklin in behalf of the bid of Mrs. Margaret Lewis.

Supervisor Meysan offered the following:

Considering that there is only $520 difference between the bids of Margaret Lewis of Camp Independence and P. G. Gelcich of Lone Pine, and that nine-tenths of the indigent sick are from Darwin and Cerro Gordo, and that the stage fares, lodging and boarding of said nine-tenths would probably cost more to the county in sending them to Camp Independence than the difference there is between the two bids, and considering that the patients starting from Darwin or Cerro Gordo arrive at Lone Pine and have medical attendance the same day, humanity requires us to give the afflicted the benefit of attendance as soon as possible; and it would be inhuman to increase their pains and to aggravate their diseases in leaving them one or two nights at Lone Pine without any medical assistance, which would prolong the disease and consequently increase the expenses:

Resolved, That the contract for the care of the indigent sick be awarded to P. G. Gelcich of Lone Pine.

Lost, by the following vote: Aye—Meysan; noes—Garretson and Curtis.

The contract was then awarded to Margaret Lewis, by the following vote: Ayes—Garretson and Curtis; no—Meysan. Mrs. Lewis, through her attorney, A. R. Conklin, presented her bond for the faithful performance of said hospital contract, which bond was duly accepted, approved and placed on file.

Bills allowed—Expense Fund: D. B. Curtis, Supervisor, $18 00; J. L. Garretson, Supervisor, $42 80; Charles Meysan, Supervisor, $18 40.

NEWSPAPER MAKING.—It isn't boy's play to make a newspaper. Everybody can't do it, though most people think they can. More excellent qualities of head and heart are required in an editor than in any other calling or profession in the world. He talks to more people than the pulpit does, and talks to people of all grades of life and shades of belief. If conscientious, and no man who is not has any business in the editorial chair, he feels the responsibility as if it were a mountain on his soul. He knows that the welfare, moral growth and peace of the community depend largely upon his daily or weekly utterances. Many times does he draw his pen through the lines which express his sentiments, but which he fears may be misunderstood, and do harm to some of those whom he desires to make better and not worse. It is not an easy position; it is scarcely a desirable one, and yet if he happens to express a sentiment which does not suit the reader, the latter is uncharitable enough to lose no time in censuring him. The editor does not always think as the reader does; he can't if he would. If he never expressed sentiments except such as the reader cherished, what would be the object of taking his paper? It is certainly foolish to pay for a journal which contains simply a rehash of what we have long before thought of ourselves. But, reader, when you are inclined to find fault with the editor because he says something that doesn't suit you, remember that you can't get a paper under the sun, if it amounts to anything, that will not, sometimes, say things that you can't agree with.—Odd Fellows' Banner.

ANIMALS AND THE STEAM-ENGINE.—A writer in Dingler's Polytechnisches Journal, in noting the behavior of different animals toward the steam-engine, remarks upon the dexterity with which dogs run about among the wheels of a departing railway train without suffering the least injury, whereas a host of railway workmen annually lose their lives. On the other hand, the ox, a proverbially stupid animal, continues standing composedly on the rails, having no idea of the danger which threatens him, and is run over. Many birds seem to have a peculiar delight in the steam-engine. It has often happened that larks have built their nests and reared their young under the switches of a much traveled railway. In engine houses the swallow is a frequent guest. In a certain mill, where a noisy 300-horse-power engine works night and day, two pairs of swallows have built their nests for years and reared their young regularly. A case of almost incredible trustfulness on the part of swallows occurred in the early part of last year, when a pair of these birds built in the paddle-box of a steamer, and regularly made the journeys from Pesth to Semlin.

PRESERVING EGGS.—A writer in the English Mechanic says: "In the year 1871–72, I preserved eggs so perfectly that after six months they were mistaken, when brought to the table, for fresh laid eggs, and I believe they would have kept equally good for twelve months. My mode of preservation was to varnish the eggs as soon after they were laid as possible with a thin copal varnish, taking care that the whole of the shell was covered with the varnish. I subsequently found that by painting the eggs with fresh albumen, beaten up with a little salt, they were preserved equally as well and for as long a period. After varnishing or painting with albumen, I lay the eggs upon rough blotting paper, as I found that, when allowed to dry upon a plate or on the table, the albumen stuck so fast to the table or plate as to take away a chip out of the shell. This is entirely obviated by the use of blotting paper. I pack the eggs in boxes of dry bran."

HIS PURPOSE.—A policeman discovered a boy in Justice Alley yesterday in close proximity to a carriage and buffalo robe, and he called out:

"Boy! what are doing here?"

"Resting," replied the lad.

"Was it your purpose to steal that buffalo robe?" demanded the officer.

"No, sir, it wasn't. There's a fellow out there who wants to lick me, and it's my purpose to wait here till he goes away, and then I purpose going home and get my brothers and our dog, and we'll come back and raise the awfullest tragedy around here you ever seen off the gilded stage!"

He was permitted to wait.—Detroit Free Press.

AN intoxicated English tar rolled up against Sir Rodney Mundy, and ejaculated, with considerable difficulty: "Get out 'o my way!" "How dare you address me like that?" demanded the Admiral. "Don't you know who I am? I am Admiral Mundy." "Don't care if you are Admiral Tuesday week," persisted the sailor, "get out of my way!"

AN editor on the frontier, says an exchange, became martial, and was made captain. On parade, instead of "two paces in front—advance!" he unconsciously exclaimed, "cash—$2 a year, advance!" He was court-martialed, and sentenced to read his own papers.

NEAR Leavenworth, Kansas, an encounter lately took place between a party of hunters and a band of Sioux Indians, in which fifteen of the former were killed.

MUCH disorder prevails at Deadwood, and the citizens are beginning to look upon the formation of a Vigilance Committee in the light of a necessity.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

BY VIRTUE OF AN EXECUTION ISSUED OUT of the District Court of the Twelfth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the city and county of San Francisco, in the suit of Jacob S. Taber and Asa Harker, plaintiffs, against Defiance Mining Company, defendant, upon a judgment rendered in said Court on the 16th day of January, A. D. 1877, for the sum of Fourteen Thousand Nine Hundred and Sixty-one 69-100 Dollars in gold coin of the United States, besides costs amounting to the sum of Sixty 95-100 Dollars, duly attested the 26th day of January, A. D. 1877, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of $15,022 84-100 in gold coin of the United States, besides accruing costs and interest, I have levied upon all the right, title and interest of the said defendent in and to the following described real property, to-wit:

All the right, title and interest of the said defendant in and to the following described real property, to-wit: That certain mining ground and mine or lode known as the Defiance mine, together with the hoisting works thereon erected and the blacksmith shop and all the machinery and appurtenances belonging to or in anywise appertaining to said Defiance mine; all of the above described property being situated in the Coso mining district, about one mile northeasterly from the town of Darwin, in the county of Inyo, State of California. Also, that certain boarding house and premises known as the Defiance Company's boarding house, the same being situated at or near the said Defiance mine. Also, that certain lot, piece, parcel or tract of land and premises upon which is erected that certain smelting furnace known as the Defiance furnace, together with the furnaces, offices, buildings, machinery and all the improvements and appurtenances belonging to or in anywise appertaining to or erected on said piece or parcel of land; all of which is situated in the Coso mining district, near the town of Darwin, in the county of Inyo, State of California.

Notice is hereby given that on Monday, the Sixteenth Day of April, A. D. 1877, between the hours of 9 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M., to-wit: at the hour of 2 o'clock P. M. of that day, in front of the Court House, in the town of Independence, county of Inyo, State of California, I will sell all the right, title and interest of the said defendant, the Defiance Mining Company, in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy said judgment and all costs, at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, for cash in hand in gold coin of the United States.

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State California, in and for the County of Inyo. Ellen E. Matlack, plaintiff, against Alexander C. Matlack, defendant. Action brought in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and the complaint filed in said county of Inyo, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to Alexander C. Matlack, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and to answer a complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within the county; or, if served out of this county, but in this district, within twenty days; otherwise, within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a judgment and decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony existing between said plaintiff and said defendant, and for the custody of the minor children, issue of their said marriage, as does more fully appear from said plaintiff's complaint, to which reference is hereby made.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Hon. Court for the relief prayed for in said complaint on file herein.

Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, this fifth day of September in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

Fearful Deeds by Mormons.

The Pioche Record publishes the following as an extract from the writings of John D. Lee, which he prepared for publication:

At the time Carter attempted to take the life of Laney, the Mormon Church was under the blaze of reformation, and punishment by death was the penalty for refusing to obey the orders of the priesthood. One of the objects of the reformation was to place the priesthood in possession of every secret act and crime that had been committed by a man of the church. These secrets were obtained in this way: A meeting would be called; some church leader would make a speech defining the duties that the people owed to the priesthood, and instructing the people why it was necessary that the priesthood should control the entire acts of the people, and it was preached that to keep back any fact from the knowledge of the priesthood was an unpardonable sin. After one or more such discourses the people were called upon by name, commanded to rise from their seats, and standing in the midst of the congregation, to publicly confess their sins. If the confession was not full and complete, it was also made the duty of the members of the church, or any one of them who knew the party confessing had committed a crime which he had not divulged, it was then to be made public by the party knowing the same. Unless the party then confessed, a charge was preferred against him or her for a violation of covenants, and unless full confession and repentance immediately followed, the sinful member was to be it being taught by the leaders and believed by the people that the right thing to do with a sinner who did not repent and obey the Council was to take the life of the offending party and thus save his everlasting soul. This was called "blood atonement." The members who fully confessed their sins were again admitted into the church and rebaptized, they taking new covenants to obey any and all orders of the priesthood, and to refuse all manner of assistance, friendship or communication with those who refused a strict obedience to the authorities of the church. The most deadly sin among the people was adultery, and many men were killed in Utah for that crime.

Rosmos Anderson was a Danish man who had come to Utah with his family to receive the benefits arising from an association with the Latter Day Saints. He had married a widow lady somewhat older than himself, and she had a daughter that was fully grown at the time of the reformation. The girl was very anxious to be and Anderson was equally anxious to take her for a second wife, but as she was a fine looking girl, Klingensmith desired her to marry him and she refused. At one of the meetings during the reformation Anderson and his step-daughter confeseed that they had committed adultery, believing when they did so Brigham would allow them to marry when he learned the facts. Their confession being full they were re-baptized and received into full membership. They were then placed under covenant, that if they again committed adultery Anderson should suffer death. Soon after this a charge was laid against Anderson before the Council, accusing him of adultery with his step-daughter. This Council was composed of Klingensmith and his two counselors; it was the Bishop's Council. Without giving Anderson any chance to defend himself or make a statement, the Council voted that the orders were that he must die by having his throat cut, so that the would atone for his sins. Anderson, being a firm believer in the doctrines and teachings of the Mormon church, made no objections, but asked for half a day to prepare for death. His request was granted. His wife was ordered to prepare a suit of clean clothing, in which to have her husband buried, and was informed that he was to be killed for his sins, she being directed to tell those who should inquire after her husband that he had gone to California. Klingensmith, James Haslan, Daniel McFarland and John M. Higbee dug a grave in the field near Cedar City, and that night about 12 o'clock went to Anderson's house and ordered him to get ready to obey the orders of the Council. Anderson got up, dressed himself, bid his family good bye, and without a word of remonstrance, accompanied those that he believed were carrying out the will of "Almighty God." They went to the place where the grave was prepared; Anderson knelt by the side of the grave and prayed. Klingensmith and his company then cut Anderson's throat from ear to ear, and held him so that

HIS BLOOD WOULD RUN INTO THE GRAVE.

As soon as he was dead they dressed him in his clean clothes, threw him into the grave and buried him. They then carried his bloody clothing back to his family, and gave them to his wife to wash, when she was again instructed to say that her husband was in California. She obeyed their orders. No move of that kind was made at Cedar City unless it was done by order of the "Council," or of the "High Council." I was at once informed of Anderson's death, because at that time I possessed the confidence of the people, who would talk to me confidentially and give me the particulars of all crimes committed by order of the church. Anderson was killed just before the Mountain Meadows massacre. The killing of Anderson was then considered a religious duty and a just act. It was justified by all the people, for they were bound by the same covenants, and the least word of objection to thus treating the man who had broken his covenant would have brought the same fate upon the person who was so foolish as to raise his voice against any act committed order of the church authorities.

How McCrary Became Secretary of War.

You have observed that George W. McCrary, of Iowa, who was set down in the original cast of the Cabinet for Attorney General, was not appointed for that place, but was made Secretary of War. This change, you must know, was brought about by the Pacific delegation. On the morning of the inauguration Senator Sargent called on President Hayes and objected to this appointment, because McCrary, while in the House of Representatives, had been a partisan of McGarrahan, and in his speeches had announced principles that attacked all mining rights that had not ripened into patent. He had also labored to have a suit brought by the United States against the mine owners in which McGarragan could intervene. Sargent urged that the law officer of the United States ought not to go into office with views so inimical to a prominent interest of the Pacific States and Territories. The President listened courteously, and promised to carefully consider the matter. That same day Mr. Sargent sent to him a document signed by the Senators and Representatives of the Pacific States enforcing his view, by the hand of Senator Sherman, at the same time sending word that the fight was not in any sense personal; and if the President saw fit to send in McCrary's name for any place in the Cabinet other than the Attorney Generalship or Secretaryship of the Interior—in either of which departments these questions might arise—no objections would be made. Thus McCrary became Secretary of War.—Washington Cor. Record-Union.

DISINFECTANTS.—It is well known that while chlorine, chloride of lime, zinc, and nitrous fumes are neutralizers of the odors of sulphureted, carburated, phosphoreted hydrogen, or ammonia, they have no power to arrest decomposition whereby these odors are produced. This, moreover, is readily accomplished by carbolic acid, phemyl creosote, and especially carbolate of camphor, which act like tannin upon all albuminous substances and prevent further decomposition. But carbolate of of camphor, according to Lansweert, has a double action. While it tans dead muscle upon contact, it kills every living sporule it touches, and thus, what is now believed to be the active principle of all contagious diseases is rapidly attacked and destroyed, and is therefore admitted to be the greatest scavenging principle in nature—a most powerful cleansing, neutralizing remedy. The combination and preparation, in a suitable fluid form, of the properties of carbolate of camphor, afford the means of bringing to bear, at any particular time and place, this most remarkable and effective agent in arresting and preventing contagious diseases. From dead bodies all chance of infection will be prevented and all effluvia destroyed by wrapping them in sheets saturated with a solution of carbolate of camphor.—New York Tribune.

THE Inyo railroad again makes one of its spasmodic, periodical attempts to push itself forward as a live institution. This time it seems to be a proposition from Jay Gould to meet the Inyo road half-way between Salt Lake City and San Bernardino. They have a comprehensive programme. CALIFORNIA LAND CASE DECISION. The Secretary of the Interior, in the case of Poley and Thomas vs. the State of California, involving title to a school section in Stockton Land District, has decided that title to all 16th and 36th sections of unoccupied public lands in California vests in the State at the date of survey, if at that time known to be mineral lands or not treated as such by the State. This important general principle has never before been authoritatively established. The section in controversy was not discovered to be mineral until four years after the date of survey; but according to this decision the State title would have firmly attached to the section if minerals had been discovered upon it the next day.

IT is now evident that the signing of what is known as the "protocol" has not in the least reduced the probabilities of war between Russia and Turkey. Indeed, if we credit the latest European dispatches, war is more imminent than it has been for some months. Russia has not disarmed; but is just as active in her war preparations as ever. Turkey is not satisfied with the protocol. One or more of the Turkish provinces has determined to resume offensive operations at the expiration of the armistice.

A SAN DIEGO telegram, under date of the 16th inst., says: The extraordinary wind storm of to-day is one of the most singular phenomena in the knowledge of the oldest inhabitant. The storm began in Arizona on Saturday, sweeping in a circle across the desert around and through Los Angeles and down the coast. At two P. M. the force of the wind reached its maximum velocity, being seventy-five miles per hour. The highest velocity ever before recorded here was thirty-nine miles per hour.

ALL accounts from Western Neveda unite in saying that times are harder now in that section than ever known there before. The Carson Tribune has interviewed Senator Shultz, Superintendent of the Justice mine, who says that "destitution is every where in theComstock city, and that it is heartrending to every good feeling man to have to listen to the cries of distress trom women who are depending on the employment of their husbands, and superintendents unable to give work in the mines."

THE San Joaquin valley this year presents a melancholy picture of desolation. The whole expanse of that section, except in the country aligning the rivers, is as bare as though a drop of moisture had not fallen there for years. Irrigation is a necessity on the San Joaquin plains, and the sooner it is inaugurated, on a systematic and wholesale scale, the better.

THE confession of Boss Tweed concerning the operations of Tammany Ring is telegraphed. His disclosures have created great excitement, as prominent persons of both political parties are charged with having shared in the plunder. Tweed's release is expected soon. He is said to be very much broken down and dispirited.

HEAVY FAILURE.—As the result of a long continued personal and financial fued, Jay Gould has caused the downfall of the great Wall street operator, Trenor W. Park, the President of several corporations, including the Panama railroad. Gould is a large gainer. The losses of Park will run into the millions.

THE Virginia Enterprise says: "It is confidently asserted by mining men that if times continue for sixty days more as they have been for the last thirty there will not be a mine on the Comstock in which work will be doing except those which are taking out ore enough to pay running expenses.

EVEN Kentucky papers are getting a correct idea of the Louisville lottery scheme since the concern won't pay its advertising bills. There's nothing like having a great truth brought home with force.

THE Los Angeles Star says than Col. E. C. Kewen has sent a postal card to his friends in general, and Democrats in particular, announcing himself as a candidate for State Senator.

SENATOR JONES, having completed his final report on the silver question. will immediately leave Washington for the Pacific Coast.

TRAMPS on the Central Pacific Railroad have taken to chucking the conductors off the trains and running the things themselves for awhile.

A HARD money journal says that the policy of the Government should be to pay up. We like paid up policies.

THE RISING GENERATION.

The Grangers in convention assembled are wrestling with the question: "What is to be done with our boys and girls?"—in other words, what is to be done to check hoodlumism? As yet no satisfactory conclusion has been reached, other than that it is really a most difficult and serious question, particularly with reference to the rising generation in the larger towns and cities. In all of those hoodlumism is daily becoming more and more rampant and dangerous. From those centers it, like other infections, is spreading everywhere, and thus becomes a matter that may well occupy the attention of Grangers and all classes of country people. The body above referred to seems to think the remedy must come through an improvement in our educational system. It is voted that the existing system attempts too much, and that it is not sufficiently practical in its tendencies. These are the only definite conclusions arrived at—none at all as to how to best improve this system so that it may become a check upon the rapidly increasing hoodlum spirit. The fact is, it is useless to expect any public educational system, no matter how much improved, to afford a perfect remedy, or anything like it, for this hoodlum infection. The remedy lies in home education, or not all. As the Sacramento Record-Union emphatically and truthfully remarks: "Any father who thinks that the public schools alone are or can be capable of making good and useful men and women of his boys and girls, is a fool, and unfit for the duties, the responsibilities, and the blessings of paternity." "Without home training the utmost efforts of professional educators under our school system can produce only accomplished hoodlums, and when the home training is what it ought to be the poorest of school teaching cannot prevent successful and gratifying results." No more of sensible truth could be expressed in in so many words than in those two sentences. Without proper home training both to start and end with no effectual stay to hoodlumism is among the possibilities.

The genus hoodlum ranks as a California invention both in name and characteristics. True, he is now found in a modified form in every city of the Union, but nowhere in such perfect development as in this State. It is here with that as with our big squashes, etc. —the conditions are all far more suitable for perfect and extensive growth. There are two causes for the increase of hoodlumism common to all the States—the effects of labor saving machinery, and the operations of Trade Unions, by which the apprentice system has very nearly become a thing of the past. In addition to certain ill effects produced by those two general causes, there are others somewhat special to this State and coast, and all tending to produce the same result. At the bottom, but not the whole trouble by any means, lies the Chinese question. That people not only monopolize many employments suitable for boys and girls as well as for many adults, but also tend to degrade labor to some extent. Besides this the extravagancies of life on this coast, superinduced by example of the rich, and splendid chances plausible to the hopes of the poorest, have engendered a sort of a shoddy spirit, the whole and sole tendency of which is to place plodding toil still further in contempt. The result is that shoddy parents prefer to raise their children as "gentlemen and ladies"—in the conventional sense of being above the necessities of common toil—and thus shoddy becomes responsible for a large portion and the worst elements of hoodlumism. And the suppression of the evil in the future can come only by the means pointed out by the Record-Union—home training in the first instance.

Hoodlumism is infectious, just the same as the measles, itch, etc. It needs but one or two bad cases to contaminate a whole townful of idle boys. Idleness is to this evil as filth and bad drainage are to contagious diseases—aiding both to originate and to spread, and affecting good and bad pretty much alike. Pride, of the shoddy sort, is to blame for by far the larger part of this hurtful idleness; but for that sort of pride, for which parents are alone responsible, there would be but precious little of this ruinous idleness and its evil consequences. It closes avenues to useful and, in the end, profitable employments oftener than any other single cause, and is therefore the creator of more hoodlums. Better to adopt the rigid discipline of certain navy officers, who can appreciate the dangerous tendencies of continuous idleness among their crews; these they set to "scouring the anchor" when there is nothing else to keep their minds and muscles employed—employment of some sort for our boys and girls is the one thing needed to prevent them from going to the bad. This they can all have, and to some useful purpose, if the parents would see to it. That is what is meant by home training, or at least, an important element in such training. It means schools, too, and of the best. But no school or school system can be devised that can make good the deficiencies of parental training, and to which the evil complained of is mainly chargable.

NEW LAND LAWS.

On the 12th instant Commissioner Williamson, of the General Land Office, issued a circular to all Registers and Receivers containing instructions requisite to carry into effect the two Acts of Congress approved on the 3d ultimo relative to homestead entries. The first provides a method of making final proof in homestead entries, dispensing with the present necessity of attendance at the District Land Office. The party desiring to avail himself thereof must appear before the Court of record of the county and State or district and Territory in which the land is situated, and there make the final proof required by law according to the prescribed form, which proof the Judge or Clerk of the Court is to transmit, together with the fees and charges allowed by law. The Judge being absent in any case, proof may be made before the Clerk of the proper Court. The fact of the absence of a Judge must be certified in the papers by the Clerk acting in his place. If the land in any case is situated in an unorganized county the statute provides that the party may proceed to make proof in the manner indicated in any adjacent county in the State or Territory. The fact that the county in which the land lies is unorganized, and that the county in which proof is made is adjacent thereto, must be certified by the officer.

The other law is entitled "An Act for the relief of settlers on public lands under the pre-emption laws." Under this statute the party desiring to change his claim under the pre-emption law to that of homestead entry should be required on making the change to appear at the proper Land Office with his witnesses and show a full compliance with the pre-emption law to the date of such change, as has heretofore been required in commutation cases, proof of such compliance to be forwarded with the entry papers to the General Land Office. When a party applies to make final proof he must show a continued residence and cultivation, as required by the homestead law. In case an adverse claim has attached to the land due notice, in accordance with the rules of practice, must be given all parties in interest of the time and place of submitting proof in support of the application to make such change. The adverse claimants will be entitled to the privilege of cross-questioning the applicant's witnesses and of offering counter proof.

THE FIGURES.—The following will give a clear understanding of the political situation in South Carolina and Louisiana, so far as figures can do it: Returning Board count for Govenor in Louisiana—Stephen B. Packard (Rep.), 74,624; Francis T. Nicholls (Dem.), 71,198; Packard's majority, 3,426. Democratic count—Nicholls, 84,487; Packard, 76,477; majority for Nicholls, 8,010. The registrations in 1876, same State, were: whites, 92,354; colored, 115,268; total, 207,622. South Carolina—Returning Board count for Governor: Daniel H. Chamberlain (Rep.), 86,504; Wade Hampton (Dem.), 83,071; Chamberlain's majority, 3,433; Democratic count: Hampton, 92,261; Chamberlain, 91,127; Hampton's majority, 1,134.

TO CHECKMATE BRIGHAM.—A mass meeting of Gentiles was held in Salt Lake on the 14th, right under Brigham's nose, at which some resolutions were adopted that, a few years ago, would have caused the old reprobate to have ordered out his Destroying Angels. These were, in brief, that no bigamist or polygamist should have the right to vote or hold any public office, or act as a juror. The resolutions ask Congress to amend the organic act of the Territory to the above effect. They were unanimously sustained by the meeting, which was largely attended, and in very dead earnest.

BRIGHAM YOUNG preached in St. George the other day, taking occasion to pay his respect to the late John D. Lee. A correspondent of the Pioche Record reports him as having said that "Lee's residence is now in hell; he did not go there on account of the Mountain Meadows massacre twenty years ago, but for telling lies on Brigham and the rest of the brethren later in life," What an unmitigrated scoundrel Brigham Young must be.

THE Los Angles Express says that a rich mining district has been discovered on the line of the Colorado desert. It has been named the Southern Pacific Railroad District, and it is said that the ore assays all the way from $200 to $3,000 per ton.

THE terrible opium habit is steadily on the increase in this country, and the demand upon the druggists and apothecaries for the different forms of article upon which it is fed, is constant and growing

WILL GO AHEAD.—President Hayes says that he will carry out his reform civil service and peace policy no matter if he is left without a party, or whether it disrupts one or both. He says it cannot make the condition of the colored Republicans any worse, and will make it better for the whites, and therefore for all in the end. His policy will certainly be endorsed by the mass of the people every where. It is a curious fact, but fact it is, that it is very distasteful to the extremists in both parties. They are dreadfully alarmed for fear it will leave nothing to quarrel about. They have for years been shedding the saltiest kind of tears because they couldn't have the veritable peace this policy indicates, and now that that hope is likely to be realized they won't be comforted; larger and saltier grow their tears; they want peace above all things, do these extreme Democrats and Republicans, but they want to conquer a peace by force of arms. "Blood, Iago, blood!"—and a chance to steal, and then the lion and sheep can take a a peaceful snooze together; without buckets of blood the ferocious sheep will never, never let the poor lion have a minute's peaceful repose. That is substantially what those fellows want Hayes to understand before it is too late—before he leaves them with no followers to lead around by the nose.

AMONG the many specimens which have been recently contributed to the cabinet of the Geological Society, are two pieces of rock taken from the face of the Sutro Tunnel, 16,240 feet from the surface. It was contributed to the Society by P. N. Mackey. It appears that in blasting the rock at that point a piece of carbonized wood, 24 inches long and four inches thick, imbedded in the solid, east country rock, was found at a depth of 1,600 below the surface, a specimen of which was also donated by Mr. Mackey. Mr. Hanks made a chemical examination of the same, and it proves to be undoubtedly carbonized wood. Mr. Wiegand, of Virginia City, has made an approximative analysis as follows: moisture, 55 per cent; volatile, 69; fixed carbon, 53.6; ash, 33.4. Total, 99.4.

THE COMING WAR.—An interview with Gen. Sherman brings out his opinion on the probable issue of the Russian-Turkish war as follows: "Russia has never had larger or better armies than now. The result will be that the world will witness the greatest battles ever fought, so far as destruction of life is concerned. I believe this stuggle is going to cost millions of lives and they will not be all Russians or Turks either. I can hardly believe the Turks can withstand the shock. They may may save Constantinople if they lose every other point. What good would it do them?" He also said he favored allowing our officers to visit the camps without pay.

MARY DONOHUE has brought suit for damages in $100,000 against Lucky Baldwin, for the seduction of her daughter, Jennie C. McCormick. The parties became acquainted when the girl and mother were employed in sewing for Mr. Baldwin while the hotel was being fitted up. Mrs. Donohue is reported to be a respectable, hard working woman. The daughter is rather vain and fond of admiration, but hitherto had borne a good reputation. Baldwin alleges that the suit is brought without cause and for the purpose of extortion.

THE latest news from Europe seems to indicate that war between Russia and Turkey is inevitable. Both governments are preparing for the conflict, and it would not surprise us to learn before the end of next week that war has been declared and the peace of Europe destroyed.

STAGES now run into Prescott, A. T., every other day: they come overloaded. Immigration increases so rapidly that passengers by the stage line have to stop over a long time upon the road waiting for their chance. So says the Prescott Enterprise.

THE order given by President Grant that eight hours shall constitute a day's work for Government employés, is to be revoked.

THE last storm in Visalia gave one and a tenth inches of rain, making in all about 3½ inches for the season.

DIVIDEND.—The Northern Belle declared its usual monthly dividend of $1 per share, paid on the 16th.

A proposition to disband about four-fifths of the regular army, and thus avoid the necessity of an extra session of Congress, is said to meet with favor in Cabinet circles.

MRS. Hayes and her children will spend part of the Summer at her old home at Fremont, Ohio and the President will remain in Washington.

Murat Halsted says that Washington McLean, the principal owner of the Cincinnati Enquirer, has less influence in that paper than any other living man.

Tweed's friends now assert that A. Oakey Hall was the real head of the Tammany Ring and shared in the plunder.

A reign of terror is said to exist in Oglethorpe county, Georgia, the scene of the recent riot.

DARWIN ITEMS.—In place of our usual quotations from the News of last week, we are enabled to present the following items of this week from the note book of the editor of that paper himself, since he is here and has been kind enough to furnish THE INDEPENDENT with the same:

Messrs. Harmon & Kehoe have taken the contract to pack the coal and wood supplies from foot of the Wild Rose road, on the west side of Panamint valley, up to the furnaces of the Modoc Company. Some twenty-five to thirty mules will be employed in this service. The Cerro Gordo Freighting Company has the contract for hauling the said supplies from Wild Rose to the point mentioned.

Both furnaces of the Modoc are running successfully, and turning out bullion valued at $600 to $700 per ton.

R. C. Jacobs, Superintendent of the Minnietta mill, came into Darwin on last Sunday and reported that the mill had started up on Saturday morning and was working well.

Wm. Donnell, the millwright having charge of the construction of the Minnietta mill, and who was brought into Darwin for medical treatment for remittent fever, was on Monday morning last attacked with congestive chills, from which he died. He was buried in the afternoon of that day. Mr. Donnell was an experienced man in his profession, and was highly respected by all who knew him.

J. H. Rawlings, the well-known machinist, who has been employed by nearly every company operating in this county, started for South America last Tuesday.

The news from Panamint, as obtained from Capt. J. G. Messie, Superintendent of the S. V. M. & W. Co., is to the effect that in the Hemlock mine, at a depth of about 650 feet, a vein of black metal nearly two feet in width has been struck. Some good ore has also been struck in the Wyoming at a depth of nearly 700 feet.

THE POINT AT ISSUE.—Col. H. I. Thornton passed through last evening on his way from Eureka to San Francisco. He is one of the counsel in the great mining suit between the Eureka Consolidated and the Richmond mining companies. We learn from him that the issue involved in the suit is simply whether there is one ledge or a series of ledges in the mines above named. The Eureka Consolidated Company allege that there is one lead traceable through Ruby Hill, while the Richmond Company assert that there is a series of ledges in the ground claimed by the contestants, and that the ore body in dispute is on a separate and distinct lead from the Eureka Consolidated. A great many experts, some of the most noted in the United States, have been examining the mines, and upon their opinions and testimony the case hinges. Professor Raymond says there is but one ledge and that it is as well defined as the Comstock. The case is to be tried in the United States Circuit Court at San Francisco.—Silver State

THE RACES.—By reference to our advertising columns it will be seen that the Columbus Jockey Club have made up $1,000 in purses, and will give five days' racing to commence May 5th. Mr. P. W. Murray, owner of the noted racer "Brown Frank," arrived yesterday, accompanied by his rider, Mitchel. Mr. Murray also brought in a pony known as "Red Bird," which he recently purchased on Bishop Creek. "Whistling Jack," Wm. Adam's pony, is also here. "Orphan Boy" is in town, and will be trained and entered by Mr. Jas. Richardson. Jas. Trask's "Emigrant" will probably be in to-morrow. Robert Russell, of Owens River, has purchased the "Fish Springs Mare" and "Dashaway," and has a trainer at work preparing them for the races. We hear the names of horses mentioned as coming, and it is expected that the purses will be closely contested for. Considerable interest interest is manifested in the match between "Joe Crabbe" and "Brown Frank," the backers of the respective horses being about equally divided, and equally sure of success.—Borax Miner, April 14.

MARK EZEKIELS has just returned from a trip to the mining district of Belleville, and gives a most discouraging account of the situation in that section. The place is described by him as overdone, and the sight of disgusted adventurers packing their blankets out of town is quite frequent. In Candelara, a town about eight miles from Belleville, the Virginia miners formed a Union, which met with such opposition that it was broken up and all its members thrown out of employment. To such an extent was the feeling carried that a Virginia saloon keeper who befriended members of the Union, was obliged to close out his business, as miners did not dare to patronize him for fear of discharge. Mark gives the following advice to those about to go Belleville—"Don't!"—Virginia Chronicle.

SARCASTIC.—In its announcement of Friedlander's failure last week the Call attributes his downfall to "generous concessions to San Joaquin agriculturists." It says Friedlander has been a substantial benefit to the State, and has helped to settle large tracts of land in the interior. The 200,000 acres of land owned by this generous citizen of the State, in this valley, was purchased at a cost of about 50 cents per acre in Minnesota Indian and school land scrip, and was sold to the settlers for $5 per acre. The only expression we hear in regard to the great speculator in human bread is that he has sunk low enough to never appear again as an oppressor of laboring men.—Visalia Delta.

A LARGE amount of land is being entered in this vicinity under the new desert land law.—Kern County Gazette.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT IN PURSUANCE of an order of the Probate Court of the County of Inyo, State of California, made on the 11th day of April, A. D. 1877, in the matter of the estate of J. W. Allyn, deceased, the undersigned, the Administrator of said estate, will sell at private sale, to the highest bidder, for cash in gold coin of the United States, and subject to confirmation to be held Probate Court, on or after the Twelfth Day of May, A. D. 1877, all the right, title, interest and estate of the said J. W. Allyn, deceased, in and to two certain lots of real estate, one hundred feet frontage by one hundred feet in depth, together with the houses and improvements thereon, situate in the town of Cerro Gordo, county of Inyo, State of California.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF SALE.

Cash, in gold coin of the United States. Deed at the expense of the purchaser. Bids or offers may be made at any time after the first publication of this notice and before the making of the sale. All bids must be in writing, and left at the office of R. P. Snelling, in the town of Independence, in said county, or delivered to the undersigned personally.

ALBERT W. YLAND, Administrator of the Estate of J. W. Allyn, deceased.

DISSOLUTION OF CO-PARTNERSHIP.

THE PARTNERSHIP EXISTING BETWEEN the undersigned is hereby dissolved by mutual consent, Joseph Langguth continuing the business, paying and receiving all bills due and against the firm.

THE REASON.—No action looking to the establishment of a branch hospital at Darwin, or other equivalent relief, was taken at the last session of the Board of Supervisors for the reason that that was a special meeting, and that nothing could be consummated in this matter without making it new business, and therefore not proper to be taken up at a special meeting. At the regular meeting, at which the petition was first presented, there were but two members present, and they held such diverse views as to the proper action to be taken that nothing was done. Then but one of two things remained to do: Another special meeting, which required time, or a postponement of the new business to the regular May term. It should be borne in mind that an unanimous vote to grant the prayer of the petition would have been of no avail in the absence of a legal and definite plan for its execution, which, in all matters requiring appropriations on contracts, must be in conformity with fixed rules of law. Involved in this matter is the fact that the Hospital Fund is so nearly bankrupt that before an appropriation in sufficient amount can be made, it is thought a general per capita hospital tax may have to be levied. That is the talk, and also that a definite and satisfactory plan of action will be settled upon at the next meeting.

THE DEATH OF AL. WAPELHORST.—Our home readers have all, ere this, learned of the death of Arnold Wapelhorst, formerly a widely known citizen of this place but more recently of Darwin, where he was proprietor of the Darwin Hotel. He died at that place on the night of Wednesday last, about 11 o'clock, from hemorrhage of the lungs. He had been ailing for some time from a cold, and upon the night mentioned, when about retiring to bed, a severe fit of coughing brought on the hemorrhage which caused his death within four or five minutes. His remains were inclosed in a zinc coffin, and, accompanied by Mr. S. G. Stebbins, his business manager in the hotel, were brought here and to-day interred in the Camp Independence cemetery. Mr. Wapelhorst was a native of Prussia, aged about thirty-four years. He leaves a young wife (née Lulu Lewis) and child to mourn his loss. Al's friends were legion, and he was a good man.

STOCK BOOKS OPEN.—The subscription book for the reception of names of investors in the Owens River and Lone Pine irrigation project will be opened at the store of Macarter & Phillippay, in Lone Pine, on Monday next. As to the true merits of the scheme, and the absolute necessity of doing something towards its final accomplishment, we shall have more to say anon. In the meantime, let our public spirited and level-headed citizens vie with each other as to who shall do the most in the good cause, and the reason for doing so may be summed up in three words—it will pay!

LIDA.—A corespondent writing from Lida Valley under date of the 12th instant reports as follows: "I think a brighter day is dawning for this section, and my confidence in the future success of this district is undiminished. We have good mines, and if properly managed they will become large bullion producers. Ore is being taken from the Sewana to ship to Sweetapple's mill at Columbus. Dr. Hanson, administrator of the A. L. Page estate, is expected here daily to start up business on the Lida Mill and Mining Company's mines and mill."

THE WAY THEY DO IT.—Some parties are so afraid they won't be able to hog enough of the trout planted in these little streams they can't be satisfied to take them with hook and line, but actually turn the stream out of the channel, and then after taking all the larger fish, are so contemptibly mean as to go off and leave all the small fry to die, it being too much trouble to turn the water back again. Such people would rob a grave yard.

CONTRACT LET.—Last week Mr. Eibeshutz, pursuant to instructions from the Company below, let a new tunnel contract on the Kearsarge mine, and the work of driving it is now going on. It will be remembered that the contract on the original tunnel was thrown up last Winter, having then been driven about 150 feet. The new tunnel begins about midway of the old one, diverging at almost an angle of 40°, and is expected to strike ore in 50 feet.

CERRO GORDO.—The Union Con. Company have effected a general reduction of 50 cents per day on the wages of all their employés—superintendents, furnace men, engineers, miners and laborers. So far as we have learned, none of the men have quit in consequence.

A GOOD BUSINESS CHANCE.—Parties looking for a business opening will find something worthy of note in the advertisement of Joseph Davis of Darwin, who offers for sale a two-thirds interest in the Darwin Brewery property. It is a paying concern.

THANKS.—In a note under date of April 19, Richard Hessian of Big Pine desires to return the thanks of himself and family to the many kind friends who rendered so much assistance and sympythy during the recent fatal illness of his wife.

HIS CONDITION.—John Viel, whose terrible accident at the Rex Montis cost him his eyesight, is town to-day, from the Camp Independence Hospital. He has recovered sufficiently to allow of removal to his home in Lone Pine.

OFF.—The May meeting of the Inyo Archery Club has been declared "off." The trouble seems to be that nearly all of the original officers and heavy managers are at present out of town.

PERSONAL MENTION.—Among the visitors to Independence during the week were T. S. Harris, of the Coso Mining News, who leaves our old friend W. T. Grant, somewhat noted in these parts, astraddle of the editorial tripod for the nonce. Mr. Harris accompanied the remains of A. Wapelhorst from Darwin to this point for burial, and proposes after assisting in that event to take a brief respite from business.... Uncle George Smith, formerly of the Northern Line but of late engaged in staging it on the Genoa and Silver Mountain road, is in town to-day.... Justice R. L. Peterson and Dr. Colleau of Lone Pine have favored this office with a visit, and A. G. Boley of Bishop called during the week.... John McCollister, one of Inyo's pioneer stage men, was here; he is now in business in and around Darwin.... Sam Cowles dropped in shortly after the arrival of that freight mentioned last week—weighing a thousand tons, more or less—but he didn't demand any cash from this concern; knew it was no use. Mr. Cowles says, however, that if the northern freights keep on increasing the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company will have to station another Cowles up here somewhere to attend to this part of the business. All the Darwin freights now go via Cartago. A lot of 15,000 pounds of freight is now en route for A. Spencer, one of the Bishop Creek merchants, who is now in town.... J. Wilcox Sharp, the heavy Darwin merchant—the conduct of whose business is left to his telegraphical, typographical boys—and who has made San Francisco his residence for the last seven months, also called.... Charley Miller returned from Europe on Saturday last, bringing with him from San Francisco the little daughter of Gus Stecker.... Mr. Vagt has gone to Mojave to meet and bring home Mrs. A. W. Eibeshutz and child.

THAT FISH BUSINESS.—As simply lecturing the vandals who seem intent solely upon depopulating our streams of trout has no effect, we desire to quote a little law on the subject. Section 635 of the Penal Code says: "Any person who shall catch, take or carry away any trout or other fish from any stream, pond or reservoir, belonging to any person or corporation, without the consent of the owner thereof, which stream, pond or reservoir has been stocked with fish by hatching therein eggs or spawn, or by placing the same therein, is guilty of a misdemeanor." Under the law a magistrate can impose a pretty heavy fine or imprisonment or both for the crime of misdemeanor, and if there is no other way of making people act decent this remedy should be promptly applied. We suggest that all those who contributed to the expensive experiment of stocking these streams should meet at Rowley's store to-night and take such steps in the matter as the circumstances may seem to warrant.

A CHICKEN THIEF.—On a farm near here a young lady, the other day, had her attention attracted to a young chicken, nearly half grown, sitting bunched up on the ground, and much distressed about something. That something proved to be a small snake, its whole length making four or five complete coils around the unfortunate bird, which was being slowly but surely compressed into a proper shape for his snakeship to swallow. The touch of a stick caused the reptile to quickly uncoil and glide away. The rescued chicken lived until the following day in a comatose state, and then went hence.

PIUTE DISTRICT.—Negotiations are in progress by which it is expected that R. M. Johnson's mill and mining interests in Piute District will, in a few weeks, become the property of Mr. Hunt of San Francisco. In that event Mr. Hunt will proceed at once to develop the mine as rapidly as it can be done consistent with sensible economy. That is, he will go to work with the sole view of making it pay as a legitimate, not a speculative, investment. In this expectation, Mr. Hunt and his family will make a home at Bishop Creek, from which point the mine and mill are in easy reach.

CHANGE OF CLERKS.—Yesterday evening we had quite a feathering of snow, served up fresh and cool enough for a Canadian mid-winter lay-out. It is evident that we have the same old clerk on the Spring shift, and that he proposes to give us a fair share of Winter if it takes all Summer—further, that he does not coincide with Hayes' in the lion and sheep policy, but will minister weather on the lion system exclusively, without regard to the sheep.

SCHOOL.—The school at the Post or Milton District began Wednesday morning, Mrs. A. Lowe, late of Havilah, being the teacher. This lady comes highly recommended as a teacher, that having been her profession for a number of years. She began her school the morning after her arrival here, having just closed a term at Havilah.

LODGE TO-NIGHT.—Inyo Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., meets to-night at the hall.

AFTER a Detroit boy had leaned up against a wall for two full hours, a policeman asked if he was waiting for anything in particular. "Waiting for a runaway to come along," replied the boy. "You want to see a team run away, do you?" "I want to see a truck team come zipping along here, hit that peanut stand in the middle, and while the sympathetic public are picking the Italian I want to be picking up the peanuts," was the frank reply. The officer decided to enforce the twenty-second joint rule, and the boy was made to move on.

"BLOW IT YOURSELF."—A learned and prominent Judge in one of our Southern cities, who has a very long nose, was playing backgammon with a testy General, who was, however, a warm and intimate friend of the Judge. The latter suffered from a severe cold in the head, and had been continually "sniffling" during the game, which, together with his being ahead, irritated the General, and he snapped out' "Oh, blow your nose!" "Blow it yourself," replied the Judge, "it's as near you as it is to me!" The General lost the game and treated.

A RECENT telegram states that the tracklayers on the Southern Transcontinental railroad are within sight of Arizona, thirty miles from the Colorado. A STRANGE STORY.

In Which an Ancient Cerro Gordoite is a Leading Character—The Early Days of the Comstock.

[From the Virginia Enterprise, April 12.]

Yesterday morning the reporter was awakened from his matitutinal repose by the sound of picks and shovels near, and within a few feet of where picks and shovels first sounded on the Comstock. A moment later he found himself at the old original Ophir dump, near the intersection of Carson and Howard streets, the wind flapping his shirt sleeves fitfully and mussing his unkempt hair as he stood watching some Mexicans undermining the dump. It may be said, by way of explanation, that nearly the whole of the old dump was removed to macadamize C street last Fall. To reach the bottom, therefore, only requires now the sinking of a few feet, where previously it would have been necessary to have sunk from twelve to twenty. The Mexicans, to the interrogations of the reporter as to their operations, gave the following explanation:

During the season of 1861, when the great freshet visited Sacramento, the Ophir was being worked for the rich ore of the croppings. This was not to be reduced by the rude appliances of the day, but was to be sacked and shipped on the hurricane decks of mules to California. Each mule load was worth from $1,000 to $1,200, so rich was the rock. At the time of that freshet, from twenty to thirty sacks of this ore had been taken out, and was ready to ship. The flood came down through Ophir ravine like the waves of the sea, taking everything before it. Cabins, and all sorts of mining works were swept away by its fury. It even took a brick building down on D street. The sacks of ore were never found afterwards. The leader of the gang, with hair and beard like the almond's snowy bloom, and who mined on the Comstock before it was ever seen by the original prospectors, said he was satisfied that the sacks were covered by dirt and debris near where they were digging, and where dumps had subsequently covered them still deeper. Now that the dumps had been so nearly removed, he expected to be able to find them readily.

The conversation having thus drifted into olden channels and the company having been increased by the presence of John L. Moore, one of the veteran prospectors of the Comstock, the reporter drew his note-book and listened.

Mr. Moore (to the gray-haired Mexican)—Did you know Savariano?

Mexican—Yes. He mined up here (pointing toward the old Mexican works) twenty years ago.

Moore—He was a great prospector.

Mexican—Yes. He found this (meaning the Comstock); he and Moldonado. Then he found Cerro Gordo. He discovered ore out there at Austin, too.

Moore—Did you ever go with him on his prospecting trips?

Mexican—Yes. I was with him when he found Cerro Gordo.

Moore—Oh, ho! then you know something about the forty loads of ore stolen from Moldonado?

The Mexican looked alarmed; glanced at the reporter, shook his hands, shook his head, and refused to talk any more. At a nod from Mr. Moore the reporter took the hint without waiting for a boot as a starting point, and left.

An hour later he made it very convenient to meet Mr. Moore, and from him he got the rest of the story.

When the pioneers first came to this section they found Mexicans working the claim named after them, but which is now part of the Ophir mine. The ledge from which this ore was taken has never yet been found by the Americans. In those days one-half of the claim was owned by Moldonado, and was worked by Savariano. The ore was very rich—a single mule load being worth from $1,000 to $1,200. This was taken by pack mules to California by the way of Placerville. Some forty mule loads had been taken out and prepared for packing.

Next morning it was found that the pack train under Savariano had departed in the night. The lead had been covered up and has never been found since. The only thing ever seen or heard of the train was by an early teamster as it was filing towards the mountain by Woodford's, and beyond Genoa. Savariano had played Moldan do false, had stolen the mules and from $40,000 to $50,000 in ore, and left the country. Instead of going through by Placerville, he had kept along the eastern slope of the mountains, struck down by Aurora, thence through Mono into Inyo county, California. It was during this flight that the gold mines of Cerro Gordo, in Inyo county, were discovered, and the white haired Mexican said yesterday that Savariano was in that section now.

A year ago last Summer Mr. Moore saw a Mexican walking over the section where the old original Mexican claim lay. He watched the man for an hour, as he appeared to be searching for something, but seemed unable to find the bearings. At last Mr. Moore interviewed and found him to be Savariano. He was then searching for the lead from which this rich ore had been taken, and which, on the night of the flight, had been covered up. Savariano at that time asserted, as does the old white haired Mexican who was with him while here and who went away with him, that the rich lode from which that ore was taken has never been discovered, but remains to-day on the Ophir ground as it was left at that time. Savariano, when here, tried to get a lease of the ground of the Ophir company, but did not succeed. The old Mexican says things have changed so that he cannot tell for sure where the lode lay, but that Savariano knows where it is, and can uncover it in a day or two.

There are several things which go to corroborate this wonderful story. The sudden disappearance of the Mexicans and their pack mules is well known to all early Comstockers. This was followed by a cessation of work on the claim and desertion of the premises.

How to Explode a Lamp.

The Scientific American gives some of the circumstances which lead to the explosion of kerosene lamps, the philosophy of all of them being that the flame may pass down the wick and ignite the vapor which accumulates in the upper portion of the lamp. This vapor is not explosive as the term is ordinarily understood, but when it is confined so that the gases resulting from its combustion cannot escape freely into the open air the vessel confining it will be shattered. This ignition of the vapor may be brought about as follows:

1. A lamp may be standing on a table or mantel, and a slight puff of air from the open window or door may cause an explosion.

2. A lamp may be taken up quickly from a table or mantel and instantly be exploded.

3. A lamp is taken out into the entry where there is a draft, or out of doors, and an explosion ensues.

4. A lighted lamp is taken up a flight of stairs, or is raised quickly to place it on the mantel, results in an explosion. In these cases the mischief is done by the air movement—either by suddenly checking the draft or forcing air down the chimney against the flame.

5. Blowing down the chimney to extinguish the light is a frequent cause of explosion.

6. Lamp explosions have been caused by using a chimney broken off at the top, or one that has a piece broken out, whereby the draft is variable and the flame unsteady.

7. Sometimes a thoughtless person puts a small wick into a large burner, thus leaving considerable space along the edges of the wick. An old burner, with its air draft clogged up, which rightfully should be thrown away, is sometimes continued in use, and the final result is an explosion.

As soon as a mine turns out rich or some one wants to buy it along comes somebody and says he owns part of it. The latest instance in point is that of the Peck mine, in Arizona. Wm. M. Lent is said to have bought it for $400,000; and now comes Wm. Cole, of Prescott, Arizona, and says he has instituted suits to recover an undivided 900 feet in each of the two claims constituting the 3,000 feet of the mine.—Scientific Press.

Disrespect at Home.

One of the dangers of the house life is this habit of disrespect—that which is bred by familiarity. People who are all beauty and sunshine for a crowd of strangers, for whom they have not the faintest affection, are all ugliness and gloom for their own, by whose love they live. The pleasant little prettiness of dress and personal adornment, which mark the desire to please, are put on only for the admiration of those whose admiration goes for nothing, while the house companions are treated only to the ragged gowns and thread-bare coats, the tonzled hair and stubby beard, which, if marking the ease and comfort of the sans facon of home, mark also the indifference and disrespect which do so much damage to the sweetness and delicacy of daily life. And what is true of the dress is also true of the manners and tempers of home, in both of which we too often find that want of respect which seems to run side by side with affection and the custom of familiarity. It is a regretable habit under any of its conditions, but never more so when it invades the home and endangers still more that which is already endangered too much by other things. Parents and upbringers do not pay enough attention to this in the young. They allow habits of disrespect to be formed—rude, rough, insolent, impatient—and salve over the sore with the stereotyped excuse, "They mean nothing by it," which, if we look at it aright, is worse than no excuse at all: for if they really mean nothing by it, and their disrespect is not what it seems to be, the result of strong anger, uncontrollable temper, but is merely a habit, then it ought to be conquered without loss of time, being a manner that hurts all parties alike.—London Queen.

WHEN the St. Nicholas railway was built, in 1868, from St. Petersburg to Moscow, the work was done under contracts with American engineers, and the cars and engines were supplied from Baltimore by the famous establishment of the Winans Brothers. The Russian priests oppose every modern innovation, and, of course, they were "down on the railway. When it was opened they determined to stop it, and so they went in force to a point on the road and set up a holy picture to stop the new work of the devil. The train came slowly along, and the engineer seeing the picture on the track, thought there was a man behind it, and to came to a halt. The assembled multitude raised a shout, and the priests called out that the saint was all-powerful and would prevail against wickedness. The officer in charge of the train came out and took a survey of the situation. Then he told the engineer to run back a quarter of a mile and bring the train to a halt. The shouting was redoubled and the priests were in the most rapturous delight, but their exultation was soon changed to grief, as the master of ceremonies told the engineer, "Put on all steam and go ahead without regard to consequences." The engine went ahead, and down fell the holy picture, torn and crushed by the wheels of an American locomotive. Modern civilization was triumphant and the priests and their followers no longer shouted in triumph.

SATURDAY, APRIL 28.....1877.

OUT of the maze of legal complications which involve the affairs of the Continental Life Insurance Company, a very important result seems likely to be attained. Judge Westbrook has decided that neither a creditor nor a stockholder of a life insurance company can maintain an action to dissolve it. If this decision is sustained on appeal, only the Attorney-General, basing his action on a recommendation of the State Insurance Department, can obtain from the courts an order for the dissolution of such a company.

THE opinion is universal among English bankers that the ultimate effect of the Eastern complications must be favorable to American securities. At present everything is down in the market, but the money current will soon turn decisively this way. It is confidently believed that the war must soon compel more thoughtful consideration of the whole field of finance, and this must lead inevitably to increased investments in American securities.

THE Czar of Russia has issued a manifesto, in which he says the war will not be one of conquest, but only to secure to the Sclavonic races of the East protection to their persons, property and religion from Turkish cruelty and fanaticism. In other words, when the war opens, men will be slaughtered, women outraged and children orphaned for God's sake.

IN the events of European war the island of Perim, lying at the gate of the Red Sea, and commanding the seaway from the Mediterranean to the Indian ocean, will become a second Gibraltar. England first took possession of the island in 1799, abandoned it two years later, and re-occupied it in 1857, much to the chagrin of the French.

AN oil-tank containing 20,000 barrels of oil was set on fire by lightning in the oil district of Pennsylvania, April 22. The flames communicated to two other tanks of 25,000 barrels, all of which were consumed, together with the village of Troutman.

IT is said that ex-Senator Winslow, implicated by Tweed's confession, has fled to Canada.

TO BE VOTED UPON.

The Los Angeles Express calls attention to the fact that, this Fall, we are to vote upon the question of amending Articles II and VI of the State Constitution, and also on the proposition to call a Convention to revise that instrument. These are the same issues that were submitted at the last general election, previous to which we did what we could in their favor. The preceding Legislature and the one following (the last) both passed the bill to amend, so that it now only requires the ratifying vote of the people to effect the important changes in the organic law contemplated in those amendments. The proposition to call the Convention received a favorable vote at the last election, but not a majority of the entire vote cast, and was therefore declared lost. When a ballot has neither "yes" nor "no" upon it in relation to questions of this sort (or any other for the matter of that) it counts as no in the the canvass. At the last election the "yeses" were in excess of the "noes," but not of the latter and the blanks (containing neither of those words) both, hence the defeat. All who desire these changes will see from this the necessity of putting the "yes" on their tickets; otherwise it will be the same as voting no.

If the amendments are adopted the functions of the present Supreme Court are abolished after the first Monday in January, 1879. The number of the Justices on the Supreme Bench will then be increased from five to seven, and the term of office to fourteen years. The October elections will be discontinued. The office of County Judge will be abolished, and, instead, each county will have a District Judge, who will have the same jurisdiction, but confined to his own county, as at present, and at the same time perform all the judicial duties now delegated to the County Judge. In short the whole judiciary system is to be changed materially, as will in due time be noted.

Article II is to be so amended as to strike out the word "white," and all reference to Indians and their descendants in the rights of citizenship. It also changes the time for general elections from September to November, and makes stringent provisions against bribery and election frauds.

There are several good points in favor of the Convention for a general revision of the Constitution. While there are some plausible objections to such tinkering with an organic law which, on the whole, is quite up to the average, yet we fully agree with the Express that the weight of the argument is decidedly in favor of the proposed revision. That paper says: "The present Constitution has been in existence twenty-six years. During that time the character of the interests and industries of the State has been subjected to the most radical revolution, and principles that were applicable to the well-being of the Commonwealth at the commencement are entirely obsolete now. Let us take one feature of the Constitution, and we shall see how inapplicable it is to our present condition. In 1849 the main population was composed of adventurers and gold-seekers. In a democratic form of goverument, these would hold the balance of political power. The natives, who possessed all the lands, would have been left at the mercy of this irresponsible element had it not been for that provision of the Constitutien which requires Assessors to be elected from the district to be assessed, and which makes their returns final. But now, that California has become a State of agriculture and homes, that provision acts injudiciously. It leaves the State without power to revise the assessments of the local Assessors, and thus evolves the dilemma that one portion of the Constitution declares that taxation shall be uniform, while another portion of it places in the hands of Assessors discriminating power which renders uniformity impossible." One obvious result of this anomaly is that the improved lands of small holders are taxed to their "full cash value," while the unimproved principalities of the grabbers are assessed at rates so nearly nominal they might about as well be ignored altogether—the sum of the revenue derived from that class of lands hardly equals wages for the Assessor for the time spent in riding over them. Thus the grabbers are enabled to hold their broad tracts intact, a detriment to general advancement in various ways, and all because they do not bear a fair share of taxation. The remedy for this and attendant evils can only be attained through a revision of the Constitution by which a State Board of Equalization may have power to supervise the work of County Assessors with an eye to uniform taxation. There is much to be said in support of the revision proposition, and possibly against it, and it is to be hoped it may all be said in time to call out a full and direct vote.

THE Blaok-Hillers held a mass meeting at Deadwood on the 21st, at which Congress was memorialized to create a new Territory, embracing that region, to be called Lincoln.

MURDER WILL OUT.—The Eureka Sentinel has, of late, indulged alarmingly in cock-and-bull stories relating to wonderful, very wonderful happenings in that section—its meteoric, red hot bonanza, for instance, was a creditable effort. Its absurdity was sufficient to guarantee the honesty of the intent, so it does not appear that anybody but the intelligent city dailies was deceiv-ed, or suck-ed in, or draw-ed on that time. But now comes another of its stories, this time about a murder most foul, very remarkable throughout, and yet perfectly plausible in all its thrilling details. We can give but the merest outline: In a lonely coal-burner's cabin in Culver's Cañon the dead body of a man was found. The body was given a rude burial on the following day by the discoverer and two of his companions, but not the slightest clue was found leading to the identity of the deceased. Four months passed, when, about the 15th of this month, James Thornton while out after stock happened to go into this old cabin, and while there his eye fell upon the edge of a book sticking between the side of the bunk and the wall. This proved to be the written confession of a murderer, Lee Singleton by name, and the same person whose body was found as above stated. It was dated November 17, 1876, and stated that the writer, after four years of wanderings had, by remorse, been driven there to die by his own hand; that he had built that cabin six years ago, and lived in it two years, then and ever after suffering the torments of the damned for having deliberately murdered a fellow workman named John Murphy. The foul deed was done by first knocking Murphy senseless with a shovel, then pitching him head first into one of the farnaces at Eureka, at which both were working as feeders. Never, for one waking instant for the six years following, had he been able to drive the horror of that moment from his mind, and an irresistible fascination had drawn him to its scene, and then to this lonely cabin he had built soon after, there to die by his own hand.

AMONG the irrigation ditches recently completed is that of the Lassen Flume Company, California, which proposes to irrigate 15,000 acres of sagebrush land in the valley of Susan river, near Honey Lake, east of the main summit of the Sierra Nevadas, at an elevation of 4,200 feet above the sea. The cost of the work so far has been $70,000, including two miles of flume six feet square and an inverted syphon pipe 42 inches in diameter and 560 feet long, to carry the stream across a depression 80 feet deep. The water for the ditch is drawn from Willow Creek, and the Company are now at work on a cut a mile and a half long, with an average depth of 22 feet, to drain Eagle Lake to a depth of 11 feet below its average level. The lake has an area of 110 square miles, holding a vast supply of water available for irrigating and manufacturing purposes.

THE reforms now being prosecuted in the departments at Washington threaten to break up some very pleasant family parties. One instance is cited where seven members of the same family are employed in the Treasury Department, their salaries aggregating $2,000 a month.

THE Louisiana Commission have closed their labors and returned to Washington. Nicholls is now in undisputed possession of the Government, and has inaugurated an era of good feeling by paying the employés of the Packard Legislature.

THE defiant attitude of Turkey is explained by letters from Constantinople. The Ottomans are rendered confident by assurances that Poland will furnish moral and material aid against Russia in the course of the impending war.

THE survey for a railroad to the Black Hills has already begun, and the festive Sioux smacks his lips over the prospect of a fresh prize-package boy for dinner every day before the close of another season.

COUNT VON MOLTKE, in conversation at the Reichstag, strongly doubted that the Russians would gain an easy victory in the event of war, and he gave great praise to the efficiency of the Turkish soldiers.

IT is semi-officially stated that the order to the German recruits residing abroad to rejoin their regiments is only the usual annual summons issued every year, and is not connected with political affairs.

THE Sacramento Bee says nearly all the emigrants now arriving from the East are farmers, but they all continue to go to San Francisco.

SOME colored men in Nashville, Tennessee, have formed a military company and gave it the name of the Key Rifles.

CONSCRIPTS of the Prussian army located in England have received orders to join their regiments in Germany immediately.

American Inventive Progress.

Under the above heading the Scientific American of April 7 has a long and interesting article, from which we make the following extracts:

To show with what rapidity inventors made improvements on inventions embodying original principles, it may be noted that in the early days of the sewing machine 116 patents were granted for improvements thereon in a single year; and out of the 2,910 patents issued in the year 1857, 152 were for improved cotton-gins and presses, 164 for improvements on the steam engine, and 198 for novel devices relating to railroads and improvements in the rolling stock. In the year 1848, three years after the publication of this paper was commenced, but 660 patents were granted; but under the stimulus of publishing those inventions as they were patented, ten years later, in 1858, the number had increased sixfold, reaching 3,710, while up to January 1, 1850, the aggregate of patents issued amounted to 17,467: since that time and up to the present the total is 181,015.

And cariosity here leads us to review our own work, extending back, say, twenty years, or to 1857, a period during which 170,745 patents have been issued. We find, by actual count, that 62,062 applications have been made through the Scientific American agency for patents in the United States and abroad. This averages almost ten applications per day, Sundays excluded, over the entire period, and bears the relation of more than one quarter to the total number of patents issued in this country up to the time of writing.

The Rover Case

The Reno jury, in the Rover murder case, failed to agree, standing eight for acquittal and four for conviction. There must have been eight men on the jury who believed Rover's story that he saw McWorthy kill Sharp. In commenting on the result of the case, the Winnemucca Silver State says: "It is a little remarkable that a Reno jury should construe the evidence which pointed to Rover as the murderer so differently from Humboldt juries. That I. N. Sharp was brutally butchered there is no doubt whatever. His mutilated remains, hacked to pieces, bore incontrovertible evidence of the fact. Circumstances, as construed by two juries in this county, pointed to J. W. Rover as the murderer. In Reno eight of the twelve presumably unprejudiced men, who were sworn to try the case, decided under oath that he was not guilty, and the question is asked, if Rover did not kill Sharp, who did?

THE same paper of a later date (the 21st instant) records the conclusion of the case, as follows: We are informed by District Attorney Harding that he telegraphed to the District Attorney of Washoe county yesterday to enter a nolle prosequi in the Rover case. He is of the opinion that it is useless to prosecute the case further; there is no hope of convicting Rover, now that eight of twelve jurors were for acquiting him. He therefore considers it his duty to stop the expense of another trial, which in all probability would result in a disagreement of the jury, if not the acquittal of Rover. — Reese River Reveille

Perhaps he boards there on time. —Norristown Herald.

Of course everybody in Boston takes his notes.—St. Louis Republican.

It would be base to charge him treble.—New York Herald.

Yes, it would be altogether too high, although he may not come sing-ly, but by the ten-or a dozen.—Boston Sunday Times.

Sankey ought to find no difficulty in footing his score.—Arcadian.

Perhaps he can duet, unless he has to put up for a quartet of them.—Eureka Sentinel.

Before he would do that he would shake the bar-keep for the bill, or make double-time out of that. But you flats are mighty harmonious when, with one accord, you strike in to slur a gospel sharp. Give him a rest.

GEN. COLTON, accompanied by ex-Governor Hendricks and party, left for the railroad front yesterday, and will probably not return until Wednesday. Quite a concourse of citizens were at the depot to welcome the party, but they only made a stay of a few minutes and passed on to their destination. It is evidenly Governor Hendricks's intention to travel without ostentation or parade, just as any other private citizen would do. It is to be hoped that he will spend some time in the inspection of Los Angeles, on his return from the desert.—Los Angeles Express, April 21.

IT is said that large numbers of German colonists in Southern Russia will emigrate to this country and Brazil to escape being drafted into the army.

IT is estimated that the Rover murder case has cost Humboldt county $20,000.

La DESPRESIADA LEAD AND SILVER MINE.

No 75.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, Independence, California, April 26, 1877.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT JOHN R. HUGHES, Daniel H. Williams, Joseph Diaz and Philippi Artaga, whose postoffice address is Cerro Gordo, Inyo county, California, have this day filed their application for a patent for 1,417 linear feet of the La Despresiada Lead and Silver Mine lode or vein, bearing ores, with surface ground 200 feet in width, situate, lying and being in Cerro Gordo Mining District, County of Inyo and State of California, and known and designated by the field notes and official plat on file in this office as Lot No. 50, in township 16 South, Range 38 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian; the exterior boundary of said Lot No. 50 being as follows, to-wit:

Variation 15 deg 45 min East: Commencing at post P B La D M, on the north end of claim on line of lode; thence south 70 deg east 1.62 chains to post P 1 La D M, in mound of rocks; thence south 20 92 chains to post P 2 La D M, in mound of rocks; thence west 3 03 chains to post P 3 La D M, in stone mound; thence north 22.02 chains; thence south 70 deg east 1.28 chains to post P 4 La D M, in mound of rocks; thence south 70 deg east 1 33 chains to place of beginning, containing 6 50-100 acres. From said last described post, P B La D M, a corner on 4th Standard Parallel South common to Sections 3 and 4, in Township 17 South, Range 38 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, bears south 33 deg 17 min west 451.50 chains. This claim is bounded on the north by the Union Lead Mine, and is of record in Book D, page 267, of the Cerro Gordo mining district records.

Any and all persons claiming adversely any portion of said La Despresiada lead and silver mine, or said mining ground, as hereinbefore described, are required to file their adverse claim with the Register of the United States Land Office at Independence, in the State of California, during the sixty days' period of publication hereof, or, they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the statute.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, APRIL 28.....1877

THE MILITARY LODGE.—A public installation of officers for Honor Military Lodge No. 4, I. O. G. T., will take place at 7 o'clock on Thursday evening, May 3, 1877, at the lodge room in Camp Independence. Following are the officers elect: Charles O'Neil, W. C. T.; Hamilton Hunter, W. V. T.; Christian Schmidt, W. S.; John O'Dwyer, W. F. S.; Henry Freedman, W. T.; Charles Schilpp, W. M.; Anton Nusser, W. I. G.; Thomas F. Leonard, W. O. G.; Cornelius Huntington, P. W. C. T.; William Goodlow, L. D. After the ceremony a collation will be served. Honor Lodge is one of the staunchest institutions of the country, and we venture to say that all who may go for the purpose of witnessing the beautiful ceremony will be well pleased with the entertainment. Among the charities recently dispensed by this organization were the sums of $20 and $25, voted respectively to the Orphan's Home and ex-G. W. C. T. Jabez Walker.

MOST TO HIS LAST LEGS.—Somebody tells us privately that County Clerk Wm. B. Daugherty is pretty certain in his own mind that if he has to continue to act as Court Commissioner, and as such, is required to sift and digest facts in referred suits for co-partnership settlements, wherein the testimony is not only diametrically contradictory, but is continued from day to day and week to week, and is no more exhilirating in the most thrilling passages than that interminable story about the Jumping Frog of Calaveras, and—and—where are we?—frogs, legs, Hill, Robinson, Daugherty?—yes, that's it: Wm. B. thinks he'll be dead as a door nail some of these days if that sort of thing is kept up long enough, and would like to have his epitaph to read: "Died at his post, pursuant to order of Court, of too much testimony about mules and things," or words to that effect.

FEELS DISCOURAGED.—Buckingham, the young man in jail here awaiting trial for the murder of Anderson at the Lucky Jim mine, is reported as saying that he considers his chances remarkably good to have his neck broken according to law, and feels somewhat depressed in spirits in consequence. If at all ambitious for the distinction, it ought to be comforting to him to know, in case his anticipations are realized, that out of half a hundred or so of deserving subjects he will have the honor of being the very first to so stand up in full vindication of the law in this county. Boyd, awaiting trial on a similar charge, is far more hopeful, but whether from a consciousness of being less guilty, or safety in having the best counsel in the county to defend him, can only be surmised. Buckingham is dependent upon the Court for counsel to defend him.

OVERDID IT.—As might have been expected the weather clerk on the Spring shift has overdone the business very much, giving us more actual winter than was ever before experienced here for the same period. The result is that the fruit and early vegetable crop in the upper part of the valley is badly damaged if not entirely ruined. From Big Pine southward the damage is not material. At this writing the indications are that we will have warm weather in earnest henceforth.

ASSISTANCE.—THE INDEPENDENT typographical force is to be augmented next week by the addition of a thoroughly competent "print" lately from the East. Everything goes then; all job orders will be filled more promptly; our columns will be better filled; our Lokle items will astonish the reading public with the number and smartness of his lucubrations, and—and—people will once in a while be asked to pay their printer's bills.

ON THE MOVE.—We notice many emigrant outfits passing, lately. As a the wagons and stock are of the best class, and not much travel worn, indicating the owners to be in fair pecuniary circumstances, and more as "movers" than emigrants "the plains across." A few were traveling southward, but by far the larger number in the opposite direction, but where to or whence they came we cannot say.

MARRIED.—Whether he thinks with Shakspeare that "All the world's a stage" or not, J. P. Taylor, of Lone Pine, managing agent of the Kern & Inyo Line, has gone and got hitched (into the matrimonial traces) himself. See notice. Hope the new team will work well together on life's grades.

DISTRICT COURT.—Hon. Theron Reed will begin a term of Court one week from next Tuesday. The calendar, comprising both criminal and civil actions, shows about forty cases, the titles and nature of which will be given in our next.

SHEEP.—A band containing some 4,000 sheep passed north, a day or two since, coming from one of the dried-up southern counties, now in search of pastures new in Mono. While traveling the band has lost some 2,000 young lambs.

SATISFACTORY.—Mrs. Lowe's school at the Post is progressing finely, having at this time upwards of thirty pupils in regular attendance, which is a very large number for that district. Several of them go from this place, however.

A PROMISING VENTURE.—Our old friend "Mac"—his honor, Thos. McDonough—has just returned to Cerro Gordo from San Francisco, and talks of putting up a grist mill in Saline Valley.

COUNTY COURT.—Judge Hannah will hold an official investigation into the Smith larcency business, commencing next Monday.

THE CEMETERIES.—The Camp Independence cemetery, under the careful and systematic care of the Post authorities, is becoming a beautiful spot, and most appropriate as the resting place of the dead. Under the regulations all graves are marked with headstones, some of which are very costly. In this connection we note the fact that the Jewish cemetery, north of town, is receiving attentions of the same kind, a large gravestone ,having last week been put over the remains of the late Mrs. Huldah Levy. And, recurring to the former, we will again call attention to the fact that there is a number of graves there marked "unclaimed and unknown," as regulations require in every instance where they have not previously been marked by substantial and plainly lettered head boards or stones. Parties having friends or relatives lying there "unclaimed and unknown," should see to this at once.

IN TOWN.—Hon. Theron Reed arrived in town by the Northern line on Thursday last, looking well and being a week ahead of time....Seth G. Sneden, of Bishop, is among the visitors; says he does not propose to leave Inyo yet. ....Robert Trigg, late of Darwin, is here, making preparations for going into business and becoming a permanent resident....Messrs Dodge and Lasky, from Lone Pine, called yesterday....Paul Bennett reached home from Mono early in the week, feeling the better of his trip....Mrs. A. W. Eibeshutz, accompanied by her sister, arrived yesterday, coming from George's Creek with Mr. Dodge; at that point Vagt had the bad luck to lose one of his horses....P. Reddy came in from Darwin on Tuesday last, and will remain during the session of the District Court.

MEETING.—We received a call this morning from Mr. Janviers, of Lone Pine, who is here in connection with certain business matters of the Owens River and Lone Pine Irrigating Company, of which he is Acting Secretary. As will be seen by a notice elsewhere a meeting is set for next Wendesday evening to take action on that project, and to which all, whether stockholders present or prospective or otherwise, are solicted to attend. Stock is being subscribed for at a satisfactory rate, and the enterprise will certainly be carried out. We cannot now say more.

BRING IT BACK.—The party who took the large dictionary (Webster's Unabridged) from the Independence school house immediately after examination day, will confer a mutual benefit by returning it immediately to one of the Trustees, O. I. Mairs, N. Rhine or P. A. Chalfant. Also, there are a number of other school library books that have been taken out and remain out. Will the borrowers be good enough to return them at their earliest convenience?

MARRIED.—At the Court House, Wednesday, April 25, by the Hon. J. A. Hannah, County Judge, Fong Chong, aged 32, of this place, to Mrs. Gew How, aged 23, of Cerro Gordo, all, except the Judge, formerly of Canton, China. The bride was given away in due form by George Gill, and Mr. Chong was all aglee with new found felicity. No cards. Canton papers please copy.

A CERTAINTY.—In a note ordering supscription books, stock books, certificates, etc., for the Big Pine Canal Company, the Secretary, J. J. Moore, says that the final accomplishment of the objects of the company may be considered as an established fact. They have ordered scrapers and are going to work in earnest.

DEATH OF A PIONEER.—Isaac Hitchcock, a pioneer of the State and county, died at his residence south of Independence on the 26th instant, from heart disease. He was the father of a large family, and passed to his long home at the advanced age of 71 years.

RACES AT BENTON.—The Benton Jockey Club announce their Spring races, to begin June 8th, for which they offer liberal purses. It will be noted that the Club have adopted some rigid rules to prevent fraud—a most sensible arrangement.

THE GOOD WORK.—The renowned revivalists, Moody and Sankey, who are now wrestling with the intellectual Bostonians, are said to have a couple of very successful imitators, with a noble following, at Cerro Gordo.

THENCE North 28° 16′ 12″ W. [var. 15° 17′ 13″ E.] 23.09 chains to post marked P*4CE¶ Æ§£È₽Á‖Ñ, in mound of rocks bears———well, if you want to know any more about this thing, consult those patent notices.

HIS WHEREABOUTS.—Wm. H. Van Arsdale, resident superintendent of the Owens Lake Silver-Lead Company in the flourishing days of that institution, sailed for Europe from New York last week.

MORE LUMBER FACILITIES.—Jim Stewart has been engaged in fixing up the Big Pine saw mill, supplying it with a new saw, edger, etc., and generally preparing it for the Summer trade.

A NEW FIRM.—W. R. Johnson has become a partner in interest in the merchandising business of V. Hoff, Cerro Gordo. Legal announcement of the new firm next week.

MAY-DAY.—Tuesday next is May-day, with no provisions made for a queen or anything of that sort, so far as heard from.

ASSESSMENT.—The Rex Montis has levied an assessment (No. 5) of $2 per share, delinquent June 4.

ALECK STEPHENS has used for over thirty years a gold headed cane Secretary Thompson gave him away back in the forties.

A Comstock editor says he can hear the clash of arms in Europe. A case of telephone or very long ears.—Carson Tribune.

ANOTHER band of hostile Indians—Cheyennes—surrendered to General Crook on the 21st. They were completely destitute of the commonest necessaries, and many were suffering from frozen limbs, which renders it a matter of surprise that they have held out so long.

THE WAR COMMENCED.—Dates of the 25th state that the war between Russia and Turkey has actually begun. The Czar has started 50,000 troops for the frontier, and the Porte has been tormally notified that war exists between the two countries.

IN a Kansas school it is a rule that when a girl misses a word, the boy who spells it is allowed to kiss the girl. The boys improve rapidly under the rule, while the girls cannot spell the simplest words.

The citizens of Ward are petitioning the Post Office Department for a seven days mail between Eureka and Pioche, and further, that the schedule time be shortened from 72 to 36 hours.

THE ELEPHANT AND THE COCKNEY. "That's a werry knowing hannimal of yours," said a cockney gentleman to the keeper of an elephant.

"Very," was the cool rejoinder.

"He performs strange tricks and hantics, does he?" inquired the cockney eyeing the animal through his glass.

"Surprisin'!" retorted the keeper, "we've learnt him to put money into that box you see way up there. Try him with a dollar." The cockney handed the elephant a dollar, and sure enough he took it into his trunk and placed it in the box high out of his reach.

"Well, that is werry hextraordinary—hastonishin', truly!" said the green one, opening his eyes. "Now let's see him take it out and hand it back."

"We've never learnt him that trick?" retorted the keeper with a roguish leer, and then turned away to stir up the monkeys and punch the hyenas.

WE find this item in an exchange: "A Mormon colony of 84 souls has taken up land and are taking out a ditch about twelve miles above Hayden's Ferry, on the Colorado river. They are under the leadership of a Mr. Jones, who transacts all the business of the colony. They comprise about 22 able-bodied men. They have been there only a few weeks, but will have their ditch out and go to planting next week. The men are Josephites, having only one wife apiece; they came direct from Utah and are very nice people. They have only 80 acres of land each by home steading, saying that is all they want."

CORN CAKES—Three cups of corn meal, one cup of graham flour, two teaspoonfuls of cream yeast powder sifted together, one cup cream, and a half a cup of milk, one egg well beaten; stir all together well and quickly; heat your gem irons hot; butter and fill; bake with a brisk heat. Gem tins or forms do not need to be heated before filling, they may be oiled and filled on the table and put into a quick oven.

AN item is going the rounds of the press that, by a recent act of Congress, soldiers who have lost an arm or a leg are entitled to a pension of $37 per month. Parties who have taken the trouble to investigate the matter ascertain that an act was passed by Congress granting a pension to those who have lost both an arm end leg, but it appears in the New York Tribune's list of vetoed bills, and is not a law.

THE Rhode Island House has repealed the law forbidding the marriage of whites and blacks. "If this outrage shall be consummated," says the New York Graphic, "it will be a gross interference with the rights of—of—of—by the way, come to think of it, we don't know whose rights it will interfere with."

SEVERAL hundred people in New York have suddenly embraced literature. They have taken to writing articles for the newspapers, denying that they were implicated in the Tweed frauds, and denouncing Tweed's confession as an infamous, sensational no-such-thing. —Austin Reveille.

A GANG of counterfeiters were arrested at Los Angeles a few days ago and were examined before United States Commissioner Whitney. The leader, a man named Foot, was held in default of $5,000 bail, to appear before the United States Grand Jury at San Francisco, on the 22d inst.

The drought in this State has caused the price of hay in San Francisco to advance to $23@27 per ton; and the Stock Exchange predicts that before Fall it will be selling for $40 per ton. If all flesh is grass, it would pay to turn some of the surplus population of San Francisco into hay.

One of the sable orators of Virginia made a good point when he said, "De oyster got mo' sense dan some folks, 'cause he know when to keep his mouf shet."

Dakota will probably be the next Territory admitted into the Union—unless the Black Hills country is given a seperate Territorial orginization.

It is reported that silver mines have been discovered two miles from Dos Palmos, and sixty miles this side of the Colorado river.

It is said that 110 men have been discharged from the Imperial mine, leaving only 25 as the working force.

The insurgents of Japan have met with a decisive defeat, and the insurrection is regarded as nearly ended.

The only excuse that some people have for congregating in saloons is because "the spirit says come."

The reception given Gov. Hampton in Charleston on the 18th was of the most enthusiastic description.

PROSPECTUS.

What Pays?

IT PAYS EVERY MANUFACTURER, MERCHANT, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer or Professional Man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has been published weekly for the last thirty-one years, does this, to an extent beyond that of any other publication; in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and New Discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes and improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Suggestions and Advice by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repository of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record, not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics and Science abroad.

The Scientific American has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past thirty-one years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress published in the world.

The practical Recipes are well worth ten times the subscription price, and for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1877.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and Several Hundred Engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3 20 cents a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars, giving Club rates, sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms, Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to parties attracted to the invention by such notice. A Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents sent free. The Scientific American Reference Book—a volume bound in cloth and gilt, containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 142 engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents. Address for the paper, or concerning patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New York. Branch office, Cor. F and 7th sts., Washington, D. C. n34tf3

"The King of all publications issued for the young on either side of the Atlantic."—Southampron (England) Observer.

THE THIRD VOLUME OF THIS INCOMPARABLE Magazine is now completed. With its 800 royal octavo pages, and its 600 illustrations, its splendid serials, its shorter stories poems and sketches, etc., in its beautiful binding of red and gold, it is the most splendid gift book for boys and girls ever issued from the press. Price, $4; in full gilt, $5.

ST. NICHOLAS FOR 1877

Which opens with November, 1876, begins a short and very entertaining serial from the French, "The Kingdom of the Greedy," a story adapted to the Thanksgiving season. Another serial, of absorbing interest to boys, "His Own Master," by J. T. Trowbridge, author of the "Jack Hazard Stories," begins in the Christmas Holiday Number, together with "The Boys of My Boyhood," by William Cullen Bryant, Christmas stories, lively sketches, poems, pictures, etc.

During the year there will be interesting papers for boys, by William Cullen Bryant, John G. Whittier, Thomas Hughes, William Howitt, Dr. Holland, George Macdonald, Sanford B. Hunt, Frank R. Stockton and others.

There will be stories, sketches and poems of special interest to girls, by Harriet Prescott Spofford, Susan Coolidge, Sarah Winter Kellogg, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Louisa Alcott, Lucretia P. Hale, Celia Thaxter, Mary Mapes Dodge and many others. There will also be "Twelve Sky Pictures," by Prof. Proctor, the astronomer, with maps, showing "The Stars of Each Month," which will be likely to surpass in interest any series on popular science recently given to the public.

AMUSEMENT and INSTRUCTION, with FUN and FROLIC, and WIT and WISDOM, will be mingled as heretofore, and ST. NICHOLAS will continue to delight the young and give pleasure to the old.

"ST. NICHOLAS is full of the choicest things. The publication is, in all respects, the best of its kind. We have never yet seen a number that was not surprisingly good."—The Churchman, Hartford, Conn.

"There is no magazine for the young that can be said to equal this choice publication of Scribner's press. All the articles, whether in prose or rhyme, are throbbing with vitality. * * The literature and artistic illustrations are both superb."—The London Literary World.

"We wish we could point out its equal in our own periodical literature."—London Daily News.

Good News for Boys and Girls.

To meet the demand for a cheaper ST. NICHOLAS Gift-Book, the price of vols. I and II has been reduced to $3 each. The three volumes, in an elegant library case, are sold for $10 (in full gilt, $15) so that all may give their children a complete set. These volumes contain more attractive material than fifty dollars' worth of the ordinary children's books.

Subscription price, $3 a year. The three bound volumes and a subscription for this year, only $12. Subscribe with the nearest news dealer, or send money in check, or postoffice money order, or in registered letter, to

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo. R. A. Loomis, plaintiff, vs. C. L. Jackson, defendant. Action brought in the District Court the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo and the Complaint filed in said County of Inyo, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to C. L. Jackson, defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the District Court of the 16th Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, and to answer the Complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or, if served out of this county, but within this district, then within twenty days; otherwise within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said Complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court for the foreclosure of a certain mortgage, described in the said Complaint, and executed by the said defendant to the said plaintiff in the 12th day of May, A. D. 1874, to secure the payment of a certain promissory note for the sum of Twenty-two Hundred Dollars in United States gold coin, with interest at 1½ per cent. per month, and the further sum of Four Hundred Dollars in like gold coin, with interest, for moneys paid out on a certain other mortgage set forth in said Complaint, that the premises conveyed by said mortgage may be sold, and the proceeds applied to the payment of said promissory note and interest, and said sum of $400 advanced, with interest thereon, and for costs of suit and attorney's fees, fully set forth in said Complaint on file herein, and in case said proceeds are not sufficient to pay the same, then to obtain an execution against said defendant for the balance remaining due, and also that the said defendant and all persons claiming by, through or under him may be barred and foreclosed of all right, title, claim, lien, equity of redemption, and interest in and to said mortgaged premises, and for other and further relief, as will more fully appear by reference to the Complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the said Complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, this Twelfth day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven.

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State California, in and for the County of Inyo. Ellen E. Matlack, plaintiff, against Alexander C. Matlack, defendant. Action brought in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and the complaint filed in said county of Inyo, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to Alexander C. Matlack, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and to answer the Complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within the county; or, if served out of this county, but in this district, within twenty days; otherwise, within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a judgment and decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony existing between said plaintiff and said defendant, and for the custody of the minor children, issue of their said marriage, as does more fully appear from said plaintiff's complaint, to which reference is hereby made.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Hon. Court for the relief prayed for in said complaint on file herein.

Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, this fifth day of September in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

Discoveries in Tulare Lake.

Last week a correspondedt gave us a sketch of some discoveries recently made of human bones in Tulare Lake. Reuben Moore, who has just returned from a trip to Hog Island, informs that he has at different times seen almost complete human skeletons in the water, as wells as relics of the domestic life of the ancient race to which they belonged. A measurement of one of the bare skulls exceeded in size that of any human being of his acquaintance. These relics are found on the islands and near them in the water of the lake, which, for a long distance from the land, is not more than a foot or two in depth, and so clear that objects at the bottom are distinctly visible. But for the miry bottom of the lake one could easily ride from the main land to the islands. Mr. Moore tells us that he has noticed a number of mortars and pestles, some of them of very large size, and much worn. The islands abound with pelicans and other birds of rare species for which he knows no names. At present the wild geese and ducks are off on a chase somewhere, and but few are to be seen on the lake.

From what we hear concerning the evidences of human remains and other relics in the lake it seems probable that at no very distant day some expert in anatomy and geology will there find a rich field for investigation. Where so many evidences of a human race are found it is likely that the discovery of animal remains other than man's, will reward the labor of investigation. The lowering of the lake a few feet by the West Side irrigation scheme would lay bare all the relics now seen in the water and probably many more.—Visalia Delta.

NOTIONS.

A story is told of a shrewish Scotch woman who tried to wean her husband from the public house by employing her brother to act the part of a ghost and frighten John on his way home, "Who are you?" said the guidman, as the apparition rose before him from behind a bush. "I am auld Nick," was the reply. "Come awa', man," said John, nothing daunted; "gie's a shake of your hand; I am married tae a sister o' yours."

A woman recently entered a store in Connecticut and sat down in front of an iron safe to warm her feet. After sitting some twenty or thirty minutes, she remarked that she "never did like them kind of stoves—they don't throw out scarcely any heat, those gas burners don't."

An Illinois youth invested $1 50 in a New York firm to discover "How to appear well in society." The recipe which he received by return mail was short, simple, and easily understood: "Always keep your nose clean, and don't suck more than one finger at a time."

"It seems to me," said a customer to his barber, "these hard times you ought to lower your price for shaving." "Can't do it," replied the barber. "Nowadays everybody wears such a long face that we have a great deal more surface to shave over."

The man who has been obliged to borrow his Winter's wood from his neighbor's pile feels a tranquil calm steal over him as he realizes that his hard work in lugging the sticks will soon be over.

Fritz's Troubles.

Fritz has had more trouble with his neighbors. This time he determined to appeal to the majesty of the law, and accordingly consulted a legal gentleman.

"How vas dose tings?" he said. "Vell, a vellare's got a garden, und der odder vellare's got some shickens eat 'em up. Don't you got some law for dot?"

"Some one's chickens have been destroying your garden?" asked the lawyer.

"Straw in mine garden? Nine, it vas veggitubbles."

"And the chickens committed depredations on them?"

"Ish dot so?" asked Fritz in astonishment.

"And you want to sue for damages?" continued the lawyer.

"Yaas. Gott for tamages, und der gabbages, und der lettuges!"

"Did you notify him to keep his chickens up?"

"Yaas, I did nodify him."

"And what did he say?"

"He nodify me to go to haal, und wipe off mine shin off down my vest."

"And he refused to comply with your just demand?"

"Hey?"

"He allowed his chickens to run at large?"

"Yaas. Soms vas large und some vas leddle vellares, but dey vas scratch mine garden more as seven dimes idch."

"Well, you want to sue him?"

"Yaas, I want to sue him to make von blank fence ub sixdeen feet his house all round't, vot der dam shickens don'd got ofer."

The lawyer informed him that he could not compel him to build such a fence, and Fritz left in a rage, exclaiming:

"Next Summer dime I raise me shickens, too, you bet! I raise fifdeen shickens, py dam! Vipe off your vest down."—Carl Pretzels National Weekly.

A THRILLING INCIDENT.—There was great excitement around the den of the bears on a recent date, at the Jardin des Plantes, Paris. A nurse held a boy of five on the railing, that he might see the animals, and accidentally let him drop. The spectators all thought that the bears would have attacked the child, but they refrained. It was necessary that some one should go down into the pit to withdraw him, but only one man volunteered. He was lowered by a rope under the armpits and withdrew the boy without molestation. His courage was rewarded by profuse felicitations, but he escaped without giving his name.

ANY WAY TO SUIT.—"Now, then, state your case," said a Detroit lawyer the other day, as he put the five dollars bill away in his vest pocket.

"Well," began his client, "suppose the man living next door wants to put a barn right up against my line, coming within two feet of my house?"

"He can't do it, sir—can't do any such thing," repled the lawyer.

"But I want to put my barn right up against his line," remarked the client.

"Oh—ah—yes, I see. Well, sir, go right ahead and put your barn there. All the law in the case is on your side."—Detroit Free Press.

Justice in Detroit.

"I don't think I ever saw you here before," mused the court, as Samuel Grover walked out.

"No, I guess not, for I arrived here from Mexico only yesterday."

"Did, eh? Was Diaz well when you left?"

"He seemed to feel all right."

"What part of Mexico are you from, Mr. Grover?"

"From—from—from—"

"Don't be in a hurry, Mr. Grover. If you have forgotten the name of the town I'll wait till it occurs to you. It wasn't the town of Podunk, was it?"

"That's the town—that's the place," replied the prisoner, his anxious look giving way to a smile of relief.

"Reaching this city from the town of Podunk, Mexico, after leaving President Diaz in the best of health, you tried to put a man out of his own corner grocery, and were arrested while throwing bricks at a hod-carrer. That's about it, isn't it?"

The prisoner made no reply, and after a long silence he suddenly asked:

"Judge, would't it be better to own up that I live on Twelfth street, and that I got drunk because my wife wanted a divorce?"

"I knew that all the time, Mr. Grover, but if you prefer to hail from Mexico I can't help myself."

"Well, I'll tell you the truth, your honor. I have heaps of trouble with my wife, and I don't care a cent what becomes of me."

"It's him that's made all the trouble!" screamed a female from near the door. "Let me get through this crowd and tell the judge what a vagabond, villain, liar and mean man that fellow is!"

"Say three months, judge!" whispered the prisoner, heading for the corridor.

"Three it is!"

When the woman reached the bar her husband was seated on the back of a chair in the corrider, picking his teeth with a sliver, and as he caught his wife's eye he said softly:

"Plenty to eat and the tenderest treatment for three long months to come!"

A FRIEND OF THE WHITES.—Spotted Tail, who has rendered the Government such effective service in conducting peace negotiations with the hostile Indians and leading them back to the agencies, has no reason to love the white man. He had a daughter who fell in love with a young officer at Fort Laramie, but she was deserted by him and eventually died of a broken heart. Her influence over her father was so overmastering that he vowed on her deathbed that he would make peace with the whites, since it was her wish, and would never again take up arms against them. When the treaty was made he asked to have the coffin containing her remains brought into the council in order that her spirit might witness the fulfillment of the vow. For many years the old chief yearned to have her grave near his wigwam, and his wishes were gratified last July, when her remains were reinterred in the cemetery near Spotted Tail Agency. When Gen. Crook headed off a new war by surrounding and disarming a large force of Indians near Red Cloud Agency on October 26, 1876, he deposed Red Cloud and made Spotted Tail chief of the Sioux. Gen. Crook spoke of Spotted Tail as the only leader who had the nerve to be a friend to the whites, and late dispatches show that Gen. Crook was correct in his estimate of the man. The warriors who were led into the agency filed by the cemetery where Spotted Tail's daughter was buried.

A GOOD CEMENT.—A correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune gives the following recipe for making a good cement: A good cement for mending almost anything may be made by mixing together litharge and glycerine to the consistency of thick cream or fresh putty. This cement is useful for mending stone jars or any other coarse earthenware, stopping leaks in seams of tin pans or wash boilers, cracks and holes in iron kettles, etc. I have filled holes an inch in diameter in kettles and used the same for years in boiling water and feed. It may also be used to fasten on lamp tops, to tighten loose nuts, to secure bolts whose nuts are lost, tighten loose joints of wood or iron, loose boxes in wagon-hubs, and in a great many others. In all cases the article mended should not be used till the cement has hardened, which will require from one day to a week, according to the quantity used. This cement will resist the action of water hot or cold, acids, and almost any degree of heat.

LITTLE KINDNESSES.—Small acts of kindness, how pleasant and desirable they do make life! Every dark object is made light by them, and every tear of sorrow is brushed away. When the heart is sad, and despondency sits at the entrance of the soul, a trifling kindness drives away despair, and makes the path cheerful and pleasant.

WE once knew a man who said to his pastor: "I am going to the other church after this." "Ah and why so?" asked the preacher. "Well, if you don't get your shoes made at my shop, I won't get my preaching done at yours." So he went off.

THE DESERT LAND LAW.

We observe that a number of our California journals have just discovered a wonderful mare's nest in this desert land law; it is a swindle without mitigation, and all that. Now, it is a little strange that these wide awake papers should be so long in discovering the real merits of the law. It is, with the exception of some amendments designed to shut off possible swindles, the identical law that had been in force in one county of this State for two years previous to its extension as at present. During that time it was made the subject of elaborate discussion in two Congresses and comment in many newspapers of the State and coast, not one of which, so far as our knowledge goes, but indorsed it. Yet its operation was just as plainly to be foreseen as now realized. We are inclined to think that this outcry against the law is simply a political crusade against some of the men who induced its passage, that and nothing more.

It is no swindle on the General Government, because the Government, before relinquishing its title, gets the last cent at full price for the land, the same as if sold in forty-acre subdivisions. It is no swindle on State or county, because it takes from them nothing they ever owned, but gives them much they never, otherwise for decades to come, would have enjoyed, viz., an immediate and material addition to their taxable property. It is no swindle on the poor man seeking a home, but the reverse, because it gives him a chance to secure a desirable home where no chance existed before, save in very exceptionable cases. In short, as regards the whole of this arid inland and lower country, it is no swindle on anybody, any class or anything, nor does it open the door to fraud or peculation a bit wider than the co-existing pre-emption and homestead laws. It is even less liable to abuse than they, inasmuch as under them and the swamp land outrage, there remain no large, and but few small, tracts of land that can avail the grabber a dollar's worth, until he has expended something near its worth in its purchase price and in putting sufficient water upon it to make it marketable. Then, and not till then, would a settler, however anxious to obtain a home, accept such land as a clear gift, either in large or small quantities, unless possessed of means to dig expensive irrigating canals through which alone can it be made of the least value.

THE "WORLD'S CIVILIZER" is the title now given to steam, and a very appropriate one it is. Heretofore, and for very many centuries, the Christian world has considered the term applicable only to the Bible, and correctly enough, perhaps, in a strictly moral sense; but as a mere "civilizer" steam has proved a far more effective agent than the Bible, though to the latter it is as the horse to his rider—but an agent withal. Steam is forcing civilization into every nook and corner of the habitable globe, but in the interest of commerce, not of evangelization specially: however, it is doingwonders as a missionary, and as such we are told, has effected full as much for the world's moral good as for the expansion of its commerce. All the better if it has, but it is not quite so much as a missionary as a commercial reformer that the great civilizer, in its locomotive form, is needed in this outside nook.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY.—A singular case of mistaken identity has just occurred in Ohio. One Charles Sterling, known there as the "Youngstown murderer," who was hanged in that place, April 20, was sentened to be executed on the 28th of March. Three days before the execution was to take place, a woman from Canada called on Governor Young at Columbus, and secured a respite of twenty-one days for Sterling. She visited the prisoner, whom she supposed to be her son, but he refused to recognize her or acknowledge her as his mother, although she fell upon his neck, kissed him, and wept bitterly. A few days after she discovered that she had made a mistake, that the condemned murderer was not her son, and that she had been made the victim of a cruel hoax.

DURING April the Treasury of the United States disbursed $30,344,000 in silver currency, of which amount $18,000,000 were in lieu of fractional currency; $12,249,000 for current obligations. There is a balance in hand of three and a half millions.

THE President gave as his views on the Indian peace policy to the Indian Commissioners, that the policy of the previous Adinistration should be continued.

THE NEED OF A RAILROAD TO OUR FARMING INTEREST.

We find that here, as every where else, there are those who think that more of harm than good must follow the advent of the locomotive; that in this valley it must prove quite detrimental to the farming interest in particular. No doubt but it will tend to reduce prices for certain kinds of farm products, grain and fruit particularly, but a moment's reflection will make it plain that that reduction cannot be very material, nor at any time disproportioned to the diminished cost of production. Our grain producers must always have at least one cent a pound the best of any possible competition from the other side, so far as our home market is concerned; and when there is no home market there is nothing for our grain raisers, railroad or no railroad. As we look at it, our grain producing interest, as well as every other, has but little to hope for without a railroad: without that to expand and create a market the supply of grain and other farm products will surely, ere long, exceed the demand; in effect, ruin the farming interest almost utterly. That interest may have something to lose, as regards present prices, through outside competition to be occasioned by a railroad, but it has very much more to fear from the home competition that must sooner or later ensue if we have no such power to expand the local market. That market is wholly dependent upon the mining interest. This interest will very likely continue to enhance in importance, but it must be slowly without the all important advantages cheaper transportation can alone give. In fact, without such additional advantages it is not safe to count on any actual advance of that interest at all. With no advance in that how can there be in any other? Every additional acre brought in cultivation becomes a detriment to the farmers when their previous productions were fairly equal to the demands, which is pretty nearly the case here at this very time. Now, whether the market, which is governed solely by the mining interest, contracts or expands the indications plainly point to a continued yearly enlargement of farm productions through increased acreage and multiplicity of tillers. Nothing is surer than that that enlargement of farm products will soon exceed the demand under present conditions. It is no less certain that present conditions cannot be bettered materially except by means of a railroad, through which is to come cheaper freights, and thereby a new impulse to the mining interest, the maker of these conditions.

The conclusion is that a railroad is as vital to the permanent prosperity of the local agricultural, as it is to the mining interests, and even more so. The latter may, and possibly will, progress some what against existing obstacles, but the other, as regards real prosperity or profits of the business, has reached its maximum—seen its best days till a railroad opens a new market, which it will do and so wide a one the products of this valley at its very best can never begin to supply it, though every available acre should be put under cultivation.

We are surrounded here by a world of mineral, which, under favorable conditions, would afford remunerative employment for thousands, perhaps tens of thousands of people. But it is just as well to understand that present conditions promise little or nothing toward that desideratum; it can be hoped for only when better facilities for extracting and transporting these minerals in general are such as to allow a clear margin for profits no matter how small. We have nothing to expect or hope fo from wild cat, or Stock Board mining here. The time is past for that most everywhere. Mining here must be conducted as a legitimate, paying business or it won't be conducted at all. A continuous dead loss of but ten cents a ton will eventually cause the heaviest company to suspend, while a like clear profit will permit the poorest to go on indefinitely. Now, experience shows that here as elsewhere the difference between profitable and losing mining opeartions in general is narrowed down to a very few dollars in the amount saved per ton reduced and marketed. So narrow is this margin it can easily be covered in a possible reduction of not to exceed $5 per ton on freights. Our principal mining here is for silver-lead, to which the freight question is of greater importance than any other. Not a ton of this bullion now being shipped but costs full three times $5 more than it should do for transportation alone. It is safe to say a railroad would cause a saving to the mine owner of that much on every ton of bullion shipped; this, in effect, would be equivilent to a bonus of $15, or more, for every ton of bullion produced. Under such a stimulus our county would soon turn out say one hundred times more bullion than it now does, and increase our population, and enlarge our local market to similar proportions. Neither has the teaming interest anything more to fear from a railroad here than the farming or mining.

A WASHINGTON special, under date of April 28, says: "The fact that Hampton, in his message to the Legislature, makes no reference to the President is much talked of in political circles, and there is speculation as to his motives. To-day Banks expressed great surprise at the omission, and thought it showed a lack of appreciaton for what the President had done for the Democratic party of South Carolina." "As Hampton was made Governor of South Carolina," said Banks, "by order of the President, and not by the vote of the majority of the people of South Carolina, Hampton could have taken the first official opportunity to thank the President and the Administration for their action." Hampton's failure to do so is significant and indicates clearly that the troubles in South Carolina are not in reality at an end, and the promise will not be kept.

UNITED STATES MINING LAWS. There is one section of the United States mining laws which every prospector should understand. It is as follows:

SEC 3. That the locators of all mining locations heretofore, or which shall hereafter be made on any mineral vein or ledge situated on the public domain * * * * * shall have the exclusive right of posession and enjoyment of all the surface included within the lines of locations, and all veins, lodes and ledges throughout their entire depth, the top or apex of which lies inside of the surface lines extending downward vertically, although such veins, lodes or ledges may so far depart from a perpendicular in their course downward as to extend outside of the vertical side-lines of said surface locations.

THE eighth annual report of the Board of Indian Commissioners reviews the result of the peace system; deprecates the want of good faith of the government in its treatment of Indians; recommends immediate compliance on the part of the Government to the terms of existing treaties with all Indians; appropriations for consolidating agencies; a generous appropriation for educational purposes; discontinuance of verbal relations; extension of law for the protection of life and property; allotments of lands; establishment of industrial and agricultural boarding schools, and compelling the attendance of all between the ages of seven and eighteen years.

ASTOUNDING.—A San Francisco Chronicle special, dated Salt Lake, April 29, gives the following astounding bit of cheek: "Brigham Young preached in the Tabernacle to-day a sermon justifying the Mountain Meadows massacre, on the ground that the Gentiles had killed the original Mormon Prophet, Joe Smith, and had driven the Mormons from Missouri and other States by force of arms. He concluded by defying any power on earth or in hell to overthrow his Church, and assured his hearers that the Mormons would continue their practices and dot the whole of Utah with their temples."

IN the treaty of 1854, between the United States and Russia, both parties recognized the principle that goods belonging to subjects or citizens of Powers or States at war, are free from capture or confiscation when on board of neutral vessels, with the exception of articles contraband of war, and that the property of neutrals on board an enemy's vessel are not subject to confiscation unless the same be contraband of war. The last treaty between the United States and the Ottoman Empire, made in 1862, contains no such declared principles.

A WASHINGTON special to the New York Times says that the propriety of rewarding Spotted Tail for his recent services in successfully negotiating with the hostiles has been discussed by Sherman, Sheridan and the Indian Commissioner, and it is probable that the President will recommend Congress to authorize the appointment of the distinguished chief to a position in the army. Commissioner Smith and Generals Sherman and Sheridan all favor the idea.

THE champion cow has turned up in Mobile, Alabama. The milk from this cow was sold for a period of eight years for the princely aggregate of $6,000. The cow is now past usefulness, and is laid on the shelf. The milk was sold at from 60 cents to $1 25 a gallon. This remarkable cow never went dry, having calves regularly in the mean time. Until some one disputes it the fact must remain on record.

BEDLOE'S ISLAND in New York harbor has been selected by the President as the site for the gigantic statue entitled, "Liberty Enlightening the World," which has been presented to this country by the French government. The little Federal garrison which has occupied that island for so many years will soon evacuate it.

A CHAP in Ohio proposes, in view of the inefficiency of hook and ladder companies reaching upper stories of buildings in case of fire, to hurl ropes attached to rockets into the windows, so that in case the rocket did not kill the party attempting to escape the rope would be useful.

PIUTE ADRIFT.

CHAPTER XXVII—MORE ABOUT THE MORMONS.

EVANSTON, W. T., April 25.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Ever since Lee's execution the whole civilized world, Chinese included, seem to be making faces at us Mormons, and defaming our moral character. There are about 8,000 or more newspapers published in the United States, and all these, with half a dozen exceptions, denounce us and our pet religion, and, further, brand our leaders as a lot of fanatical cutthroats—that our much beloved President Young and many more should be despatched in the same manner as Lee was. Our wealthy brethren, such as apostles, elders and bishops, may, by the grace of God, be able to bear all this calumny, but it grates harshly on the sensitive feelings of the poor, tith-paying class. Our leaders have for many years prophesied and preached that the entire human family, except the few favored Latter Day Saints, will be swept off the face of the earth; that the Mormons are the elect., etc., and that they will be gathered into these mountains and saved as in the days of Noah—a few of the Lord's pets taken care of. Joseph Smith declared, through a revelation, that no President of the United States would serve out two terms; and contrary to our expectation, there is Grant just gone through successfully. A thousand and one prophesies are extant, but only a few, where blood atonement was necessary, have been fulfilled.

A great many of us poor, damphool Mormons begin to weaken in the faith. One of the fat Bishop's counselors whispered yesterday in Piute's ear—"Nothing in this religion—its all dam speculation!" The brother must have discovered, lately, a heap of crookedness.

Being that the Lord is God Almighty, and we his chosen people, we sometimes wonder why don't he give us power to clean out the unregenerated races. Instead of that he allows us to be shamefully abused by the cussed gentiles, and to be persecuted yearly by the grasshoppers, crickets, etc.

We cherished the idea that the Mountain Meadows massacre imbroglio would be sufficient punishment and persecution for 1877; but alas, our hopes are blasted, and the fruit crop of Zion will be a failure. So now we wish to die. On account of having had such a mild, pleasant Winter, the fruit trees through most all the extensive valleys had beautifully blossomed. Great expectations were entertained of an immense fruit crop. However, the last few days have been very cold and blustry. Yesterday morning there was four inches of snow in the streets of Salt Lake City. Ice formed, and the beautiful scenery of a few days ago has disappeared. Hence the Saints desire to wreak vengeance on King Storm, and their feelings are somewhat relieved by tall cursing, which scared Piute—so he fled to Wyoming Territory, and at present tarries on Bear river.

Evanston is quite a town; its altitude is about 7,000 feet above the sea. You may judge that this locality is not favorable for farming purposes; too cold—freezes more or less every month in the year. However, the frost has no bad effect on the sparkling beauties (trout) which sport in the river.

EMIGRATION.

There is an immense emigration to the Pacific Coast at present—from ten to twelve cars of third-class emigrants pass through here daily, besides several of first and second-class passengers. Some days as many as a thousand passengers go West—most all bound, of course, for San Francisco. Only a few are willing to stop east of 'Frisco. There is a traveling species called the "dead beat," who figures conspicuously on the railroad. This genius is irrepressible. He'll ride on the cars until the conductor puts him off. Then he may walk a few miles until he gets his jacket well filled with hogadie. On he goes again, and thus he travels across the continent, without purse or money, but he possesses abundance of "cheek." After staying a few weeks in "California" (generally in some city) a certain per centage of the emigration, disgusted, make return tracks eastward, counting the railroad ties when "that stupid conductor" won't allow them to ride.

This great transcontinental railroad is a godsend to the West—giving employment to thousands of its population, directly and indirectly. Piute had a "talk" the other day with an important functionary. He is Justice of the Peace and County Clerk, and holds several other offices in his sparsely populated county. "Our county," says he, "is a poor one, only a little over $100,000 assessable property; but being that the U. P. R. R. runs 25 miles through our county, the line is taxed (valuation about $8,000 per mile), which swells our entire taxable property to about $300,000; quite a help."

TINNAMUCKAHEE.

A TEMPERANCE organization was formed in Washington, Sunday night, April 22, under the title of the "Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes Temperance Society." Resolutions were adopted indorsing the sentiments of Mrs. Hayes in regard to the use of intoxicating liquors at State dinners and similar occasions.

THE smoking of opium is a practice that appears to be growing among the white population in this State. The Stocton Independent and other journals refer to it as prevailing in their localities.

THE Secretary of the Navy proposes to fit out several United States war-vessels to be in readiness for any emergency which may arise in connection with the Turco-Russian war.

Do not forget that while you fold your hands time folds not his wings.

Hard Times.

The shadow of hard times seems to be slowly creeping over the Comstock, and the man who stands in the sunshine to-day may be under the cloud to-morrow. Hundreds of miners, who have been out of employment for months, go about willing to perform any kind of labor for anything in the shape of money. A few months ago they were striving to see their wives and children presentably clothed and supplied with the little luxuries of life. To-day they think only of keeping them fed. They have no longer credit at the grocer's, and the butcher will not furnish them meat without the ready cash. Scores of these men are walking the streets aimlessly, or, lingering about the mines, begging for work. A miner falls down a shaft and is dashed to pieces. A hundred rush to fill the place, content to have their faces fanned by the ill-wind that has blown him into eternity. They stand about the gambling tables watching the ebb and flow of other people's fortunes. A man with a dollar in his pocket is deliberating whether to buy flour for his family or put the money on the board to double up. He pushes it over on a card and sees it make its way into the dealer's till. Then he walks away with his teeth tightly clenched. You may see such sights nightly at any of the gambling houses. Strong, able-bodied men call daily at the dwellings of citizens, asking for food or the chance of a night's lodging. The funds of the Relief Committee are exhausted.—Virginia Chronicle, April 24.

Remarkable Phenomenon.

The city was considerably excited last evening by the appearance on C street of one of the strangest phenomena of the century. The attention of the reporter was first called to it by officer Daniels, and it was subsequently seen and commented on by many citizens. At first it had the appearance of sparks of fire coming up through the pools of water beside the street. These sparks exploded on reaching the surface, in many instances producing reports loud enough to be heard across the street, and being accompanied by a little cloud of smoke and emitting a decidedly sulphurous smell. After watching these performanees for a long time, and tracing them all along the street it began to be noticed that they occurred only on one side and that under the telegraph wires. This led to a closer examination, when the following supposed solution was arrived at. The sparks seemed to be caused by drops of water falling from the wires of the telegraph, which exploded when striking the pools of water, with the effect above mentioned. This solution was seemingly confirmed by the fact that when the wires became dry the phenomenon ceased. There still remains to be explained, however, that under the circumstances, such results should follow the falling of the water-drops from the wires. Here is something which demands an explanation at the hands of the savants of the day.—Virginia Enterprise, April 25.

RAMON MONTENEGRO, a notoriously disagreeable Mexican who keeps a saloon at Belleville, and who killed a man at Panamint about a year ago, started a row with a stranger from Pioche on last Wednesday. Several shots were exchanged, and Ramon seriously if not fatally wounded.—Genoa News, May 1.

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State California, in and for the County of Inyo. Ellen Porter, plaintiff, against William Porter, defendant. Action brought in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and the complaint filed in said county of Inyo, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to William Porter, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and to answer a complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or, if served out of this county, but in this district, within twenty days; otherwise, within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony existing between the plaintiff and defendant, and giving to plaintiff the care, custody and education of Lillian Porter and Frederick Porter, minor children of said parties, and for general relief.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief therein demanded.

Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, this fourth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven. [SEAL.]

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, MAY 5.....1877.

MAY DAY.—Pretty much all the conveyances of Lone Pine were brought into requisition to carry excursionists from that point to Shepherd's, on May-day, where picnicking, with all the usual concomitants, was enjoyed to the fullest extent—only marred by an hour or so of wind and a slight shower in the afternoon. Since the good people of that town came in such numbers to George's Creek anyway, in celebration of the day, it becomes apparent that the weak-kneed managers of our Archery Club made a palpable mistake in not adhering to the original programme of a general, joint picnic and archery contest as was proposed and advertised. At this late date, however, it may be futile to lament about wasted lacteal. Returning home, the parties indulged in a big dance as a wind up. Another party from Lone Pine took a jaunt to the foot-hills west of the town. In this place the ball at Masonic Hall was very generally attended, and passed off most satisfactorily.

WATER.—At a depth of 174 feet from the surface, in a shaft sunk from the main tunnel level, the miners on the Virginia mine last week encountered an up-flow of water sufficient to stop all work at that point. From pitching at an angle of about 60° the ledge a few feet above the level mentioned changed in position to a perpendicular vein, carrying a body of mixed ore 3½ feet in width. As the ledge matter was improving in quality and richness, it is the conclusion among mining men that a heavy body of ore has been tapped. About 100 feet from the lower portion of the Virginia Con. ground a party of prospectors have struck a small vein of rich ore, which Superintendent Chenot thinks the Company will have prospected to their line, and then purchase the new claim if the developments should warrant it.

CASE OF PETER SMITH.—The case of Peter Smith, indicted for grand larceny, came up in the County Court this week. The prisoner withdrew his plea of not guilty and entered that of guilty of petit larceny, whereupon he was sentenced to the county jail for a period of thirty days or an equivalent in coin. He has already enjoyed an experience of two months in the Inyo sweat-box, and it appears that he had been victimized to a considerable degree in the matter for which he was arrested—that is to say, he was not so much of a thief as the abstract legal facts would seem to indicate.

THE ECLIPSE.—Several loads of heavy timbers from the Big Pine saw mill passed through town for the Eclipse mill lately, for the new extension of their reduction works. Thirty stamps are now in operation, all supplied with the new automatic ore-feeders. The Superintendent has let a contract for the daily transportation of thirty-five tons of ore over the tramroad from the mine to the mill, for which a number of new cars have been constructed. The Company have in contemplation a general reduction of wages, similar to that of the Union Con. of Cerro Gordo.

RENOVATION.—The Headquarters saloon is now receiving a thorough refitting. New, swinging screen doors are in place; the wood-work has received a half-dozen coats of paint, and the walls are being finished with some very handsome combination paper. The last mentioned is being manipulated by the skilled hands of Bill Goodman, the chief in that line of work.

IN TROUBLE.—Fong Chong, Esq., of Canton, an account of whose nuptuals was given last week, has been notified by one or two of the former husbands of the present Mrs. Fong Chong that he is to be extirpated; that, in fact, they propose to come the Highbinder game, in the way of an assassination. In consequence Mr. Chong don't feel well, and keeps somewhat shady.

A FIRE.—On Tuesday morning last the residence of E. Robinson, just east of town, was discovered to be on fire. There being plenty of water close at hand, the crowd which rapidly collected soon subdued the flames. The damages consist of a burned kitchen roof and a house deluged with water.

POOLS.—The Benton Jockey Club have had printed for the races on the 9th proximo pool tickets to the number of 3,000! The cost thereof don't amount to much, but the idea of having use for so many indicates the amount of speculation anticipated among the sports.

A MISSING CHINAMAN.—Last week a Chinaman employed as cook at the Rex Montis mine started down the mountain and has been unheard of since. It is supposed that he took the wrong cañon and perished in the deep snow.

THE NEW BOAT.—Contractor Gerrish is now at Cottonwood building the new steamer for the Inyo Coal, Wood & Lumber Co. The new craft promises to be a big success, and we shall shortly endeavor to give a complete description of her.

A NEW HALL.—John Schulte has bought and thoroughly fixed up the old building next north of his butcher shop, in Lone Pine, and the May-dance of that town was held therein.

POSTMASTER.—Fred. Bechtel, an old Auroraite, has been made Postmaster at the new town of Bodie in Mono county. We presume that a new mail route starts out from Aurora to that point.

PREACHING.—Rev. L. Case will hold divine service at the school house tomorrow, at the usual hour.

DISAPPOINTED.—No printer man arrived for this office during the week, as expected.

371. Union Con. Mining Co. vs. Thomas Passmore, Tax Collector Inyo county; damages; for plaintiff, B. S. Brooks; defense, Reddy & Conklin.

PERSONALS.—A. O. Thoms, the well known stage man and mail contractor, paid us a visit the other day; he is out of business on account of railroad encroachments; thinks of starting in here only for the certainty of soon being shut out from the same cause....Mrs. Nathan Rhine surprised her liege lord by arriving from San Francisco on Monday night....Wm. B. Harbin, from Benton, was in town on Court business during the week....Among the Darwinites here were Billy Welch and Bob. Woolard, who conducted themselves reasonably well....Harvey Russell, of Inyo's pioneers, also gave us a call.... The chickens fled and the Board of Supervisors weakened when Bill Grant of Darwin and Bob Peterson of Lone Pine put in an appearance to-day, having stole Paul Bennett's horses and Dad Moore's buggy in order to get here.

A NEW ESTABLISHMENT.—Jake Dentz, who formerly run the somewhat notorious Sage Brush saloon, near George's Creek, but who is more recently from the county hospital, has established a shebang for the sale of beer, etc., near the Eclipse mill. The managers of the mill and mine are not particularly elated over this new acquisition, and have requested Jacob to vacate their ground, and will discharge any of their men who may patronize him. So far as reported, Jacob has not interviewed the Sheriff's office or that of the U. S. Deputy Internal Revenue man in the matter of a county or Government license.

SAIL IN.—The first thing somebody knows there will be a lot of outside speculators in here to freeze on to every available section of "swamp land" there is left—those of our own people who think they can carry a section or less, and help dig a ditch to make it worth having, had better sail in pretty quick.

SHEEP.—Uncle Harvey Russell, just up from San Luis Obispo, tells us there are about 50,000 sheep between the railroad and the lake, headed in this direction, besides perhaps half as many more lying dead along the route, and headed in no direction in particular.

A PAINFUL RUMOR.—It is said that a lady residing at Big Pine came to her death from injuries received at the hands of her husband. We have been unable to get at the whole facts, and refrain from giving names at present.

INDIGENT SICK.—This morning four sick men came up in Dodge's private stage, destined for the County Hospital at the Post, in which there are now about a dozen county patients.

CHANGED.—The name and style of the Darwin brewery firm is now Davis & Kleiner.

RUMOR OF ANOTHER KILLING.—It is rumored they had some promiscuous shooting in Lola Travis' house out at Darwin, a night or two ago, and that before the entertainment wound up one man was shot dead. No particuiars, no cards, no arrests, no consequence.

DARWIN ITEMS.—The News of April 28 has the following:

The rock brought from W. T. Grant's mine goes by Mr. Gorman's assay $994 83 in silver. It was not tested for gold, but it undoubtedly carries considerable, as specks were visible to the naked eye. This mine is a new find and will soon come into prominent notice, after some development.

Mrs. Wapelhorst has returned and will continue to run the Darwin Hotel as heretofore, with S. G. Stebbins as business manager and Robt. Delahide as caterer at the bar and billiard hall.

H. N. Potts has received from the Modoc Company a contract to deliver 500 tons of iron ore and 200 cords of wood at Potts' station.

The Santa Rita furnace started up on Thursday morning, and an average of 50 bars of bullion per shift is being turned out.

THE suit of the English owners of the famous Emma mine against Trenor W. Park and others, to recover the five millions paid for it, alleging that there was no fraud and misrepresentation on the part of Park in regard to the resources of the mine, resulted, April 29, in a verdict for the defendant. Park wept for joy when the verdict was announced.

FRANCE is determined on a policy of neutrality in the present European troubles. She has nothing to gain and everything to lose by mixing up in them; and being to-day the most prosperous nation in Europe, with her manufacturing industries in a healthy condition, she is in a position to reap substantial benefits from markets for her wares that the war will create.

THE Carson Appeal says that business has so slackened in all directions that the V. & T. management have found it necessary greatly to reduce their expenses, and with this view they have discharged nearly all their machine and car-shop and foundry hands.

IT is now contradicted that District Attorney Harding ordered further proceedings against Rover to be stopped. Rover will have his fourth trial immediately upon the conclusion of a case now occupying the attention of the Court at Reno.

SENTENCE was pronounced on the convicted incendiaries at Oroville April 25. Jones is to be imprisoned twenty years, Holderbaum five years, and Fay ten years.

THE war is making the grain trade lively. Two hundred and sixty-five thousand bushels of grain were sold at the New York Produce Exchange one day last week.

FUNERAL OF MRS. WALKER.—The funeral of the late Sarah A. Walker, wife of Rev. Jabez Walker, who died last Sunday, as heretofore mentioned in the Becord-Union took place yesterday afternoon from her late residence, near Elk Grove, under the direction of the Lodge of Good Templars of that place, of which she had been a member. The attendance was very large—the funeral being one of the largest that had been seen in that section—and propably about one-third of those present were friends from the city, including many who wore Good Templars' regalia and acted with the Elk Grove Lodge. The burial service of the Order was read very impressively by Rev. H. H. Rice, of Sacramento. The remains were interred in the churchyard of the Baptist Church, on the Elk Grove road, a short distance from Mr. Walker's residence. —Record Union, April 24.

AN army corps of 40,000 men is being prepared by the British Government for dispatch to any points where English interests may require. They will rendezvous at Malta or Gibraltar.

Dated April 9, 1877. n356:3

DISSOLUTION OF CO-PARTNERSHIP.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE co-partnership heretofore existing between A. C. Harvey and Nelson Grandchamp, carrying on the business of blacksmithing and wagon work in the town of Lone Pine, Inyo county, California, under the firm name and style of Harvey & Grandchamp, has this day been dissolved by mutual consent. Either party will sign in liquidation, and all outstanding accounts must be settled within thirty days from date.

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo. R. A. Loomis, plaintiff, vs. C. L. Jackson, defendant. Action brought in the District Court the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo and the Complaint filed in said County of Inyo, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to C. L. Jackson, defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the District Court of the 16th Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, and to answer the Complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or, if served out of this county, but within this district, then within twenty days; otherwise within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said Complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court for the foreclosure of a certain mortgage, described in the said Complaint, and executed by the said defendant to the said plaintiff on the 12th day of May, A. D. 1874, to secure the payment of a certain promissory note for the sum of Twenty-two Hundred Dollars in United States gold coin, with interest at 1¼ per cent. per month, and the further sum of Four Hundred Dollars in like gold coin, with interest, for moneys paid out on a certain other mortgage set forth in said Complaint, that the premises conveyed by said mortgage may be sold, and the proceeds applied to the payment of said promissory note and interest, and said sum of $400 advanced, with interest thereon, and for costs of suit and attorney's fees, fully set forth in said Complaint on file herein, and in case said proceeds are not sufficient to pay the same, then to obtain an execution against said defendant for the balance remaining due, and also that the said defendant and all persons claiming by, through or under him may be barred and foreclosed of all right, title, claim, lien, equity of redemption, and interest in and to said mortgaged premises, and for other and further relief, as will more fully appear by reference to the Complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the said Complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District [SEAL] of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, this Twelfth day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven.

WM. B. DAUGHERTY, Clerk.

A Lumberman's Camp.

Three hundred men will cover and cut a section of about three miles square, taking off 60,000 logs, which would measure about 10,000,000 feet each season. Work begins at daylight and ends at dark; and when the days lengthen, or the moon favors a longer twilight or earlier morn, the men get the benefit in longer working hours. On the river, when the drive is started, work begins at 3 o'clock in the morning and ends at 9 in the evening, the men having five meals—breakfast at 6, lunch at 9, dinner at 12, supper at 5 and tea at 9. The meals consist of pork and beans, corn bread, molasses cake and tea or coffee.

No stint is given to a man's appetite. The fare, such as it is, is abundant, nutricious and cheap. A cook is provided for every fifty men. The beans are generally the large white bush, parboiled in pots holding half a bushel; then ten pounds of pork is set in the middle of the beans in the pot, a quarter of a pint of molasses put in, and then the pot is set in a hole surrounded with hot ashes and burning charcoal, the top covered with a stone, over which a heavy wood fire is built; and here they stay from five to eight hours, coming out a most palatable dish. All the baking is done in rudely built stone ovens, which, with a good fire, are heated before the dough is mixed. The loaves of biscuit or cake are set upon the hot stones, and are cooked quickly and thoroughly.

A camp of three hundred men will consume daily four barrels of beans, one half a barrel of pork, one quarter of a barrel of sugar, one barrel of flour, half a barrel of meal and five gallons of molasses. The men are encamped in tents, making their beds of boughs; while their extra clothing—a pair of duck overalls, woolen shirt, and two pairs of woolen socks—is kept in an old grain sack, and used as a pillow at night.

The Sabbath in the woods is always a day for sharpening axes, mending sleds, repairing boots and clothes, setting out a new tenting spot handier to the cutting in the woods, and all the odd chores which would grow out of the congregation of so large a body of men. All well regulated camps exclude liquor. The work being usually located two hundred miles from any settlement, and the men not being paid until the end of the season, there is little inducement for any speculator to peddle rum through the woods, or for the men to straggle off in search of it.

The consumption of axes and handles is enormous, an axe lasting a month, and a handle about three weeks. The axes are sharpened daily, some camps having regular sharpeners, while others require each man to keep his axe in order. The old axes are never collected for the junk dealer, the distance to ship them being almost too great to make it an economical measure. Woodmen generally consider spruce harder on axes than either birch or pine. The gum which runs out of the spruce tree is often found hard enough to chip the edge of the axe when striking through it. The styles of axes differ with nationalities, a Canadian chopper preferring a broad, square blade with the weight more in the blade than elsewhere, the handle being short and thick. A down-east logger, one from Maine, selects a long, narrow head, the blade in crescent shape, the heaviest part in the top of the head above the eye.

New York cutters select a broad, crescent shape blade, the whole head rather short, and the weight balanced evenly above and below the eye, that is, where the handle goes through. A Western back-woodsman selects a long blade, the corners only rounded off, and the eye holding the weight of the axe. The American chopper, as a rule, selects a long, straight handle. The difference in handling is that a down-easter takes hold with both hands of the extreme end, and throws his blows easily and gracefully, with a long sweep over the left shoulder. A Canuck chops from directly over his head, with the right hand down on the handle to serve in jerking the blade out of the stick. A Westener catches hold at the end of his handle, the hands about three inches apart, and delivers his blows rather direct than from over the left shoulder.

In fact an expert in the woods can tell the nationality or State a man has been reared in by seeing him hit one blow with an axe. It is, however, an interesting fact to know that a Yankee wood-chopper, with his favorite axe and swinging blow, can, bodily strength being equal, do a fifth more work in the same time than any other cutter and be less fatigued. This in a very large degree will account for the greater percentage of Maine men who will be found each year in the woods of New York.—McGee's Illustrated Weekly.

FRENCH JUSTICE.—The judges at the recent Godefroy trial for murder in Paris were so exceedingly deferential to the prisoner that the Charivari pays its respects to them as follows: "So my good friend, you acknowledge having killed your wife?" "Yes, judge." "Permit me to observe that you were perhaps a little too rough in opening her throat with a razor." "I was, judge." "I would suggest then, if you marry again it will be better not to have a razor in the house." "I will promise you, judge." "Do my questions fatigue you? If so we can postpone the case until to-morrow." "They do not, judge. I would prefer having a verdict to-day. I am very uncomfortable in prison." "You are uncomfortable! Why did you not let me know? I could have sent you to a country house I have near Paris, and every Sunday we could have gone fishing together."

THE SMALL POX, besides injuring Los Angeles indirectly, cost over $21,000 before it was stamped out. As far as the bills are audited, the amount of expenditures is $21,209, while there are two or three hundred dollars of bills not yet submitted for approval. Of the above amount, $6,045 53 has been paid, while the remainder, $15,163 49 will have to be drawn on the fund for the ensuing year. This amount includes expenses of the pest-house, physicians' fees, quarantining, vaccine and everything incidental to the disease. When we consider the number of lives lost, we begin to form some idea of the scourge through which Los Angeles has passed, and cease wondering at the nervousness of strangers.—Express, May 1.

TO PREVENT ACCIDENT.—There was recently a trial for murder in Ireland, in which the evidence was so palpably insufficient that the judge stopped the case and directed the jury to return a verdict of "not guilty." A well-known lawyer, however, who wished to do something for the fee he had received for the defendant, claimed the privilege of addressing the court. "We'll hear you with pleasure, Mr. B—," said the judge, "but to prevent accident, we'll first acquit the prisoner."

PROBABLY many have found out the fact for themselves, but few, if any, ever heard it stated so forcibly as Prof. Huxley did it in a recent lecture: "That a man's worst difficulties begin when he is able to do as he likes. So long as a man is struggling with obstacles, he has an excuse for failure or short coming; but, when fortune removes them all and gives him the power of doing as he thinks best, then comes the time of trial. There is but one right, and the possibilities of wrong are infinite."

CIVILTY is to a man what beauty is to a woman. It creates an instantaneous impression in his behalf, while the opposite quality excites a quick prejudice against him. It is a real ornament, the most beautiful dress that a man or woman can wear, and worth more as a means of winning favor than the finest clothes and jewels ever worn.

CALIENTE presents the appearance of some of the deserted mining towns of the early days. It is virtually lifeless and is almost literally so. The little trade arising from the neighboring sheep interests, and from the Kernville stage traffic is all that is left of it..—Kern Co. Gazette.

E. R. GREEN, a young man residing near Bakersfield put in a crop of grain, trusting to the herd law to protect him, but the cattle destroyed it. The next year he tried it again; again the stock destroyed it, in spite of his utmost exertions. He slept out of doors for weeks, with a saddled horse near him, but could not keep the stock off. He sent message after message to the owners but no attempt was made to herd the cattle. He went to them in person, and they laughed in his face, and taunted him with not being able to help himself. At last, as a final and desperate resort, he commenced killing the stock. This he did in broad daylight, with no attempt at concealment or evasion. He was arrested for grand larceny, tried, and, by the adverse and perverse rulings of the judge before whom the case was brought, was found guilty. He was denied bail, motion for new trial was overruled, and every thing that the judge could do to annoy and harass young Green was done, but on the case being brought before the Supreme Court it was promptly dismissed. The stock man against the farmer and the latter victorious! A new era has surely commenced.—Colton Semi-Tropic.

THE HOLLAND DUTCH are about entering upon a stupendous enterprise, as witness this: "Active preparations are going on for the immediate commencement of the long projected work of draining the Zuyder Zee. Taking the average depth of water at eight feet, it is estimated that the work of pumping will be completed in about sixteen years from its commencement. The total cost of reclamation is set down at $67,000,000, but huge as this sum is, the undertaking is confidently looked upon as likely to prove a most remunerative speculation. The success of the scheme will add to the kingdom a new province, nearly 500,000 acres in extent. Judging from previous experiences in connection with the Haarlem Sea, it is reckoned that at least 425,000 acres of the land thus won will be applicable to agricultural purposes, which will richly repay the enterprise and treasure lavished on the undertaking."

LANDED HIS BOAT.

For more than a year readers of THE INDEPENDENT must have perused with interest the entertaining, easy-going sketches, the natural and withal scholarly effusions from the Centennial and various points in the East, under the caption of "Piute Adrift," and over the nom de plume of "Tinnamuckahee." We scarcely know whether our modest letter writer will thank us for this notice, but the fact is he has gone and committed an act which gives us a newspaper license to comment upon. Our information upon the matter is surreptitious, and by no means official or from first hands, but we have no doubt as to its correctness. The wily bachelor who could so racily touch up the foibles and shortcomings of matrimonial partnerships; the Piute adrift who could, with the old philosopher, advise his confreres that whether they ever got married or not they would regret it; he who could talk upon that and all other subjects with an ease and naturalness born of study if not from experience of the matter; he—well, he has landed his boat. The canoe of Tinnamuckahee is lashed to the shore; in other words, he is married! We thought that was about what he was coming to at last, but what could have been the use of a warning? The happy event transpired at Weber Station, Utah, and the present Mrs. Tinnamuckahee was Miss Mattie Williams, an accomplished young lady of sweet eighteen. Had we command of Piute's own facile pen, we could quote Hiawatha, perhaps, and indulge in some poetical gush of welcome for the couple upon their arrival at their home in Round Valley: but as it is we can only pay him the rare compliment (and a profound one in a case where such a course is so perfectly unobjectionable), as to throw off his mask and give the hearty good wishes of THE INDEPENDENT and its readers to the newly married couple and our talented correspondent —THOS. E. JONES.

A DISPATCH from Vienna says the Sultan of Turkey has resolved to proclaim a holy war.

A MUSICAL STORY.—M. Saint-Saens is a frenzied musician as well as the most near-sighted of all near-sighted persons. It is told of him that at a party recently given he consented, after much pressing, to play, and for an hour charmed the company. Then they got tired and departed, exchanging, as they retreated, a significant smile with the host and hostess. Presently the hostess herself became weary and retired. Saint-Saens played more brilliantly than ever. At 2 o'clock A. M., the host, feeling drowsiness master him completely, went to M. Saint-Saens, and laying his hand upon the musician's shoulder, asked; "My dear sir, how can I ever sufficiently express my gratitude for the delightful evening you have made all of us spend? But I am afraid you must be a little tired; aren't you?" M. Saint-Saens replied, without looking up or stopping his play: "Tired? I am just beginning to get in the humor to play." To confirm speech by deed, M. Saint-Saens dashed off with a fire, vehemence and vigor which he had not shown during the whole evening. The host despaired. He went to sleep, and the composer, it is gravely said, stopped playing about daybreak, bowed low, right and left, as he retired to the door, and went home delighted with the still and breathless attention he had received.

A DARWIN MAN TRIES TO COMMIT SUICIDE.—A San Francisco dispatch of the 3d says: To-day at half-past 12 o'clock when the El Capitan was abreast of Goat Island, a man approached Capt, Kentzell and handing him a letter, immediately sprang overboard. The steamer was soon stopped and a boat lowered at once, and the man was seized by the hair as he was sinking the last time. A physician on board being called applied the usual remedies and as the steamer reached San Francisco the prospect was that the man would be restored. It was learned that the man was from Darwin, Inyo county, where he had been living for the past two months, and that he had shown signs of insanity at that place for some time, and a purse had been made up to defray his expenses to this place. He had been sent here alone without an attendant. It is thought that he came from Newark, Ohio. The letter which he handed to Capt. Kentzell was addressed to Miss Maria Field, Appleton House, corner Jessie and Fifth streets, San Francisco, and on being opened read as follows:

Dear Sister Maria: This is sad goodbye and God bless you is the wish of Brother George. Take charge of everything; it is all yours.

He was conveyed to the police station where he received proper attention.

THE WAY IT IS DONE IN SANTA CTUZ.

The other day two young Mexicans in Santa Cruz named Francisco Arias and José Chamalas wanted to go to the circus, but unfortunately, happened to be a little short of funds just then. After due consideration they saw no recourse to raise the required sum except by means of a forced loan. With this object in view the gentlemen sallied forth, and soon after met a man named De Forest. While talking with him about the loan (not about a woman), a pistol one of them happened to have in his hand went off accidentally just like that little shot gun did up here at Aunt Billy Noter's, and that accident put a stop to further conversation about the loan, for De Forest was so near dead he couldn't talk much. As an act of mercy they knifed him a few times. The parallel between the two cases ceased at the shooting. These men didn't run off and leave the victim of their carelessness to welter in his blood without first going to see how much he was hurt. While doing that they found that all the pockets contained was $8 50, which they took and went to the circus and passed quite a pleasant evening. Here was their mistake: They should have given themselves up, reported the accident; that it wouldn't have happened anyway if the man hadn't been trying to rob them or steal a horse; in fact they ought to have had a horse handy to turn loose with a short piece of rope on to justify the accident, and then put their trust in the law. No harm could have befallen them then, because the law is framed specially to protect human life. There is not more than one case in a hundred where it ever was a failure in that respect, but these ignorant cutthroats did not seem to think about that, and hung around till they finally got arrested. They did confess to the accident then, and begun to feel quite safe and comfortable, when, one night last week, a lot of lawless men went there and took the unfortuates out and strung them up to the cross beams of the San Lorenzo bridge. If it hadn't been for that hasty action these two young men might in me have got a good lawyer, went before a kind hearted jury, testified what they saw De Forest trying to do to them in the moonlight; that when they found out it wasn't an Injun, which was not till they had poked him around awhile with their little guns, that the latter accidentally went off and killed the poor man; that, much as they regretted it, they were justifiable in dropping him because some little time before they had seen him fooling around a half wild mustang much as if he was going to steal him; that, though the horse was in no danger of being stolen then, because he had run off and the man was too drunk to do much, yet the law gives every one a right to defend his property, hence the accident —could they have been allowed to live long enough to have gone into Court and told some such story as that, those young men would have received lawful protection, and thenceforth either one of them, in his own circle of admiring friends, could have walked about "a bigger man than old Grant." But, alas! those lawless nighthawks had to ruin their prospects in life by stringing them up to the cross timbers of the San Lorenzo bridge. It was a bad arrangement.

JOHN B. FELTON died at his residence in Oakland on the 4th instant. He was one of the leading and most learned lawyers of the State. His practice has netted him about $80,000 a year as an average, often receiving more than half that amount in a single fee. The secret of his success was that he never went into Court without a perfect understanding of his case in all its phases, not only in its probable but possible turnings. To this end he would devote months, if need be, in preparing his suit, and the result was he was always ready for every new point or combination, and therefore never had to retire to his office to study law while his cause was pending. He confined his line of practice to civil cases exclusively, persistently refusing retainers in criminal actions.

A SENSATION.—G. M. Pinney, the Navy Clerk who absconded about a year ago, has returned to San Francisco, and by telling what he knows is creating a most profound sensation. He implicates Sargent, Billy Carr, Congressman Page and other leading lights of the Republican party in such gigantic swindles upon the Government as will certainly shelve them for all time to come. His story is too long to permit of even a fair synopsis at this time.

THE war in Europe is rapidly assuming a shape that indicates bloody work ere long. Some unimportant battles have already been fought, the advantage resting with the Russians so far. The other Powers are trying to keep out of the muss, but the chances are against their being able to do so.

THE Turkish Minister of War denies that the Turkish army was defeated before Kars.

THE PEOPLE vs. WM. M. BOYD.

Synopsis of the Evidence—Proof that Ie is an Innocent, Bland Sort of a Man—Guilty of Nervousness, Nothing Mor.

Case begun in the District Court on Monday last and closed on Wednesday, Wm. M. Boyd, a citizen of this locality, being the party defendant for the murder of Thomas Mackey, an enlisted soldier at Camp Independence, whom Boyd shot to death on the night of the 26th of December last.

Thos. F. Leonard, sworn.—On the evening of the murder was at Chenot's store drinking with Boyd, Mackey and others; Boyd left about 9; witness and deceased staid till late and then started to go to quarters; when opposite Unde Billy's house Mackey proposed to go in and give Uncle Billy some punch; witness objected; said it was late; that they had better get home; were standing some 25 yards from the house; Mackey went to the door, and witness saw no more of him until he saw him lying dead, some three minutes later; heard the report of the gun; went back and pushed in the door; asked Noter what the shooting was about? Noter ["Unde Billy," as generally designated] pushed witness out of the door, and said, "Get out of my house." Asked the second time what the shooting was about; the old man answered, "there lies one of your men out there." Witness went to Mackey, who was lying 15 or 20 yards from the door; he was dead; went to camp and gave the alarm; it was about ten minutes from the time they left the store to the time he found the body; that was about two minutes after hearing the shot; about a minute after pushing in the door; went that road, which was about 50 yards the furthest, to avoid the guard house.

William Noter sworn.—Wasso drunk that night could not remember anything; was on the bed asleep; heard the shot; did not know whether he saw Boyd that night or not; knew both parties; hearing the shot, asked Boyd "what was up?" could not say what the answer, if any, was. Remembered nothing more till he found himself in the guard house, or on the way there.

Uncle Billy, and his wife, who was next called, were residing in defendant's house, were evidently both predetermined to throw as little light upon the transaction as possible. Before the Coroner and at the preliminary examination they remembered many more things that was said and done that night than on this trial. No attempt was made to refresh their memories, not even to inquire if they ever had testified in the case before, notwithstanding the transcripts lay before the District Attorney. It is not assumed that closer questioning would have changed the final result, but the narrative would have been far more complete and satisfactory to curiosity. Uncle Billy is in his dotage. Aunt Billy is little over half his age, and possesses some marked peculiarities of mind and habits; her statement of facts, however, ooming under her observation, is reliable.

Mrs. Noter, sworn.—Knew Boyd; he is a good man; don't know anything about the death of Mackey; know there was a man killed in the door yard that night, between 10 and 11 o'clock; can't say who killed him; Boyd was in the house; nobody else besides me and my husband; I recollect every word that was said; Billy don't recollect; Mackey came to the door and said, "I want to see Uncle Billy to give him a drink, and then I'll go home." Billy don't recollect; I will tell you the truth. [We are left entirely in the dark as to what followed Mackey's remark above quoted, up to the time of the firing. She took up the thread of her story at the point when Leonard pushed in the door after the shooting]. I heard the gun fired; Billy started up out of bed and said to Boyd, "What have you done?" Boyd said, "I've dropped him." I don't know what he meant; I didn't know who was killed; did not see the dead man; was never so scared in my life; night was so windy could not possibly keep a candle burning.

Dr. Matthews, Post Surgeon, testified that the wound was inflicted with bird shot, was about three inches in diameter, direction, straight in but slightly downwards, had smashed two vertebræ, in the base of the neck, left side, nearest the back part, would cause death in a second.

Lieut. Wotherspoon testified that it was a bright moonlight night, the moon being over head between 9 and 10 o'clock that night.

Serj. Ford testified to having, with others, gone to Noter's and finding the body of Mackey where he fell: to the arrest of the Noters, and taking them to the guard house, Mrs. Noter's high excitement on and subsequent to witnesses' arrival on the ground. Also, that pursuant to orders, he came to town to report to the Sheriff, in whose office he found Boyd, who inquired if the man was dead.

Wm. Cassidy, sworn.—Reside but a short distance from Noter's; known Boyd about three years; he came to my house on the night of the killing and woke me up; said he had shot a man, who was trying to steal his horse; did not know how much he was hurt, nor who he was; it was a man in his shirt sleeves; did not say where it happened; wanted me to go down and see about it; asked what he had better do; told him he had better give himself up; I went down to Noter's; about a hundred steps from Noter's saw an iron gray horse by the side of the road; it was the same horse Boyd had been keeping up, tied near the house; he was a gentle horse; not very wild; had a short piece of rope dragging; nothing else on him; he was loose; saw a dead body in Noter's door yard; could not say it who was; returned home; Boyd had disappeared.

Deputy Sheriff W. L. Moore, sworn. —Boyd came to my office shortly after 11 o'clock that night; wanted to give himself up; said he had shot a man; didn't know whether he had killed him or not; stated that after he had gone to bed he heard his horse ranting around; tried to look out of the window to see what was the matter; there was a cloth nailed over the window, so that he could not see much; took his gun and went out at the door; saw a man who looked like he had just been thrown from his horse; ran up and poked him with the gun; about that time the horse got away; asked the man what he was doing with his (Boyd's) horse; then saw it was a white man; went to let the hammer of the gun down and it went off accidentally; then he run to Cassidy's, then came here and gave himself up to me; he has repeated this statement to me several times; has never made a different statement to me.

Under the law to legalize perjury Wm. M. Boyd was sworn in his own behalf.—That evening was at Chenot's store drinking with others; went home about 9 o'clock; fed my horse and went to bed; some time after, heard a noise like a horse that was scared; tried to see out through the window; it had a cloth or sack nailed over it; raised the corner up and saw my horse going away; run to the front part of the house and picked up the shot gun; run out and seen a man on the horse; I run up to him and the horse made a jump and bucked him off; I give him a push with the gun, and asked him what he was doing with that horse; he said something, but I could tell what it was, and I seen that it was a white man, and was putting down the hammer of my gun and it accidentally went off; the horse run away and the man fell. [Here follows some unimportant details about how the Noters came to be living with him, etc.] Don't know whether both barrels were loaded or not; there was a row of trees around the house; I was partly in the shadow of the trees at the time of the accident; I am at times very nervous; I was considerably excited when I went out; I am not certain that the man held the horse till the gun went off.

The cross examinaition and re-direct resulted as follows:

I heard the horse making a noise as if something had scared him. * * * When I looked out and seen the horse and man they were leaving the locust tree [where he was usually kept tied], going east; went immediately, got my gun, cocked it as soon as I got the door open; when I stepped out they were about six paces from the door; two or three paces further I saw the horse buck the man off; the man fell off the horse nine or ten paces from the house; he was on his feet when I pushed him with the gun; I don't know what position he was in when the gun went off; I must have been four or five steps from the man when the gun went off.

That is the sum of the testimony as relating to the "accident." Other witnesses were introduced to prove that defendant, so far as they knew, was not a bad or dangerous man. Counter testimony as to his liability to accidents of this sort was barred because the subpœnas were not issued till after the case was closed on the part of the prosecution. There is not a question but Mr. Boyd owes a debt of gratitude to his able counsel equal to the compass of his future existence. There are no two opinions on that point.

A jury sworn to adjudge according to law and evidence (and these under rigid restrictions and ingenious interpretations generally available when a human life is involved), often reach a wholly different conclusion the same men as individuals would have been satisfied with when judging the same series of facts from an entirely untrammeled stand point. These peculiar restrictions are the safe guards of the innocent, and yet the only hope some times of the really guilty. They account for many verdicts the public think strange, or as not a vindication of justice. We do not for one moment question the perfect honesty of this verdict, for this jury has never had its superior in a criminal cause in this county in intelligence, honest citizenship and good standing as members of society, with the fair fame of which they are every one too perfectly identified to desire to encourage wrong against it in any shape. Nevertheless, this verdict will not be indorsed as a perfect vindication of law and justice.

Boyd's story that the shooting was an accident won't do. As a rule a man don't say "I dropped him," as if speaking of a marauding cayote, when by some unfortunate accident he sends a fellow being to eternity; nor run away without a second look at the victim of his carelessness as he lies weltering in his gore. Nor is it conducive to the well being of society to indorse the act as a lawful one in a rightful defense of property, for, as shown, at that moment the assumed horse thief was helplessly in the hands of the owner of the property which was then in no jeopardy if it ever had been; that allegation again is as imperfectly sustained as any other part of the dark story. A horse thief would hardly introduce and identity himself at the owner's door, then immediately after in open view mount his horse with felonious intent and put in that time in getting but ten paces from the door. It is just as difficult to harmonize the accepted theory with fair probability in other parts of this story, but we shall leave that for others. The foregoing was Boyd's passport through the only tribunal having power to hold him to legal accountability, of which he has nothing more to fear for what is past. But the case is yet at the bar of public opinion—to society it is now of even more moment than if the verdict had been adverse. Society has a right to demand a moral as well as a technical legal washing of a blood stained hand before accepting it again in hearty fellowship. Far be it from us to say that killing is necessarily murder; still further, to want to do aught as individuals or journalists to drag down any man for a mere misfortune that was forced upon him, as was this, to a material extent, upon Boyd. But turn this evidence which we may it is impossible for us to find that moral justification for this bloody deed that we would like to. And we do not propose to do violence to our sense of right by giving this deed as presented even an inferential indorsement.

But right here, before dismissing this unpleasant subject, we shall say that in our opinion the officers and men of Co. D ought to have seen to it that the District Attorney had had professional aid in this unequal fight in behalf of the rights and fame of a comrade who can no longer stand up for himself.

THAT MOUND.—The monument of rocks on the county road about one mile north of this place—which has latety been utilized for some purpose and nearly all torn away—marks the resting place of one of Fremont's followers, who are supposed to have passed the spot during the earliest explorations of the Pathfinder. Such is the notion of some of ye pioneers, who have remarked that identical pile of rocks since Inyo's first settlement; but it is one of the wildest of conjectures, as the course of the Walker (Fremont) party, being on the other side of the river, was not within five or six miles of the place. Passing observers would take it for a surveyor's mark, but its only practical use seems to be for chucking whisky bottles at. In all probability, however, the solution of its existence lies in the fact that in the days of old the different petty tribes of aboriginals had their separate territories distinctly marked by lines across the mountains and valleys, defined mostly by natural objects but sometimes by constructed mounds, each one-horse chief being required to keep within the metes and bounds of his own hunting grounds. Up to the Winter of 1862 there existed on one of the crests of the western summit of the Sierras a natural monument about 100 feet in hight, and nearly perpendicular on three sides. It had an irregular split or crevass, up which it was possible to climb; in fact, some of the soldiers of Col. Evans' did ascend it, while on an Indian scout. From the valley its general appearance was exactly similar to Winnedemuh (the Piute Monument), which now stands out so prominent on the Inyo or opposite range. On the line between these crags was built the mound first spoken of, a portion of which still lies by the road. But when soldiers came again on the following year the crag was gone. Having held its place since the creation of the mountains themselves, it was in that year toppled over by an earthquake.

OWENS LAKE—ANTIQUARIAN RELICS. The skeleton recently taken from the bed of Owens Lake is an enigma to all the scientists of Inyo. The massive skull scales about 85 inches; the expression of the countenance would indicate that the owner of it had either been dabbling in stocks or was a newspaper proprietor, or else had been on prolonged spree prior to the dissolution of co-partnership between flesh and bones. Where the hands should be are claws like a lobster, and between the joints of the bones, including the patella, os calcis and the cervical vertebræ and all that sort of thing, were little receptacles filled with soap suds. The giant must have been about eleven feet high, and was probably at some period resurrected from Tulare Lake and transplanted at this place.

TAMING.—It is as impossible to tame a young Indian as it is to domesticate a prairie chicken. The idea of accomplishing the latter is a standing joke in the Western States; so it is here as regards the former. It is frequently experimented upon, but the project is always an utter failure. On one occasion a citizen had forged and shaped a beautiful hunting knife, nicely mounted. An Indian boy whom he had been educating and taming took a great fancy to it, and it was made a present to him to keep as an ornament. When next heard of, the boy had plunged it into the heart of an aboriginal doctor. The unfortunate victim was a medicine man, who went as they all go; but the boy lost the knife in his precipitate flight.

FARMING.—Farmers (what use is there in saying "ranchers" when that Spanish-American term is so badly abused by Eastern writers, just for oddity) on Bishop Creek are all busy planting corn. In that portion of the county they enjoy an abundance of water, and, although the present is a backward Spring, there is an excellent prospect of over an average crop this season. The small grain is doing splendidly. A talk with quite a number of the largest growers elicited the fact that every one has "put in" from 20 to 50 acres more than ever heretofore. Considering this as on irrigating country, the prospect for a large acreage and yield is encouraging.

STILL THEY COME.—Wagon after wagon and now and then a train of "jimmygrants," from the sunny southern counties, continue to pass bound so far north they hope to earn the title of "webfeet." Their stories in relation to the dried up, destitute condition of the country about Los Angeles are distressing. Ye romantic writers of climate and orange groves, will you not now quit inveigling poor people into such a country?—one where it requires so much capital to get a start and keep from starvation?

CROWDED.—The rush consequent upon Court business, Board of Supervisors, etc., has made it lively for the Blaney House; but notwithstanding all the confusion and jingle of "Roas' beef!" "mutton pot-pie!" "irritated lamb!" "pork and beans!"—John Langer, the untiring waiter, manages the dining room with heroic patience, agility and good nature. "Bones" is a trump in his line, and in him the Blaney has a valuable if not an ornamental piece of furniture.

PREACHING.—In response to the query of a lady correspondent at George's Creek, in regard to the dates and hour of religious services at this place, we may state that Rev. Mr. Case visits Independence on the first Sunday of each month, and begins service at the school house at candle-light.

HEAVY BULLION SHIPMENTS.—The bullion shipments from the Benton office of Wells, Fargo & Co., during the month of April, amounted to the value of $53,921.

DISTRICT COURT—MAY TERM.

Hon. Theron Reed, Judge.

People vs. Wm. M. Boyd; murder; Reddy & Conklin and R. M. Briggs for the defense; District Attorney Snelling for the People. The following jurymen were empanneled and sworn to try the cause, they being selected from a drawn jury of seventy-five. John Shepherd, John Lucas, John Baxter, W. D. Clark, E. W. Harris, W. A. McAllister, Joseph McDermott, A. Winters, David Olds, Jacob Vagt, C. F. Wildasin and J. R. Westerville, Foreman.

The following witnesses were examined on the part of the prosecution: William Noter, Mrs. Noter, his wife; Dr. W. Matthews, W. A. Cassidy, Deputy Sheriff W. L. Moore, G. W. Ford, Lieut. W. W. Wotherspoon. Witnesses for the defense, Wm. M. Boyd, Thos. May, J. B. Rowley, G. W. Brady and W. L. Moore.

On Wednesday, counsel for defense moved that defendant be discharged for the following reasons: First—Because the evidence for the people and defendant has been closed, and no order having been made by this honorable Court changing the order of trial as prescribed by subdivisions one and two of section 1093 of the Penal Code; second, because the indictment in this case has never been read to the jury; third, because the plea put in by the defendant in this action has never been stated to the jury; fourth, because the District Attorney, he being the only counsel for the prosecution, did not open the case as required by law.

Motion argued, taken under advisement and overruled, to which defense filed exception.

The indictment was then read and the plea of not guilty stated.

Prosecution asked leave to introduce two other witnesses to rebut proofs of character. Objected to and objections sustained, on the ground that witnesses were not subpœnaed until the case was closed.

Case submitted for argument, which was opened by the District Attorney, followed by Briggs and Reddy.

The case went to the jury at about 2 o'clock P. M. on Wednesday, who, after being out about three hours, reported a verdict of not guilty, whereupon defendant was ordered discharged from custody.

THE REX MONTIS.—Among the notable local events of the next two or three weeks will be the starting up of the Rex Montis (the old Silver Sprout) mill for the Summers' work, it having been almost entirely rebuilt and supplied with the most improved reduction machinery for the use of the new company. Of the almost innumerable rich but small ledges which cut through Kearsarge mountain, the Rex Montis veins present the greatest number in the smallest space, and have so far made the best returns for the amount of capital invested in working them. Notwithstanding the heavy incidental expenses of building trails and improving the old mill, the company realized handsome returns over and above the cost of prospecting, mining and milling. The Rex Montis proper, consisting of four parallel ledges within a width of 150 feet are the most important so far as developed—in fact the first one of the four is the only one upon which any considerable work has been done. In all there are fifteen ledges, including the four mentioned—the Potosi Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 11, the Boomerang and Arctic, which vary in width from 12 inches to four feet, all carrying the rich ore which has proved so productive by a working process. On the principal mine three openings have been made by tunnels running in on the ledge from the end, all showing distinctly the ledge and yielding good ore. No. 1, the top, is but an open cut, now covered by snow; No. 2 is in a distance of 140 feet, and No. 3 is in 150 feet. The two latter are connected by a raise and winze of 54 feet, thus going clear around a "block" of "pay ground." From the lower tunnel the company are now sinking again, and so far at a depth of 36 feet are still in ore. Here side drifts have been started and from this point the mining foreman thinks he has sufficient ore to run the mill all the present season. Unless for drainage and ventilation, where run to tap the bottom of an existing shaft, we have but little faith in tunnel enterprises as a means of prospecting, but above all other mining districts in our knowledge Kearsarge Hill presents the best inducements for an operation of this kind. A tunnel 5,000 feet in length would either cross-cut these fifteen ledges or enter the highest at a point nearly 3,000 feet deep, where, from the pitch of the outer veins, all would center. The matter of 75 feet of snow in the cañons near the present workings, as is the case now, wouldn't make much difference with mining operations then.

SMALL POX.—A genuine case of the small pox was last week reported as being in the town of Lone Pine. A gentleman representing THE INDEPENDENT, being there during the week, took pains to ascertain the authenticity of the report, and found by interviewing Dr. Colleau that it was a bona fide case of variola; that the patient—whose name was not learned—came from near Los Angeles; that he was suffering greatly from swelling and eruptions from other cause than the disease. The doctor further stated that a close examination with a magnifying glass proved he was not mistaken The patient is removed to a safe distance; is well cared for, and no one has the least apprehension of the case spreading. Our exchanges, however, report the existence of new cases in Mojave and adjacent territory.

EARTHQUAKE.—An old-time reminder was experienced here Tuesday evening, at 7:10 o'clock. Quite a sharp shock was felt, accompanied by the usual rumbling thunder. The oscillation was, as of old, from southwest to the northeast.

GONE TO CARSON.—Lieut. Wotherspoon of Co. D has gone to Carson in charge of the mule train belonging to the Wheeler expedition.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

Proceedings of the May Term.

Regular meeting of the Board. Present, Chas. Meysan and D. B. Curtis, Chairman.

Balance due Clerk on bill of A. L. Bancroft & Co. for purchase of books and stationary, approved and accepted as presented in statement made by County Clerk, said statement being an account of the money placed in his hands by the Board February 15, 1877.

Bill of A. B. Elder, special Constable in case of People vs Henderson Barry, was passed for the term.

Ordered that Duplicate Assessment Book for 1877 and 1878 be dispensed with.

In the matter of application of R. Nadeau for the construction and maintenance of a toll road and the right of collecting tolls thereon, to commence at a point on Shephard's Toll Road on the east side of the Argus range of mountains and from thence running through Panamint valley up to the Minnietta mine, and for the appointment of two Commissioners to act with Joseph Seely, the Surveyor, and George Turner, appointed by applicant as Commissioners—it was ordered that the application be granted and R. Jacobs and Dennis Searles be appointed Commissioners as prayed for.

An application from same party (R. Nadeau) in reference to another road commencing at the old wagon road near the summit of the Slate Range to connect with the Panamint Toll Road, otherwise known as Shephard's road. Granted, and R. C. Jacobs and Dennis Searles appointed Commissioners. Adjourned.

TUESDAY, May 8.

Board met pursuant to adjournment. Present, Chas. Meysan and D. B. Curtis, Chairman.

Bills presented, examined and allowed occupied the attention of the Board during the day's session.

WEDNESDAY, May 9.

Board met pursuant to adjournment, the day being occupied in the consideration of bills.

THURSDAY, May 10.

In the matter of the demand of the Assessor to be furnished with a map of the town of Darwin, it was resolved that the vote of this Board upon the one of F. B. Austin's at its regular meeting on February 14, 1877, be reconsidered and that same map be purchased and said bill allowed as presented for $50.

No action taken upon petition to remove and rebuild Bend City bridge.

Application of citizens of Inyo county for reduction of tolls on the Cerro Gordo and Owens Lake Toll Road, R. M. Briggs, counsel for said road, asked that time be given to obtain witnesses—application laid over till next meeting. Owners to show cause why tolls on said road should not be reduced or abolished entirely.

Application of P. McGann for closing in location of county road crossing his place granted.

J. H. Cook made application to have one of the roads crossing his place confirmed and the other closed—application laid over.

A REMINISCENCE.—Among the reminiscences of our pioneer times is one told as follows: It was in the days when the old Inyo House was the leading hotel and Mr. Hilton was the proprietor. A well-known Inyoite, whose powers of endurance as a talker are the most remarkable on record, sat by the fire one night and exhausted one guest after another until the room was cleared out and not even an echo gave response to the inexhaustable flow of talk. At this juncture the landlord came in and had the presumption to tackle the monster. Metaphysics, ethics, ancient and modern history, politics and domestic affairs, personal experience of bravery and hair-breadth escapes, were in turn reviewed—twelve, one, two, three o'clock rang out from the clock in the corner, and still he talked. He had robbed the period and all other punctuation points of their customary value as pauses, when the crisis came by the sudden appearance of the landlady, en déshabillé, and holding in either hand a can of gun-powder. She had her temper up, and her fury was magnificent. The astonished men were given to understand that it was time to adjourn, and that she proposed to bring about that adjournment instanter. With the two cans of powder she made a dive at the open door of the red-hot stove. Our host fled precipitantly, but the great pioneer philosopher proved his valor by disarming the infuriated lady, when the adjournment was amicably settled upon.

LONE PINE.—Lone Pine is as calm and peaceful in her surroundings of vegetation, breweries and potato patches as a tranquil little porpoise bubble on the sea in a dead calm. Her society, formerly so hetrogeneous, is greatly improved, and those of the old residenters who remain are very hopeful for the future. The business firms, several of which are also interested in branch institutions at Cerro Gordo, are sanguine in the belief of a change for the better, and that soon. Of course the stories of advantages, monopolies and opposition to the introduction of new capital, are worth attention, but what a sectional row it would cause in case this same public conversation should appear in print! It might make the reporter popular, but he is not seeking notoriety just now; so it will remain a bloody secret until Cerro Gordo shall have resumed her former modus operandi and the fiddles of the hurdy-gurdies are again heard in the land. An account of the artesian well boring and the irrigating business will be in order for next week. "Mary Jane's" failure to go down on the other side created a suspicion of her non-existence in Lone Pine, and many other speculations were indulged in of which we are not supposed to be cognizant, but as there is an end to most things so there must be to our observations, with a mention of the generous treatment received within the sacred precincts of Lone Pine.

THE BUCKINGHAM CASE.—The trial of John Buckingham, for the killing of John Anderson, occupied the District Court from Thursday morning to Friday evening, resulting in a verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree. The prisoner was ordered to appear for sentence on Monday next at 10 o'clock. A presentation of the evidence, outline of arguments, names of jurors and general comments upon the case we are compelled ts defer until next week.

A GOOD INSTITUTION.—Monday last Bob Trigg, late of the Darwin Restaurant, opened in the old Headquarters building a new restaurant, the card of which will be noted elsewhere. Bob has been heard to whisper that during the rush of Court week his hashery has been a success.

GONE BELOW.—Major Bartling and daughter, of the Rex Montis, started for San Francisco on Thursday. The Major expects to return shortly with his family, who are coming from the East.

A CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.—A correspondent of the Southern Plantation writes as follows about the power of a well known plant: "I have discovered a remedy for pulmonary consumption. It has cured a number of cases after they commenced bleeding at the lungs, and the hectic flush was already on the cheek. After trying this remedy to my own satisfaction, I have thought philanthropy required that I should let it be known to the world. It is the common mullein, steeped strong and sweetened with coffee sugar and drank freely. The herb should be gathered before the end of July, if convenient. Young or old plants are good dried in the shade and kept in clean paper bags. The medicine must be continued from three to six months, according to the nature of the disease. It is very good for the blood vessels also. It strengthens the system, and builds up instead of taking away strength. It makes good blood, and takes inflammation away from the lungs." It is the wish of the writer that every periodical in the United States, Canada and Europe should publish this receipt for the benefit of the human family. Lay this up, and keep it in the house ready for use.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, MAY 12.....1877.

Curran was once addressing a jury, when the Judge, who was thought to be antagonistic to his client, intimated his dissent from the arguments advanced by a shake of his head. "I see, gentlemen, I see the motion of his lordship's head. Persons unacquainted with his lordship would be apt to think this implied a difference of opinion; but be assured, gentlemen, this is not the case. When you know his lordship as well as I do, it will be unnecessary to tell you that when he shakes his head there is really nothing in it."

"A Georgia man," says a paper of that State, "the other day sneezed up a cockle-burr which he had been carrying around in his inside for thirteen years." If the Western editors' constitution for lying is as robust as ever, we may soon expect to hear of a Michigan man sneezing up a nutmeg grater which he carried about in his interior for seventeen years. It will never do for the West to get in the rear of the South in these things.—Norristown Herald.

A little boy was asked if he knew where the wicked went to? He answered: "They practice law here a spell, and then go to the Legislature!" It was a painful operation for that boy to sit down for a few days.

A little boy being asked if he had reached the head of his class, replied: "Well, I am where the head used to be, but the teacher has turned the class round."

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State California, in and for the County of Inyo. Ellen Porter, plaintiff, against William Porter, defendant. Action brought in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and the complaint filed in said county of Inyo, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to William Porter, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and to answer a complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or, if served out of this county, but in this district, within twenty days; otherwise, within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony existing between the plaintiff and defendant, and giving to plaintiff the care, custody and education of Lillian Porter and Frederick Porter, minor children of said parties, and for general relief.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief therein demanded.

Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District [SEAL] of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, this fourth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven.

WM. B. DAUGHERTY, Clerk.

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo. R. A. Loomis, plaintiff, vs. C. L. Jackson, defendant. Action brought in the District Court the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo and the Complaint filed in said County of Inyo, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to C. L. Jackson, defendant:

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the District Court of the 16th Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, and to answer the Complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or, if served out of this county, but within this district, then within twenty days; otherwise within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you according to the prayer of said Complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court for the foreclosure of a certain mortgage, described in the said Complaint, and executed by the said defendant to the said plaintiff on the 12th day of May, A. D. 1874, to secure the payment of a certain promissory note for the sum of Twenty-two Hundred Dollars in United States gold coin, with interest at 1¼ per cent. per month, and the further sum of Four Hundred Dollars in like gold coin, with interest, for moneys paid out on a certain other mortgage set forth in said Complaint, that the premises conveyed by said mortgage may be sold, and the proceeds applied to the payment of said promissory note and interest, and said sum of $400 advanced, with interest thereon, and for costs of suit and attorney's fees, fully set forth in said Complaint on file herein, and in case said proceeds are not sufficient to pay the same, then to obtain an execution against said defendant for the balance remaining due, and also that the said defendant and all persons claiming by, through or under him may be barred and foreclosed of all right, title, claim, lien, equity of redemption, and interest in and to said mortgaged premises, and for other and further relief, as will more fully appear by reference to the Complaint on file herein.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the said Complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District [SEAL] of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, this Twelfth day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven.

PIUTE ADRIFT.

CHAPTER XXIX—THE MINES OF UTAH.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Piute has lately been scrabbling up Hard Scrabble and other wet and dry gulches and cañons of Utah. There are rich and extensive mines in this Territory. It is claimed that Utah is unrivalled as a lead producing country, and second only to Nevada in all the precious metals. The fact that Utah shipped during the month of April 227 car loads (20,000 lbs. per car) of base bullion is convincing proof that this Territory's mineral resources are extensive.

THE COTTONWOODS.

In the Little Cottonwood cañon is the celebrated Emma mine. Although much has been said and published derogatory to the character of the Emma, it is still claimed by experienced miners to be a valuable mine. The Flagstaff is one of the heaviest producing mines in the district. This mine is owned by an English company; the average daily product is 50 tons of ore, which is taken from a depth of 600 feet. There are several other good mines in the Big and Little Cottonwoods. The Antelope and Prince of Wales is considered the best worked mine in the district; it is developed to a depth of 1,060 feet and the entire workings of the mine is nearly five miles in extent. This mine is on the summit of the Wasatch mountains. From the summit of the divide between Big and Little Cottonwood cañons there is an underground railway 1,800 feet long. This is the highest railroad in the United States, being over 10,000 feet above sea level. There are four engines used at the mine; the yield of the mine for April was 20 tons per day of 180 ounce ore and 46 per cent. lead. The Butte mine is the property of an Ohio company and is under the management of Mr. M. K. Harkness. Mr. Harkness is also Superintendent of the Frederick mine (many of the Benton boys will recollect "M. K." formerly of the Comanche mine).

TINTIC.

There are several valuable mines in this district. The Mammoth Copperopolis mine is owned by an English company. This mine is remarkable for the quantity, variety and richness of its ores. It has been prospected to the depth of 183 feet; the average width of ore is now 20 feet, all of which is extracted and worked; it samples $30 in silver, besides rich streaks of chloride silver ore. The Crismon Mammoth is the most valuable mine on the vein; it has attained a depth of 460 feet. The ore has an average working value of $250 per ton, while sample lots run from $25,000 to $100,000; single assays have reached $280,000. There are other good mines in the Tintic district—the Sunbeam, Undine, Hidden Treasure, Showers, etc. The Rising Sun has a vein of from 2 to 7 feet of ore, both milling and smelting, yielding 30 per cent. black oxide manganese, 30 per cent. lead and $60 per ton silver.

PARLEY'S PARK.

The leading mine of the district is the Ontario. Considerable of the ore is refractory and a Stedefeldt furnace is in operation. The Ontario company shipped during the month of April 73 bars of bullion, worth $98,994 86. In Beaver county there are some valuable copper mines developed. The large body of ore in one of the mines assays over 50 per cent. copper, 8 ounces silver and 20 per cent. iron. There is abundance of iron ore in Utah; some of it goes 96 per cent. iron.

BINGHAM

Is considered the most prosperous mining camp in the Territory. There are a great many claims in this district; a great many of the veins are small, still some large bodies of ore have been developed. The Highland Boy has a body of 36 feet milling ore which goes $25 in gold and 18 ounces in silver. The Celia company are taking out ore which goes 60 per cent. lead and 30 ounces in silver. The Rob Roy is on the summit of the Oquirrh range; an incline shaft of 200 feet runs through ore all the way down. The ore samples 34 ounces in silver, 50 per cent. lead and $30 in gold. The Never Sweat is down 60 feet on the ledge; assays 45 per cent. lead, 60 ounces in silver and some gold. The Mayflower is a good mine; is down 730 feet and ships 50 tons of ore daily. The Winnamuck, Dixon & Co., are extracting considerable ore. The average samples 45 ounces in silver and 35 per cent. lead. A new strike was made in the mine last month, the ore assaying $350 in silver, $50 in gold and 50 per cent. lead. There are some placer mines being worked in Bingham and considerable gold dust is taken out. It is said that a few Italians there are taking out $25 per day to the man. Bismuth mines have been discovered a few miles west of Beaver city. Many other districts, as Dry Cañon, Stockton, Ophir, Leeds, etc., are turning out considerable bullion, while a great many mines are also idle in the Territory.

THE SMELTERS.

There are ten smelters in Utah—two in Toole, two in Beaver and six in Salt Lake county. During April, 27 car loads of base bullion was turned out, which proves that Utah contains a variety and abundance of mineral. The following is Utah's output for April:

Base bullion, 2,275 tons at $200	$455,000 00
Silver-lead, 1,250 tons at $100	125,000 00
Copper ore, 65 tons at $100	6,500 00
Silver bullion from Ontario	98,994 86
Silver bullion from Tintic	45,000 00
Silver bullion from Leeds	56,000 00
Gold bullion from Tintic	10,000 00
Gold bullion from Bingham	4,800 00

Mark Twain.

Writing sometimes for the paper on which he was employed articles of greater length or some more pretentious subject than usual, Clemens signed these with the nom de plume then first assumed, of "Mark Twain," this style of signature having been adopted, as it is said, for the following reason: When acting as steamboat pilot on the Mississippi, it had been made part of his duty to take the soundings. In doing this it becomes necessary to sing out the depth of water as indicated by the lead, directing the proper scoring to be made, thus: "mark one," "mark twain;" the latter, the ancient and now nearly obselete form of the word two. From his peculiar manner of drawling this out, young Clemens had acquired among the steamboat fraternity the sobriquet of "Mark Twain;" which droll phrase being familiar to his ear, and pleasing him, perhaps by its orignality and fitness, was retained for the above purpose. This may be a fanciful explanation of the origin of the term in question, but we do not recollect having heard any other suggested.—Exchange.

That story wont work; it is too thin. We knew Clemens in the early days, and know exactly how he came to be dubbed "Mark Twain." John Piper's saloon, on B street, used to be the grand rendezvous for all of the Virginia City Bohemians. Piper conducted a cash business and refused to keep any books. As a special favor, however, he would occasionally chalk down drinks to the boys on the wall back of the bar. Sam Clemens when localizing for the Enterprise, always had an account, with the balance against him, on Piper's wall. Clemens was by no means a Coal Oil Tommy; he drank for the pure and unadulterated love of the ardent. Most of his drinking was conducted in single-handed contests, but occasionally he would invite Dan De Quille, Charley Parker, Bob Lowery or Alf. Doten, never more than one of them, however, at a time, and whenever he did his invariable parting injunction to Piper was to "mark twain," meaning two chalk marks, of course. It was in this way that he acquired the title which has since become famous wherever the English langnage is read or spoken.—Eureka Sentinel.

DEATH OF REV. JABEZ WALKER.—Rev. Jabez Walker, Past Grand Worthy Chief Templar of the Order of Good Templars, died at his residence near Elk Grove Sunday night, following thus quickly his wife, of whose decease we recently made mention. Deceased was a native of England, aged 48 years. He came to California early in 1873, having been brought to the coast to fill the position of Grand Lecturer of that Order. He had acquired celebrity in England and Scotland as a lecturer and organizer, and had also held high official position in the order in those countries. He was a zealous, ardent and able supporter of the cause he advocated, and was a man of untiring energy. His official relation with the Order had given him a most extended acquaintance throughout the coast, and the high esteem in which he was held will make his death lamented. His funeral will take place from his late residence near Elk Grove in this county, at 12 o'clock to-day, and will be attended by the Lodges of Good Templars in this city, Florin and Elk Grove. The Grand officers of the Grand Lodge of the State arrived here by the Vallejo train last evening, and the obsequies will be conducted by them.—Sacramento Record, May 12.

A Lame and Impotent Judiciary.

The Bakersfield Courier states that for the fifth time in two years the Grand Jury of that county was discharged last week on the ground that the order of the Court to summon the jury did not contain the requisite number of names to be drawn from. The mileage and fees of the Sheriff in each case is never less than two hundred, and often exceeds three hundred dollars. The frequency of the error excites wonder, and suggestions as to the cause come from every quarter. The entire want of confidence on the part of the community in that branch of our judiciary, leads to every phase of suspicion. There have been many matters of official negligence, to call it by no harsher term, which has invited rigid investigation. The regular Grand Jury has been made up of citizens from all parts of the county, and from their remoteness have been generally free from the influences calculated to protect such officers of the county as propose to run the public business in their own interest. Such members are not suited to the wants of the men in power. They are not subject to the manipulation of persons seeking to avoid the public scrutiny. They come before the County Court with all the spirit of inquiry set in motion by public opinion. They come full of the general feeling that the crimes of commission are not confined to the tramps thrust upon us by the threatenings of other communities which have suffered from their depredations, and that the crimes of omission are monopolized by a class whose instincts of greed prompts them to disregard the trusts reposed in them, and whose study alone is to see whether some new way cannot be devised to reach the public treasury. To set aside the order which has convened such a body has become almost a matter of course. By a junction of the judiciary with the Sheriff, the executive officer, it is easy then to summon a different body, composed of men less inclined to stir the corruption which has tainted almost every branch of the public service. The proceedings of the Court are protracted, and the expenditure serves to increase the power of the men who claim their places by virtue of the alliance they have framed to perpetuate their hold upon the offices.

From the foregoing, we judge that the jury system in that county is about as rotten, corrupt and inefficient for the use intended by the law as it is here, and this condition of things is bound to continue until the people unite for its overthrow, and clean out of office the class of men who give rise to this condition of things.—Visalia Delta.

THE STATE LAND STEAL UNDER GEN. BOST.—The report of the Commission to look into the affairs of the State Land Office during the term of Gen. Bost, for the four years ending December 4, 1871, find that the expenses of the office were over $80,000. The balance unaccounted for foots up $43,860, and the expenditures exceed the receipts $79,900! In other words, during Bost's term it took the last sum to give away the State lands to speculators. Instead of the State and its schools being the beneficiaries of the Federal government to the value of the lands sold, it is $96,900 worse off than without the gift. What punishment can be meted out to such a scoundrel as Bost that will be commensurate with his crime? And yet, when this wholesale thief was summoned by the Commission to testify as to his accounts, he replied that he was 250 miles (at Benton, Mono county,) from Sacramento, and could not attend on account of pecuniary inability.

Bost and Gardner ought to be ironed together in some chain gang and made to work for the State the rest of their thieving lives.—Visalia Delta.

ABOVE all earthly gifts a good mother stands pre-eminent; she is worth her weight in gold—more than an army of acquaintances. Those who have played around the same mother's smiles, in whose veins the same blood flows, are bound by a sacred tie that can never be broken. Distance may separate, quarrels may occur, but those who have a capacity to love anything must have at times a bubbling up of fond recollections and a yearning after the joys of by-gone days. Every woman has a mission on earth. There is "something to do" for every one—a household to put in order, a child to attend to, some class of unfortunates, degraded or homeless humanity to befriend. That soul is poor indeed that leaves the world without having exerted an influence that will be felt for good after she has passed away.
